4. The words "wholesale merchant" shall mean every person who engages in the business of buying any articles of commerce and selling same to merchants for resale. The sale of any article of merchandise by any "wholesale merchant" to anyone other than a merchant for resale shall be taxable at the rate of tax provided in this article upon the retail sale of merchandise. In the interpretation of this act the sale of any articles of commerce by any wholesale merchant to anyone not taxable under this act as a retail merchant, except as otherwise provided in this act, shall be taxable by the wholesale merchant at the rate of tax provided in this article upon the retail sales of merchandise. The commissioner of revenue is authorized to make appropriate regulations, consistent with this act, to prevent abuse with respect to existing regulations defining transactions entitled to the rate of tax levied on sales at wholesale.

5. Any person, firm, or corporation engaged in the business of selling mill machinery, mill machinery parts and accessories, or selling machinery and machinery parts and accessories for manufacturing industries and plants, and the sale of cotton and tobacco and other farm products by others than producers to others for processing or manufacture, shall be considered a "wholesale merchant" for the purposes of this act to the extent of such sale of machinery parts and accessories and cotton and tobacco and other farm products to manufacturers.

6. The words "retail merchant" shall mean every person who engages in the business of buying or acquiring by consignment or otherwise any articles of commerce and selling same at retail.

7. The word "retail" shall mean the sale of any articles of commerce in any quantity or quantities for any use or purpose on the part of the purchaser other than for resale.

8. The word "sale" shall mean any transfer of the ownership or title of tangible personal property to the consumer for use and not for purposes of resale, for any kind of consideration. Transactions whereby the title is ultimately to pass, and whether such transactions are called leases, conditional sales, or by any other name, and although possession is retained for security, shall be sales.

9. It is not the purpose of this section to impose a tax upon the business of producing, manufacturing, mixing, blending, or processing any articles of commerce, or upon the sale of such articles of commerce by anyone who engages in the business of producing, manufacturing, mixing, blending, or processing, but shall apply to anyone engaged in either of those businesses if and to the extent that articles of commerce are bought and sold at retail in connection with such business in substantially the same form in which they are bought. The exemptions in this section shall not extend to manufacturers or producers who become merchants in the ordinary meaning of that term and who maintain a store or stores for the retail sale of merchandise, nor to the sale of their own products through such retail stores, nor shall it extend to the sale of their products through merchants acting as agents for the manufacturer, nor to the sale of products by peddlers.

10. The words "gross sales" shall mean the gross sales price at which such sales were made, whether for cash or on time, and if on time, the price charged on the books for such sales, without allowance for cash discount, and shall be reported as sales with reference to the time of delivery to the purchaser, except as this provision is modified by section 7880(156)i.

11. When in the sale of a new article, a second-hand or used article is taken in part payment, the sale of the new article shall be reported at the full gross sale price. The resale of second-hand or used articles, taken in part payment in the sale of new articles, or the resale of articles repossessed by the vendor, may be excluded from gross sales taxable under this act if separate record is kept of all such transactions in such manner as may be prescribed or approved by the commissioner of revenue, it being the purpose herein that the used article accepted as part payment for a new article be excluded from the gross sales taxable, and that articles repossessed by the vendor and resold be excluded.

12. The maximum tax that shall be imposed upon any single article of merchandise shall be ten dollars ($10), and as an additional means of enforcement of the payment of the tax herein levied the department of revenue shall not issue a license plate or a certificate of title for any new or used motor vehicle sold by any merchant or licensed dealer until the tax levied for the sale of same under this act has been paid, or a certificate duly signed by a licensed dealer is filed at the time the application for license plate or title is made for such motor vehicle; such certificate to be on such form as may be prescribed by the commissioner of revenue and that such certificate shall show that the said licensed dealer has assumed the responsibility for the payment of the tax levied under this act and agrees to report and remit the tax in his next regular monthly sales tax report required to be filed under this act.

13. In addition to the taxes levied in this act or in any other law there is hereby levied and imposed upon every person, for the privilege of using the streets and highways of this State, a tax of three per cent of the sales price of any new or used motor vehicle purchased or acquired for use on the streets and highways of this State requiring registration thereof under Section 2621 (6), Consolidated Statutes, which said amount shall be paid to the commissioner of revenue at the time of applying for registration of such motor vehicle, or certificate of title for same. No certificate of title or registration plate shall be issued for same unless and until said tax has been paid: Provided, however, if such person, so applying for registration and license plate for such motor vehicle, or certificate of title therefor, shall furnish to the commissioner of revenue a certificate from a licensed motor vehicle dealer in this State upon a form furnished by the commissioner certifying that such person has paid the tax thereon levied in this act, the tax herein levied shall be remitted to such person to avoid in effect double taxation on said motor vehicle under this act. The term "motor vehicle" as used in this section shall include trailers. (1935, c. 371, s. 404, c. 447, s. 2.)

§ 7880(156)f. Exemptions.—The taxes imposed in this article shall not apply to the sale of the following merchandise and articles of commerce:

(a) It is not the intent of this act to exempt gasoline from the retail sales tax levied in this act, nor is it considered expedient to levy a tax upon the wholesale distribution of gasoline, payable at the source of distribution, and an additional tax upon the retail sale. Therefore, to carry out the intent of this act, a proportion of the tax of six cents per gallon, to be determined in the manner herein set out, shall be deemed in satisfaction of the tax upon retail sales levied in this act. The director of the budget, the chairman of the highway commission and the commissioner of revenue shall in the first fifteen days of each quarterly period determine the total amount of gasoline sold in the State in the preceding three months, and the average retail price, inclusive of gasoline tax, and shall on this basis compute the amount of tax liability at the rate of tax levied in this act on retail sales, and the sum so computed shall be deducted from the tax of six cents per gallon, and credited by the state treasurer to the sales tax revenue levied in this act. The allocation from the highway fund to the general fund herein provided for, insofar as it may exceed the sum of one million dollars per year, shall not be made to any extent that violates the provisions of the Hayden-Cartwright Act of congress, ratified on the 18th day of June, 1934, and that has the effect of reducing the allotment of federal funds for construction and improvement of highways in this State. These sums shall be available only after full provision is made for the expense of collecting highway revenues, for the administration of the highway and public works commission, for the service of the debt, and for reasonable maintenance of state and county highways and federal aid construction, (as set out under titles XII and XIII of Section III of the appropriation act), and there then remains a sufficient balance or surplus, nor shall the application herein made become available to the general fund unless the director of the budget shall find such sum to be reasonably necessary to meet appropriations from the general fund, (not including the contingent increase in salaries beyond twenty per cent provided in the appropriation bill for the first year of the biennium). In construing this provision the director of the budget shall not be required to take into account an incidental credit balance of the general fund.

(b) Sale of commercial fertilizer on which the inspection tax is paid.

(c) Sales of products of farms, forests, waters and mines, when such sales are made by the producers, manufacturers, or fishermen. The exemptions in this article shall not extend to producers, manufacturers, or fishermen who become merchants, or who maintain a store or stores to sell or dispose of their products, nor to the sale of their products through merchants, and others acting as agents, nor sales made by peddlers. The exemptions in this subsection shall include fresh liquid milk, whether sold by the producer or purchaser for re-sale.

(d) Sales made to the State of North Carolina or any of its subdivisions, including sales of merchandise and articles of commerce to agencies of state or local governments for distribution in public welfare or relief work. This exemption shall not apply to sales made to organizations, corporations, and institutions that are not governmental agencies, owned and controlled by the state or local governments.

(e) Accounts of purchasers, representing taxable sales, on which the tax imposed has been paid, that are found to be worthless and actually charged off for income tax purposes may at corresponding periods be deducted from gross sales in so far as they represent taxable sales made after July 1, 1933, and to be added to gross sales if afterwards collected.

(f) Sales of public school books on the adopted list and the selling price of which is fixed by state contract.

(g) Every merchant, selling merchandise to other merchants for resale, shall deliver to the customer a bill of sale for each sale of merchandise, whether sold for cash or on credit, and shall make and retain a duplicate or carbon copy of each such bill of sale, and shall keep a file of all such duplicate bills of sale for at least two years from date of sale, or until inspected and audited by a representative of the department of revenue. Failure to comply with the provisions of this subsection shall subject the seller to liability for tax upon such sales at the rate of tax levied in this act upon retail sales.

Unless records are kept in such manner as will accurately disclose separate accounting of sales of taxable and non-taxable merchandise the exemptions herein made shall not be allowed, and it shall be the duty of the commissioner to assess a tax upon the total gross sales, and if records are not kept showing total gross sales it shall be the duty of the commissioner or his agents to assess a tax upon an estimation of sales upon the best information obtainable. (1935, c. 371, s. 405, c. 447, s. 1.)

§ 7880(156)g. Must obtain license; additional tax on merchants.—If any person, after the 30th day of June, 1935, shall engage or continue in any business for which a privilege tax is imposed by this article, such person shall apply for and obtain from the commissioner, upon the payment of the sum of one dollar ($1.00), a license to engage in and conduct such business for the current tax year upon the condition that such person shall pay the tax accruing to the State of North Carolina under the provisions of this article; and he shall thereby be duly licensed to engage in and conduct such business. The license tax levied in this section shall be a continuing license until revoked for failure to comply with the provisions of this article. License issued under Article V, Chapter 445, Public Laws of 1933, for the year 1934-1935, shall be deemed a continuing license under this section.

An additional tax is hereby levied for the privilege of engaging in the business of selling tangible personal property as follows:

Wholesale merchants. — Upon every wholesale merchant as defined in this act an annual license tax of ten dollars ($10.00). Such annual license shall be paid in advance within the first fifteen days of July in each year. There is also levied on each wholesale merchant an additional tax of one-twentieth of one per cent (1/20 of 1%) of the total gross sales of the business. The annual license tax herein levied may be applied as a credit against the tax on gross sales.

Retail merchants.—Upon every retail merchant as defined in this article, a tax of three per cent (3%) of the total gross sales of the business of every such retail merchant. (1935, c. 371, s. 406.)

§ 7880(156)h. Taxes payable.—The taxes levied in the preceding section shall be due and payable in monthly installments or on or before the 15th day of the month next succeeding the month in which the tax accrues. Every taxpayer liable for the tax imposed by this section shall on or before the 15th day of the month make out or prepare a return on the blank report form furnished by the department of revenue, showing the total gross sales, the sales exempted from the tax, the net taxable sales, the amount of tax covering sales in the preceding month, and shall mail same, together with the remittance for the amount of the tax, to the commission. Such monthly return shall be signed by the taxpayer or a duly authorized agent of the taxpayer. (1935, c. 371, s. 407.)

§ 7880(156)i. Credit sales. — Any person taxable under this act having cash and credit sales may report such cash and credit sales separately, and upon making application therefor may obtain from the commissioner an extension of time for the payment of taxes due on such credit sales. Such extension shall be granted under such rules and regulations as the commissioner may prescribe. When such extension is granted, the taxpayer shall thereafter include in each monthly report all collections made during the month next preceding and shall pay taxes due thereon at the time of filing such report, but in no event shall the gross proceeds of credit sales be included in determining the measure of the tax to be paid until collection of such credit sales shall have been made. (1935, c. 371, s. 408.)

§ 7880(156)j. Obsolete.

§ 7880(156)k. Obsolete.

§ 7880(156)l. Forms for making returns.—The monthly returns required under this act shall be made upon forms to be prescribed by the commissioner. (1935, c. 371, s. 411.)

§ 7880(156)m. Extension of time for making returns.—The commissioner for good cause may extend the time for making any return required under the provisions of this act, and may grant such additional time within which to make such return as the commissioner may deem proper, but the time for filing any such return shall not be extended beyond the fifteenth day of the month next succeeding the regular due date of such return. (1935, c. 371, s. 412.)

§ 7880(156)n. Obsolete.

§ 7880(156)o. Commissioner to correct error.— As soon as practicable after the return is filed the commissioner shall examine it; if it then appears that the correct amount of tax is greater or less than that shown in the return, the tax shall be recomputed.

Excessive payments. — If the amount already paid exceeds that which should have been paid on the basis of the tax so recomputed, the excess shall be credited or refunded to the taxpayer in accordance with the provisions of this act.

Deficiency of amount.—(a) If the amount already paid is less than the amount which should have been paid, the difference to the extent not covered by any credits under this act, together with interest thereon at the rate of one-half of one per centum per month from the time the tax was due, shall be paid upon notice and demand by the commissioner.

(b) If any part of the deficiency is due to negligence or intentional disregard to authorized rules and regulations, with knowledge thereof, but without intent to defraud, there shall be added as damages ten per centum of the total amount of the deficiency in the tax, and interest in such a case shall be collected at the rate of one per centum per month of the amount of such deficiency in the tax from the time it was due, which interest and damages shall become due and payable upon notice and demand by the commissioner.

(c) If any part of the deficiency is due to fraud with intent to evade the tax, then there shall be added as damages not more than one hundred per centum of the total amount of the deficiency in the tax, and in such case the whole amount of tax unpaid, including charges so added, shall become due and payable upon notice and demand by the commissioner, and an additional one per centum per month on the tax shall be added from the date such tax was due until paid.

(d) If the amount already paid is less than the amount which should have been paid, the commissioner or his duly authorized agents shall notify the taxpayer of the balance due, plus such interest and damages as are set forth in (a), (b) and (c) just preceding, and if this total amount is not paid or no appeal is taken within thirty (30) days from the date of notice, such action shall be considered as a refusal on the part of the taxpayer to make a return, and the taxpayer shall be subject to such penalties or provisions as are provided in this act for failure to make a return.

If any taxpayer under this act goes into bankruptcy, receivership, or turns over his stock of merchandise by voluntary transfer to creditors, the tax liability under this article shall constitute a prior lien on such stock of merchandise, subject to execution, and/or it shall be the duty of the transferee in any such case to retain the amount of the tax due from the first sales from such stock of merchandise and to pay same to the commissioner of revenue. (1935, c. 371, s. 414.)

§ 7880(156)p. Taxpayer must keep records; failure to make returns; duty and power of commissioner.—It shall be the duty of every person engaging or continuing in this State in any business for which a privilege tax is imposed by this act to keep and preserve suitable records of the gross income, gross receipts and/or gross receipts of sales of such business, and such other books or accounts as may be necessary to determine the amount of tax for which he is liable under the provisions of this act. And it shall be the duty of every such person to keep and preserve, for a period of two years, all invoices of goods and merchandise purchased for resale, and all such books, invoices, and other records shall be open for examination at any time by the commissioner or his duly authorized agent.

(a) Delayed returns.—If a delinquent return is received by the commissioner or his duly authorized agents, the taxpayer shall be assessed with a five per centum penalty plus interest at one per centum per month from the date the tax was due. The penalty provided in this subsection shall not be less than one dollar ($1.00).

(b) Failure to make returns.—If the taxpayer shall fail to make or refuse to make the returns required under this act, then such returns shall be made by the commissioner or his duly authorized agents from the best information available, and such returns shall be prima facie correct for the purposes of this act and the amount of tax due thereby shall be a lien against all the property of the taxpayer until discharged by payment, and if payment not be made within thirty days after demand therefor by the commissioner or his duly authorized agents, there shall be added not more than one hundred per centum as damages, together with interest at the rate of one per centum per month from the time such tax was due. If such tax be paid within thirty days after notice by the commissioner, then there shall be added ten per centum as damages, and interest at the rate of one per centum from the time such tax was due until paid. (1935, c. 371, s. 415.)

§ 7880(156)q. Tax shall be lien.—The tax imposed by this act shall be a lien upon the stock of goods and/or any other property of any person subject to the provisions hereof who shall sell out his business or stock of goods, or shall quit business, and such person shall be required to make out the return provided for under section 7880-(156)g within thirty days after the date he sold out his business or stock of goods, or quit business, and his successor in business shall be required to withhold sufficient of the purchase money to cover the amount of said taxes due and unpaid until such time as the former owner shall produce a receipt from the commissioner showing that the taxes have been paid, or a certificate that no taxes are due. If the purchaser of a business or stock of goods shall fail to withhold purchase money as above provided, and the taxes shall be due and unpaid after the thirty-day period allowed, he shall be personally liable for the payment of the taxes accrued and unpaid on account of the operation of the business by the former owner. (1935, c. 371, s. 416.)

§ 7880(156)r. Aggrieved person may file petition.—If any person having made the return and paid the tax as provided by this act feels aggrieved by the assessment made upon him for any year by the commissioner, or in the absence of a report if an assessment has been made by the commissioner under the provisions of this act, the taxpayer may apply to the commissioner by petition, in writing, within thirty days after the notice is mailed to him, for a hearing and a correction of the amount of the tax so assessed upon him by the commissioner, in which petition he shall set forth the reasons why such hearings should be granted and the amount in which such tax should be reduced. The commissioner shall promptly consider such petition, and may grant such hearing or deny the same. If denied, the petitioner shall be forthwith notified thereof; if granted, the commissioner shall notify the petitioner of the time and place fixed for such hearing. After such hearing the commissioner may make such order in the matter as may appear to him just and lawful, and shall furnish a copy of such order to the petitioner. Any person improperly charged with any tax and required to pay the same may recover the amount paid, together with interest, in any proper action or suit against the commissioner, and the superior court of the county in which the taxpayer resides or is located shall have original jurisdiction of any action to recover any tax improperly collected. In any suit to recover taxes paid or to collect taxes the court shall adjudge costs to such extent and in such manner as may be deemed equitable.

Either party to such suit shall have the right to appeal to the supreme court of North Carolina as now provided by law. In the event a final judgment is rendered in favor of the taxpayer in a suit to recover illegal taxes, then it shall be the duty of the state auditor, upon receipt of a certified copy of such final judgment, to issue a warrant directed to the state treasurer in favor of such taxpayer to pay such judgment, interest, and costs. It shall be the duty of the state treasurer to honor such warrant and pay such judgment out of any funds in the state treasury.

No injunction shall be awarded by any court or judge to restrain the collection of the taxes imposed by this act, or to restrain the enforcement of this act. (1935, c. 371, s. 417.)

§ 7880(156)s. Warrant for collection of tax; tax shall constitute debt due state.—If any tax imposed or any portion of such tax be not paid within thirty days after the same becomes due, the commissioner shall proceed to enforce the payment of such tax in the manner provided by section 7880(169). (1935, c. 371, s. 418.)

§ 7880(156)t. Obsolete.

§ 7880(156)u. Additional tax; remittances made to commissioner; records.—The tax imposed by this act shall be in addition to all other licenses and taxes levied by law as a condition precedent to engaging in any business taxable hereunder, except as in this act otherwise specifically provided. But no county, municipality, or district shall be authorized to levy any tax by virtue of the provisions of this article.

All remittances of taxes imposed by this act shall be made to the commissioner by bank draft, check, cashier's check, money order, or money, who shall issue his receipts therefor to the taxpayers, when requested, and shall deposit daily all moneys received to the credit of the state treasurer as required by law for other taxes: Provided, no payment other than cash shall be final discharge of liability for the tax herein assessed and levied unless and until it has been paid in cash to the commissioner.

The commissioner shall keep full and accurate records of all moneys received by him, and how disbursed; and shall preserve all returns filed with him under this article for a period of three years. (1935, c. 371, s. 420.)

§ 7880(156)v. Letters in report not to be divulged.—Unless in accordance with the judicial order or as herein provided, the state department of revenue, its agents, clerks or stenographers, shall not divulge the gross income, gross proceeds of sales, or the amount of tax paid by any person as shown by the reports filed under the provisions of this act, except to members and employees of the state department of revenue, and the income tax department thereof, for the purpose of checking, comparing, and correcting returns, or to the governor, or to the attorney general, or any other legal representative of the State in any action in respect to the amount of tax due under the provisions of this act.

(a) The secretary of state shall withhold the issuance of any certificate of dissolution or withdrawal in the case of any corporation organized under the laws of this State, or organized under the laws of another state and admitted to do business in this State, until the receipt of a notice from the commissioner to the effect that the tax levied under this act against any such corporation has been paid, if any such corporation is a taxpayer under the law, or until he shall be notified by the commissioner that the applicant is not subject to pay a tax hereunder. (1935, c. 371, s. 421.)

§ 7880(156)w. Unlawful to refuse to make returns; penalty.—It shall be unlawful for any person to fail or refuse to make the return provided to be made in this act, or to make any false or fraudulent return or false statement in any return of the tax, or any part thereof, imposed by this act; or for any person to aid or abet another in any attempt to evade the payment of the tax, or any part thereof, imposed by this act; or for the president, vice-president, secretary, or treasurer of any company to make or permit to be made for any company or association any false return, or any false statement in any return required by this act, with the intent to evade the payment of any tax hereunder; or for any person to fail or refuse to permit the examination of any book, paper, account, record, or other data by the commissioner or his duly appointed agent, as required by this act; or to fail or refuse to permit the inspection or appraisal of any property by the commissioner or his duly appointed agent, or to refuse to offer testimony or produce any record as required in this act. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars ($500.00) or imprisoned not exceeding six months, or punished by both such fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court within the limitations aforesaid. In addition to the foregoing penalties, any person who shall knowingly swear to or verify any false or fraudulent statement, with the intent aforesaid, shall be guilty of the offense of perjury, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished in the manner provided by law. Any company for which a false return, or a return containing a false statement as aforesaid, shall be made shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and may be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00). (1935, c. 371, s. 422.)

§ 7880(156)y. Commissioner or agent may examine books, etc.—The commissioner, or his authorized agents, may examine any books, papers, record, or other data bearing upon the correctness of any return, or for the purpose of making a return where none has been made, as required by this article, and may require the attendance of any person and take his testimony with respect to any such matter, with power to administer oaths to such person or persons. If any person summoned as a witness shall fail to obey any summons to appear before the commissioner or his authorized agent, or shall refuse to testify or answer any material question or to produce any book, record, paper, or other data when required to do so, such failure or refusal shall be reported to the attorney general or the district solicitor, who shall thereupon institute proceedings in the superior court of the county where such witness resides to compel obedience to any summons of the commissioner, or his authorized agent. Officers who serve summonses or subpoenas, and witnesses attending, shall receive like compensation as officers and witnesses in the superior courts, to be paid from the proper appropriation for the administration of this act. (1935, c. 371, s. 424.)

§ 7880(156)z. Excess payment; refund.—If upon examination of any monthly return made under this act it appears that an amount of tax has been paid in excess of that properly due, then the amount in excess shall be credited against any tax or installment thereof then due from the taxpayer, under any other subsequent monthly return, or shall be refunded to the taxpayer by certificate of overpayment issued by the commissioner to the state auditor, which shall be investigated and approved by the attorney general, and the auditor shall issue his warrant on the treasurer, which warrant shall be payable out of any funds appropriated for that purpose. (1935, c. 371, s. 425.)

§ 7880(156)bb. Obsolete.

§ 7880(156)cc. To prevent unfair trade practices, commissioner of revenue may require tax passed on to consumer.—In order that fair trade practices may be encouraged and any deleterious effect of the retail sales tax levy may be minimized, the commissioner of revenue is empowered and directed to devise, promulgate and enforce regulations under which retail merchants shall collect from the consumers, by rule uniform as to classes of business, the sales tax levied upon their business by the retail sales tax article: Provided, that the commissioner of revenue shall have the power to change the regulations and methods under which the merchants shall collect the tax from the consumers, from time to time, as experience may prove expedient and advisable. Methods for the passing on by merchants to their customers the retail sales tax on sales to said customers may include plans which require both more and less than three (3%) per cent of the sale price, the purpose being to enable the merchants to collect approximately the amount of three (3%) per cent on their total sales volume. The commissioner of revenue is hereby authorized and empowered to make and adopt rules and regulations requiring merchants to use tokens or stamps, or other means, if found to be practical, which may be determined by the commissioner to provide a method whereby the amount of tax collected by the merchant from the customer shall be as nearly as possible three per cent of each purchase. Such regulations as herein authorized shall be promulgated by the commissioner of revenue to become effective after reasonable notice to the retail merchants and when so promulgated they shall have the full force and effect of law. Any merchant who violates such rules and regulations shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not less than five ($5.00) dollars nor more than five hundred ($500.00) dollars or be imprisoned for not more than six months, or be both fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the court; provided, however, that every such violation shall be a separate offense hereunder. It shall be the duty of the solicitors of the several judicial districts of the State to prosecute violations of this section.

The provisions of this section shall not affect in any manner the character or validity of the sales tax levy as a merchants license tax, and they may not be pleaded or considered in the event any provision of the general revenue act is attacked as unconstitutional. (1935, c. 325..)

See 12 N. C. Law Rev., 99, 102, for an article on "Sales Tax and Transactions."

Art. 6. General Administration—Penalties

§ 7880(157). Failure of a person, public utility and/or public-service corporation to file report.—If any person, firm, or corporation required to file a report under any of the provisions of Schedules B and C of this act [§§ 7880(30)-7880(123)b] fails, refuses, or neglects to make such report as required herein within the time limited in said schedules for making such report, he or it shall pay a penalty of ten dollars ($10.00) for each day's omission. (1935, c. 371, s. 450.)

§ 7880(158). Charter cancelled for failure to report.—If a corporation required by the provisions of this act to file any report or return or to pay any tax or fee, either as a public utility (not an agency of interstate commerce) or a corporation organized under the laws of this State, or as a foreign corporation doing business in this State for profit, or owning and using a part or all of its capital or plant in this State, fails or neglects to make any such report or return or to pay any such tax or fee for ninety days after the time prescribed in this act for making such report or return, or for paying such tax or fee, the commissioner of revenue shall certify such fact to the secretary of state. The secretary of state shall thereupon cancel the articles of incorporation of any such corporation which is organized under the laws of this State by appropriate entry upon the records of his office, or cancel the certificate of authority of any such foreign corporation to do business in this State by proper entry. Thereupon all the powers, privileges, and franchises conferred upon such corporation by such articles of incorporation or by such certificate of authority shall cease and determine. The secretary of state shall immediately notify by registered mail such domestic or foreign corporation of the action taken by him. (1935, c. 371, s. 451.)

§ 7880(161). Officers, agents, and employees; misdemeanor failing to comply with tax law.—If any officer, agent, and/or employee of any person, firm, or corporation subject to the provisions of this act shall wilfully fail, refuse, or neglect to make out, file, and/or deliver any reports or blanks, as required by such law, or to answer any question therein propounded, or to knowingly and willfully give a false answer to any such question wherein the fact inquired of is within his knowledge, or upon proper demand to exhibit to such commissioner of revenue or any person duly authorized by such commissioner any book, paper, account, record, memorandum of such person, firm, or corporation in his possession and/or under his control, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) for each offense. (1935, c. 371, s. 454.)

§ 7880(162). Aiding and/or abetting officers, agents, or employees in violation of this act a misdemeanor. — If any person, firm, or corporation shall aid, abet, direct, cause or procure any of his or its officers, agents, or employees to violate any of the provisions of this act he or it shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than one hundred dollars ($100.00) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) for each offense. (1935, c. 371, s. 455.)

§ 7880(163). Each day's failure a separate offense.—Every day during which any person, firm, or corporation subject to the provisions of this act, or any officer, agent, or employee thereof, shall wilfully fail, refuse, or neglect to observe and comply with any order, direction, or mandate of the commissioner of revenue, or to perform any duty enjoined by this act, shall constitute a separate and distinct offense. (1935, c. 371, s. 456.)

§ 7880(164). Penalty for bad checks.—When any uncertified check is tendered in payment of any obligation to the department of revenue and such check shall have been returned to the office of the commissioner of revenue unpaid on account of insufficient funds of the drawer of said check in the bank upon which same is drawn, then and in that event an additional tax shall be imposed equal to ten per cent of the tax due; and in no case shall the increase of said tax because of such failure be less than one dollar nor exceeding two hundred dollars ($200.00), and the said additional tax shall not be waived or diminished by the commissioner of revenue. This section shall also apply to all taxes levied or assessed by the State. (1935, c. 371, s. 457.)

§ 7880(165). Discretion of commissioner over penalties.—The commissioner of revenue shall have power, upon making a record of his reasons therefor, to reduce or waive any penalties provided for in this act, except the penalty provided in section 7880(164) relating to unpaid checks. (1935, c. 371, s. 458.)

§ 7880(166). Tax a debt.—Every tax imposed by this act, and all increases, interest, and penalties thereon, shall become, from the time it is due and payable, a debt from the person, firm, or corporation liable to pay the same to the State of North Carolina. (1935, c. 371, s. 470.)

For prior law see Worth v. Wright, 122 N. C. 335, 29 S. E. 361; Gatling v. Commissioners, 92 N. C. 536; Commissioners v. Hall, 177 N. C. 490, 491, 99 S. E. 372. As to taxes not being subject to set-off and counterclaim, see note to section 7990.

§ 7880(167). Action for recovery of taxes.—Action may be brought at any time by the attorney general of the State at the instance of the commissioner of revenue, in the name of the State, to recover the amount of any taxes, penalties, and interest due under this act. (1935, c. 371, s. 471.)

§ 7880(168). Tax upon settlement of fiduciary's account.—1. No final account of a fiduciary shall be allowed by the probate court unless such account shows, and the judge of said court finds, that all taxes imposed by the provisions of this act upon said fiduciary, which have become payable, have been paid, and that all taxes which may become due are secured by bond, deposit, or otherwise. The certificate of the commissioner of revenue and the receipt for the amount of tax herein certified shall be conclusive as to the payment of the tax, to the extent of said certificate.

2. For the purpose of facilitating the settlement and distribution of estates held by fiduciaries, the commissioner of revenue, with the approval of the attorney general, may, on behalf of the State, agree upon the amount of taxes at any time due or to become due from such fiduciaries under the provisions of this act, and the payment in accordance with such agreement shall be full satisfaction of the taxes to which the agreement relates. (1935, c. 371, s. 472.)

§ 7880(169). Warrant for the collection of taxes.—If any tax imposed by this act or any other tax levied by the State and payable to the commissioner of revenue, or any portion of such tax, and/or penalties duly assessed for the nonpayment thereof, shall not be paid within thirty days after the same becomes due and has been assessed, the commissioner of revenue shall certify the same in duplicate and forward one copy thereof to the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the delinquent taxpayer resides or has property, and additional copies for each county in which the commissioner of revenue has reason to believe the delinquent taxpayer has property located, which copy so forwarded to the clerk of the superior court shall be immediately docketed by said clerk and indexed on the cross-index of judgments, and from the date of such docketing shall constitute a preferred lien upon any real property which the delinquent taxpayer may own in said county, with the same force and effect as a judgment rendered by the superior court. The duplicate of said certificate shall be forwarded by the commissioner of revenue to the sheriff or sheriffs of such county or counties, and in the hands of such sheriff shall have all the force and effect of an execution issued to him by the clerk of the superior court upon the judgment of the superior court duly docketed in said county. The said certificate shall state a return day of not less than thirty nor more than sixty days, and the sheriff receiving the same shall thereupon proceed with the collection of the sum therein set out in all respects and with like effect and in the same manner prescribed by law in respect to executions issued against property upon judgments of the superior court, and shall be entitled to the same fees for his services in executing the order as is allowed by law upon executions. The sheriff shall make his return in duplicate, filing one copy with the clerk of the superior court in said county and the other copy he shall forward to the commissioner of revenue, together with the money collected thereon, less his lawful expenses and fees: Provided, that all taxes herein designated and levied, except those designated and levied under Schedule "A" of this act [§§ 7880(1)-7880(29)a], shall not become a lien on the real estate of any taxpayer until a warrant for the collection of the tax has been filed in the office of the clerk of superior court of the county where the real estate subject to such lien is situate in accordance with the provisions of this act.

The provisions of this section are intended to be cumulative and not in substitution for any other remedies now or hereafter provided by law for the collection of taxes. All of the rights and remedies provided for taxpayers in section 7880(194) for the recovery of any tax improperly collected are hereby expressly reserved to such taxpayers, but the provisions therein shall not hinder or delay the execution of the process in this section. (1935, c. 371, s. 473.)

and "C" of this act [§§ 7880(30)-7880(123)b], the commissioner of revenue may certify same to the sheriff of the county in which such company may own property, for collection as provided in this act; and if collection is not made, such taxes or fees and penalties thereon may be recovered in an action in the name of the State, which may be brought in the superior court of Wake county, or in any county in which such corporation is doing business, or in any county in which such corporation owns property. The attorney general, on request of the commissioner of revenue, shall institute such action in the superior court of Wake county, or of any such county as the commissioner of revenue may direct. In any such action it shall be sufficient to allege that the tax, fee, or penalty sought to be recovered stands charged on the delinquent duplicate of the commissioner of revenue, and that the same has been unpaid for the period of thirty days after having been placed thereon. (1935, c. 371, s. 474.)

§ 7880(171). Additional remedies.—In addition to all other remedies for the collection of any taxes or fees due under the provisions of this act, the attorney general shall, upon request of the commissioner of revenue, whenever any taxes, fees, or penalties due under this act from any public utility (not an agency of interstate commerce) or corporation shall have remained unpaid for a period of ninety days, or whenever any corporation or public utility (not an agency of interstate commerce) has failed or neglected for ninety days to make or file any report or return required by this act, or to pay any penalty for failure to make or file such report or return, apply to the superior court of Wake county, or of any county in the State in which such public utility (not an agency of interstate commerce) or corporation is located or has an office or place of business, for an injunction to restrain such public utility (not an agency of interstate commerce) or corporation from the transaction of any business within the State until the payment of such taxes or fees and penalties thereon, or the making and filing of such report or return and payment of penalties for failure to make or file such report or return, and the cost of such application, which shall be fixed by the court. Such petition shall be in the name of the State; and if it is made to appear to the court, upon hearing, that such public utility (not an agency of interstate commerce) or corporation has failed or neglected, for ninety days, to pay such taxes, fees, or penalties thereon, or to make and file such reports, or to pay such penalties, for failure to make or file such reports or returns, such court shall grant and issue such injunction. (1935, c. 371, s. 475.)

§ 7880(172). Failure of sheriff to execute order.—If any sheriff of this State shall wilfully fail, refuse, or neglect to execute any order directed to him by the commissioner of revenue and within the time provided in this act, the official bond of such sheriff shall be liable for the tax, penalty, interest, and cost due by the taxpayer. (1935, c. 371, s. 476.)

§ 7880(173). Actions, when tried.—All actions or processes brought in any of the superior courts of this State, under provisions of this act, shall have precedence over any other civil causes pending in such courts, and the courts shall always be deemed open for trial of any such action or proceeding brought therein. (1935, c. 371, s. 477.)

§ 7880(174). Taxes payable in national currency; for what period, and when a lien.—The taxes herein designated and levied shall be payable in the existing national currency. State, county, and municipal taxes levied for any and all purposes pursuant to this act shall be for the fiscal year in which they become due, except as otherwise provided, and the lien of such taxes shall attach to all real estate of the taxpayer within the State, which shall attach annually on the date that such taxes are due and payable, and shall continue until such taxes, with any interest, penalty, and costs which shall accrue thereon, shall be paid. (1935, c. 371, s. 490.)

Cross Reference.—For full treatment of the subject, see 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 557 et seq.; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 552 et seq. As to tax sales, see section 8006 et seq., and the notes thereto.

Power to Tax and Manner of Exercise.—The subject of taxation is regulated entirely by statute, and the revenues of this state are collected under the operation of what is known as the Machinery act. Wade v. Commissioners, 74 N. C. 81.

The general assembly have an unlimited right to tax all persons domiciled within the state, and all property within the state, except so far as this right has been limited by the provisions of the constitution, either express words or by necessary implication. Pullen v. Commissioners, 66 N. C. 361.

Same—Delegation of Power.—The legislature may authorize a municipal corporation to lay taxes on the town property, the persons, and the subject of taxation incident to the persons, of those who have a business residence in town, though they have a residence also out of town. Worth v. Commissioners, 60 N. C. 617.

Statement of Object.—The North Carolina Const. Art. V, section 7, requires that every act levying taxes shall state the objects to which they shall be appropriated. This provision, however, has no application to taxes levied by county authorities for county purposes. Parker v. Commissioners, 104 N. C. 166, 10 S. E. 137.

Equality and Uniformity.—See 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 562 et seq. See also N. C. Const Art. V, section 3 and the notes there placed.

Constitutional Provisions—Uniformity Required. — Under North Carolina Const. Art. V, section 3, the same rule of uniformity applies as to the taxing of "traders, professions, franchises and incomes" as to the other species of property therein named; and there must be also uniformity in the mode of assessment. Worth v. Petersburg R. Co., 89 N. C. 301. See generally the annotations under North Carolina Const. Art. V, section 3. Uniformity, in its legal and proper sense, is inseparably incident to the power of taxation, whether applied to taxes on property or to those imposed on traders, professions, etc. State v. Moore, 113 N. C. 597, 698, 18 S. E. 342.

Tax Laws as Ex Post Facto.—See the title Constitutional Law, 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. section 123.

Fiscal Year and Tax Year.—Welding this and § 1334(53) together by established rules of correct interpretation, the fiscal year and the tax year are coterminous and coincident, and the liability of the landowner for taxes for any year arises and begins on 1 July, of that year. State v. Champion Fibre Co., 204 N. C. 295, 297, 168 S. E. 207.

§ 7880(175). Municipalities not to levy income and inheritance tax.—No city, town, township, or county shall levy any tax on income or inheritance. (1935, c. 371, s. 491.)

§ 7880(176). State taxes.—The taxes levied in this act are for the expenses of the state government, the appropriations to its educational, charitable, and penal institutions, pensions for confederate soldiers and widows, the interest on the debt of the State, for public schools, and other specific appropriations made by law, and shall be collected and paid into the general fund of the state treasurer.

The taxes levied under authority of section 492 of chapter 427 of the Public Laws of 1931, and remaining unpaid, shall be collected in the same manner as other county taxes and accounted for in the same manner as other taxes under the Daily Deposit Act. The county treasurer or other officer receiving such taxes in each county shall remit to the treasurer of the state on the first and fifteenth days of each month all taxes collected up to the time of such remittance under the levy therein provided for, and such remittance to the state treasurer shall also include the proportion of all poll taxes collected required by the constitution of the State to be used for educational purposes.

The tax levy therein provided for shall be subject to the same discounts and penalties as provided by law for other county taxes and there shall be allowed the same percentage for collecting such taxes as for other county taxes. The obligation to the State under the levy therein provided for shall run against all taxes that become delinquent; and with respect to any property that may be sold for taxes, any public officer receiving such delinquent taxes when and if such property may be redeemed or such tax obligations in any manner satisfied, shall remit such proportionate part of such tax levy to the state treasurer within fifteen days after receipt of same. At the end of each fiscal year the county accountant shall furnish the state treasurer a statement of the total amount of taxes levied in accordance with the provisions of this section that are uncollected at the end of the fiscal year. (1935, c. 371, s. 492.)

See the North Carolina Const. Art. V, and the notes thereto. See the Editor's Note at Art. VII, section 9.

See 12 N. C. Law Rev., 23.

This section construed with § 5603 et seq. seems to authorize the board of county commissioners to levy a tax to supply the deficiency when the necessary State funds are not available and it is not possible otherwise to comply with the imperative requirement to maintain the schools for a term of six months. Powell v. Bladen County, 206 N. C. 46, 51, 173 S. E. 50.

A county tax rate of 16½ cents for the support of the constitutional six months school term for the tax year of 1931, is held valid, a levy of 16 cents on the valuations of 1931 being equal to a levy of 15 cents on the valuations of the county for the year 1930, as provided by this section, and the taxable values being uncertain at the time of its levy, and it appearing that the tax rate was reasonably accurate and that the surplus collected therefrom for the purpose was carried over to the next year and the tax rate reduced accordingly. Id.

§ 7880(177). Tax exemption repealed.—Whenever in any law or act of incorporation, granted either under the general law or by special act, there is any limitation or exemption of taxation, the same is hereby repealed, and all the property and effects of all such corporations, other than the bonds of this State and of the United States government, shall be liable to taxation, except property belonging to the United States and to municipal corporations, and property held for the benefit of churches, religious societies, charitable, educational, literary, or benevolent institutions or orders, and also cemeteries: Provided, that no property whatever, held or used for investment, speculation, or rent shall be exempt, other than bonds of this State and of the United States government, unless said rent or the interest on or income from such investment shall be used exclusively for religious, charitable, educational, or benevolent purposes, or the interest upon the bonded indebtedness of said religious, charitable, or benevolent institutions. (1935, c. 371, s. 493.)

Cross Reference.—See general treatment in 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 580 et seq.; 15 N. C. Dig. 558 et seq. For history of tax exemption statute, see 1 N. C. Law Rev. 183.

Editor's Note.—This section is based on Art. V, section 5 of the state constitution. In fact, portions of the section are verbatim enactments of the provisions of the constitutional article just mentioned. In view of this fact, the notes placed under that section of the consitution will be a direct aid to the practitioner in construing this section of the code. See also note to section 7971(17).

Enumerated Exemption Exclusive of Others.—No exemption is permitted except in the specified instances and where such property is exclusively devoted to those purposes. Southern Assembly v. Palmer, 166 N. C. 75, 82 S. E. 18.

Same—Rentals.—The exemption specified as to rents applies only to those "used exclusively for charitable or benevolent purposes," and a devise of lands to trustees directing that the rents be applied to "charitable, benevolent, and religious purposes," does not come within the statutory exemption. Davis v. Salisbury, 161 N. C. 56, 76 S. E. 687.

An institution created by statute to provide for the Christian education of boys and girls in a certain locality, and to do other institutional work, in which its property is exempt from taxation as long as it shall be used for "church, school, or charitable purposes," does not include within its tax exemption terms, either under its charter or under this section, lands from which the rentals are applied to educational purposes alone; in this case, a tract of land three miles distant from that upon which the corporation conducts its operations, a portion of which has been cleared and rented out for a part of the crop, and also used for grazing purposes. Trustees v. Avery County, 184 N. C. 469, 114 S. E. 696.

Assessments for Street Improvements.—While local assessments against lands along the streets of a city for paving and improving the streets may be regarded as a species of tax, and the authority therefor is generally referred to the taxing power, they are not levied and collected as a contribution to the maintenance of the general government, but more particularly confer advantages or improvements on the lands assessed, and do not fall within the intent and meaning of the State Constitution, Art. V, sec. 5, or this section and section 7901; and the city, in assessing private owners, must take into consideration any city property that abuts on the street improved. Tarboro v. Forbes, 815 N. C. 59, 116 S. E. 81.

Presumptions as to Exemption.—The power of taxation being essential to the life of government, exemptions therefrom are regarded as in derogation of sovereign authority and common right, and will never be presumed. Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Alsbrook, 110 N. C. 137, 14 S. E. 652.

Grant of Exemption Constitute a Privilege.—The grant of an exemption from taxation without some consideration or equivalent therefor received by the state does not constitute a contract, but a privilege merely, which may be recalled at the pleasure of the legislature. Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Alsbrook, 110 N. C. 137, 14 S. E. 652.

§ 7880(177) a. Free privilege licenses for blind people.—Any blind person of the age of twenty-one years or more, desiring to operate a legitimate business of any kind to provide a livelihood for himself and dependents, if any, may apply to the welfare officer of the county in which he resides for free privilege license.

No one shall be eligible to the benefits provided for in this section who is not a blind person (the term "blind person" shall for the purposes of this act be construed to mean one who has suffered the total loss of his eyesight, or whose eyesight is so impaired as to unfit the person applying for the benefits under this act to engage in any labor, profession, or ordinary work in competition with his fellowmen with any degree of success, and/or any person suffering with impaired visions likely to produce total blindness), or who has an income of any kind amounting to twelve hundred ($1200.00) dollars, or more net per annum, or whose husband or wife has an income of any kind amounting to twelve hundred ($1200.00) dollars or more net per annum.

It shall be the duty of the county commissioners upon receipt of application from anyone applying for the benefits under this section, to make a thorough investigation to determine whether or not the applicant is entitled to the privilege license as provided for in this section. When the commissioners are satisfied that the applicant is capable of operating the business for which said privilege license is asked and that he is a deserving person, the commissioners shall then present to the state license department a letter requesting necessary privilege license to operate the aforesaid business, and the state license department shall issue free of charge the license requested. The commissioners shall present to the county license department a letter requesting county privilege license necessary to operate the aforesaid business, and the county license department shall likewise issue free of charge the privilege license requested. The county commissioners shall also present, when necessary, to the municipal license department a letter requesting city privilege license necessary to operate aforesaid business, and the municipal license department shall issue free of charge privilege license requested: Provided, that the free privilege license of this section shall not apply to the sale of any kind of fireworks. (1933, c. 53; 1935, c. 162.)

Editor's Note.—The amendment of 1935 adds the proviso at the end of this section.

§ 7880(177)b. Hospital property exempt from local taxes.—For and in consideration of the services rendered the public without charge and on account of the free use of their facilities by indigent patients, all property used exclusively for hospital purposes by said general hospitals operating in North Carolina which furnish the use of their facilities to indigent patients shall be exempt from ad valorem taxation in the counties, cities and towns of this State: Provided, however, that before any such hospital shall be exempted, it shall be required by the local governing boards of the counties, cities and towns that there be filed with such board a certificate from the state board of health, certifying that such general hospital is approved by said state board of health. Provided, further, that every such general hospital desiring to be exempted from ad valorem tax shall present to the governing bodies of any county, city or town duly itemized and sworn statements which have been approved by the county physician or health officer, as necessary or proper, showing the performance of service to indigent patients, and such statements shall be allowed as payments on and credits against all taxes which may be or become due to any such county, city or town by such hospital on property strictly used for hospital purposes, and such exemption from taxes shall not in any case exceed the total amount of such statements. Nothing in this section shall create a liability upon any county, city or town for hospital bill. (1935, c. 480, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Sections 2 and 3 of Public Laws of 1935, chapter 480, from which the above section is codified, provides that the acts shall not apply to Gaston county and that it shall not repeal any public-local laws affecting Buncombe county and the city of Asheville.

§ 7880(178). Law applicable to foreign corporations.—All foreign corporations, and the officers and agents thereof, doing business in this State, shall be subject to all the liabilities and restrictions that are or may be imposed upon corporations of like character, organized under the laws of this State, and shall have no other or greater powers. (1935, c. 371, s. 494.)

§ 7880(179). Information must be furnished.—Each company, firm, corporation, person, association, co-partnership, or public utility shall furnish the commissioner of revenue, in the form of returns prescribed by him, all information required by law and all other facts and information, in addition to the facts and information in this act specifically required to be given, which the commissioner of revenue may require to enable him to carry into effect the provisions of the laws which the said commissioner is required to administer, and shall make specific answers to all questions submitted by the commissioner of revenue. (1935, c. 371, s. 495.)

§ 7880(180). Returns required.—Any company, firm, corporation, person, association, co-partnership, or public utility receiving from the commissioner of revenue any blanks, requiring information, shall cause them to be properly filled out so as to answer fully and correctly each question therein propounded, and in case it is unable to answer any question, it shall, in writing, give a good and sufficient reason for such failure.

The answers to such questions shall be verified under oath by such persons, or by the president, secretary, superintendent, general manager, principal accounting officer, partner, or agent, and returned to the commissioner of revenue at his office within the period fixed by the commissioner of revenue. (1935, c. 371, s. 496.)

§ 7880(181). Personal liability of officers, trustees, or receivers.—Any officer, trustee, or receiver of any corporation required to file report with the commissioner of revenue, having in his custody funds of the corporation, who allows said funds to be paid out or distributed to the stockholders of said corporation without having satisfied the state board of assessment or commissioner of revenue for any state taxes which are due or have accrued, shall be personally responsible for the payment of said tax, and in addition thereto shall be subject to a penalty of not more than the amount of the tax, nor less than twenty-five per cent of such tax found to be due or accrued. (1935, c. 371, s. 497.)

§ 7880(182). Blanks furnished by commissioner of revenue.—The commissioner of revenue shall cause to be prepared suitable blanks for carrying out the purposes of the laws which he is required to administer, and, on application, furnish such blanks to each company, firm, corporation, person, association, co-partnership, or public utility subject thereto. (1935, c. 371, s. 498.)

§ 7880(183). Commissioner of revenue to keep records.—The commissioner of revenue shall keep books of account and records of collections of taxes as may be prescribed by the director of the budget; shall keep an assessment roll for the taxes levied, assessed, and collected under this act, showing in same the name of each taxpayer, the amount of tax assessed against each, when assessed, the increase or decrease in such assessment; the penalties imposed and collected, and the total tax paid; and shall make monthly reports to the director of the budget and to the auditor and/or state treasurer of all collections of taxes on such forms as prescribed by the director of the budget. (1935, c. 371, s. 499.)

§ 7880(184) a. Report on system of other states.—The commissioner of revenue shall biennially make report to the general assembly, the said report to contain all available data that may be assembled by his department with respect to the tax laws and systems of this and other states, and making such recommendations as may be useful in improving the tax laws and system of this state. (1933, c. 88, s. 2.)

For the compiling of such report, outside assistance seems almost a necessity, in view of the present load of the Commissioner of Revenue. See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 250.

§ 7880(185). Powers of commissioner of revenue.—The commissioner of revenue, for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any return or for the purpose of making an estimate of the tax due by any taxpayer under this act, shall have power to examine or cause to be examined, by any agent or representative designated by him for that purpose, any books, papers, records, or memoranda bearing upon the matters required to be included in the return, and may require the attendance of the taxpayer or of any other person having knowledge in the premises, and may take testimony and require proof material for his information, with power to administer oaths to such person or persons. (1935, c. 371, s. 501.)

§ 7880(186). Secrecy required of officials—penalty for violation.—(a) Except in accordance with proper judicial order, or as otherwise provided by law, it shall be unlawful for the commissioner of revenue, any deputy, agent, clerk, other officer, employee, or former officer or employee, to divulge and make known in any manner the amount of income, income tax or other taxes, or any particulars set forth or disclosed in any report or return required under this act.

(b) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit the publication of statistics, so classified as to prevent the identification of particular reports or returns, and the items thereof; the inspection of such reports or returns by the governor, attorney general, or their duly authorized representative; or the inspection by a legal representative of the State of the report or return of any taxpayer who shall bring an action to set aside or review the tax based thereon, or against whom an action or proceeding has been instituted to recover any tax or penalty imposed by this act; nor shall the provisions of this section prohibit the department of revenue furnishing information to other governmental agencies, of persons and firms properly licensed under Schedule B of this act [§§ 7880(30)-7880(108)].

(c) Reports and returns shall be preserved for three years, and thereafter until the commissioner of revenue shall order the same to be destroyed.

(d) Any person, officer, agent, clerk, employee, or former officer or employee, violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than two hundred dollars ($200.00) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) and/or imprisoned, in the discretion of the court; and if such offending person be an officer or employee of the State, he shall be dismissed from such office or employment, and shall not hold any public office or employment in this State for a period of five years thereafter.

(e) Notwithstanding the provisions of this section, the commissioner of revenue may permit the commissioner of internal revenue of the United States, or the revenue officer of any state imposing any of the taxes imposed in this act, or the duly authorized representative of either, to inspect the report or return of any taxpayer; or may furnish such officer or his authorized agent an abstract of the report or return of any taxpayer; or supply such officer with information concerning any item contained in any report or return, or disclosed by the report of any investigation of such report or return of any taxpayer. Such permission, however, shall be granted or such information furnished to such officer, or his duly authorized representative, only if the statutes of the United States or of such other state grants substantially similar privilege to the commissioner of revenue of this State or his duly authorized representative. (1935, c. 371, s. 502.)

§ 7880(188). Commissioner and deputies to administer oaths.—The commissioner of revenue and such deputies as he may designate shall have the power to administer an oath to any person or to take the acknowledgment of any person in respect to any return or report required by this act or under the rules and regulations of the commissioner of revenue, and shall have access to the books and records of any person, firm, corporation, county, or municipality in this State. (1935, c. 371, s. 504.)

§ 7880(189). Rules and regulations.—The commissioner of revenue may, from time to time, make, prescribe, and publish such rules and regulations, not inconsistent with this act, as may be needful to enforce its provisions. (1935, c. 371, s. 505.)

§ 7880(190). Time for filing reports extended.—The commissioner of revenue, when he deems the same necessary or advisable, may extend to any person, firm, or corporation or public utility a further specified time within which to file any report required by law to be filed with the commissioner of revenue, in which event the attaching or taking effect of any penalty for failure to file such report or to pay any tax or fee shall be extended or postponed accordingly. (1935, c. 371, s. 506.)

§ 7880(191). Construction of the act; population.—It shall be the duty of the commissioner of revenue to construe all sections of this subchapter imposing either license, inheritance, income, or other taxes. Such decisions by the commissioner of revenue shall be prima facie correct, and a protection to the officers and taxpayers affected thereby. Where the license tax is graduated in this act according to the population, the population shall be the number of inhabitants as determined by the last census of the United States government: Provided, that if any city or town in this State has extended its limits since the last census period, and thereafter has taken a census of its population in these increased limits by an official enumeration either through the aid of the United States government or otherwise, the population thus ascertained shall be that upon which the license tax is to be graduated. (1935, c. 371, s. 507.)

§ 7880(192). When increases operative.—In all instances in which the taxes are increased or decreased or new taxes imposed under Schedules B and C of this act [§§ 7880(30)-7880(123)b], and which shall become due between the ratification of this act and the first day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, such increase or decrease shall become operative only from and after the thirty-first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five. (1935, c. 371, s. 508.)

§ 7880(193). Authority for imposition of tax.—This act, after its ratification, shall constitute authority for the imposition of taxes upon the subjects herein revised, and all laws in conflict with it are hereby repealed, but such repeal shall not affect taxes listed or which ought or should have been listed, or which may have been due, or penalties or fines incurred from failure to make the proper reports, or to pay the taxes at the proper time under any of the schedules of existing law, but such taxes and penalties may be collected, and criminal offenses prosecuted, under such law existing at the time of the ratification of this act, notwithstanding this repeal. (1935, c. 371, s. 509.)

§ 7880(194). Taxes to be paid.—No court of this State shall entertain a suit of any kind brought for the purpose of preventing the collection of any tax imposed in this act. Whenever a person shall have a valid defense to the enforcement of the collection of a tax assessed or charged against him or his property, such person shall pay such tax to the proper officer, and notify such officer in writing that he pays same under protest. Such payment shall be without prejudice to any defense or rights he may have in the premises, and he may, at any time within thirty days after such payment, demand the same in writing from the commissioner of revenue of the state, if a state tax, or if a county, city, or town tax, from the treasurer thereof, for the benefit or under the authority or by request of which the same was levied; and if the same shall not be refunded within ninety days thereafter, may sue such official for the amount so demanded; and if upon the trial it shall be determined that such tax or any part thereof was levied or assessed for an illegal or unauthorized purpose, or was for any reason invalid or excessive, judgment shall be rendered therefor, with interest, and the same shall be collected as in other cases. The amount of state taxes for which judgment shall be rendered in such action shall be refunded by the State. (1935, c. 371, s. 510.)

See § 7979(a) and note thereto. See also 12 N. C. Law Rev., 23.

Editor's Note.—For similar provision see § 7979 which seems to have been superseded by this section.

To Recover Tax Illegally Collected Statutory Procedure Must Be Complied with.—In order for a taxpayer to avoid the payment of a tax claimed by him to have been illegally assessed by the State, he must comply with the procedure provided in the statute and where the statute specifies that he must pay the tax to the proper officer and notify him in writing that he pays under protest, and at any time within thirty days demand its refund from the State Commissioner in writing, and if not refunded in ninety days, bring action to recover the amount, the remedy given must be followed in order for the taxpayer to recover the amount, and the failure of the taxpayer to make the demand required until nearly two years after the payment of the tax is fatal; section 7979(a), requiring the State Auditor to issue his warrant in certain instances, has no application. Bunn v. Maxwell, 199 N. C. 557, 155 S. E. 250.

Suit in Equity.—The remedy provided by this section cannot, in case of a class suit instituted in behalf of a large number of taxpayers, be deemed an adequate remedy as compared with the suit in equity which eliminates so much useless and cumbersome litigation. Gramling v. Maxwell, 52 F. (2d) 256, 261.

A suit in equity to enjoin the collection of state tax, alleged to be violative of the Fourteenth Amendment on the ground of an arbitrary and excessive assessment, will not lie in the federal court, since the plaintiff has a plain, adequate, and complete remedy at law by first paying the tax and then suing to recover it. Catholic Society, etc. v. Madison County, 74 F. (2d) 848, 850.

§ 7880(195). Unconstitutionality or invalidity; captions of sections not to affect interpretation.—If any clause, sentence, paragraph, or part of this act shall for any reason be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, such judgment shall not affect, impair, or invalidate the remainder of this act, but shall be confined in its operation to the clause, sentence, paragraph, or part thereof directly involved in the controversy in which such judgment shall have been rendered. No caption of any section or set of sections shall in any way affect the interpretation of this subchapter or any part thereof. (1935, c. 371, s. 513.)

Art. 7. Liability for Failure to Levy Taxes

§ 7880(196). Repeal of laws imposing liability upon governing bodies of local units.—All laws and clauses of laws, statutes and parts of statutes, imposing civil or criminal liability upon the governing bodies of local units, or the members of such governing bodies, for failure to levy or to vote for the levy of any particular tax or rate of tax for any particular purpose, are hereby repealed, and said governing bodies and any and all members thereof are hereby freed and released from any civil or criminal liability heretofore imposed by any law or statute for failure to levy or to vote for the levy of any particular tax or tax rate for any particular purpose. (1933, c. 418, s. 1.)

Art. 2. State Board of Assessment

§ 7971(3). Creation; Officers.—The governor, or some person designated by him, the commissioner of revenue, the public utilities commissioner, the attorney general, and the director of local government shall be and are hereby created the state board of assessment, with all the powers and duties prescribed in the act. The commissioner of revenue shall be the chairman of the said board, and shall in addition to presiding at the meetings of the board, exercise the functions, duties, and powers of the board when not in session. The board may employ an executive secretary, whose entire time may be given to the work of the said board, and is authorized to employ such clerical assistance as may be needed for the performance of its duties. (1935, c. 417, s. 200.)

Suits against State Board of Assessment.—The corporation commission (under the prior law constituting the board) acts as a body and in a corporate capacity and an action or proceeding to compel that body to perform its ministerial duties must be brought against it in that capacity and not against its members, for its functions are not individual or personal, but corporate. Hence, mandamus to compel the refund of taxes alleged to have been paid under an excessive valuation of property will not be against two of the commissioners as individuals. Jenkins Bros. Shoe Co. v. Travis, 168 N. C. 599, 84 S. E. 1036. This would seem to be applicable to the board as now constituted.

Cited in Catholic Society, etc. v. Madison County, 74 F. (2d) 848.

§ 7971(4). Oath.—The members of the said board shall take and subscribe to the constitutional oath of office and file the same with the secretary of state. (1935, c. 417, s. 201.)

Cited in Catholic Society, etc. v. Madison County, 74 F. (2d) 848, 849.

§ 7971(5). Supervision over valuation and taxation.—The state board of assessment shall exercise general and specific supervision of the systems of valuation and taxation throughout the State, including counties and municipalities, and in addition they shall be and constitute a state board of equalization and review of valuation and taxation in this State. It shall be the duty of said board:

(1) To confer with and advise boards of county commissioners, tax supervisors, assessing officers, list takers, and all others engaged in the valuation and assessment of property, in the preparation and keeping of suitable records, and in the levying and collection of taxes and revenues, as to their duties under this act or any other act passed for the purpose of valuation of property, assessing, levying, and/or the collection of revenue for counties, municipalities, and other subdivisions of the State, to insure that proper proceedings shall be brought to enforce such revenue acts and for the collection of penalties and liabilities imposed by law upon public officers, officers of corporations, and individuals failing, refusing, or neglecting to comply with this act; and to call upon the attorney general or any prosecuting attorney in the State to assist in the execution of the powers herein conferred.

(2) To prepare a pamphlet or booklet for the instruction of the boards of county commissioners, tax supervisors, assessing officers, list takers, and all others engaged in the valuation of property, preparing and keeping records, and in the levying and collecting of taxes and revenue, and have the same ready for distribution at least thirty (30) days prior to the date fixed for listing taxes. The said pamphlet or booklet shall, in as plain terms as possible, explain the proper meaning of the revenue laws and the Machinery Act of this State; shall call particular attention to any points in the law and/or in the administration of the laws which may be or which have been overlooked or neglected; shall advise as to the practical working of the revenue laws and Machinery Act, and shall explain and interpret any points that seem to be intricate and upon which county or state officials may differ.

(3) To hear and to adjudicate appeals from boards of county commissioners and county boards of equalization and review as to property liable for taxation that has not been assessed or of property that has been fraudulently or improperly assessed through error or otherwise, to investigate the same, and, if error, inequality, and/or fraud is found to exist, to take such proceedings and to make such orders as to correct the same. In case it shall be made to appear to the state board of assessment that any tax list or assessment roll in any county in this State is grossly irregular, or any property is unlawfully or unequally assessed as between individuals, between sections of a county, or between counties, the said board shall correct such irregularities, inequalities, and lack of uniformity, and shall equalize and make uniform the valuation thereof upon complaint by the board of county commissioners under rules and regulations prescribed by it, not inconsistent with this act: Provided, that no appeals shall be considered or fixed values changed, unless notice of same is filed within sixty (60) days after the final values are fixed and determined by the board of county commissioners or the board of equalization and review.

(4) To require from the register of deeds, auditor, county accountant, tax clerk, clerk of the court, and/or other officer of each county, and the mayor, clerk, and/or other officer of each municipality, on forms prepared and prescribed by the said board, such annual and other reports as shall enable said board to ascertain the assessed valuation of all property listed for taxation in this State under this or any other act, the rate and amount of taxes assessed and collected, the amount returned delinquent, tax sales, certificates of purchase at such tax sales held by the State, county, or municipality, and such other information as the board may require, to the end that it may have full, complete, and accurate statistical information as to the practical operation of the tax and revenue laws of the State.

(5) To require the secretary of state, and it shall be his duty, to furnish monthly to the said board a list of all domestic corporations incorporated, charter amended, or dissolved, all foreign corporations domesticated, charter amended, dissolved, or domestication withdrawn during the preceding month, in such detail as may be prescribed by said board.

(6) To make diligent investigation and inquiry concerning the revenue laws and systems of taxation of other states so far as the same are made known by published reports and statistics, and can be ascertained by correspondence with offices thereof.

(7) To report to the general assembly at each regular session, or at such other times as it may direct, the total amount of revenue or taxes collected in this State for state, county, and municipal purposes, classified as to state, county, township, and municipality, with the sources thereof; to report to the general assembly the proceedings of the board and such other information and recommendations concerning the public revenues as required by the general assembly or that may be of public interest; to cause two thousand (2,000) copies of said report to be printed on or before the first day of January in the year of the regular session of the general assembly, and place at the disposal of the state librarian one hundred (100) copies of said report for distribution and exchange; and to forward a copy of said report to each member of the general assembly as soon as printed.

(8) To discharge such other duties as may be prescribed by law, and take such action, do such things, and prescribe such rules and regulations as may be needful and proper to enforce the provisions of this and the Revenue Act.

(9) To prepare for the legislative committee of succeeding general assemblies such suggestions of revision of the revenue laws, including the Machinery Act, as it may find by experience, investigation, and study to be expedient and wise. (1935, c. 417, s. 202.)

Unless the land is so properly listed for taxation it is not subject to sale by the sheriff for non-payment of taxes. Stone v. Phillips, 176 N. C. 457, 97 S. E. 375. As to listing in wrong name see section 8019 and the notes there placed.

In Rexford v. Phillips, 159 N. C. 213, 74 S. E. 213, neither the owner nor his agent had given in the land, and list taker had copied the entry from the former tax book, and it was held that the land was not rightfully on the tax list, and a sale for taxes pursuant thereto was invalid. This case is discussed with approval in the Stone case, supra.—Ed. Note.

Review of Assessment. — Under the prior law original proceedings before the State Board of Assessment to have the value of property reduced for taxation will be disregarded and considered as a nullity when the question involved is solely as to whether such value theretofore fixed and agreed upon be reduced. Caldwell County v. Doughton, 195 N. C. 62, 141 S. E. 289.

Appeal from Assessment—Sufficiency of Board's Report. —The method provided by statute for assessment and appeal from the assessment must be followed. In the instant case the Board reported results of the appraisement and did not report the individual items upon which the appraisement was made, and the appraisement of the value of the stock held in a foreign corporation was not so separated from the other property as to permit a variation of this rule. Manufacturing Co. v. Commissioners of Pender, 196 N. C. 744, 147 S. E. 284.

§ 7971(6). Annual report to governor. — The state board of assessment shall annually, on or before the first day of January of each year, make a report to the governor of the proceedings of the said board during the preceding year, with its recommendations in relation to all matters of taxation and revenue. (1935, c. 417, s. 203.)

§ 7971(7). Board to prescribe forms, books, and records, require abstracts to be filed, and to make rules and regulations.—The state board of assessment is authorized and empowered to prescribe the forms, books, and records that shall be used in the valuation of property and in the levying and collection of taxes, and how the same shall be kept; to require the county tax supervisors, clerk of board of county commissioners, or auditor of each county to file with it, when called for, complete abstracts of all real and personal property in the county, itemized by townships and as equalized by the county board of equalization and review; and to make such other rules and regulations, not included in this or the Revenue Act, as the said board may deem needful to effectually promote the purposes for which the board is constituted and the systems of taxation provided for in this and the Revenue Act. (1935, c. 417, s. 204.)

§ 7971(8). Sessions of board, where to be held.—The regular sessions of the state board of assessment shall be held in the city of Raleigh at the office of the chairman, and other sessions may be called at any place in the State to be decided by the board. (1935, c. 417, s. 205.)

§ 7971(9). Board has access to public books and records and empowered to subpoena witnesses.—The state board of assessment, the members thereof, and/or any duly authorized deputy shall have access to all books, papers, documents, statements, records, and accounts on file or of record in any department of state, county, or municipality, and is authorized and empowered to subpoena witnesses upon a subpoena signed by the chairman of the board, directed to such witnesses, and to be served by any officer authorized to serve subpoenas: to compel the attendance of witnesses by attachment to be issued by any superior court upon proper showing that such witness or witnesses have been duly subpoenaed and have refused to obey such subpoena or subpoenas; and to examine witnesses under oath to be administered by any member of the board. (1935, c. 417, s. 206.)

§ 7971(10). Board to have access to books and records of persons, firms, and corporations.—The state board of assessment, the members thereof, or any duly authorized deputy are authorized and empowered to examine all books, papers, records, and/or accounts of persons, firms, and corporations, domestic or foreign, owning property liable to assessment for taxation, general or specific, under the laws of this State. (1935, c. 417, s. 207.)

§ 7971(11). Board to direct members to hear complaints.—The state board of assessment is authorized and empowered to direct any member or members of the board to hear complaints, to make examinations and investigations, and to report his or their findings of fact and conclusion to the board. (1935, c. 417, s. 208.)

§ 7971(12). Board to keep records.—The state board of assessment shall keep full, correct, and accurate record of its official proceedings, and certified copies of its records, attested with its official seal, shall be received in evidence in all courts of the State with like effect as certified copies of other public records. (1935, c. 417, s. 209.)

Art. 3. Property Subject to Taxation

§ 7971(13). General provision. — All property, real and personal, within jurisdiction of the State, not especially exempted, shall be subject to taxation. (1935, c. 417, s. 300.)

§ 7971(14). Real property defined. — For the purposes of taxation, real property shall include all lands within the State and all buildings and fixtures thereon and appurtenances thereto. (1935, c. 417, s. 301.)

§ 7971(15). Real property—where and to whom assessed.—(1) Real property shall be assessed in the township or place where situated, to the owner, if known; if the owner be not known and there be an occupant, then to such occupant, and either or both shall be liable for taxes assessed on such property; and if there be no owner or occupant known, then as unknown.

(2) A trustee, guardian, executor, administrator, assignee, or agent having control or possession of real property may be considered as the owner.

(3) The real property which belongs to a person deceased, not being in control of an executor or administrator, may be assessed to his heirs or devisees jointly without naming them until they shall have given notice of the respective names to the supervisor of taxation or chairman of the board of county commissioners and of the division of the estate, and undivided interests in real property owned by tenants in common, not being co-partners, may be assessed to the owners if so requested and in the discretion of the supervisors of taxation.

(4) Lease property in which the lessee has a capital investment, by using improvements or structures erected, may be listed separately by lessor or lessee with reference to the degree of ownership of each party, or may, in accordance with contractual relation between parties, be listed as a whole by either of them. Art. 4. Quadrennial Assessments

§ 7971(20). All property to be listed with reference to ownership on April first of each year.— All property of every kind and nature, real and personal, shall be listed for taxation with reference to its ownership and value as of the first day of April of each year, except that for the purpose of providing sufficient time for a thorough reassessment of real property in the year one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, and quadrennially thereafter, real property shall be valued by the assessors with reference to its value as of the first day of April and shall be listed in the name of the owner as of the first day of April. The following machinery is provided for valuing real property of every kind and nature and for listing and valuing real and personal property in each year of the quadrennial assessment:

(1) The board of county commissioners of each county shall, on the first Monday in April, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, meet and determine whether or not the real estate of the respective counties shall be revalued by horizontal increases or reductions, or by the appointment of assessors and appraisers as hereinafter set out, and in the event it is decided to revalue other than by horizontal reduction, or increase, then the board of county commissioners may, and every fourth year thereafter, appoint a county supervisor of taxation, who shall be a freeholder in the county, an experienced and practical business man with the knowledge of the valuation of real and personal property in the county, and who shall be a bona fide resident in the county for at least twelve months. He shall receive such compensation for his services as the board of county commissioners shall designate, not to exceed four dollars per day for such time as he may be actually and necessarily engaged in the performance of his duties in his office, and necessary traveling expenses for each day's services, and shall serve for such time as the board of county commissioners in their discretion shall designate: Provided, in the event of the office becoming vacant the board of commissioners shall appoint another person to act and perform the duties of the county assessor for the remainder of the term.

(2) In counties in which there is an auditor, tax clerk, county accountant, all-time chairman of the board of county commissioners, or other similar officer, either may be designated by the board of county commissioners as the supervisor of taxation for the county: Provided, that when the duties of the office of county supervisor of taxation are performed by any auditor, tax clerk, county accountant, all-time chairman of the board of county commissioners, or other similar officer who is receiving a regular salary, the board of county commissioners may in their discretion allow such additional compensation and expense allowance as they may designate.

(3) The county supervisor of taxation shall have general supervision of the listing and assessment of all real and personal property for taxation in the county, shall visit the list takers and assessors in each township while they are engaged in listing and assessing property for taxation, and shall advise and confer with such list takers and assessors to the end that all property subject to taxation shall be listed and that the assessed valuation of all property in the several townships shall be fair and uniform. (1935, c. 417, s. 400.)

§ 7971(21). Appointment of list takers and assessors; duties.—(1) Supervisors to Appoint List Takers and Assessors.—The county supervisor of taxation shall appoint, on or before the second Monday in April, three discreet freeholders in each township each of whom shall have been a resident freeholder in his county for not less than twelve months, and who shall be known and designated as the township board of list takers and assessors. They shall serve for such time and shall receive such compensation for their services while actually employed as the board of county commissioners shall designate, not more than five dollars per day.

(2) Board of County Commissioners May Appoint List Takers and Assessors.—Instead of the appointment of three freeholders in each township, as provided in this section, the board of county commissioners may, in their discretion, appoint for any township wherein is situated an incorporated city or town one resident freeholder for each ward or district in such cities or towns. Such persons so appointed shall have been resident freeholders for not less than twelve months prior to their appointment.

(3) List Takers and Assessors to List and Value Property.—The list takers and assessors of each township, ward or district, under the supervision of the county supervisor of taxation, shall list and assess all real and personal property in their respective townships, wards or districts; shall ascertain the true value in money of all personal property and every tract, lot or parcel of land or other real estate with all improvements thereon; shall have authority to personally visit, inspect and view any property, real or personal, which is to be assessed, and shall make diligent inquiry as to its value; shall have authority to subpoena and examine under oath witnesses who may have knowledge of the real or personal property that has or should be listed and assessed and who may have knowledge of the actual cash value of such property; shall value all property, real and personal, at its true value in money as defined in this act; and shall make a detailed statement of each piece and kind of real and personal property, together with its true value in money, and return the same to the county supervisor of taxation upon blanks furnished for that purpose. It shall be the duty of all tax listers and/or tax assessors in the several counties, cities, and towns of the State, when listing or assessing real estate for taxes, to ascertain from the owner of the real estate being so listed and assessed, or someone who has an interest therein, whether the same is encumbered, and if so, to whom, and the postoffice address of such landowner and lienholder. Each tract of land shall be listed separately, and this separate abstract or list shall show the acreage, at least two adjoining landowners for each tract, or such other description as shall be sufficient to locate and identify said land by parol testimony. Town lots and other small lots shall be listed in the same way, except the acreage need not be given, but the number of said lot on any town map or plat, or the street number, shall be given. The county supervisor of taxation or other person charged with supervision of the listing and assessment of property for the county, city, or town shall inspect the tax abstracts as returned by the list taker or assessor, and if the above requirements have not been complied with, shall refuse approval of the bill or account of such list taker or assessor for payment for his services until the record with respect to such listing and assessment of property as herein required shall have been complied with. (1935, c. 417, s. 401.)

§ 7971(22). First meeting of county supervisors of taxation and list takers and assessors. — The county supervisor of taxation, the list takers and assessors of each township, ward, or district, shall meet in the courthouse in each county on the third Monday in April upon the call of the county supervisor of taxation for the general consideration of methods for securing a complete list of all real and personal property in the county and for valuing and assessing the same in a uniform manner in the several townships. They shall begin on the third Monday in April to make a memorandum list of each tract or parcel of real property in the township, with the name of the owner and description or location of the property, and after inspection and inquiry shall find the fair market value of same, such value to be used as the value of the property when listed, after giving effect to any change of ownership or the erection or construction of structures exceeding one hundred dollars ($100.00) in value. They shall begin on the first Monday in May to list real and personal property, and shall complete the same as early as practicable, or within such time as may be prescribed by the board of county commissioners, but not later than the first Monday in July. (1935, c. 417, s. 402.)

done equal justice to the public and to the taxpayers concerned.

§ 7971(24). Appointment of experts to assess specific classes of property.—The board of county commissioners in each county, at the request of the county supervisor of taxation, may in their discretion employ one or more persons having expert knowledge of the value of specific kinds or classes of property within the county, such as mines, factories, mills and other similar property, to aid and assist the county supervisor of taxation, the list takers and assessors in the respective townships, wards or districts, or to advise with, aid and assist the board of equalization and review in arriving at the true value in money of the property in the county. Such expert, or experts, so employed by the board of county commissioners shall receive for their services such compensation as the board of county commissioners shall designate. (1935, c. 417, s. 404.)

§ 7971(26). County supervisors and assessors to jointly review the valuations and assessments and make tentative scroll.—(a) As soon as practicable after the list takers and assessors have completed the listing and assessment and made return for each township as by this act required, and before the meeting of the county board of equalization and review, the county supervisor of taxation shall convene all of the list takers and assessors and they shall jointly review the valuations and assessments in the several townships, wards, and districts to the end that it may be ascertained whether the several assessors have applied the same methods of valuing property, real and personal, in the several townships, wards, and districts, and whether the valuations and assessments in the several townships, wards, and districts have been assessed at their true value in money and are uniform; and to correct any errors that have been committed, clerical or otherwise, and to equalize the assessments in the townships, wards, and districts.

(b) For the purpose of this section, the list takers and assessors of the several townships, wards, and districts of each county shall prepare a tentative scroll, roll, or list by races, showing in alphabetical order the names of the taxpayers who have listed property for taxation in their respective townships, the items of each class of property listed and the valuation as fixed by the assessors for the current year, and the items and valuation of same for the preceding year. All columns should be added, the totals entered for the township, and the average value of each class of property shall be computed by dividing the total number of items in each class into the total valuation of the respective items.

(c) At the joint meeting of review of the county supervisor of taxation, the list takers and assessors, as provided for in this section, such adjustments and corrections of the valuation of the several items of property listed and assessed shall be made as may be necessary to equalize the valuation of items of the same class in all of the townships, wards, and districts of the county. If any such adjustments or corrections are made at such joint meeting of review, the adjusted or corrected values shall be extended to and entered in a column on the tentative scroll, roll, or list provided for that purpose. The county supervisor of taxation shall preserve such tentative scroll, roll, or list of each township, ward, or district, and shall present the same to the county board of equalization and review at their next meeting and for their inspection and consideration. (1935, c. 417, s. 406.)

Such scroll, roll, or list, together with the same tentative scroll, roll, or list, shall be filed as the fixed, determined and permanent roll for the quadrennial period either with the board of county commissioners, the county auditor, tax clerk, accountant, or other similar officers. (1935, c. 417, s. 407.)

§ 7971(33). Advertising time and place of list taking.—Each township list taker, successor, and/or assistant to the county supervisor shall advertise in five or more public places within the township, not later than the twentieth day of March, notifying all persons owning property subject to taxation within the county to return to him all the real and personal property which such persons own on the first day of April, that said return must be made during the month of April or within the time designated by the board of county commissioners under the penalties imposed by law, and that he will be present to receive the tax lists at the times and places named in the advertisement; and in a like manner said list taker, his successor, and/or assistant to the county supervisor shall advertise any extension of time granted to taxpayers. (1935, c. 417, s. 504.)

§ 7971(34). Supervisors, listers and assessors for cities and towns lying in two or more counties. —For the purpose of municipal taxation all real and personal property subject to taxation to be levied by the several boards of aldermen, boards of commissioners, or other governing bodies of cities or towns, lying and being in two or more counties, shall be listed and assessed by the supervisor of taxation, list takers and assessors appointed, and the valuation of such real and personal property shall be equalized by the board of equalization and review, constituted as hereinafter set out, and in the following manner:

(1) The board of aldermen, the board of commissioners, or other governing bodies of each and every such city or town shall at the first regular meeting of such board or other governing bodies in the month of April in the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven, and every fourth year thereafter, appoint a supervisor of taxation and two discreet freeholders, each of whom shall have been a resident freeholder in such city or town for a period of not less than twelve months, who shall constitute the board of list takers and assessors for said city or town; and such city supervisor of taxation, list takers and assessors shall in like manner and during the same period of time as in this act provided for listing and assessing real and personal property by county supervisors of taxation, township list takers and assessors, for all purposes of municipal taxation by said city or town, list and assess at its true value in money all the real and personal property in such city or town without reference to the valuation placed thereon by the county supervisor of taxation and township assessors, or by the county board of equalization and review; and such board of aldermen, board of commissioners or other governing body, board of list takers and/or tax assessors and board of equalization and review of such cities and towns, in listing, assessing, and equalizing the real and personal property in such cities or towns for the purposes of municipal taxation as aforesaid, shall exercise any powers conferred and perform every duty imposed upon boards of county commissioners, county supervisors of taxation, township list takers and assessors in the listing and assessing of property for the purposes of state and county taxation.

(2) The board of aldermen, board of commissioners, or other governing body of each and every such city, together with the city supervisor of taxation as chairman, shall constitute the board of equalization and review for such city or town, and shall in like manner and during the same period of time as in this act provided for the equalization of the valuation placed upon real and personal property by county supervisors, township list takers and assessors equalize the valuation placed upon the real and personal property in such city or town by such municipal supervisors and tax assessors; and such board of equalization and review, in the equalization of the valuation of such real and personal property as aforesaid, shall exercise every power conferred and perform every duty imposed by this act upon county boards of equalization and review in the equalization of the valuation placed upon property by the county supervisors of taxation, the county list takers and assessors, for the purposes of state and county taxation.

(3) The board of aldermen, the board of commissioners, or other governing body of each and every such city or town shall, at the first regular meeting of such board or governing body, held in March of each year other than the year of the quadrennial assessment, appoint one discreet freeholder as supervisor of taxation, in their discretion one or more assistants, each of whom shall have been a resident of such city or town for not less than twelve months, and who shall be known as the tax assessor or tax assessors; who shall list and assess all the real and personal property in such city or town for the purposes of municipal taxation by said city or town in like manner and during the same period of time as in this act provided for the listing and assessing of property by the county supervisor, list takers and assessors for state and county purposes; and who shall list the land in such city or town at the valuation assessed in the last quadrennial assessment, except—

(a) Where improvements have been made in excess of one hundred dollars ($100.00) upon the real property since the last assessment, and in that event the assessor shall find the actual value in money of such improvements and add to the value of the property as appraised at the last assessment.

(b) Where a building, timber, or some other appurtenance of value in excess of one hundred dollars ($100.00) has been removed or destroyed since the last assessment, then the tax assessors shall find the value of such buildings or appurtenances so removed or destroyed since the last assessment, and shall deduct such value from the appraised value of the real estate in the last assessment.

(c) Where some extraordinary circumstances have occurred to increase or reduce the actual value of the property since the last assessment, such circumstances as are of unusual occurrence in trade or business.

(d) Where real property has been subdivided into lots, streets laid out and map registered, or where land has been subdivided into lots on any street or streets already laid out and determined, since the last quadrennial assessment, and the said lots have been sold or offered for sale with reference to said street, streets, and/or map registered, then and in that case the assessors shall re-value and re-appraise the said real property and find and determine the value in money of each lot thereof; shall list and assess all personal property in such city or town, and shall, on the listing and assessing such real and personal property for the purpose of municipal taxation as aforesaid, possess and exercise all the duties imposed in this act upon county supervisors, list takers and assessors in listing and assessing property for taxation.

(4) The intent and purpose of this section is to provide such cities and towns as lie in two or more counties only with the machinery necessary for listing and assessing taxes for municipal purposes. The powers to be exercised by and the duties imposed on such boards of aldermen, boards of commissioners or other governing bodies, boards of equalization and review, city supervisor of taxation, list takers and assessors, city clerk and taxpayers shall be the same and they shall be subjected to the same penalties as provided in this act for all boards of county commissioners, county auditors, registers of deeds, clerks of boards of county commissioners, county supervisors, list takers and assessors. The county commissioners in their discretion may adopt the tax lists, scroll, or assessment roll of such city or town as are fixed and determined by the board of equalization and review of such cities or towns, and when so adopted shall be considered to all intent and purpose the correct and valid list and the fixed and determined assessment roll for the purpose of county taxation. All petitions by taxpayers for increase or decrease in the valuation of property within such city or town fixed and determined by the board of equalization and review of such city or town shall be made to the board of aldermen, the board of commissioners, or other governing body of such city or town; and all appeals to the state board of assessment on account of the valuation of such property shall be from the city board of equalization and review in such manner and within such times as are provided in this act for petitions to and appeals from the county board of equalization and review.

(5) That all expenses incident to the listing and assessing of the property for the purposes of municipal taxation as aforesaid shall be borne by the city or town for whose benefit the same is undertaken: Provided, that where the county or counties in which such city or town lies shall adopt the list and the fixed, determined assessment of the city board of equalization and review, the county board of commissioners may reimburse the governing body in such amounts as in their discretion may be proper. (1935, c. 417, s. 505.)

§ 7971(35). Township assistant to make tax list.—(1) Each township assistant to the county supervisor shall obtain from every person owning property subject to taxation in his township a full, complete, and detailed statement of each and every piece and kind of property, real and personal, which said person or persons shall own on the first day of April, together with the true value in money of all such property as belongs to such person or persons, or shall be under his control as agent, guardian, administrator, executor, trustee, or otherwise which should be listed for taxation; shall ascertain by visitation, investigation, or otherwise property not listed, the actual cash value in money of each piece or class of property in his township, and list such property at its actual value for taxation; and is hereby authorized and empowered to administer oaths in all cases necessary to obtain any information concerning taxable real or personal property.

(2) After any tax list or abstract has been delivered to an assessor, to the supervisor of taxation, or to the board of county commissioners, and such assessor, supervisor of taxation, or board of county commissioners shall have reason to believe or sufficient evidence upon which to form a belief that the person, firm, or corporation making such list or abstract, in person or by agent, has other personal property, tangible or intangible, money, solvent credits, or other thing liable for taxation, they or either of them shall take such action as may be needful to get such property on the tax list. (1935, c. 417, s. 506.)

§ 7971(36). How to list property.—(1) Every person owning property, real or personal, is required to list and shall make out, sign and deliver to the assistant supervisor, list taker, or assessor a statement, verified by his oath, of all the real and personal property, money, credits, investments in bonds, annuities, or other things of value, and the value of all improvements on or changes in real property since same was assessed at the last quadrennial assessment, which was in the possession or control of such person or persons on the first day of April, either as owner or holder thereof, or as parent, guardian, trustee, executor, administrator, agent, factor, or in any other capacity. It shall be the duty of all tax listers and/or tax assessors in the several counties, cities, and towns of the State, when listing or assessing real estate for taxes, to ascertain the owner of the real estate being listed and assessed, or someone who has an interest therein, whether the same is encumbered, and if so, to whom, and the postoffice address of such landowner and lienholder. Each tract of land shall be listed separately, and this separate abstract or list shall show the acreage, at least two adjoining landowners for each tract, or such other description as shall be sufficient to locate and identify said land by parol testimony. Town lots and other small lots shall be listed in the same way, except the acreage need not be given, but the number of said lot on any town map or plat or the street number of said lot shall be given. The county supervisor of taxation or other person charged with supervision of the listing and assessment of property for the county, city, or town shall inspect the tax abstracts as returned by the list taker or assessor, and if the above requirements have not been complied with, shall refuse approval of the bill for his services until the record with respect to such listing and assessment of property as herein required shall have been complied with.

It shall be the duty of the list taker or assessor to carry forward on the tax list of any person the real estate owned by them at the same assessed value as said property was valued at in the last quadrennial assessment of taxes, unless the value thereof has been changed by the board of county commissioners as provided by law, and the real property thus brought forward by the tax lister or assessor at the said assessed value shall be a legal and valid listing of the same as if listed by the owner, or owner's agent, or by the chairman of the board of county commissioners.

The board of county commissioners in any county may require the register of deeds, when any transfer of title is made, except mortgages and deeds of trust, or like liens recorded in his office, to certify the same to the auditor or county accountant, or supervisor of taxation, and the record of such transfer shall be entered upon the tax list of the county to the end that the property so transferred may be listed in the name of the party to whom said property is transferred. The said register of deeds shall include in his notice to the auditor, county accountant, or supervisor of taxation the name of the person conveying said property, the person to whom it is conveyed, the township in which it is situated, a short description of said property, and whether it is conveyed in whole or in part: Provided, however, that said register of deeds shall be allowed, when on fees, the sum of ten cents per entry for such transfer, to be paid by the county, and if on salary, such an allowance as may be made by the governing body.

(2) When personal property has been conveyed in trust and the trustee resides without the State, but the trustor resides within the State, then in that case such property shall be listed and assessed for taxation in this State by said trustor where the property is situated.

(3) Where a guardian, executor or executrix, administrator or administratrix lives in a city or incorporated town, all personal property in the hands of such fiduciary shall be listed and assessed for taxation where the ward or wards resided on the first day of April and where deceased persons resided on the day of their death; however, if such wards of such deceased persons are non-residents of the State on the first day of April, then such fiduciary shall list the property where he or she resides on the first day of April.

(4) Whenever personal property is held in trust for another by any person, firm, or corporation in this State either as guardian, trustee, or otherwise, and the ward or cestui que trust is a resident of this State, then the same shall be listed for taxation in the township and county where the ward or cestui que trust lived on the first day of April, and if the ward or cestui que trust lived on the first day of April in a county in this State other than the county of the guardian, trustee, or other person so holding said property, then the property so held in trust may be listed for taxation by forwarding a list thereof during the month of April, verified by oath, to the county supervisor of taxation in the county wherein the ward or cestui que trust lived on the first day of April, and such supervisor of taxation shall enter the same on the tax list of the township in which the ward or cestui que trust lived. (1935, c. 417, s. 507.)

See § 8037 and annotations.

Compliance with Statutory Procedure Essential. — The listing of property must be done in the manner prescribed by this section. Rexford v. Phillips, 159 N. C. 213, 74 S. E. 337. This means that the listing must be done by the owner or by his duly accredited agent (see section 7971(37)) in cases where listing by an agent is permissible. Stone v. Phillips, 176 N. C. 457, 97 S. E. 375.

Listing by Guardian or Executor—Removal of Cestui Que Trustent.—Where a testator appointed executors of his will who were also therein named as trustees for certain beneficiaries, who in May of a certain year moved to another town, after the matters of executorship had been closed, leaving those of the trusteeship continuing, it was held, the personal property should have been listed at the place of residence of the beneficiaries in June of that year; and the taxes not having been listed at all, it was proper for the commissioners of the town of residence of the beneficiaries to cause the personalty to be listed there and impose the penalty prescribed by section 7924. Smith v. Dunn, 160 N. C. 174, 76 S. E. 242.

Funds in Custodia Legis—Listing by Clerk.—The clerk of the court is both a "receiver" and "accounting officer" of funds paid into his hands in the course of litigation, within the meaning of the statute, and thereunder should properly list such funds for taxation on May first of each year, when no adjudication as to the rightful owners has been made. Edgecombe County v. Walston, 174 N. C. 55, 93 S. E. 460.

Time of Making List.—Property can be listed for taxation only in the year, and for the year, in which taxes are due. North Carolina R. Co. v. Commissioners, 77 N. C. 4; Johnson v. Royster, 88 N. C. 194.

As to suits against board, see note of Jenkins Bros. Shoe Co. v. Travis, 168 N. C. 599, 84 S. E. 1036, under section 7971(3).

Place of Listing Personalty.—See section 7912 and notes thereto.

Sufficiency of Description.—The listing of land as a certain number of acres lying in a named township is too vague to support a valid assessment, the land being insufficiently described. Rexford v. Phillips, 159 N. C. 213, 74 S. E. 337. As to what the list must show, see section 7971(46) and notes thereto.

Same—As between Taxpayer and Purchaser.—A description on a tax list made under the direction of the taxpayer in the words, "Tax list in No. 2 township, C. county, for the year 1893," was held sufficient, as between the taxpayer and a purchaser of his land at a tax sale, where it was the only land owned by the former in the townships. Fulcher v. Fulcher, 122 N. C. 101, 29 S. E. 91.

Under the Act of 1784 if the owner fails to attend at the time and place appointed to receive the lists of taxable property, the justice may make out a list for himself to the best of his knowledge. Tores v. Justices, 6 N. C. 167.

Where land, listed in the name of one person, belonging to another, has been sold for unpaid taxes and it is discovered, before the deed has been accepted, that the real owner has not listed it as required by this section, the deed is insufficient to pass title, for the methods provided by this and § 7971(50) must be followed. Wake County v. Faison, 204 N. C. 55, 167 S. E. 391.

§ 7971(37). Who may list through agents.—Females or non-residents of the township where the property is situated, and persons physically unable to attend and file a list of their property, may appoint agents for the purpose of listing their property. Such agent shall be required to qualify by stating under oath that he knows the extent and has knowledge of the true valuation of the property to be listed. The property of corporations shall be listed by the president, cashier, treasurer, or any other person appointed for that purpose. (1935, c. 417, s. 508.)

As to irregularity in listing taxes by agent as affecting tax sales, see Rexford v. Phillips, 159 N. C. 213, 74 S. E. 337.

§ 7971(38). What statements of private banks, bankers, brokers or security brokers must show.—Every bank (not incorporated), banker, broker, or security broker, at the time fixed by this act for listing and assessing all real and personal property, shall make out and furnish the list takers and assessors a sworn statement showing:

(1) The amount of property on hand and in transit.

(2) The amount of funds owned in the hands of other banks, bankers, or brokers.

(3) The amount of checks or other cash items, the amount of which was not included in either of the preceding items.

(4) The amount of bills receivable, discounted or purchased, bonds and other credits due or to become due, including interest receivable and accrued, but not due, and interest due and unpaid.

(5) All other property appertaining to said business, other than real estate, which real estate shall be listed under this act.

(6) The amount of deposit made by them with any other person, firm, or corporation.

(7) The amount of all accounts payable, other than current deposit accounts.

(8) The aggregate amount of the first, second, and third items in said statement shall be listed the same as other similar personal property is listed under this chapter. The aggregate amount of the sixth and seventh items shall be deducted from the aggregate amount of the fourth item of said statement, and the remainder, if any, shall be listed as a credit. (1935, c. 417, s. 509.)

§ 7971(39). Persons, firms, banks, and corporations dealing in securities on commission taxed as a private banker.—No person, bank, or corporation without a license authorized by law shall act as a stock broker or private banker. Any person, bank, or corporation that deals in foreign or domestic exchange, certificates of debt, shares in any corporation or charter companies, bank or other notes, for the purpose of selling the same or any other thing for commission or other compensation or who negotiates loans upon real estate securities, shall be deemed a security broker. Any person, bank, or corporation engaged in the business of negotiating loans on any class of security or in discounting, buying, or selling negotiable or other papers or credits, whether in an office for the purpose or elsewhere, shall be deemed to be a private banker. Any person, firm, or corporation violating this section shall pay a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars for each offense. (1935, c. 417, s. 510.)

§ 7971(40). List takers and assessors furnish list of exempt property.—Each list taker and assessor, when making the assessment roll and scroll for his township, shall enter on the blanks so furnished, in regular order, the name of the owner, a clear description of all real and personal property exempt from taxation, together with statement of its value, for what purpose used, and the rent, if any, obtained therefrom. The list of such exempt property, when completed, shall be delivered by the county supervisor of taxation to the register of deeds of the county, on or before the first day of October, and the register of deeds on or before the first day of November shall make duplicates thereof and transmit such duplicates to the state board of assessment and shall file the original list of exempt property in his office. (1935, c. 417, s. 511.)

§ 7971(42). List takers and assessors administer oath.—(a) It shall be the duty of the list takers and assessors of the several townships in each county of the State, before receiving the returns of any taxpayer, to actually administer the oath required by law, the oath read by the taxpayer in the presence and in the hearing of the list taker and assessor or by the list taker and assessor in the hearing and presence of the taxpayer, and the failure of any list taker or assessor to administer said oath except in cases where by law said oath may be made before some other person, such list taker and assessor shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

(b) The list taker, assessor, and/or assistant may in his discretion accept the return of any taxpayer by mail, if duly verified before a notary public or other officer authorized to administer oaths and in the form of the oath prescribed in this act, and if the list taker and/or assessor is satisfied that a full, accurate and complete list of all taxable property of the taxpayer has been returned at a fair cash value. (1935, c. 417, s. 513.)

§ 7971(43). Oath of taxpayer.—The list taker and assessor shall require the owner, agent, guardian, personal representative, or other person having control of and listing property to make and subscribe to the following oath, which shall be attached to each and every schedule:

I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that the above and foregoing list contains all the property, is a full, true, and complete list of all and each kind of property owned by me or under my control as agent, guardian, personal representative, or otherwise, and that I have not neglected to list for taxation for the year all of each and every kind of property of which I am the owner or of which I have control as agent, guardian, personal representative, or otherwise in the county of ....., State of North Carolina, and that I have not in any way connived at the violation or evasion of requirements of law in relation to the assessment of property, so help me, God. (1935, c. 417, s. 514.)

§ 7971(44). Where to list real estate, mineral and quarry lands.—All real property subject to taxation shall be listed in the township in which said property was situated on the first day of April. When the fee of the soil of any tract, lot, or parcel of land is vested in any person, firm, or corporation and the right to any improvements, leasehold estate, minerals, quarry, or timber therein is vested in another person, firm, or corporation, the said tract, lot, or parcel of land may be listed and valued to separate ownership, in separate entries, specifying the interest listed, and may be taxed to the parties owning the different interests respectively. In listing improvements, leasehold estate, mineral, quarry, or timber interests, the owner thereof shall describe the same in his list, together with the separate value of each separate tract, lot, or parcel of land in or on which the same shall be situated or located, and the list taker shall be particular to enter the same on the tax list according to the returns. An owner of separate timber interests shall list the same, whether the timber shall be attached to or detached from the soil. (1935, c. 417, s. 515.)

In Whose Name Listed.—Land should be listed for taxation in the name of the individual owners and not in the name of the "estate" of one deceased. Morrison v. McLauchlin, 88 N. C. 251.

Same—Improper Listing as Affecting Purchaser's Title.—A tax-title devised by a purchaser at a sheriff's sale of land listed in the name of the "estate" of one deceased is defective. Morrison v. McLauchlin, 88 N. C. 251.

§ 7971(45). Where polls and personal property shall be listed.—All taxable polls and all personal property shall be listed in the township in which the taxpayer resided on the first day of April, subject to the following exceptions:

(1) All goods and chattels situated in a township, town, or city other than that in which the owner resides shall be listed where situated, and not elsewhere, if the owner or person having control thereof hires or occupies a store, mill, dockyard, piling ground, place for sale of property, shop, office, mine, farm, place of storage, manufactory, or warehouse therein for use in connection with such goods and chattels; and farm products owned by the producers shall be listed where produced and all manufactured goods, consigned or stored out of the State, shall be listed where the owner resides.

(2) The residence of a person who has two or more places in which he occasionally dwells shall be that in which he resided for the longest period of time during the year preceding the first day of April.

(3) The place where the principal office is situated in this State shall be deemed the residence of the corporation, but if there is no principal office in the State, then the personal property of the corporation shall be listed, assessed, and taxed at any place in the State where the corporation transacts business.

(4) For the purpose of listing and assessing property, a copartnership shall be treated as an individual, and the property, real and personal, shall be listed in the name of the firm. A copartnership shall be deemed to be located in the township, town, or city in which its business is principally carried on. Each partnership shall be held liable for the whole tax. (1935, c. 417, s. 516.)

Cross Reference.—For general treatment, see 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 590 et seq; as to listing and taxing bank stocks, see section 7948 and the notes thereto.

Generally.—The rules and regulations fixed by the "Revenue Act" and the "Machinery Act" for the guidance of the officers charged with the listing and assessment of property for purposes of state taxation govern and control the action of county and other municipal officers charged with the listing and assessment of property for municipal taxation. Wiley v. Commissioners, 111 N. C. 397, 400, 16 S. E. 542 and cases there cited. The conclusion, therefore, is that the legislature has adopted a "uniform rule" which must be observed. Id.

Fixing Situs of Property.—It is for the legislature to determine the situs of personal property for purposes of taxation, and it may provide different rules for different kinds of property, change them from time to time, and the courts may not, for consideration of expediency, disregard the legislative will. Planters Bank, etc., Co. v. Lumberton, 179 N. C. 409, 102 S. E. 629.

Same—Application of Maxim Mobilia Personam Sequentur.—In Alvany v. Powell, 55 N. C. 51, Chief Justice Pearson declares that the true principle upon which to determine whether personal property is liable to be taxed, is the situs of the property, and that the distinction attempted to be made between personalty and real estate, depending upon the domicile of the owner, is based upon a fiction which has no application to questions of revenue.

Where Domicile and Residence Separate.—This section clearly makes the residence of the taxpayer the place where his personalty shall be listed. Ordinarily a person's residence is at the place of domicile, but this is not necessarily true, and where they are at separate and distinct places then he is to list his property at the place at which he has resided the greater part of the year regardless of whether such place is considered as his domicile or residence. In view of this fact it is doubtful whether or not the distinction between the two terms can ever be material with reference to this section, and this notwithstanding that the court has drawn the distinction in its reasoning in at least one case. See the decision in Roanoke Rapids v. Patterson, 184 N. C. 135, 113 S. E. 603, which turned upon the fact that the defendant had actually dwelt at one place a greater part of the year. See also Ransom v. Board, 194 N. C. 237, 139 S. E. 232, to the same effect.

Property of Corporation Taxable at Principal Office.—Where a corporation has its place of business in one town, with a part of the personal property located in another town, such property is only taxable in the town where its place of business is located. Winston v. Salem, 131 N. C. 404, 42 S. E. 889. The same is true of a partnership. Id.

Shares of Stock—Taxable at Principal Office.—The property in shares of stock in a corporation doing business outside the corporate limits of a town, and owned by persons residing therein does not follow and is not fixed by the situs of the residence of its owner, but is fixed by the legislature prescribing where and how it shall be listed and taxed, i. e., at its principal place of business. Wiley v. Commissioners, 111 N. C. 397, 16 S. E. 542.

Rolling Stock of Railroad.—See 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 592.

§ 7971(46). What tax list shall contain.—The tax list shall state the name, address, and age of taxpayer and a full and complete itemized list of all the property, real and personal, of the taxpayer as of the first day of April, as follows:

(1) The amount of real estate owned or under control in the township, together with the number of acres cleared for cultivation, waste lands, woods and timber, quarry lands, and lands susceptible of development for water power. The real property shall be described by name, if it has one, or in such way as to be identified, and each separate tract, lot, or parcel of real estate shall be separately listed, described, and valued, and whether located inside or outside of incorporated cities or towns.

(2) Manufacturing property outside or inside of incorporated cities or towns.

(3) The number of acres of mineral, timber, and quarry lands susceptible of development.

(4) Number of town lots, the dimensions and location of each.

(5) The number and value of horses.

(6) The number and value of mules.

(7) The number and value of jacks and jennets.

(8) The number and value of cattle.

(9) The number and value of hogs.

(10) The number and value of sheep.

(11) The number and value of goats and other livestock.

(12) The number and value of poultry.

(13) The number and value of dogs.

(14) The value of farming utensils, farming machinery, and all kinds of carriages, carts, wagons, buggies, or other vehicles and harness.

(15) The value of warehouses, their office furnishings and fixtures.

(16) The value of tools of mechanics.

(17) The value of household and kitchen furnishings, musical instruments, firearms, provisions of all kinds, and other products on hand.

(18) The value of libraries and other scientific implements.

(19) The amount of money on hand.

(20) The amount and value of all cotton, tobacco, and other farm products of every kind owned by the original producer or held by the original producer in any public warehouse and represented by warehouse receipts, or held by original producer for any co-operative marketing or cotton growers association, together with a statement of the amount of any advance against said cotton, tobacco, or other products, and fertilizer and fertilizer materials.

(21) All solvent credits, with accrued interest thereon, whether money on deposit, postal savings, mortgages, bonds, notes, bills of exchange, certified checks, accounts receivable, or in whatever other form or credit, and whether owing by any state or government, county, city, town, township, person, persons, company, firm, or corporation within or without the State.

(22) All automobiles, tractors, trailers, bicycles, trucks, flying machines, and pleasure boats of any and all kinds.

(23) The number and value of all seines, nets, fishing tackle, boats, barges, schooners, vessels, and all other floating property.

(24) All other personal property whatsoever, including all cotton in seed or lint, tobacco either in leaf or manufactured, rosin, tar, plated and silverware, watches and jewelry, goods, wares and merchandise of all kinds and descriptions, whether possessed by the taxpayer or any child.

(25) It is the purpose of this section to require, and it shall be the duty of each and every taxpayer to furnish, a complete and itemized list of the solvent credits, property, or things of value owned or possessed by him or in his control.

(26) Billboards, signboards, and other property used in outdoor advertising.

(27) Any and all persons, firms, or corporations liable for Schedule "B" taxes. (1935, c. 417, s. 517.)

§ 7971(47). Deduction of bona fide indebtedness; recovery on notes, etc., not listed.—(1) All bona fide indebtedness owing by any taxpayer as principal debtor may be deducted by the list taker or assessor from the aggregate amount of the taxpayer's credits shown in items nineteen, twenty, and twenty-one of section 7971(46): Provided, that the credits enumerated in item twenty of this section shall be available only for tax deduction of indebtedness by the original producer of the articles named, and in the case of fertilizer or fertilizer material such only as are held by the farmer to be used during the current year.

(2) The board of county commissioners and/or county supervisor of taxation shall have the power to summons any taxpayer or other person at some place designated by them in the county to answer relative to the amount of solvent credits owned by him, the persons owing the same, as well as the nature of any indebtedness which has been deducted from solvent credits and the name of the person to whom indebtedness is due.

(3) If any person, firm, or corporation, with a view to evading the payment of taxes, shall fail or refuse to list with the list taker or assessors any bonds, notes, accounts receivable and/or any other solvent credits subject to taxation under this act, the same shall not be recoverable at law or by suit in equity in any court in this State until they have been listed for taxation and the tax and the penalty prescribed by law for the nonlisting and non-payment of taxes have been completely paid. (1935, c. 417, s. 518.)

Failure to List Solvent Credits.—The failure to list solvent credits does not destroy the cause of action, but postpones recovery thereon until they are listed and the tax thereon is paid; this is because the statute does not make the failure to list an absolute bar to their recovery. Martin v. Knight, 147 N. C. 564, 61 S. E. 447. The court said: "It was not the purpose of the legislature to release the debtor for failure to list on the creditor, but to postpone the recovery of the debt, if subject to taxation, until the tax is paid."

Subsection 3 of this section will not be construed to work a forfeiture, and does not prevent a recovery on evidence of debt not listed, but postpones the recovery of judgment thereon until listed and the taxes paid, and where in an action on a note this defense is pleaded, the trial court has the power to allow the plaintiff to list it and pay taxes thereon during the trial and give judgment. Wooten v. Bell, 196 N. C. 654, 146 S. E. 705.

Same—How Pleaded.—Unless the failure to list a note and due bill for taxation, "with a view to evade the payment of taxes thereon," is pleaded, it may not be made the subject of an issue. Martin v. Knight, 147 N. C. 564, 61 S. E. 447. Whether or not this is an affirmative defense which must be set up in the answer or whether it may be taken advantage of upon the general denial is left undecided.

Payment into Court.—The amount of taxes due upon solvent credits may be paid into court, Corey v. Hooker, 171 N. C. 229, 232, 88 S. E. 236, and when this is done it permits the party to proceed to judgment. Hyatt v. Holloman, 168 N. C. 386, 84 S. E. 407.

A possessory action to recover a horse secured by chattel mortgage, brought by the assignee of the mortgage note against one to whom the mortgagee had sold the horse, is not an action upon the note upon which the statute requires that the taxes be given in and paid before the owner may be permitted to sue thereon. Hyatt v. Holloman, 168 N. C. 386, 84 S. E. 407.

§ 7971(48). Warehouses and coöperative associations to furnish lists of property stored, etc.—(1) Every warehouse company or corporation and every growers' or marketing association receiving for storage cotton, tobacco, or other products, commodities or property, and issuing warehouse receipts for same, shall, on the day as of which property is assessed, furnish to the supervisor of the county in which such property is stored a full and complete list of all persons, corporations, partnerships, firms, or associations for whom such property is stored, except in cases in which farm produce is stored for its original producer who is a resident of another county in this State, together with the amount of such property stored for each owner and the amount advanced against such property by the warehouse or association. In all cases in which farm produce is stored for its original producer who is a resident of another county in this State, the names of such producers shall be sent to the supervisors of the respective counties in which such producers reside, together with the amount of such produce stored for them and the amount advanced against such produce by the warehouse or association.

(2) Warehouse companies and corporations and growers' and marketing associations shall not be liable for taxation on the property stored with them by others, provided lists of the owners and amounts of such property are furnished to the respective supervisors under the provisions of subdivision (1) of this section. If such lists are not so furnished within fifteen days after the day as of which property is assessed, such warehouse or association shall be liable to the respective counties for the tax upon the full value of such property; and if failure to furnish such list is continued for ten days after demand for same by the supervisor of any county, such warehouse or association shall be liable for a penalty of $250, in addition to the taxes, to be recovered by the proper county in an action in the superior court, and both tax and penalty may be recovered in the same action.

(3) The commissioner of revenue shall, upon request of any county, send to the supervisor of taxation a list of automobiles and trucks in such county as appears from the record for the current year, and shall charge the county thirty cents per hundred names for same, said amount to be paid to the commissioner of revenue and to be used by him as compensation for the preparation of said list. (1935, c. 417, s. 519.)

§ 7971(48)a. Reports by consignees and brokers.—Every person, corporation, partnership, or unincorporated association in possession of property on consignment and all brokers dealing in tangible personal property who have in their possession such property belonging to others shall file with the supervisor of taxation of the county in which such property is located a full and complete list of the owners of such property, together with the amount of such property owned by each: Provided, that if such property is farm produce owned by the original producer who is a resident of this State, the name of the owner and the amount of such property shall be reported to the supervisor of the county of which such owner is a resident. Consignees and brokers failing to make such reports shall be liable to payment of the tax and a penalty of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250) in the same manner and under the conditions set forth in subdivision (2) of section 7971(48). (1935, c. 417, s. 519½.)

§ 7971(48)b. Information to be given by motor vehicle owners applying for license tags.—Every motor vehicle owner applying to the state department of revenue for motor vehicle license tags shall specify in the application the county and township in which each such motor vehicle is subject to ad valorem taxation. If any such vehicle is not subject to ad valorem taxation in any county of this State, such fact, with the reason therefor, shall be stated in the application. No state license tags shall be issued to any applicant until the requirements of this section have been met. The commissioner of revenue shall upon request from any county, send to the supervisor of such county a list of motor vehicles subject to ad valorem taxation in such county as shown by the commissioner's records for the year preceding the day as of which property is to be assessed, and shall charge the county the sum of thirty cents per hundred names for the same, said amount to be used by the commissioner as compensation for the preparation of said list. (1935, c. 417, s. 519¾.)

§ 7971(49). Forms for listing and assessing property.—(a) The state board of assessment shall design forms and tax books to be used in listing and assessing property for taxation by the county supervisors, list takers and assessors, which forms shall contain such classification of real and personal property as in the judgment of the state board of assessment may be necessary to a full disclosure of the property owned by each taxpayer; shall transmit said forms to the division of purchase and contract, which shall ascertain from boards of county commissioners of the several counties the number of forms desired by each county and cause same to be printed and transmitted to the board of county commissioners of each county upon their order by the first day of March in each year, and the clerk of the board of county commissioners shall deliver to the county supervisor of taxation the necessary number of forms and books for their respective use. The division of purchase and contract shall furnish the board of county commissioners of the several counties with an invoice covering the actual cost of the said forms and county tax books furnished the county; and the board of county commissioners of each county so furnished shall audit such bill and shall cause the payment of same to be made to the division of purchase and contract within forty days of the receipt of the account for such forms and for such county tax books.

(b) The forms designed by the state board of assessment shall be the standard forms for use in all counties of the State, and no variation from the said forms so prescribed shall be used in any county, unless submitted to and approved by the state board of assessment. (1935, c. 417, s. 520.)

§ 7971(50). Board of county commissioners to list property escaping taxation in previous years.—(1) The chairman of the board of county commissioners and the county supervisor of taxation shall examine the tax list and assessment roll for each township for the current year and the preceding year and shall enter in said list and on said assessment roll or scroll a description of all property not listed, the name of the owner or occupant thereof, and the value of the same.

(2) It shall be the duty of the members of the board of county commissioners, the county supervisor of taxation, the list takers and assessors of each township to be constantly looking out for property which has not been listed for taxation, and when so discovered, to have such property placed on the tax list and assessment roll.

(3) After the discovery and listing of such unlisted property, the clerk of the board of county commissioners shall mail a notice to the owner at his last known address, or, if unknown, to the occupant of such unlisted property, that such property had been discovered and listed for taxation and that the board of county commissioners will proceed to assess the same at its next regular meeting. The board of county commissioners, at its next regular meeting after such notice to the owner or occupant of such unlisted property, shall proceed to assess same for taxation.

(4) The board of county commissioners, after such unlisted property has been assessed for taxation for the several years, not exceeding five, that such unlisted property has escaped taxation, shall add to the taxes of the current year in which such property is discovered the simple taxes of each and every preceding year that it has escaped taxation, not exceeding five, with ten per cent per annum in addition, but no addition shall be less than two dollars ($2.00).

(5) Whenever the board of county commissioners shall find any person in possession of any personal property, money, or choses in action which shall not have been listed for taxation on the preceding first day of April, it shall be presumed that the person in possession thereof was the owner and in possession of same on the first day of each April for five preceding years, and they shall cause the same to be placed upon the list and assess the taxes and penalties thereof as herein provided in this act. The board of county commissioners or the governing body of any municipal corporation is hereby authorized and empowered to settle and adjust all claims for taxation arising under this section or any other section authorizing them to place on the tax list any property omitted therefrom.

(6) The provisions of this section shall extend and apply to all cities, towns, and like municipal corporations having powers under their charters to tax the property aforesaid, and the powers conferred and the duties imposed upon the board of county commissioners shall be exercised and performed by the board of commissioners or the board of aldermen or other governing body, as the case may be, of the city, town, or municipal corporation.

(7) The board of county commissioners, whether separately or in connection with any municipality in the same county, may employ a competent man to make diligent search and to discover and to report to the board of county commissioners or to the county supervisor of taxation any unlisted property within the county, to the end that the same may be listed and property assessed for taxation as provided in this section: Provided, that the cost of listing such unlisted property shall not exceed ten per cent of the revenue so derived in the current year in which discovered; and further provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed as authorizing or empowering the county commissioners to appoint tax collectors.

(8) Any time before or after the tax list has been turned over to the sheriff or tax collectors as provided in this act, such unlisted property so discovered shall be listed and assessed for taxation by the board of county commissioners as aforesaid; and the clerk of the board of county commissioners, county accountant, or auditor shall enter such property in the tax book, making out a tax account, placing the same in the hands of the sheriff or tax collector and charge him with such tax account. Such order shall have the force and effect of a judgment and execution against the real and personal property of the person charged with such tax as provided in this act for the regular lists.

(9) In addition to the ten per cent added to the tax as herein provided, any person, firm, or corporation owning or controlling any property, real or personal, and willfully failing to list the same within the time allowed with the list takers or assessors, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The failure to so list shall be prima facie evidence that such failure was willful, and the board of county commissioners shall present the names of all such persons, firms, and corporations to the grand jury.

(10) All assessments made under the provisions of this section shall be subject to appeal by the party assessed to the supreme court upon notice given within ten days after the assessment is made, to be served upon the chairman of the board of commissioners. Upon the service of such notice the clerk to the board shall transmit to the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the property assessed is located all notices, orders, and other records, together with all the findings of the board with respect to the assessment, and the clerk shall enter such appeal upon the civil-issue docket of the county, when a trial de novo shall be had, the hearing of which shall take priority over all other civil actions. The superior court shall, upon such appeal, have the right to modify, confirm, or reject in full any such assessment as may have been made by the board of commissioners under and by virtue of the section hereinabove referred to, and shall have the right and power to find all facts connected with such assessment or to re-refer any question of fact that may arise back to the board of commissioners for further finding, and shall pass upon all matters of law relating to the legality of the assessment fixed by such board of commissioners, and from such rulings upon matters of law either party shall have the right of appeal to the supreme court.

(11) After assessment is made under the provisions of this section, no levies of taxes shall be collectible in cases where the taxpayer appeals to the superior court, pending the appeal: Provided, however, before any appeal can be perfected under the provisions of this act the taxpayer shall enter into a bond payable to the board of commissioners in an amount equal to the taxes levied, plus twenty-five per cent of the amount of the levy, but in no case shall the bond be for less than $200.00 (two hundred dollars), and the said bond shall be conditioned upon the payment of all taxes levied by said board of commissioners under this section legally determined to be due, and the costs of the appeal in case the assessment or any part thereof is made effective by the court. (1935, c. 417, s. 521.)

Construed as Whole.—The court in Madison County v. Coxe, 204 N. C. 58, 167 S. E. 486, construing Public Laws, 1927, c. 71, § 73, (superseded by this section) declared that the section must be construed as a whole, not piecemeal.

Rebuttal of Presumption.—The presumption created by statute, that the person, who was in possession of the personal property involved in this controversy, was the owner and in possession of said property on 1 April of the five preceding years, is rebutted by the facts of this case. Coltrane v. Donnell, 203 N. C. 515, 516, 166 S. E. 397.

Stated in Poconoke Co. v. New Bern, 172 N. C. 258, 90 S. E. 202.

Applied in Smith v. Dunn, 160 U. C. 174, 76 S. E. 242.

§ 7971(51). Poll tax levied; commissioners' power to exempt.—(1) There shall be levied by the board of county commissioners in each county a tax of two dollars ($2.00) on each taxable poll or male person between the ages of twenty-one and fifty years, and the taxes levied and collected under this section shall be for the benefit of the public school fund and the poor of the county.

(2) The board of county commissioners of every county shall have the power to exempt any person from the payment of poll taxes on account of indigency, and when any such person has been once exempted he shall not be required to renew his application unless the commissioners shall revoke the exemption. When such exemption shall have been made, the clerk of the board of county commissioners shall furnish the person with a certificate of such exemption, and the person to whom it is issued shall be required to list his poll, but upon exhibition of such certificate the list taker shall annually enter in the column intended for the poll the word "exempt," and the poll shall not be charged in computing the list. (1935, c. 417, s. 522.)

§ 7971(51a). What veterans exempt from poll tax; world war veterans. — Any honorably discharged veteran of any of the wars of the United States, now a resident of, and subject to capitation or poll tax in this State, and who received injuries in the line of duty in the military service, whether compensable or not, and all such honorably discharged veterans that have been, or are now, receiving compensation from the Federal Government for disability of service connected origin, shall be conclusively considered and presumed as having physical infirmities sufficient to warrant exemption from the payment of the capitation or poll tax under Article five, section one, of the Constitution of North Carolina: Provided, however, that with respect to veterans of the World War, this act shall apply only to those who served not less than ninety days during the period between April sixth, one thousand nine hundred seventeen, and November eleventh, one thousand nine hundred eighteen, or to those of such veterans who served with the United States forces in Russia during the period between April sixth, one thousand nine hundred seventeen, and April first, one thousand nine hundred twenty. (1931, c. 193, s. 1.)

§ 7971(51b). Proof of service and injury must be furnished; exemption by county commissioners. — The veteran or soldier claiming exemption under the preceding section shall furnish proof of such service and injury by producing to the board of commissioners of his county his or her discharge or release or certificate of such service or injury, signed by a recognized official of the United States War Department or the Adjutant General's office of this State, and said discharge, release or certificate shall be recorded with the register of deeds of such county prior to tax listing date in the year in which exemption is claimed under this act. It shall be the duty of the register of deeds at or before tax listing time in each county, to notify the board of county commissioners of the registration with him of such discharge, release or certificate and thereupon, upon application of the veteran, said board of county commissioners may take the action authorized by this act. (1931, c. 193, s. 2.)

§ 7971(52). County board of equalization and review.—(1) The board of county commissioners of each county shall be and is hereby constituted the board of equalization and review for its county, whose duty shall be to equalize the valuation in said county so that each tract, lot, or parcel of real estate and each article of personal property shall be listed on the tax list and assessment roll uniformly and at its true value in money, and shall correct such tax list and assessment roll of each township, so that it shall conform to the provisions of this act, and the clerk of the board of equalization and review shall make and enter such adjustments and corrections on the tentative scroll presented by the county supervisors of taxation as the board may authorize.

(2) The members of the board of county commissioners, each as a member of the board of equalization and review, shall be paid by the county their usual compensation per diem and necessary traveling expenses for the number of days actually engaged in the performance of their duties as members of the board of equalization and review.

(3) The county board of equalization and review may designate the register of deeds, county auditor, county accountant, or other officer having in charge the making of the county tax books, as clerk of such board.

(4) The county supervisor of taxation, at least ten days prior to the meeting of the board of equalization and review, to the address appearing on the tax list and assessment roll, and in the year of the quadrennial assessment, shall mail to every person owning taxable property listed and assessed in the county a notice of the valuation at which such property has been assessed for taxation and the time and place of the meeting of the board of equalization and review; and in the years other than the year for the quadrennial assessment shall mail such notices only to the taxpayer whose real property has been increased or reduced in value, as provided in this section for the increase or reduction of assessments on real estate in years other than the year of the quadrennial assessment, but the failure to mail or to receive such notices shall not affect the validity of the tax list and assessment roll. The county supervisor of taxation shall submit to the board of equalization and review the tentative scroll, roll, or list of each township, ward, or district for the current year as prepared by him, his assistants and assessors, shall meet with the board of equalization and review at all its meetings and shall give such information as he may have or can obtain with respect to the valuation of taxable property in the county.

(5) The said board of equalization and review shall meet on the third Monday in June of each and every year, first giving ten days notice by publication of the time, place, and purpose of the meeting, and may adjourn from day to day while engaged in the equalization and review of the property on the tax list and assessment roll, but shall complete their duties on or before the first Monday in July of each and every year.

(6) The said board shall, on request, hear any and all taxpayers who own or control taxable property assessed for taxation in the county in respect to the valuation of such property or the property of others.

(7) The said board shall examine and review the tax list and assessment roll of each township for the current year; shall of its own motion or on sufficient cause shown by any person add to said list and assessment roll the names of any persons, the value and description of real and personal property liable to assessment in each township, omitted from such tax list and tax roll; shall correct all errors in the names of persons, in the description of the property, and in the assessment and valuation of taxable property on said list or roll; shall increase or reduce the assessed valuation of such tracts, lots, or parcels of real property or articles of personal property as in their opinion have been returned and assessed below or above the true value in money; shall cause to be done whatever else may be necessary to make said lists and roll or scroll comply with the provisions of this act; and, after the completion of the equalizing and review of said tax lists and rolls of each township, a majority of said board shall endorse thereon and sign a statement to the effect that the same is the fixed and permanent tax list and assessment roll of said township for the current year in which it has been prepared and approved by the board of equalization and review. The omission, however, of such an endorsement shall not effect the validity of any such tax list or assessment roll.

(8) The board of equalization and review in the years other than the year of the quadrennial assessment, provided for in this act, shall not increase or reduce the assessed valuation of any real property, but the same shall be listed and assessed at the same valuation as listed and assessed at the last quadrennial assessment:

(a) Except where real property has been discovered and not listed or assessed at the last quadrennial assessment.

(b) Except where clerical errors have occurred in the making out and transcribing of the tax list and assessment rolls.

(c) Except where improvements and appurtenances have been added to the value of more than one hundred dollars, or where there has been removed or destroyed a thing of value since the last quadrennial assessment exceeding one hundred dollars, and in that event the board of equalization and review shall find the value of the improvements, appurtenances, or thing of value added to, removed, or destroyed, and shall increase or reduce the appraised value of such real property accordingly.

(d) Except where the valuation of the real property since the last quadrennial assessment shall have been affected by some extraordinary circumstances, the facts in connection with which shall be found by such board in each case and entered upon the proceedings of said board.

(e) Except where real property has been subdivided into lots, streets laid out and map registered, or where land has been subdivided into lots on any street or streets already laid out and determined, since the last quadrennial assessment, and the said lots have been sold or offered for sale with reference to said street, streets, and/or map registered, then and in that case they shall determine the value in money of each lot thereof: Provided, that where lands located outside of an incorporated municipality have been subdivided into lots, and where more than five acres of any such subdivision remain unsold by the owner of such subdivision, such unsold lands may be listed as land acreage, according to its actual market value.

(9) After the board of equalization and review shall have completed its duties and adjourned and before the second Monday in August, the register of deeds, auditor, tax clerk, or other officer performing such duties shall prepare a final and complete scroll, roll, or list for each of the several townships, wards, and districts in the county, and for each race thereof, showing the names, in alphabetical order, of the several owners of real and personal property and the valuation fixed and determined by the board of equalization and review. Such scroll, roll, or list, together with the tentative scroll, roll, or list on which the values of property were fixed and determined, shall be filed as the fixed, determined, and permanent roll, either with the board of county commissioners, auditor, tax clerk, county accountant, or other similar officer. It shall be the duty of the register of deeds or other person making out the tax books to report to the commissioner of revenue a list of the persons, firms, or corporations, with their postoffice addresses, who are liable for Schedule "B" taxes. Said register of deeds or other person having possession of said tax list shall make and forward to the commissioner of revenue within thirty days after the return of said list a list of all persons, with their postoffice and business, which are liable to Schedule "B" taxes, and the revenue commissioner shall pay the said officer the sum of two cents per name, and said compensation to be in addition to any compensation said officer now receives. (1935, c. 417, s. 523.)

Cross Reference.—See general treatment in 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 603 et seq.

Purpose of Notice.—The notice required before the meeting in June is general, and has reference to a general revision of the lists of the whole county, with a view to an equal and uniform assessment among the several townships, and it is to give opportunity to all who may be dissatisfied with the valuation of their property to make complaint and have it corrected. Commissioners v. Atlanta, etc., Ry. Co., 86 N. C. 541, 544.

Valuation by Owner Subject to Review by Board.—The valuation upon personal property is made by the taxpayer when he lists his property, and is binding upon the list-taker, but it may be corrected by the county commissioner or board of equalization at the dates fixed by the statute, upon due notice to the taxpayer. Pocomoke Guano Co. v. New Bern, 172 N. C. 258, 260, 90 S. E. 202.

Revision without Notice Void.—Where the value of the solvent credits of a taxpayer are increased without due notice to him or his agent, such increase in value is a nullity. Wolfenden v. Commissioners, 152 N. C. 83, 67 S. E. 319.

Designated Date of Meeting Exclusive of Others.—See note of Wolfenden v. Commissioners, 152 N. C. 83, 67 S. E. 319.

Before Whom Complaint Made.—The complaint against excessive valuation must be made before the board of county commissioners, and the aldermen of the city have no jurisdiction to charge such valuation. Pocomoke Guano Co. v. New Bern, 172 N. C. 258, 261, 90 S. E. 202.

Requisites of Complaint.—The complaint in an action against a city to recover for taxes paid must allege that the valuation complained of is greater than that fixed by the county board of equalization, or the tax he was forced to pay was greater than it would have been if correctly computed at the legal rate on the valuation properly ascertained, or a demurrer thereto will be sustained. Pocomoke Guano Co. v. New Bern, 172 N. C. 258, 90 S. E. 202.

Decision of Board Final.—The county commissioners have exclusive original jurisdiction to grant relief against excessive valuation of property for taxation, and unless they proceed upon some erroneous principle, there is no appeal. Wade v. Commissioners, 74 N. C. 81 and cases cited.

When Duties and Powers Cease.—After the board of county commissioners has completed the revision of the tax lists as authorized by this section its duties and power as a revising board, cease and determine until the time appointed by the statute for the next succeeding year. Wolfenden v. Commissioners, 152 N. C. 83, 67 S. E. 319.

§ 7971(53). Board of commissioners not to change valuations.—(1) The board of county commissioners shall not increase, reduce, change, or modify in any manner whatsoever the valuations assessed and certified to by the board of equalization and review at their annual session for the current year and as appears on the tax list and assessment roll or scroll so certified by them, except clerical errors appearing on said lists and rolls. (1935, c. 417, s. 524.)

§ 7971(54). Appeal from board of equalization and review. — Any property owner, taxpayer, or member of the board of county commissioners may except to the order of the board of equalization and review and appeal therefrom to the state board of assessment by filing a written notice of such appeal with the board of county commissioners within sixty days after the first Monday in July of the current year, or after the adjournment of the board of equalization and review. At the time of filing such notice of appeal, the appellant shall file with the board of county commissioners a statement in writing of the grounds of appeal, and shall, within ten days after filing such notice of appeal with the board of county commissioners, file with the state board of assessment a notice of such appeal and attach thereto a copy of the statement of the grounds of appeal filed with the board of county commissioners. (1935, c. 417, s. 525.)

§ 7971(55). State board of assessment fix day and hear appeal.—The state board of assessment shall fix a time for the hearing of such appeal provided for in the preceding section, and shall hear the same in the city of Raleigh, or such other place within the State as the said board may designate; shall give notice of time and place of such hearing to the applicant, appellee, and to the chairman of the board of county commissioners at least ten days prior to the said hearing; shall hear all the evidence or affidavits offered by the appellant, appellee, and the board of county commissioners; shall reduce, increase, or confirm the valuation fixed by the board of equalization and review and enter it accordingly, and shall deliver to the clerk of the board of county commissioners a certified copy of such order, which valuation shall be entered upon the fixed and permanent assessment roll and shall constitute the valuation for taxation. (1935, c. 417, s. 526.)

§ 7971(56). County commissioners to levy tax; date of levy.—The boards of county commissioners of the several counties shall, not later than the second Monday in August, levy such rate of tax for general county purposes as may be necessary to meet the general expense of the county, not exceeding the legal limitation, and such rates for other purposes as may be authorized by law. (1935, c. 417, s. 527.)

§ 7971(57). Art. 6. Taxation of Banks, Banking Associations, and Trust Companies

§ 7971(59). Banks, banking associations and trust companies.—The value of shares of stock of banks, banking associations, and trust companies, shall be determined as follows:

(1) Every bank, banking association, industrial bank, savings institution, trust company, or joint stock land bank located in this State shall list its real estate and tangible personal property, except money on hand, in the county in which such real estate and tangible personal property is located, for the purpose of county and municipal taxation, and shall during the month of June of each year list with the state board of assessment, on forms provided by the said state board, in the name of and for its shareholders, all the shares of its capital stock, whether held by residents or non-residents, at its actual value on the first day of April of each year.

(2) The actual value of such shares for the purpose of this section shall be ascertained by adding together the capital stock, surplus, and undivided profits, and deducting therefrom the assessed value of such real and tangible personal property which such banking institutions shall have listed for taxation in the county or counties wherein such real and tangible personal property is located, together with an amount according to its proportion of tax value of any buildings and lands wholly or partially occupied by such banking associations, institutions, or trust companies, owned and listed for taxation by a North Carolina corporation in which such banking associations or institutions own ninety-nine per cent of the capital stock.

(3) In addition to the deductions allowed in item two of this section, there may be deducted from the items of surplus and undivided profits an amount not exceeding five per cent of the bills and notes receivable of such banking associations, institutions, or trust companies to cover bad or insolvent debts, investments in North Carolina state bonds, United States government bonds, joint-stock land bank bonds, and federal land bank bonds, at the actual cost of said bonds owned on land and continuously for at least ninety days prior to the first day of April of the current year. The value of such shares of capital stock of such banking associations, institutions, or trust companies shall be found by dividing the net amount ascertained above by the number of shares in the said banking associations, institutions, or trust companies.

(4) If the state board of assessment shall have reason to believe that the actual value of such shares of stock of such banking associations, institutions, or trust companies, as listed with it, is not the true value in money, then the said board shall ascertain such true value by such an examination and investigation as seems proper, and increase or reduce the value as so listed to such an amount as it ascertains to be the true value for the purposes of this section.

(5) The value of the capital stock of all such banking associations, institutions, and trust companies as found by the state board of assessment, in the manner herein described, shall be certified to the county in which such bank or institution is located: Provided, that if any such banking association, institution, or trust company shall have one or more branches, the state board of assessment shall make an allocation of the value of the capital stock so found as between the parent and branch bank or banks or trust company in proportion to the deposits of the parent and branch bank, banks, or trust company, and certify the allocated values so found to the counties in which the parent and branch bank, banks, or trust company are located.

(6) The taxes assessed upon the shares of stock of any such banking association, institutions, or trust companies shall be paid by the cashier, secretary, treasurer, or other officer or officers thereof, and in the same manner and at the same time as other taxes are required to be paid in such counties, and in default thereof such cashier, secretary, treasurer, or other accounting officer, as well as such banking association, institution, or trust company, shall be liable for such taxes, and in addition thereto for a sum equal to ten per cent thereof. Any taxes so paid upon any such shares may, with the interest thereon, be recovered from the owners thereof by the banking association, institution, or trust company, or officers thereof paying them, or may be deducted from the dividends accruing on such shares. The taxation of such shares of capital stock shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of this State, coming in competion with the business of such banking associations, institutions, or trust companies. (1935, c. 417, s. 600.)

As to return by private banks and bankers, see section 7921.

Where Capital Invested in State Bonds.—Bank stock is taxable at its full value after deducting the assessed value of the bank's real and personal property, though the capital of the bank be invested in North Carolina state bonds. Pullen v. Corporation Comm., 152 N. C. 548, 68 S. E. 155.

Listing Bank Stock.—This section changes the policy of the State as declared in ch. 234. sec. 42, Laws of 1917, as to the listing shares of bank stock by the holders where they reside, and fixing the situs of the shares for the purpose of county schools and municipal taxation at the residence of the owner, by omitting entirely the requirements of the Act of 1917 that the owner of the shares shall list them at the place of his residence, and by imposing this duty on the cashier of the bank, requiring him to pay the State, county, special and municipal taxes, the intent of the statute being to receive the bank to pay all taxes on the shares of its stock where it is located, and to relieve the owners from listing or paying them, except as he may be required to reimburse the bank. Planters Bank, etc., Co. v. Lumberton, 179 N. C. 409, 102 S. E. 629.

Deduction of Indebtedness.—In the taxation of shares of stock in a national bank, under the Revenue Act of 1885, the owner of such shares has the right to deduct from the assessed value thereof the amount of his bona fide indebtedness, as in case of other investments of moneyed capital. McAden v. Board, 97 N. C. 355, 2 S. E. 670.

Fixing Amount of Capital Stock.—Notes due a corporation are to be considered in estimating the value of the capital stock, and not as a separate item for taxation. Caldwell Land, etc., Co. v. Smith, 151 N. C. 70, 65 S. E. 641.

Assessment by Corporate Stock.—See 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 598 et seq.; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 560.

The imposition upon a corporation of a tax on its "capital stock" in addition to a requirement that it shall list for taxation and pay the taxes assessed on the shares of its stock-holders, does not make "double taxation." Board v. Blackwell Durham Tobacco Co., 116 N. C. 441, 21 S. E. 423.

The tax on shares of stock of a bank is payable by the bank under the provisions of this section, it being required that the cashier or other proper officer of the bank pay the tax to the municipality levying it. Rockingham v. Hood, 204 N. C. 618, 169 S. E. 191.

Effect of Failure to Follow Prescribed Procedure. — Where the method prescribed by this section for determining the value of bank stock for taxation, has not been followed, a bank may retain the board of commissioners of a county from listing its shares of stock for taxation. Virginia-Carolina Joint Stock Land Bank v. Board of County Com'rs, 207 N. C. 50, 175 S. E. 705.

§ 7971(60). Building and loan associations. — The secretary of each building and loan association organized and/or doing business in this State shall list with the local assessors all the tangible real and personal property owned on the first day of April of each year, including all cash on hand or in bank on that date, which shall be assessed and taxed as like property of individuals. (1935, c. 417, s. 601.)

Capital Stock as Property.—The capital stock of a building and loan association is property and hence is taxable according to the uniform ad valorem system established by the constitution. Loan Ass'n v. Commissioners, 115 N. C. 410, 20 S. E. 526.

The payment of a privilege tax under section 7880(64) does not bar the ad valorem tax imposed by this section. Loan Ass'n v. Commissioners, 115 N. C. 410, 20 S. E. 526.

§ 7971(61). Foreign building and loan associations.—(1) All foreign building and loan associations doing business in this State shall list for taxation during the month of June of each year with the state board of assessment, through their respective agents, its stock held by citizens of this State, with the name of the county, city, or town in which the owners of said stock reside. In listing said stock for taxation the withdrawal value as fixed by the by-laws of each such association shall be furnished to the said board, and the stock shall be value for taxation at such withdrawal value.

(2) Any association or officer of such association doing business in the State who shall fail, refuse, or neglect to so list shares owned by citizens of this State for taxation shall be barred from doing business in this State; any local officer or other person who shall collect dues, assessments, premiums, fines, or interest from any citizen of this State for any such association which has failed, neglected, or refused to so list for taxation the stock held by citizens of this State shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined and/or imprisoned in the discretion of the court.

(3) The value of the shares of stock so held by citizens of this State, as found by the state board of assessment, shall be certified to the register of deeds of the county in which such shareholders reside, shall be placed on the assessment roll in the name of such holders thereof, and taxed as other property is taxed. (1935, c. 417, s. 602.)

§ 7971(62). Obsolete.

§ 7971(63). State board of assessment to keep record of corporations, associations, banks; secrecy directed.—The state board of assessment shall prepare and keep a record book on which it shall enter a correct list of all the corporations, limited partnerships, joint-stock associations, banks, banking associations, industrial banks, saving institutions, and trust companies which it has assessed for taxation, and said record shall show the assessed valuation placed upon them; and the state board of assessment shall not divulge or make public any report of such corporation, partnership, or association required to be made to it by this section, except to the governor or his authorized agent, the solicitor of the State for the district in which such corporation, partnership, association, bank or banking association or trust company has its principal office, or his authorized agent, or by the board of county commissioners or their authorized agents, of such corporation, partnership, association as have their principal office in such county. For that purpose it may require the agents or officers of said association, company, co-partnership, or corporation to appear before it with such books, papers, and statements as it may require or may require additional statements to be made, and may compel the attendance of witnesses in case the board shall deem it necessary to enable it to ascertain the true cash value of such property. (1935, c. 417, s. 707.)

§ 7971(72). Manner of assessment.—Said state board of assessment shall first ascertain the true cash value of the entire property owned by the said association, company, co-partnership, or corporation from said statement or otherwise for the purpose, taking the aggregate value of all the shares of capital stock, in case shares have a market value, and in case they have none, taking the actual value thereof or of the capital of said association, company, co-partnership, or corporation in whatever manner the same is divided, in case no shares of capital stock have been issued: Provided, however, that in case the whole or any portion of the property of such association, company, co-partnership, or corporation shall be encumbered by a mortgage or mortgages, such board shall ascertain the true cash value of such property by adding to the market value of the aggregate shares of stock or to the value of the capital in case there should be no such shares, the aggregate amounts of such mortgage or mortgages, and the result shall be deemed and treated as the true cash value of the property of such association, company, co-partnership, or corporation. Such state board of assessment shall, for the purpose of ascertaining the true cash value of property within the State of North Carolina, next ascertain from such statements or otherwise the assessed value for taxation, in the localities where the same is situated, of the several pieces of real estate situated within the State of North Carolina, and not specifically used in the general business of such associations, companies, co-partnerships, or corporations, which assessed value for taxation shall be by said board deducted from the gross value of the property as above ascertained. Said state board of assessment shall next ascertain and assess the true cash value of the property of the associations, companies, co-partnerships, or corporations within the State of North Carolina by taking as a guide, as far as practicable, the proportion of the whole aggregate value of said associations, companies, co-partnerships as above ascertained, after deducting the assessed value of such real estate without the State which the length of lines of said associations, companies, co-partnerships, or corporations, in the case of telegraph and telephone companies, within the State of North Carolina bears to the total length thereof, and in the case of express companies and sleeping-car companies the proportion shall be in proportion of the whole aggregate value, after such deduction, which the length of lines or routes within the State of North Carolina bears to the whole length of lines or routes of such associations, companies, co-partnerships, or corporations, and such amounts so ascertained shall be deemed and held as the entire value of the property of said associations, companies, co-partnerships, or corporations within the State of North Carolina. From the entire value of the property within the State so ascertained there shall be deducted by the commissioners the assessed value for taxation of all real estate, structures, machinery, and appliances within the State and subject to local taxation in the counties as hereinbefore described in sections 7971(66) to 7971(71), inclusive, and the residue of such value as ascertained, after deducting therefrom the assessed value of such local properties, shall be by said board assessed to said associations: Provided, the state board of assessment shall also assess the value for taxation of all structures, machinery, appliances, pole lines, wire and conduit of telephone and telegraph companies within the State subject to local taxation, but land and buildings located thereon owned by said companies shall be assessed in like manner and by the same officials as though such property was owned by individuals in this State. (1935, c. 417, s. 708.)

§ 7971(73). Value per mile.—Said state board of assessment shall thereupon ascertain the value per mile of the property within the State by dividing the total value as above ascertained, after deducting the specific properties locally assessed within the State, by the number of miles within the State, and the result shall be deemed and held as value per mile of the property of such association, company, co-partnership, or corporation within the State of North Carolina: Provided, the value per mile of telephone companies shall be determined on a wire mileage basis. (1935, c. 417, s. 709.)

§ 7971(74). Total value for each county.—Said state board of assessment shall thereupon for the purpose of determining what amount shall be assessed by it to said association, company, co-partnership, or corporation in each county in the State through, across, and into or over which the lines of said association, company, co-partnership, or corporation extends, multiply the value per mile, as above ascertained, by the number of miles in each of such counties as reported in said statements or as otherwise ascertained, and the result thereof shall be by the clerk of said board certified to the chairman of the board of county commissioners, respectively, of the several counties through, into, over, or across which the lines or routes of said association, company, co-partnership, or corporation extend: Provided, the total value of street railways, electric light, power, and gas companies, as determined in section 7971(72) to be certified to each county, shall be the proportion which the assessed value of the physical property in each county bears to the total assessed value of the physical property in the State. All taxes due the State from any corporation taxes under the preceding sections shall be paid by the treasurer of each company direct to the commissioner of revenue. (1935, c. 417, s. 710.)

§ 7971(75). Companies failing to pay tax.—In case any such association, company, co-partnership, or corporation as named in this act shall fail or refuse to pay any taxes assessed against it in any county in this State, in addition to other remedies provided by law for the collection of taxes, an action may be prosecuted in the name of the State of North Carolina by the solicitors of the different judicial districts of the State on the relation of the board of commissioners of the different counties of this State, and the judgment in said action shall include a penalty of fifty per cent of the amount of taxes as assessed and unpaid, together with reasonable attorney's fees for the prosecution of such action, which action may be prosecuted in any county into, through, over, or across which the lines or routes of any association, company, co-partnership, or corporation shall extend, or in any county where such association, company, co-partnership, or corporation shall have an office or agent for the transaction of business. In case such association, company, co-partnership, or corporation shall have refused to pay the whole of the taxes assessed against the same by the state board of assessment, or, in case such association, company, co-partnership, or corporation shall have refused to pay the taxes or any portion thereof assessed to it in any particular county or counties, such action may include the whole or any portion of the taxes so unpaid in any county or counties; but the attorney general may, at his option, unite in one action the entire amount of the tax due, or may bring separate actions to each separate county or adjoining counties, as he may prefer. All collections of taxes for or on account of any particular county made in any such suit or suits shall be by said board accounted for as a credit to the respective counties for or on account of which such collections were made by the said board at the next ensuing settlement with such county, but the penalty so collected shall be credited to the general fund of the State, and upon such settlement being made the treasurer of the several counties shall at their next settlement enter credits upon the proper duplicates in their offices, and at the next settlement with such county report the amount so received by him in his settlement with the State, and proper entries shall be made with reference thereto: Provided, that in any such action the amount of the assessments fixed by said state board of assessment and apportioned to such county shall not be controverted. (1935, c. 417, s. 711.)

§ 7971(76). State board made appraisers for public utilities.—The state board of assessment herein established is constituted a board of appraisers and assessors for railroad, canal, steamboat, hydro-electric, street railway, and all other companies exercising the right of eminent domain. (1935, c. 417, s. 712.)

§ 7971(77). Returns to state board by railroad, etc., companies.—The president, secretary, superintendent, or other principal accounting officer within this State of every railroad, telegraph, telephone, street railway company, whether incorporated by the laws of this State or not, shall during the month of June of each year return to the said board of assessment and taxation, verified by the oath or affirmation of the officer making the return, all the following described property belonging to such corporation within the State, viz.: The number of miles of such railroad lines in each county in this State, and the total number of miles in the State, including the roadbed, right of way and superstructures thereon, main and sidetracks, depot buildings and depot grounds, section and tool houses and the land upon which they are situated and necessary to their use, water stations and land, coal chutes and land, and real estate and personal property of every character necessary for the construction and successful operation of such railroad, or used in the daily operation, whether situated on the charter right of way of the railroad or on additional land acquired for this purpose, except as provided below, including, also, if desired by the state board of assessment, pullman or sleeping cars or refrigerator cars owned by them or operated over their lines: Provided, however, that all machines and repair shops, general office buildings, storehouses and contents thereof, located outside of the right of way shall be listed for purposes of taxation by the principal officers or agents of such companies with the list-takers of the county where the real and personal property may be situated, in the manner provided by law for the listing and valuation of real and personal property. A list of such property shall be filed by such company with the state board of assessment. It shall be the duty of the register of deeds, if requested so to do by the state board of assessment, to certify and send to the said board a statement giving a description of the property mentioned in the foregoing proviso, and showing the assessed valuation thereof, which value shall be deducted from the total value of the property of such railroad company as arrived at by the board in accordance with section 7971(79), before the apportionment is made to the counties and municipalities. The register of deeds shall also certify to the board the local rate of taxation for county purposes as soon as the same shall be determined, and such other information obtained in the performance of the duties of their offices as the said board shall require of them; and the mayor of each city or town shall cause to be sent to the said board the local rate of taxation for municipal purposes. (1935, c. 417, s. 713.)

Section Constitutional.—This section is not in conflict with N. C. Const., Art. V, sec. 3, providing that such assessment be uniform and ad valorem. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. New Bern, 147 N. C. 165, 60 S. E. 925.

Taxation of Accessories, etc.—The railroad, right of way and superstructures thereon, main and side tracks, depot buildings and depot grounds, etc., by reasonable interpretation and under constitutional powers, are included in the language of this section, delegating to the Corporation Commission the power to assess railroad properties, and such are excluded from the power of local tax assessors. Atlantic, etc., R Co. v. New Bern, 147 N. C. 165, 60 S. E. 825.

The word "superstructures" covers all buildings situated on the right of way. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. New Bern, 147 N. C. 165, 169, 60 S. E. 925.

Province of Local Officers.—In assessing railroad property, local officers only list and assess such property as is off the right of way. Caldwell Land Co. v. Smith, 151 N. C. 70, 74, 65 S. E. 641.

§ 7971(78). Railroads; annual schedule of rolling stock, etc., to be furnished state board.—The movable property belonging to a railroad company shall be denominated, for the purpose of taxation, "rolling stock." Every person, company, or corporation owning, constructing, or operating a railroad in this State shall, during the month of June of each year, return a list or schedule to the state board of assessment which shall contain a correct detailed inventory of all the rolling stock belonging to such company, and which shall distinctly set forth the number of locomotives of all classes, passenger cars of all classes, sleeping cars and dining cars, express cars, horse cars, cattle cars, coal cars, platform cars, wrecking cars, pay cars, hand-cars, and all other kinds of cars, and the value thereof, and a statement or schedule as follows: (1) The amount of capital stock authorized and the number of shares into which such capital stock is divided; (2) the amount of capital stock paid up; (3) the market value, or, if no market value, then the actual value of shares of stock; (4) the length of line operated in each county and total in the State; (5) the total assessed value of all tangible property in the State; (6) and, if desired, all the information heretofore required to be annually reported by section seven thousand nine hundred and sixty-four of the Consolidated Statutes. Such schedule shall be made in conformity to such instructions and forms as may be prescribed by the board, and with reference to amounts and value on the first day of April of the year for which the return is made. (1935, c. 417, s. 714.)

The rolling stock of a railroad company, used upon the branch roads, or roads otherwise acquired, ascertained by a pro rata standard based on the relative length thereof to the whole time is liable to taxation. Wilmington, etc., R. Co. v. Alsbrook, 110 N. C. 137, 14 S. E. 652, construing prior law.

§ 7971(79). Railroads; tangible and intangible property assessed separately.—(a) At such dates as real estate is required to be assessed for taxation the said board of assessment shall first determine the value of the tangible property of each division or branch of such railroad or rolling stock and all the other physical or tangible property. This value shall be determined by a due consideration of the actual cost of replacing the property, with a just allowance for depreciation on rolling stock, and also of other conditions, to be considered as in the case of private property.

(b) They shall then assess the value of the franchise, which shall be determined by due consideration of the gross earnings as compared with the operating expenses, and particularly by consideration of the value placed upon the whole property by the public (the value of the physical property being deducted) as evidenced by the market value of all capital stock, certificates of indebtedness, bonds, or any other securities, the value of which is based upon the earning capacity of the property.

(c) The aggregate value of the physical or tangible property and the franchise, as thus determined, shall be the true value of the property for the purpose of an ad valorem taxation, and shall be apportioned in the same proportion that the length of such road in each county bears to the entire length of such division or branch thereof, and the state board of assessment shall certify, on or before the first day of September, to the chairman of the county commissioners and the mayor of each city or incorporated town the amounts apportioned to his county, city, or town; all taxes due the State from any railroad company shall be paid by the treasurer of each company directly to the commissioner of revenue within thirty days after notice of assessment and tax due, and upon failure to pay the commissioner of revenue as aforesaid, he shall institute an action to enforce the same in the county of Wake or any other county in which such railroad is located, adding thereto twenty-five per centum of the tax. The board of county commissioners of each county through which said railroad passes shall assess against the same only the tax imposed for county, township, or other taxing district purposes, the same as is levied on other property in such county, township, or special taxing districts. (1935, c. 417, s. 715.)

§ 7971(80). Railroads; where road both within and without state.—When any railroad has part of its road in this State and part thereof in any other state, the board shall ascertain the value of railroad stock, rolling stock, and all other property liable to assessment by the state board of assessment of such company as provided in the next preceding section, and divide it in the proportion to the length such main line of road in this State bears to the whole length of such main line of road and determine the value in this State accordingly: Provided, the board shall, in valuing the fixed property in this State, give due consideration to the character of roadbed and fixed equipment, number of miles of double track, the amount of gross and net earnings per mile of road in this State, and any other factor which would give a greater or less value per mile of road in this State than the average value for the entire system. On or after the first Monday in July the said board shall give a hearing to all the companies interested, touching the valuation and assessment of their property. The said board may, if they see fit, require all argument and communications to be presented in writing. (1935, c. 417, s. 716.)

§ 7971(81). Railroads; in cases of leased roads.—If the property of any railroad company be leased or operated by any other corporation, foreign or domestic, the property of the lessor or company whose property is operated shall be subject to taxation in the manner hereinbefore directed; and if the lessee or operating company, being a foreign corporation, be the owner or possessor of any property in this State other than that which it derives from the lessor or company whose property is operated, it shall be assessed in respect to such property in like manner as any domestic railroad company. (1935, c. 417, s. 717.)

§ 7971(82). Railroads; board may subpoena witnesses and compel production of records; violation a misdemeanor.—The state board of assessment shall have power to summon and examine witnesses and require that books and papers shall be presented to them for the purpose of obtaining such information as may be necessary to aid in determining the valuation of any railroad company. Any president, secretary, receiver, or accounting officer, servant or agent of any railroad or steamboat company having any proportion of its property or roadway in this State, who shall refuse to attend before the said board when required to do so, or refuse to submit to the inspection of said board any books or papers of such railroad company in his possession, custody, or control, or shall refuse to answer such questions as may be put to him by said board, or order touching the business or property, moneys and credits, and the value thereof, of said railroad company, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof before any court of competent jurisdiction shall be confined in the jail of the county not exceeding thirty days, and shall be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars and costs, and any president, secretary, accounting officer, servant, or agent aforesaid so refusing as aforesaid shall be deemed guilty of contempt of such board, and may be confined by order of said board, in the jail of the proper county until he shall comply with such order and pay the cost of his imprisonment. (1935, c. 417, s. 718.)

§ 7971(83). Taxes on railroads shall be a lien on property of the same.—The taxes upon any and all railroads in this State, including roadbed, right of way, depots, sidetracks, ties, and rails, now constructed or hereafter to be constructed, are hereby made a perpetual lien thereupon, commencing from the first day of April in each current year, against all claims or demands whatsoever of all persons or bodies corporate except the United States and this State, and the above described property or any part thereof may be taken and held for payment of all taxes assessed against said railroad company in the several counties of this State. (1935, c. 417, s. 719.)

§ 7971(84). Board of assessment to certify; when tax payable.—The state board of assessment shall, upon completion of the assessment directed in the preceding sections, certify to the register of deeds of the counties and the clerk of the board of commissioners of the municipalities through which said companies operate, the apportionment of the valuations as hereinbefore determined and apportioned by the board, and the board of county commissioners shall assess against such valuation the same tax imposed for county, township, town, or other tax district purposes, as that levied on all other property in such county, township, town, or other taxing districts. This tax shall be paid to the sheriff or tax collector of the county and municipality. (1935, c. 417, s. 720.)

§ 7971(85). Obsolete.

§ 7971(86). Canal and steamboat companies.—The property of all canal and steamboat companies in this State shall be assessed for taxation as above provided for railroads. In case any officer fails to return the property provided in this section, the board shall ascertain the length of such property in this State, and shall assess the same in proportion to the length at the highest rate at which property of that kind is assessed by them. (1935, c. 417, s. 721.)

Art. 8. General Provisions

§ 7971(87). Foreign corporations not exempt.—Nothing in this act shall be construed to exempt from taxation at its actual cash value any property situated in the State belonging to any foreign corporation. (1935, c. 417, s. 800.)

Determining Liability.—A nonresident corporation is liable for taxation for such proportion of its capital stock as the value of its tangible property within the state bears to the value of all its tangible property. Commissioners v. Old Dominion Steamship Co., 128 N. C. 558, 39 S. E. 18.

§ 7971(88). Defining actual value in money.—All property, real and personal, shall, as far as practicable, be valued at its true value in money. The intent and purpose of the tax laws of the State is to have all property and subjects of taxation assessed at their true and actual value in money, in such manner as such property and subjects are usually sold, but not by forced sale thereof, and the words "market value," "true value," or "cash value," whenever used in the tax laws of this State, shall be held to mean for what property and subjects can be transmuted into cash when sold in such manner as such property and subjects are usually sold. (1935, c. 417, s. 801.)

§ 7971(89). Clerk of cities and towns to furnish information as to valuation, taxes levied, and indebtedness.—The clerk or auditor of each city and town in this State shall annually make and transmit to the state board of assessment, on blanks furnished by the said board, a full, correct, and accurate statement showing the assessed valuation of all property, tangible and intangible, within his city or town, and separately the amount of all taxes levied therein by said city or town, including school district, highway, street, sidewalk, and other similar improvement taxes for the current year, and the purpose for which the same were levied; and shall annually furnish to the local government commission a complete and detailed statement of the bonded and other indebtedness of the city or town, the accrued interest on same, whether not due or due and unpaid, and the purposes for which said indebtedness was incurred. (1935, c. 417, s. 802.)

§ 7971(90). County indebtedness to be reported.—The auditor or county accountant of each county in this State shall make and deliver annually to the local government commission a full, correct, and accurate statement of the bonded and other indebtedness of his county, including township, school districts, and special tax districts, the purposes for which same was incurred, and all accrued interest, whether not due or due and unpaid. (1935, c. 417, s. 803.)

§ 7971(91). Correction of assessment roll.—If on the assessment roll of any county there is an error either in the name of the person assessed, or any taxable property shall not have been listed, or any error that has been made in the transfer, the name may be changed, the property entered on the roll, or the error corrected by the county supervisor of taxation after the roll has been returned to the clerk of the board of county commissioners; or such name may be changed, omission supplied, entry made, or error corrected by the board of county commissioners, upon satisfactory evidence of such error or omission, at a regular meeting of the board, and the board, upon reasonable notice, may require the person or persons affected to show cause, on a day to be appointed, why the error should not be corrected or omission supplied; and the board of county commissioners is empowered and authorized to correct any error arising from the fact that property appears on the assessment roll which has been conveyed to another before the listing period, or did not belong to the taxpayer on the first day of April of the current year. (1935, c. 417, s. 804.)

§ 7971(92). Discounts and penalties in payment of taxes.—All taxes assessed and/or levied by any county in this State, in accordance with the provisions of this act, shall be due and payable on the first Monday of October of the year in which so assessed and levied, and if actually paid in cash.

(1) On or before the first day of November next after due and payable, there shall be deducted a discount of one per cent.

(2) After the first day of November and on or before the first day of December next after due and payable, there shall be deducted a discount of one-half of one per cent.

(3) After the first day of December and on or before the first day of February next after due and payable, the tax shall be paid at par or face value.

(4) After the first day of February and on or before the first day of March next after due and payable, there shall be added to the tax a penalty of one per cent.

(5) After the first day of March and on or before the first day of April next after due and payable, there shall be added to the tax a penalty of two per cent.

(6) After the first day of April and on or before the first day of May next after due and payable, there shall be added a penalty of three per cent.

(7) After the first day of May and on or before the first day of June next after due and payable, there shall be added a penalty of four per cent.

(8) Should any taxpayer desire to make a prepayment of his taxes between July first and October first of any year, he may do so by making payment to the county or city accountant, city clerk, auditor, or treasurer, as the governing body may determine, and shall be entitled to the following discounts: if paid on or before July first, a deduction of three per cent; if paid on or before August first, a deduction of two and one-half per cent; if paid on or before September first, a deduction of two per cent; if paid on or before October first, a deduction of one and one-half per cent. Whenever any such payments are made, the auditor or county accountant shall certify the same to the clerk to the board of county commissioners, and the same shall be credited, together with the discount, to the taxes levied to the person, firm, or corporation, which credit shall include the discount upon the above basis. The board of commissioners of any county or municipality may by resolution adopted prior to the first day of October, one thousand nine hundred thirty-three, eliminate the penalties provided in this section on payment of taxes delayed beyond the first day of February, and may adopt as applicable to such county or municipality, in lieu of the discounts and penalties provided in this section, a schedule of discounts not in excess of the following:

On taxes paid on or before October first a discount of two per cent.

On taxes paid on or before November first a discount of one per cent.

On taxes paid on or before January first a discount of one-half of one per cent.

(9) The county commissioners of any county may order and direct the payment of taxes in installments of not less than twenty-five per cent of the amount due, at such time as the county commissioners may determine, the final installment to be made payable not later than May first, subject to the discounts and penalties as herein provided.

Provided, nothing herein shall be construed to repeal any of the provisions of House bill one thousand and sixty-two, relating to Pender county. (1935, c. 417, s. 805.)

§ 7971(93). Failure to list personal property a misdemeanor.—If any person, firm, or corporation whose duty it is to list any personal property whatsoever for taxation shall fail, refuse, or neglect to list same, shall remove or conceal same, or cause same to be removed or concealed, or shall aid or abet in removing or concealing property that should be listed, such person, firm, or corporation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1935, c. 417, s. 806.)

A former statute which made it a misdemeanor for "any person to evade the payment of taxes by surrendering or exchanging certificates of deposit in any bank of this State or elsewhere for nontaxpaying securities" did not apply to the purchase before the tax listing date of nontaxable United States or State bonds by funds subject to taxation, and thereafter selling the bonds and redepositing the amount, when the transaction was made in good faith and the bonds were bought and sold on the open market and the title thereto passed absolutely in both transactions, and the purchaser of the bonds could not be taxed on the purchase price. Trust Co. v. Nash County, 196 N. C. 704, 146 S. E. 861.

§ 7971(94). Penalty for failure to make report.—Every register of deeds, auditor, county accountant, supervisor of taxation, assessor, sheriff, clerk of superior court, clerk of board of county commissioners, county commissioners, board of aldermen, or other governing body of a city or town, mayor, clerk of city or town, or any other public officer, who shall wilfully fail, refuse, or neglect to perform any duty required, to furnish any report to the state board of assessment or local government commission as prescribed in this or the Revenue Act, or who shall wilfully and unlawfully hinder, delay, or obstruct said board in the discharge of its duties, shall for every such failure, neglect, refusal, hindrance, and/or delay, in addition to the other penalties imposed in this and the Revenue Act, pay to the state board of assessment and/or local government commission for the general fund of the State the sum of one hundred dollars ($100.00), such sum to be collected by said board or local government commission. A delay of thirty days to make and furnish any report required or to perform a duty imposed shall be prima facie evidence that such delay was wilful. (1935, c. 417, s. 807.)

§ 7971(95). Misdemeanor for refusal to allow inspection of records or to respond to subpoena.—Any person, persons, member of a firm, or any officer, director or stockholder of a corporation, who shall refuse permission to inspect any books, papers, documents, statements, accounts, or records demanded by the state board of assessment, the members thereof, or any duly authorized deputy provided for in this act or the Revenue Act, or who shall wilfully fail, refuse, or neglect to appear before said board in response to its subpoena or to testify as provided for in this act and the Revenue Act, shall, in addition to all other penalties imposed in this or the Revenue Act, be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined and/or imprisoned in the discretion of the court. (1935, c. 417, s. 808.)

§ 7971(96). Unconstitutionality or invalidity.—If any clause, sentence, paragraph, subsection, section, or any part of this act shall, for any reason, be adjudged by a court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, such judgment shall not affect, impair, or invalidate the remainder of this act, but shall be confined in its operation to the clause, sentence, paragraph, subsection, section, or part thereof directly involved in such judgment. No caption of any section or sections shall in any way affect the validity of this subchapter or any part thereof. (1935, c. 417, s. 809.)

§ 7971(97). Purpose of act.—It is the purpose of this act to provide the machinery for the listing and valuing of property, and the levy and collection of taxes, for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, and annually thereafter. (1935, c. 417, s. 810.)

§ 7971(98). Effective date of act. — This act shall be in full force and effect from and after its ratification. Ratified this the 11 day of May, A. D. 1935. (1935, c. 417, s. 812.)

Art. 9. Listing of Automobiles in Certain Counties

§ 7971(99). Listing by owner required.—Every owner of a motor vehicle in the counties specified herein shall list such motor vehicle for taxes in such counties at the same time residents of such counties are or may be required by law to list real and/or personal property for taxation. (1931, c. 392, s. 1.)

§ 7971(100). Commissioner of Revenue to furnish list of registered automobiles to counties. — The Commissioner of Revenue of the State of North Carolina, or other officer in charge of motor vehicle registration shall upon the ratification of this act furnish to the tax listing authorities of the counties specified herein or to the tax collectors thereof a list showing the names and addresses of all owners of motor vehicles in such counties as of May first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, and as soon after the first day of April in each year as the same can be prepared and furnished, a list showing the names and addresses of all owners of motor vehicles in such counties the first day of April in each year, together with the make, type and character of such motor vehicle, and the date of registration thereof, provided, the cost of preparing such lists shall be paid by the authorities of such counties. (1931, c. 392, s. 2.)

§ 7971(101). Listing by county authorities where owners fail to list.—The tax listing authorities of the counties specified herein shall compare said list of motor vehicle owners with the tax lists of such counties and if it appears that any owner of a motor vehicle has failed to list any motor vehicle registered in his name, it shall be the duty of such tax listing authorities or of the tax collectors of such counties to list such motor vehicle for purposes of taxation, together with any other property of such person, and the tax collectors of such counties shall collect the taxes thereon in the same manner as other taxes of such counties, including taxes for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one. (1931, c. 392, s. 3.)

§ 7971(102). Basis of tax valuation.—All motor vehicles shall be valued or appraised for purposes of taxation upon the rule or standard of valuation established by "The Automobile Blue Book," or any other standard of value which may be reasonable, equitable and just. (1931, c. 392, s. 4.)

§ 7971(103). Counties to which article applicable. — This article shall apply to the following counties: Alamance, Buncombe, Cabarrus, Camden, Caswell, Chowan, Currituck, Cleveland, Columbus, Durham, Gates, Guilford, Halifax, Harnett, Henderson, Hertford, Johnston, Iredell, Lee, Nash, Moore, McDowell, Orange, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Polk, Rowan, Rutherford, Swain, Wayne and Watauga. (1931, c. 392, s. 5.)

SUBCHAPTER III. COLLECTION OF TAXES

Art. 10. General Provisions

§ 7972. Subchapter to remain in force.—The provisions of this subchapter shall continue in force whether or not brought forward in subsequent acts to raise revenue or acts to provide for the assessment and collection of taxes, commonly called "revenue acts" and "machinery acts," unless and until expressly repealed or amended by, or clearly inconsistent with, subsequent legislation; it being the intention of the general assembly that this subchapter shall be a standing provision for the government of the matters embraced herein, and not to be repealed by implication because omitted in whole or in part from subsequent legislation on the subject of taxation. (Rev., s. 2849.)

§ 7973. Application and construction. — The provisions of this subchapter shall apply to all taxes as defined in this chapter, whether state, county, town, city, or other municipal subdivision; and shall be liberally construed in favor of, and in furtherance of, the collection of such taxes. (Rev., s. 2850.)

§ 7974. Terms defined.—Unless such construction or definition would be manifestly inconsistent with or repugnant to the context, the words and phrases following, whenever used in this subchapter, shall be construed to include in their meaning the definitions set opposite the same in this section:

1. "Tax," "taxes." Any taxes, special assessments or costs, interest or penalty imposed upon property or polls.
2. "He." Male, female, company, corporation, firm, society, singular or plural number.
3. "Real property." Real estate, land, tract, lot—not only the land itself, whether laid out in town or city lots or otherwise with all things therein, but also all buildings, structures, and improvements and other permanent fixtures of whatever kind thereon, and all rights and privileges belonging or in any wise appertaining thereto, and all estates therein.
4. "Sheriff." Every person who is by law authorized to collect taxes, either state or municipal. (Rev., s. 2851.)

§ 7975. Sheriff includes tax collector.—Whenever in this chapter a duty is imposed upon the sheriff of a county of which a tax collector has been or may be appointed, it shall be incumbent upon the tax collector to perform such office instead of the sheriff, and such tax collector shall collect all the taxes, have all the emoluments and be subject to all the penalties as provided in case of sheriffs in this chapter, and it shall be the duty of all persons having tax moneys in hand to account for and settle with such tax collector. (Rev., 5263; 1917, c. 234, s. 111; 1919, c. 92, s. 111.)

§ 7976. No taxes released. — No board of county commissioners, or council, or board of aldermen or commissioners of any city or town shall have power to release, discharge, remit, or commute any portion of the taxes assessed and levied against any person or property within their respective jurisdictions for any reason whatever; and any tax so discharged, released, remitted, or commuted may be recovered by civil action from the members of any such board at the suit of any citizen of the county, city, or town, as the case may be, and when collected shall be paid to the proper treasurer. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the proper authorities from refunding taxes as provided in this chapter; nor to interfere with the powers of any officers or boards sitting as a board of equalization of taxes; nor construed to exempt any taxpayer or property from liability for taxes released, discharged, remitted, or commuted in violation of this section. (Rev., s. 2854; 1901, c. 558, s. 31.)

Duty of Commissioner to Rescind.—It is not only competent, but the duty of county commissioners to rescind an order improvidently granted to release one from the assessment of a legal tax upon property. Lemly v. Commissioners, 85 N. C. 379.

§ 7976(a). Uncollected inheritance taxes remitted after 20 years.—All inheritance taxes levied by the State which remain uncollected twenty years or more after the death of the person upon whose estate said taxes were levied shall be, and they are hereby remitted. (1935, c. 483.)

§ 7977. Taxes payable in national currency.—Taxes are payable in the existing national currency, and shall be collected as prescribed by this chapter, except where otherwise provided by law. (Rev., s. 2853; Code, s. 3674; 1917, c. 231, s. 1; 1919, c. 90, s. 1.)

Legal Tender Exclusive Medium.—A tax collector has no right to receive anything in payment of taxes except legal tender money, unless the tax collector is instructed by competent authority to take county script, or other lawful indebtedness of the county for county taxes. Kerner v. Boston Cottage Co., 123 N. C. 294, 31 S. E. 718. Giving a note to the sheriff will not serve as payment. Id.

If the tax collector pays or accounts for the taxes under an agreement with the tax debtor to do so, this will discharge the tax and the lien; and he may recover the amount back from the tax debtor. Kerner v. Boston Cottage Co., 123 N. C. 294, 31 S. E. 718.

If a sheriff accepts a note in payment for taxes for the accommodation of the taxpayer, marking the records in his office paid and detaching the original receipt from the record, and thereafter pays said taxes to the county, neither such sheriff nor the bondsman can assert or establish a lien upon the land. United States Fidelity, etc., Co. v. McGougan, 204 N. C. 13, 16, 167 S. E. 387.

§ 7978. Enforcement of taxes payable to state treasurer.—Upon failure to pay the state treasurer within thirty days after the same shall have become due any tax which by law is made payable direct to the state treasurer, it shall be the duty of the state treasurer to enforce payment of the same, and to this end shall have the same rights of levy and sale of any property owned by any such person as given in section 7869 to the sheriffs in collection of schedule B taxes, and upon application by the state treasurer it shall be the duty of the sheriff in any county to levy upon and sell such property to satisfy the tax due, together with any costs and penalties. The state treasurer may also institute an action to enforce the same in the county of Wake or in the county in which the property is located. (Rev., s. 5266; 1917, c. 234, s. 116; 1919, c. 92, s. 116.)

§ 7979. Remedy of taxpayer for unauthorized tax.—Unless a tax or assessment, or some part thereof, be illegal or invalid or assessed for an illegal or unauthorized purpose, no injunction shall be granted by any court or judge to restrain the collection thereof in whole or in part nor to restrain the sale of any property for the nonpayment thereof; nor shall any court issue any order in claim and delivery proceedings or otherwise for the taking of any personalty levied on by the sheriff to enforce payment of such tax or assessment against the owner thereof. Whenever any person shall claim to have a valid defense to the enforcement of a tax or assessment charged or assessed upon his property or poll, such person shall pay such tax or assessment to the sheriff; but if, at the time of such payment, he shall notify the sheriff in writing that he pays the same under protest, such payment shall be without prejudice to any defenses or rights he may have in the premises, and he may, at any time within thirty days after such payment, demand the same in writing from the treasurer of the state or of the county, city, or town, for the benefit or under the authority or by request of which the same was levied; and if the same shall not be refunded within ninety days thereafter, may sue such county, city, or town for the amount so demanded, including in his action against the county both state and county tax; and if upon the trial it shall be determined that such tax or any part thereof was levied or assessed for an illegal or unauthorized purpose, or was for any reason invalid or excessive, judgment shall be rendered therefor, with interest, and the same shall be collected as in other cases. The amount of state taxes for which judgment shall be rendered in such action shall be refunded by the state treasurer. (Rev., s. 2855; 1901, c. 558, s. 30.)

For a case in which injunctive relief against the collection of taxes was granted, see Barber v. Benson, 200 N. C. 683, 158 S. E. 245.

Constitutionality.—This section is constitutional. Railroad Co. v. Reidsville, 109 N. C. 494, 13 S. E. 865.

Adequate Remedy at Law.—Under this section the taxpayer has an adequate remedy at law by first paying the tax and then suing to recover it. Henrietta Mills v. Rotherford County, 381 U. S. 121, 50 S. Ct. 270.

Exclusiveness of Statutory Remedy.—The taxpayer is restricted to the remedy provided by the statute, and, in order to avail himself of it, he must comply with all the requirements thereof. Wilson v. Green, 135 N. C. 343, 47 S. E. 469; Railroad Co. v. Reidsville, 109 N. C. 494, 13 S. E. 865. Assumpsit for money had and received does not lie to recover improperly listed taxables. Huggins v. Hinson, 61 N. C. 126. See also cases dealt with in 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 610; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 563.

Burden on Taxpayer.—Where a taxpayer seeks equitable relief against the alleged unlawful assessment of taxes against its property by the county authorities, it must allege and show that the amount claimed as excessive was in fact an excessive valuation. Norfolk-Southern R. Co. v. Board, 188 N. C. 265, 124 S. E. 560.

Payment under Protest.—Where the owner resists the payment of taxes as unlawful, he is required to pay them under his protest and sue to recover them. Carstarphen v. Plymouth, 168 N. C. 90, 118 S. E. 905; Galloway v. Board of Education, 184 N. C. 245, 114 S. E. 165. See also, State v. Snipes, 161 N. C. 242, 76 S. E. 243.

To test the legality of a tax imposed, the taxpayer should pay the same and sue to recover it in accordance with the provisions of this section. Southeastern Express Co. v. Charlotte, 186 N. C. 668, 120 S. E. 475.

Same—Necessary Allegations.—In order to recover money paid under protest to the sheriff as taxes on land within the county, it is necessary to allege that the taxes sought to be recovered were illegally imposed or unlawfully collected, and in the absence of such allegation an injunction against the sale of the land for the payment of the taxes due will be denied. Hunt v. Cooper, 194 N. C. 265, 139 S. E. 446.

Same—When Not Recoverable.—Where a corporation under Public Laws of 1925, ch. 102, submits its report to the State Board of Assessment and the board in accordance with the statute certifies to the register of deeds of the county where the property is situated the corporate excess liable for local taxation, the exclusive remedy of the corporation if dissatisfied with the report of the board is to file exceptions with the board in accordance with the statute, with the right of appeal from the board upon a hearing by it, and the corporation may not pay the tax under protest and seek to recover it under the provisions of this section. Manufacturing Co. v. Commissioners of Penders, 196 N. C. 744, 147 S. E. 284.

Same—Written Demand within Thirty Days.—The General Assembly, as far back as 1887, enacted that demand for the return of taxes must be made within thirty days after payment, and it was held in Railroad Co. v. Reidsville, 109 N. C. 494, 13 S. E. 865, and Teeter v. Wallace, 138 N. C. 264, 50 S. E. 701, that the statute applied to all taxes, that the remedy provided was exclusive, and that a failure to make demand within the time prescribed was fatal to the right to maintain an action to recover the tax. Blackwell v. Gastonia, 181 N. C. 378, 379, 107 S. E. 218. The requirement of making a demand within the prescribed time is mandatory. Railroad Co. v. Reidsville, 109 N. C. 494, 13 S. E. 865. It must also be made in writing. Bristol v. Morganton, 125 N. C. 365, 34 S. E. 512.

The requirement of demand is not confined to claim for refunding any particular taxes or taxes alleged to be invalid on any particular account. Railroad Co. v. Reidsville, 109 N. C. 494, 13 S. E. 865.

Same—Alleging Demand to Refund.—A complaint which fails to allege that the demand was made within thirty days is insufficient in demurrer. Railroad Co. v. Reidsville, 109 N. C. 494, 13 S. E. 865.

Same—Right to Sue.—Upon the failure of the county treasurer to refund within 90 days, the person so paying the tax may maintain an action against the county, including in his demand both the state and county taxes. Brunswick-Balke Co. v. Mecklenburg, 181 N. C. 386, 107 S. E. 317.

When the party has complied with the condition of this section he has a present right of action for the recovery of the tax without the necessity of having made the presentation and demands to the proper municipal authorities referred to in section 1330. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Brunswick Co., 178 N. C. 254, 100 S. E. 428; Sou. R. Co. v. Cherokee County, 177 N. C. 86, 97 S. E. 758.

Where a town ordinance imposes a license tax upon those selling at wholesale or peddling therein, and provides that its violation be punishable as a misdemeanor, the remedy to test the validity of the ordinance is to pay the tax under protest and bring action to recover it back, in accordance with this section, and equity will not enjoin the town from executing its threat to arrest for violations of the ordinance, it not appearing that the plaintiff would be irreparably damaged by the payment of the tax, and the legal remedy to recover the tax affording adequate relief. Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co. v. Sanford, 200 N. C. 467, 157 S. E. 432.

Exception—Injunction.—Injunction is the appropriate relief to prevent the collection of an illegal and invalid tax. This constitutes the exception in the statute and gives the taxpayer an additional remedy (See Purnell v. Page, 133 N. C. 125, 45 S. E. 534) to test the validity of a tax, Range Co. v. Carver, 118 N. C. 328, 331, 24 S. E. 352, but only the collection of the tax will be enjoined, until the merits of the controversy can be determined. North Carolina Railroad Co. v. Commr's, 82 N. C. 260.

Same—When Granted.—An injunction will lie to restrain the collection of taxes and to restrain the sale of property under distraint, for three reasons, to wit: (1) If the taxes or any part thereof be assessed for an illegal or unauthorized purpose. (2) If the tax itself be illegal or invalid. (3) If the assessment of the tax be illegal or invalid. Purnell v. Page, 133 N. C. 125, 45 S. E. 534; Sherrod v. Dawson, 154 N. C. 525, 528, 70 S. E. 739.

Same—Portion of Levy Enjoined.—The courts will not enjoin the collection of an entire levy of taxes if the portion conceded to be valid can be separated from the portion alleged to be unconstitutional. Railroad v. Commissioners, 148 N. C. 220, 61 S. E. 690.

Same—Failure to Give Taxpayer Notice.—An injunction will be granted to the hearing against the sheriff for collecting back taxes on a solvent credit, upon the ground that the plaintiff was not given notice of the assessment or opportunity to be heard before the board of assessors or the tribunal having the power to list or assess much property. Lumber Co. v. Smith, 146 N. C. 199, 59 S. E. 653. As to requirement of notice, see Editor's Note to section 7924.

Same—Same—Parties.—The sheriff is the proper party defendant, but the commissioner may make thereunder parties if they think the rights of the county require it. Lumber Co. v. Smith, 146 N. C. 199, 59 S. E. 653.

Same—Special Assessment for Improvements.—Where an owner of a town lot resists payment of an assessment of his property for the cost of paving or laying down a sidewalk on the ground of excessive cost, discrimination, or for other causes, the remedy of injunction is an improper one, for the owner should pay, under protest, the assessment levied and bring his action to recover it or the excess over a proper charge. Marion v. Pilot Mountain, 170 N. C. 118, 87 S. E. 53.

Same—Levy for School Purposes.—Injunctive relief is not available to the taxpayers of a county, where a tax levy for school purposes has been made, when it appears that under the levy complained of the moneys have been raised and distributed to the branches of government entitled thereto, some of which are not parties to this suit. Semble, the only remedy for the injured taxpayers is to pay the illegal tax under protest and sue to recover the same, as provided by statute. Galloway v. Board, 184 N. C. 245, 114 S. E. 165.

Applied in Hilton v. Harris, 207 N. C. 465, 177 S. E. 411.

Cited in Bottling Co. v. Doughton, 196 N. C. 791, 793, 147 S. E. 289; Seaboard Air Line Railway Co. v. Brunswick County, 191 N. C. 550, 152 S. E. 627; Henrietta Mills v. Rutherford County, 32 F. (2d) 570.

§ 7979(a). Refund of taxes illegally collected and paid into state treasury.—Whenever taxes of any kind are or have been through clerical error, or misinterpretation of the law, or otherwise, collected and paid into the state treasury in excess of the amount legally due the state, the state auditor shall issue his warrant for the amount so illegally collected, to the person entitled thereto, upon certificate of the head of the department through which said taxes were collected or his successor in the performance of the functions of that department, with the approval of the attorney-general, and the treasurer shall pay the same out of any funds in the treasury not otherwise appropriated: Provided, demand is made for the correction of such error or errors within two years from the time of such payment: Provided further, that claims which have arisen within the five years next preceding December 19, 1921, shall be presented and made within two years from said date. (Ex. Sess. 1921, c. 96.)

The difference between this section and § 7880(194) is this: When a refund is ordered, simply upon demand and notice by the taxpayer, no interest is allowed, but when the demand for a refund is denied, and the taxpayer is required to bring suit, and recovers, it is provided that "judgment shall be rendered therefor, with interest." This is a reasonable difference between the two statutes. Cannon v. Maxwell, 205 N. C. 420, 422, 171 S. E. 624.

Where the Commissioner of Revenue, with the approval of the Attorney-General, orders a refund of taxes paid under protest in accordance with this section, merely upon demand and notice of the taxpayer, no suit having been brought to recover the taxes, the taxpayer is not entitled to interest on the amount refunded. Id.

§ 7979(b). Refund to sellers of farm and dairy products.—The Commissioner of Revenue shall investigate particular cases brought to his attention and if and after such investigation he finds that the particular license tax has been collected of sellers of farm and dairy products to merchants, he is authorized and empowered upon such finding to refund the tax so collected to the individuals from whom it was collected. (1925, c. 56.)

§ 7979(c). Amendments of certain acts.—Wherever the words, "the Secretary of State" occur in chapter fifty-five of the Consolidated Statutes of one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, or sections twenty-eight, twenty-nine, thirty, thirty-two, thirty-three, thirty-four, thirty-five, and thirty-six of chapter two of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, or chapter ninety-seven of the Public Laws, extra session of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, or chapter two hundred and thirty-six of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, or in any law enacted, or to be enacted, at the present (one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five) session of the General Assembly, amending any of the laws enumerated herein, or relating to the subject matter thereof, they shall be stricken out and the words "Commissioner of Revenue" be substituted in their stead, to the end that the administration of all the laws relating to the licensing and taxing of motor vehicles, to the taxing of motor vehicle fuels, and to the protection of title of motor vehicles, may be committed to said Commissioner of Revenue. (1925, c. 158, s. 1; 1925, c. 258, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 7979(d). Transfer of duties to commissioner of revenue.—All the duties, authority and powers conferred upon the Secretary of State in the acts, recited in the preceding section or in any other act relating to the same subject, are hereby expressly conferred upon said Commissioner of Revenue. (1925, c. 158, s. 2; 1925, c. 258, ss. 1, 2.)

§ 7979(e). Building for department of revenue.—When the Department of Revenue shall have moved to the building authorized by chapter 70 of the Public Laws, Extra Session of 1924, then the board of public buildings and grounds shall, in their discretion, assign the present quarters of the Department of Revenue, to such uses as may appear proper, in order to use the same to the best interests of the State. (1925, c. 158, s. 4.)

§ 7979(f). Transfer of duties from insurance commissioner.—All the duties, powers and privileges which heretofore have been, or which may be, at this session of the General Assembly, imposed upon the Insurance Department and the Insurance Commissioner and his subordinates with reference to the collection of any taxes, licenses or fees, including any and all funds for the benefit of the State revenue, are hereby transferred to and imposed upon the Revenue Department and the Commissioner of Revenue, with the same force and effect as if the same had been originally imposed upon him. This section shall not deprive or take from the Insurance Department the imposition, computation, or assessment, or determination of the amount of any tax, license, or requirement to pay money for the benefit of the State, and the said Insurance Department shall continue to exercise said duties, powers and privileges, but when the same shall have been determined or fixed, or computed, or assessed, or due, the said Insurance Department shall immediately notify, in writing, the Revenue Department, stating the amount and the purpose thereof, and the firms, persons or corporations by whom the same may be due, and the said Revenue Department shall immediately proceed in the collection thereof, with all the powers, privileges and authorities heretofore imposed upon the Insurance Department. (1925, c. 158, s. 5.)

Cited in O'Neal v. Wake County, 196 N. C. 184, 189, 145 S. E. 28.

§ 7979(g). Collection of motor "bus" licenses, fees, and taxes.—All fees, taxes, licenses, or other charges, to be paid, pursuant to laws enacted at the present session of the General Assembly or hereafter, by any and all "bus" lines, "for hire" cars, jitneys, including all such carriers by whatever name called, shall be collected by the Commissioner of Revenue, and the words "Commissioner of Revenue" are hereby inserted in such laws, and all amendments thereto, in the place and stead of the words "Secretary of State," in so far as the collecting of such fees, licenses, taxes or other charges which are to be paid by the said "bus" lines, "for hire" cars, jitneys and such carriers, by whatever name called, is provided for, and the Corporation Commission shall perform all other duties therein provided for, including the approval and acceptance of forms and bonds, except such duties as are to be performed by the State Highway Commission, and which are prescribed in an act ratified February twenty, nineteen hundred and twenty-five, entitled "An act providing for the regulation, supervision and control of persons, firms, corporations and associations owning, controlling, operating or managing motor vehicles used in the business of transporting persons or property for compensation (Sections 2613(j) et seq.). (1915, c. 158, s. 5a.)

Art. 11. Rights of Parties Adjusted

§ 7980. Taxes paid in judicial sales and sales under powers.—In all civil actions and special proceedings wherein the sale of any real estate shall be ordered, the judgment shall provide for the payment of all taxes then assessed upon the property and remaining unpaid, and for the payment of such sums as may be required to redeem the property, if it has been sold for taxes and such redemption can be had; all of which payments shall be adjudged to be made out of the proceeds of sale. The judgment shall adjust the disbursements for such taxes and expenses of redemption from tax sales between the parties to the action or proceeding in accordance with their respective rights. And whenever any real estate shall be sold by any person under any power of sale conferred upon him by any deed, will, power of attorney, mortgage, deed of trust, or assignment for the benefit of creditors, the person making such sale must pay out of the proceeds of sale all taxes then assessed upon such real estate and such sums as shall be necessary to redeem the land, if it has been sold for taxes and such redemption is practicable. This section shall apply both to taxes and special assessments for paving, drainage, or other improvements; provided, that the person making such sale, whether under order of court or in the exercise of a power, shall be required, in cases where special assessments are payable in installments, to pay only such installments of special assessments as have become due at the date of such sale. The failure to comply with this section and pay such taxes or assessments shall not vacate or affect the lien of such taxes or assessments, but such lien shall be discharged only to the extent payment is actually made. (Rev., s. 2857; 1901, c. 558, s. 47; 1929, c. 231, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added the last two sentences to this section and provided that the act should not apply to sales already advertised at the time of its ratification, which was on March 18, 1929.

Purpose of Section.—The object of the law embraced in this and section 7982 is not only to preserve the property for the benefit of all interested parties, but to pass a clear title to the purchaser when it is sold. Smith v. Miller, 158 N. C. 98, 103, 73 S. E. 118. This being the true purpose, an order directing a commissioner to pay "all such taxes and assessments as are and have been levied" thereon is valid. Id.

Foreclosure of Mortgage.—Land sold on the foreclosure of a mortgage is liable for taxes assessed after the execution of the mortgage. Wooten v. Sugg, 114 N. C. 295, 19 S. E. 148.

The rule that taxes assessed at the death of decedent come within the third class for payment is not affected by the provisions of this section, requiring that taxes assessed against the property should be paid from the proceeds of foreclosure sale. Farmville Oil, etc., Co. v. Bourne, 205 N. C. 337, 171 S. E. 368.

Same—Respective Duty of Mortgagor and Mortgagee.—It is the duty of the mortgagor in possession to list the land for taxation and to pay to the proper officer the tax levied on it for each year, and it is incumbent on the mortgagee, the owner of the legal title, to see to it that this is done. Wooten v. Sugg, 114 N. C. 295, 297, 19 S. E. 148. Section 7981 provides a method whereby he may pay such taxes without loss to himself, and he should take advantage of their privilege to save his security, where the mortgagor fails to discharge the lien. Exum v. Baker, 115 N. C. 242, 243, 20 S. E. 448. But it seems that he does not have to do this even though his lien is secondary to the lien for taxes. Insurance Co. v. Day, 127 N. C. 133, 37 S. E. 158. As to lien of mortgagee who pays such taxes see sec. 7981 and note thereto.

Authority to Collect Arrears.—See 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 615 et seq.

Tax Sales of Realty.—See sec. 8010 and note thereto.

§ 7981. Tax paid by holder of lien; remedy.—Any person having a lien or encumbrance of any kind upon real estate may pay the taxes due by the owner thereof in so far as the same are a lien upon such real estate, and the amount of taxes so paid shall, from the time of payment, operate as a lien upon such real estate in preference to all other liens, which lien may be enforced by action in the superior court in term. The money so paid may also be recovered by action for moneys paid to his use against the person legally liable for the payment of such taxes. (Rev., s. 2858; Code, s. 3700; 1901, c. 558, s. 46; 1879, c. 71, s. 55.)

See section 7980 and the note thereto.

Lien of Mortgagee.—Money paid by a mortgagee to acquire a tax title on the mortgaged lands becomes a lien on the land. Cauley v. Sutton, 150 N. C. 327, 64 S. E. 3. But his purchase of the tax title does not deprive the mortgagor of his equity of redemption. Id. As to duty of mortgagee to pay taxes, see note of Wooten v. Sugg, 114 N. C. 295, 297, 19 S. E. 148, under sec. 7980.

§ 7982. Forfeiture by life tenant failing to pay.—Every person shall be liable for the taxes assessed or charged upon the property or estate, real or personal, of which he is tenant for life. If any tenant for life of real estate shall suffer the same to be sold for taxes by reason of his neglect or refusal to pay the taxes thereon, and shall fail to redeem the same within one year after such sale, he shall thereby forfeit his life estate to the remainderman or reversioner. The remainderman or reversioner may redeem such lands, in the same manner that is provided for the redemption of other lands. Moreover, such remainderman or reversioner shall have the right to recover of such tenant for life all damages sustained by reason of such neglect or refusal on the part of such tenant for life. If any tenant for life of personal property suffer the same to be sold for taxes by reason of any default of his, he shall be liable in damages to the remainderman or reversioner. (Rev., s. 2859; Code, ss. 3698, 3699; 1901, c. 558, s. 45; 1879, c. 71, ss. 53, 54.)

As to time and manner of redemption, see section 8038 and the note thereto.

Forfeiture Occurs before Tax-Sale Certificate Is Foreclosed.—By the express terms of this section, a life tenant forfeits his interest in lands to the remainderman when he fails and refuses to pay taxes thereon and suffers the lands to be sold for taxes and fails to redeem same within one year from such sale, and the contention that the estate of the life tenant is not forfeited until the tax-sale certificate is foreclosed and the land sold by a commissioner is untenable. Sibley v. Townsend, 206 N. C. 648, 175 S. E. 107.

When Remainderman May Exercise Right.—In Smith v. Miller, 158 N. C. 98, 102, 73 S. E. 118, the court raises the question whether or not the remainderman or reversioner, in operating under this section, must wait until there is a sale and the accumulation of costs and expenses, before he can exercise his right to redeem. The court says that the evident purpose of this section is that if the life tenant does not pay, and thereby exposes the land to sale, he may intervene and prevent a sale by paying the tax.

It is not required that a remainderman should settle for the taxes against the property before bringing action against the life tenant under this section, to have her estate forfeited for allowing the property to be sold for taxes and failing to redeem same within the time prescribed by law. Bryan v. Bryan, 206 N. C. 464, 174 S. E. 269.

What Interest Passes—Prior Law.—Under the old law a sale and conveyance by the sheriff, of lands of a life tenant for default in payment of taxes on his part, operated to convey only the interest of the life tenant and did not convey the interest of the remainderman. Smith v. Proctor, 139 N. C. 314, 51 S. E. 889. Under the present law the property itself passes and not simply the interest of the delinquent. This section, however, protects the right of the remainderman.

A widow who has a homestead allotted her in the lands of her deceased husband in lieu of dower is a tenant for life thereof, within the meaning of this section. Tucker v. Tucker, 180 N. C. 235, 237, 13 S. E. 5.

§ 7983. Remedies of cotenants and joint owners.—Any one of several tenants in common, or joint tenants or copartners shall have the right to pay his share of the taxes assessed or due upon the real estate held jointly or in common, or, if such estate has been sold for taxes, he may redeem his share by paying his proportionate part of the amount required for redeeming the whole. Where he has paid his share of the taxes or amount required for the redemption and the land has been or shall be divided by actual partition the share set apart to him in severalty shall be free from the lien of, and shall not be liable to be subjected in any manner to, the payment of the residue of taxes assessed upon such property; but such residue of taxes and the costs and penalties incident thereto shall be a lien upon the residue of such real estate, which residue shall be subjected to the satisfaction thereof; and when he has paid his share of the taxes, or amount necessary to redeem, and the real estate is sold under judicial proceedings for partition, his share of the proceeds shall not be diminished by disbursements for the residue of such taxes or for redeeming the property, and the costs and penalties incident thereto. Any such part owner in real estate shall have the right to pay the whole of the taxes assessed thereon and all costs and penalties incident to such taxes, and to redeem such real estate as a whole when it has been sold for taxes, and all sums by him so paid in excess of his share of such taxes, costs, and penalties and amounts required for redemption, shall constitute a lien upon the shares of his cotenants or associates, payment whereof, with interest, he may enforce in proceedings for partition, actual or by sale, or in any other appropriate judicial proceeding. When one tenant in common, joint tenant, or copartner shall have paid his proportionate part of the taxes, as allowed by this section, before a sale for taxes, the sheriff shall except his undivided interest from the sale and in the certificate of sale and deed for the property. (Rev., s. 2860; 1901, c. 558, ss. 13, 14, 47.)

Payment of Share by One Tenant.—One tenant in common may pay his or her part of the tax and let the other share go, and three years possession by the purchaser under the tax deed bars the former rightful owner, under section 441, sub-section 10. Ruork v. Harper, 178 N. C. 249, 100 S. E. 584.

Petitioners in a proceeding for sale of land for partition may not object to the allowance of a sum advanced by one of the parties to pay taxes on the property, as provided by this section, when there is no exception or appeal entered of record by the testator's administrator. Everton v. Rodgers, 206 N. C. 115, 173 S. E. 48.

Where One Tenant in Possession.—This section refers to cases where all the tenants are on the same footing, all or none being in possession. It does not authorize one tenant in common to take title for the whole tract, nor does it apply to a case where one tenant was in possession. Smith v. Smith, 150 N. C. 81, 83, 63 S. E. 177.

§ 7984. Taxes against infants and lunatics.—The lands of a minor, lunatic, or other person non compos mentis, shall in no case be liable to be sold for taxes, but the personal property of such persons may be levied upon and sold for all taxes due upon the estates of such persons; and their real estate shall be and remain subject to a lien for all such taxes, with interest thereon at six per centum per annum, from the time such taxes fall due until paid. (Rev., s. 2861; Code, s. 3691.)

The provisions of this section in so far as they relate to minors are now ineffective. Forsyth County v. Joyce, 204 N. C. 734, 169 S. E. 655.

§ 7985. Fiduciaries to pay taxes.—It shall be the duty of every guardian, executor, administrator with the will annexed, agent, trustee, receiver, or other fiduciary in whose care or control any property or estate, real or personal, may be, to pay the taxes thereon out of the trust funds in his hands, if any there be; and if he fail so to do he shall become personally liable for such taxes, and such liability may be enforced by an action against him in the name of the sheriff. If he permit such property to be sold by reason of his negligence to pay the taxes when he has funds in hand, he shall be liable to ward, principal, or cestui que trust for all actual damages incident to such neglect. This section shall not have the effect of relieving the estates held in trust under the control of fiduciaries from the lien of such taxes. (Rev., s. 2862; Code, ss. 3698, 1595; 1879, c. 71, s. 53; R. C., c. 54, s. 27; 1868-9, c. 201, s. 32; 1762, c. 69, s. 14.)

In General.—The method prescribed by this section for collection of taxes from a decedent's estate is a deduction from the ancillary method for collecting taxes. Sherrod v. Dawson, 154 N. C. 525, 529, 70 S. E. 739.

Art. 12. Tax Liens

§ 7986. No lien on personalty.—Taxes shall not be a lien upon personal property, except where otherwise provided by law, but from a levy thereon: Provided, that no mortgage or deed of trust executed upon personal property shall have the effect of creating a lien thereon superior to the lien acquired by a subsequent levy upon said property for the payment of the state, county, and municipal taxes, assessed against the same; but the sheriff or other tax collector levying upon such property, for the purpose of collecting the taxes due thereon, shall give due notice to the mortgagee or trustee of such property of the amount of such taxes at least ten days before the sale of the same, and such trustee or mortgagee shall have the right to pay said taxes and the costs incident to making the levy, when the sheriff or tax collector shall release the same to such trustee or mortgagee, and the amount so paid by said trustee or mortgagee shall constitute a part of the debt secured in the mortgage or deed of trust. (Rev., s. 2863; Code, s. 3682; 1911, c. 207.)

For full treatment, see 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 606 et seq.

Constitutionality.—This section is constitutional. Berry v. Davis, 158 N. C. 170, 73 S. E. 900.

Lien Attaches at Levy.—The lien for the payment of taxes assessed against personal property attaches only from the date of levy thereon, subject to certain exemptions specified in Const., Art. V, secs. 3 and 5. Carstarphen v. Plymouth, 186 N. C. 90, 118 S. E. 905.

Tax lien attaches to personalty only from levy, and owner is not liable for taxes for years prior to his possession. Coltrane v. Donnell, 203 N. C. 515, 166 S. E. 397.

Provision as to Notice Mandatory.—The requirements of this section that the sheriff give the mortgagee due notice of a sale is mandatory and not merely directory, and where no notice of the tax sale has been given the mortgagee of a duly registered mortgage, his right to the possession of the property is superior to that of the purchaser at the tax sale, but his possession is solely for the purpose of foreclosing the mortgage by sale of the property. Northern Mach. Works v. Hubbard, 202 N. C. 723, 164 S. E. 113.

Enforcement of Lien.—The express statutory methods for collecting taxes on personal property is by seizure and sale, and in the absence of some exceptional conditions rendering such remedies inadequate and unavailing, an executive officer holding the tax list and charged with the duty of collecting is confined to them; and the tax list being in the nature of an execution, he may not under ordinary conditions resort to the process of claim and delivery in enforcement of his claim. Berry v. Davis, 158 N. C. 170, 73 S. E. 900. Shelby v. Tiddy, 118 N. C. 792, 24 S. E. 521. Claim and delivery is inappropriate due to the fact that no lien for taxes is given by this section or personal property before actual levy is made. Cherokee v. McClelland, 179 N. C. 127, 130, 101 S. E. 492.

Where Lien Subordinate to Deed of Assignment.—The sheriff and tax collector of a county are not entitled to priority of payment of taxes by the trustee of a corporation under a deed of assignment over creditors who reduced their claims to judgment and had execution issued before the assignment was executed and recorded, the property being personal and they having failed to levy for the taxes due them, respectively. Alexander v. Farrow, 151 N. C. 320, 66 S. E. 209.

§ 7987. Lien on realty.—The lien of the State, County and Municipal taxes levied for any and all purposes in each year shall attach to all real estate of the taxpayer situated within the county or other municipality in which the tax list is made and placed in the hands of the duly authorized officer for collection, which lien shall attach on the first day of June, annually, and shall continue until such taxes, with any and all penalties and cost which shall accrue thereon, shall be paid, and which lien shall be preferred to any other lien upon the real estate of the taxpayer within the county, whether the same shall have attached prior or subsequent to the said first day of June; and which said lien shall be preferred to the inchoate right of dower of the wife of the taxpayer or to the curtesy initiate of the husband of the taxpayer. The word "taxpayer" herein used, is hereby defined to mean and include the person who has or should have listed the said property for taxation. All persons who have any claim to or interest in said land so listed, are hereby charged with the notice that the said land should be and is listed for taxation, that the taxes are due thereupon, and that the taxes are paid or not paid, as the case may be, and with notice of all the remedies provided by law for the sale of property for the purpose of collecting the taxes, whether such persons shall have actual notice or not. Provided: That when more than one tract or lot of land is returned, charged or assessed against a tax-payer in any county, municipality, or other subdivision of the State, that the sheriff or other tax collecting officer of any such county, municipality or other subdivision of the State, at any time prior to the commencement of the advertisement of such property for sale for taxes prior to the sale of said property for taxes and upon the full payment of the taxes charged and assessed against any particular tract or lot of land and the ratable share of the tax charged and assessed against the personal property of the party in whose name the land is charged and assessed, shall release said tract or lot of land from said tax lien. However, the tax collector or sheriff shall require the owner, upon his application for a release, to pay all of his personal property tax charged on the return.

Provided further: That in all cases where tracts of land have been subdivided into lots, but have been returned, charged and assessed as a whole tract, that the sheriff or other tax collecting officer, together with the auditor, county accountant or other agency performing the duties of such auditor or accountant, shall, upon application of any person interested, make an investigation and determine the pro-rata part of said assessment justly applicable to any lot or lots, and shall thereupon, upon the payment of the tax, fairly ascertained to be due against such lot or lots, together with a ratable share of the tax charged against the personal property of the party in whose name the land is charged and assessed at any time prior to the commencement of the advertisement of such property for sale for taxes prior to the sale of said property for taxes, release the said lot from the tax lien. However, the tax collector or sheriff shall require the owner, upon his application for a release, to pay all of his personal property tax charged on the return.

And further provided: That in all cases where any sheriff or other tax collecting officer of any county, municipality or other subdivision of the State has collected from any tax-payer or other interested party the pro rata tax charged and assessed against any particular tract or lot of land and has thereupon released said tract or lot of land from the lien of the other taxes charged and assessed against the person in whose name said tract or lot of land so released was charged, the act of said sheriff or other tax collecting officer in releasing said land from the lien of the remaining taxes charged and assessed against the person in whose name the land was charged and assessed is hereby approved, confirmed and validated. (Rev., s. 2864; Code, s. 3682; 1879, c. 71, s. 26; 1929, c. 306, s. 1; 1931, c. 83.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 inserted the above section in lieu of the former one, and provided that it should be construed as if it had been enacted and ratified on March 9, 1927.

The Act of 1931 added the provisos to this section.

The provision in Public Laws of 1931, ch. 389 (see Editor's Note to § 8037), joining the county and city or town in a foreclosure suit for the tax "shall be apportioned by the court to the parties according to their respective liens" must be construed in pari materia with this section. Saluda v. Polk County, 207 N. C. 180, 187, 176 S. E. 298.

Construing ch. 389, Public Laws of 1931, with this section, the liens for taxes due a city and the liens for taxes due the county against property, situated in the city within the county are on a parity and are equal, and the proceeds of sale of the property in a tax foreclosure suit instituted by the city and county should be applied equally to the payment of city and county tax liens against the property, and the remainder, if any, should then be applied to the payment of a lien for street assessments against the property levied by the city. Id.

Nature of the Lien.—The lien is in rem and not in personam, and the land upon which it attaches is the sole security for the satisfaction thereof. Commission v. Epley, 190 N. C. 672, 673, 130 S. E. 497.

The tax on shares of stock of a bank is a lien upon the land. Rockingham v. Hood, 204 N. C. 618, 169 S. E. 191.

Superior to Right of Mortgagor and Mortgagee.—The lien of a tax on land, or against a person without notice, is generally to the right of either mortgagor or mortgagee. Wooten v. Sugg, 114 N. C. 295, 19 S. E. 148. Therefore, the mortgagee should avail himself of the privilege given by sec. 7981. See cases dealt with in 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 607.

Bona Fide Purchaser Not Protected.—The court in Vaughan v. Lacy, 188 N. C. 123, 125, 123 S. E. 478, after stating that by virtue of this section the lien of the taxes for each year attaches to the land on 1 June says, "It is immaterial that the plaintiff is a bona fide purchaser of the land for value and without actual notice."

It is lawful for the taxing authorities under the provisions of this section to apportion the taxes upon application of the owners even though the application is made after the land has been sold for taxes but before foreclosure of the tax certificate, and a judgment ordering that the lot optioned be released from the tax lien upon the payment of the taxes apportioned against it together with the payment of the personal property tax assessed against the owners will be upheld, the statute applying to cases in which a subdivision of property has been made and the land assessed as an entity and it being immaterial whether the subdivision was made before or after the adoption of the amendment of 1931. Bryan v. Craven County, 204 N. C. 728, 169 S. E. 625.

Where an option on certain land is executed to the Government on 20 May of a certain year and is followed by deed delivered to the Government 29 July, the land is subject to the taxes for the year. Bryan v. Craven County, 204 N. C. 728, 169 S. E. 625.

Referred to in Berry v. Davis, 158 N. C. 170, 73 S. E 900; American Agricultural Chemical Co. v. Brock, 198 N. C. 342, 344, 151 S. E. 869.

§ 7987(a). Interested party paying taxes after sale, subrogated to rights of governmental agency as to other tracts.—Where any sheriff or tax collector has sold, or shall sell one or more pieces or parcels of real estate for taxes of any person, firm or corporation for the taxes on said property and other property listed by said tax-payer on the same return, and such taxes shall have been or may be paid by another than the person listing the property for taxation, either as owner, or other interested person, firm or corporation, and such person, firm or corporation so paying tax has taken or shall take an assignment of the tax sales certificates and the lien of the taxes thereby represented, either to himself or to a trustee, for the benefit of such person, firm or corporation, then in that event, the person, firm or corporation so paying said taxes shall be subrogated to the lien of the governmental agency levying the tax for which said real estate has been or may be sold, and such person, firm or corporation shall have a cause of action for contribution from the other pieces or parcels of real estate listed on the return upon which the tax was levied for such proportion of the taxes so paid as the tax value of such pieces or parcels of real estate bear to the whole tax value of the property embraced in said return. Provided: That nothing herein contained shall be construed to abridge or shorten the time in which a tax payer whose land has been, or may hereafter be, sold for taxes, has to redeem said land from said sale. (1931, c. 83.)

§ 7987(b). Interested party may redeem part of land.—Where more than one piece or parcel of real estate has been listed for taxes and the sheriff or tax collector charged with the collection of the tax levied by the governmental agency to whom the return is or has been made shall have advertised or sold one or more pieces or parcels of real estate so returned for such taxes and such property has been bid in at the tax sale by the governmental agency levying the tax, such governmental agency is hereby authorized and directed to issue a receipt for taxes to any owner, or other interested person of or in property who shall pay the proportionate amount of tax for which said property has been advertised or sold, plus cost and penalties due by the property which such payer owns or has an interest in, the amount being determined by the proportion which the tax value of the property upon which the tax is paid bears to the whole tax value of the property embraced in said return: Provided, however, that if less than all of the property listed has been advertised or sold, then in that event nothing herein shall be construed to permit the release of any piece(s) or parcel(s) of real estate already sold for taxes or whose advertisement for sale for taxes shall have been commenced by the sheriff or tax collector charged with the collection of such taxes, until the whole of the taxes for which said piece(s) or parcels(s) of real estate has been advertised or sold shall have been paid. (1931, c. 83.)

§ 7988. Lien of agent paying tax.—When property is assessed to any person as agent for another or in a representative capacity, such person shall have a lien upon such property or any property of his principal in his possession until he is indemnified against the payment thereof, or, if he has paid the tax, until he is reimbursed for such payment. (Rev., s. 5254; 1917, c. 234, s. 84; 1919, c. 92, s. 84.)

§ 7989. Tax lien on railroad property.—The taxes upon any and all railroads in this state, including roadbed, right of way, depots, sidetracks, ties and rails, now constructed or hereafter to be constructed, are hereby made a perpetual lien thereupon, commencing from the first day of May in each current year, against all claims or demands whatsoever of all persons or bodies corporate, except the United States and this state; and the above described property or any part thereof may be taken and held for payment of all taxes assessed against such railroad company in the several counties in this state. (Rev., ss. 2865, 5296; 1917, c. 234, s. 98; 1919, c. 92, s. 98.)

§ 7990. Tax lien enforced by action to foreclose.—A lien upon real estate for taxes or assessments due thereon may be enforced by an action in the nature of an action to foreclose a mortgage, in which action the court shall order a sale of such real estate, or so much thereof as shall be necessary for that purpose, for the satisfaction of the amount adjudged to be due on such lien, together with interest, penalties, and costs allowed by law, and the costs of such action. When such lien is in favor of the state or county, or both, such action shall be prosecuted by and in the name of the county; when the lien is in favor of any other municipal corporation the action shall be prosecuted by and in the name of such corporation. When such lien is in favor of any private individual or private corporation holding a certificate of tax sale or deed under a tax sale, whether as original purchaser at a tax sale or as assignee of the county or other municipal corporation or of any other holder thereof, such action shall be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest. (Rev., s. 2866; 1901, c. 558, ss. 42, 43.)

See § 8028 and note thereto.

As to foreclosure of tax-sale certificate see section 8037 and the note thereto.

Summary Proceeding Unnecessary.—Where the Legislature has authorized a municipality to collect back taxes, and in an action for that purpose it appears that the taxes, of the defendant are due, were properly assessed against lots of land within the limits of the municipality subject to the lien therefor, it is not necessary that the plaintiff should first have resorted to the summary method of levy and sale, for recourse may be had directly by suit to foreclose the lien, under this section. Wilmington v. Moore, 170 N. C. 52, 86 S. E. 775. Commission v. Epley, 190 N. C. 672, 130 S. E. 497.

Prescribed Remedy Optional with State.—The fact that the Revenue Act prescribes a specific remedy for the collection of taxes does not restrict the State to pursue that method, nor preclude it from seeking the aid of the Superior Court through a creditor's suit. The specific remedy pointed out restricts only the officers who collect only the revenue and not the sovereign. State v. Georgia Co., 112 N. C. 34, 17 S. E. 10.

Statute of Limitation.—The action provided by this section to collect the assessment is as one upon a judgment to foreclose a lien and is not barred within ten years. The statute providing that an action or a liability created on statute shall be brought within three years has no application. Drainage District v. Huffstetler, 173 N. C. 523, 525, 92 S. E. 368. This is on the well settled principle that statutes of limitation, even if applicable to a given case, do not apply to the sovereign unless expressly named therein. New Hanover County v. Whitman, 190 N. C. 332, 334, 129 S. E. 808.

Whether such lien be a plain lien arising from the bare purchase at the sale or payment of taxes or such as may be evidenced by a certificate of sale executed by the proper officers, the sovereign may proceed under this section to foreclose the lien, in which event no statute of limitations is applicable. Logan v. Griffith, 205 N. C. 580, 582, 172 S. E. 348.

Same—Foreclosure by County.—Where a county proceeds to foreclose a tax lien under the provisions of this section, as distinguished from an action to foreclose the tax-sale certificate, instead of under those of section 8037, which it may elect to do, it proceeds as a part of the state sovereignty, and there is no bar of the statute of limitations, that of section 8037 not applying. New Hanover County v. Whitman, 190 N. C. 332, 129 S. E. 808.

Same—Same—Complaint.—Where a county brings suit to foreclose a tax lien on the lands of the taxpayer and draws its complaint according to the provisions of section 7990, other taxes due after the commencement of the action are properly included in the judgment therein rendered in its favor. New Hanover County v. Whiteman, 190 N. C. 332, 129 S. E. 808.

Taxes Not Subject to Set-Off or Counterclaim.—Taxes are not debts in the ordinary sense of the word and they do not rest upon contract or consent of the tax payer. Pleas of set-off and counter-claim are not allowed because to do so would delay the collection and payment of taxes, and would deprive the Government of means of performing its functions. Commissioners v. Hall. 177 N. C. 490, 491, 99 S. E. 372; Graded School v. McDowell, 157 N. C. 316, 72 S. E. 1083.

Amount of Interest Recoverable.—Since no note of interest is fixed by the section, only six per cent interest can be recovered. Wilmington v. State, 122 N. C. 395, 30 S. E. 12.

§ 7990(1). Provision for facsimile signatures of proper officers on pleadings in tax forclosure actions.—In the institution and the prosecution of all suits by any county, city or town for the sale of any land or other property for failure to pay taxes, either under laws now in force or those hereafter enacted, and in the giving of any notice preliminary to the institution of such suits, it shall be sufficient and a compliance with law that where the clerk of the court, the county accountant, the sheriff or other officer or attorney is required to sign summons, complaints, verifications of pleadings, judgments or other papers in said suits or notices, that the name of said officer or attorney respectively may be affixed to said document, respectively, by stamping thereon the facsimile of the signature of said officer or attorney with a rubber stamp by any person authorized by said officer or attorney to do so; and said documents so stamped shall have the same legal force and effect as if said signature had been written by said officer or attorney with his own hand, and all such signatures stamped as aforesaid to said documents shall be conclusively presumed to have been so stamped at the direction of the officer or attorney whose signature it purports to be. (1935, c. 321.)

§ 7991. Lien of endorsed tax list.—Every tax list before being placed in the hands of the sheriff shall be endorsed by the authorities levying the taxes with an order for their collection. The tax list, when thus endorsed, shall have the force and effect of a duly docketed judgment and of an execution against the real and personal property of the persons charged with taxes on such list. (Rev., ss. 2856, 5238; Code, s. 3681; 1917, c. 234, s. 83; 1919, c. 92, s. 83.)

Cross Reference.—See generally, 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 624 et seq., 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 567; as to form of endorsement see section 7930; as to creation and requisites of lien on personalty see section 7986 and the note thereto.

Tax List Authority of Sheriff.—The sheriff or tax collector is not authorized to enforce the tax lien of his own motion. The only authority he has for its enforcement is the tax list with the endorsement thereon. Peebles v. Taylor, 121 N. C. 38, 42, 27 S. E. 999. As to exhibiting tax list upon collection, see note of State v. Lutz, 65 N. C. 503, under section 7992.

Tax List as Evidence.—See note of Hamilton v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 150 N. C. 193, 63 S. E. 730, under section 7904. See also, State v. Champion, 116 N. C. 987, 21 S. E. 700.

Tax List as Judgment.—The tax list, placed in the hands of the sheriff for collection, has the force of a judgment and execution. Wilmington v. Sprunt, 114 N. C. 310, 312, 19 S. E. 348. But this effect exists only as between the sheriff and the tax-payer. Davis v. Blackburn, 117 N. C. 383, 385, 23 S. E. 321.

Same—Seizure Thereunder.—The sheriff is authorized to make seizure under the tax list as fully as an execution issued from a court of competent jurisdiction. State v. Lutz, 65 N. C. 503. But the sheriff can sell or distrain only that property which actually appears on the tax list and which has been duly assessed. Peebles v. Taylor, 121 N. C. 38, 27 S. E. 999.

Art. 13. Time and Manner of Collection

§ 7992. Sheriff to collect taxes due; duty to furnish certificate of taxes, etc., against land.—Whenever any taxes shall be due and unpaid, the sheriff, who by law is required to collect the same, shall, immediately proceed to collect them as prescribed by this chapter. And the sheriff, auditor, county accountant or other tax collecting officer of any county or municipal corporation of this State shall, at the request of the owner or occupant of any land within the boundaries of said corporation, county or any person having a lien thereon or interest or estate therein or the duly authorized agent or attorney of such person, furnish to such applicant a written certificate of the amount of the taxes and assessments due or levied upon said land for the current year, if ascertained, and for all prior years including any amount that may be necessary to redeem the land from sale for taxes or assessments, with all interest, costs and charges thereon, provided such information is available in said office. Any such officer failing or refusing to furnish such certificate upon request made in good faith as herein provided shall be liable for a penalty of fifty dollars ($50.00). (Rev., s. 2867; Code, s. 3686; 1872-3, c. 115, s. 28; 1929, c. 330, s. 1.)

Dig. 632 et seq., 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 568 et seq. As to endorsed tax list as constituting a lien, see § 7991 and note thereto. As to local modification as to Mitchell County, see § 1389(a) and note thereto.

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 added all of this section except the first sentence.

Resignation of Sheriff.—If a sheriff resign his office he is still bound as tax collector and he still has ample authority to perform such duty. Perry v. Campbell, 63 N. C. 257, 258.

When Sheriff Becomes Insane.—Upon the prima facie ascertainment of the insanity of the sheriff, and the failure of the commissioner to declare his office vacant, which they may do, the coroner is authorized to perform the duties of the sheriff proper. Greer v. Ashevile, 114 N. C. 678, 19 S. E. 635. But this does not cost upon the coroner the right to collect the taxes which went to the sheriff's bondsmen for the current list, and after the declaration of vacancy of the sheriff's office the duty devolves upon a tax collector chosen by the county commissioners. Somers v. Board, 123 N. C. 582, 584, 31 S. E. 873.

Upon the declaration of insanity the sureties of the sheriff have no more right than would have gone to them upon his death, that is, to collect the tax list then in his hands. Perry v. Campbell, 63 N. C. 257; State v. Somers, 96 N. C. 467, 2 S. E. 161. As to right of sureties upon death of sheriff, see following section.

After Expiration of Office.—See 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 612.

Taxes of Year Prior to Election.—A sheriff who was elected in January, 1820, and to whom, before the 1st of April ensuing the tax Lists of 1819 were delivered, is bound for their collection. Dickel v. Alley, 12 N. C. 453.

Taxes on Unlisted Property.—After making an assessment for taxes on unlisted property the county commissioner have implied power to authorize collection by the sheriff. Caldwell Land etc., Co. v. Smith, 146 N. C. 199, 59 S. E. 653.

Exhibiting Tax List Not Required. — A deputy sheriff, who in his deputation is authorized to collect State and county taxes out of the persons named in said deputation, is not required to exhibit a certified copy of the tax lists from the officer required to make out said list, before he distrains property to enforce the payment thereof. State v. Lutz, 65 N. C. 503.

Applied in Braswell v. Richmond County, 206 N. C. 74, 173 S. E. 41.

§ 7993. Sureties of sheriff may collect, when.—If any sheriff shall die during the time appointed for collecting taxes, his surities may collect them, and for that purpose shall have all power and means for collecting the same from the collectors and taxpayers as the sheriff would have had, and shall be subject to all the remedies for collecting and settling the taxes, on their bond or otherwise, as might have been had against the sheriff if he had lived. (Rev., ss. 2868, 5264; 1917, c. 234, s. 112; 1919, c. 92, s. 112.)

Cross Reference.—See general treatment in 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 613; see also the note placed under section 7992 together with reference there made.

§ 7994. Payment of taxes.—1. When due. All taxes shall be due on the first Monday in October in each year.

2. Discounts and penalties in payments. On all taxes paid in the months of October and November a discount shall be given to the taxpayer of one per cent. All taxes paid in the month of December shall be paid at the net amount charged, and from and after the first day of January a penalty of one per cent per month shall be charged and collected by the sheriff or tax collector; that is to say, that on all taxes paid in the month of January, after the first day of January, a penalty of one per cent shall be added on the taxes paid, and in the month of February, after the first day of February, a penalty of two per cent shall be added, and an additional penalty of one per cent for each additional month of delay in settlement of same. Upon all taxes paid into the state treasury and upon all county taxes paid into the county by any sheriff or tax collector on or before the fifth day of December, the state auditor and county treasurer shall credit against the total amount of taxes charged against any such sheriff or tax collector a discount of one per cent, and upon all payments made into the state treasury and upon all county taxes paid into the county treasury by the sheriff or tax collector between the fifth day of December and the fifth day of January payments shall be credited at the net amount of such payments. Upon all taxes charged against any such sheriff or tax collector and remaining unpaid on the fifth day of January a penalty of one per cent shall be added, and an additional penalty of one per cent shall be added to so much of said taxes as remain charged against such sheriff or tax collector and unpaid on the fifth day of each succeeding month thereafter until paid. Any provisions in any local act prescribing a different schedule of discounts and penalties than that provided here is hereby repealed.

3. Receipt for payment. The sheriff or tax collector shall note on the tax duplicate against the name of the party the date of payment and the amount paid. He shall also give receipt to the parties, stating the amount of the state and county tax separately, and the date of payment; and for failure to give such receipt, stating the state and county tax separately, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, on conviction, shall be fined at the discretion of the court.

4. When sheriff entitled to tax books. The sheriff or tax collector shall not collect the taxes for any year until he shall have settled in full with the state and county for the taxes of the previous year (if he was sheriff or tax collector) and given the bonds required by law; and if upon examination the commissioners are not satisfied with the solvency of the surety to said bonds, they may require new bonds to be given. The sheriff or collecting officer shall produce receipts for the state and county taxes for the previous year, if he was sheriff or tax collector, before receiving the tax duplicate from the board of commissioners, and in the event the sheriff fails to produce the aforesaid receipts or give the required bond, the board of commissioners shall appoint a tax collector who shall give bond as required of the sheriff to faithfully collect and pay over the taxes according to law. (Rev., ss. 2852, 5241; 1917, c. 234, s. 88; 1919, c. 92, s. 88.)

Cross Reference.—As to sheriff accepting note in payment and marking records paid, see § 7977 and the note thereto.

Discrimination between Different Counties.—A statute which discriminates between the different counties of the State, as to the times when the payment of taxes can be compelled, is not unconstitutional, since its provisions affect every one alike in the localities, to which they are applicable and contain no violation of the principle of equation of taxation. State v. Jones, 121 N. C. 616, 28 S. E. 347.

As to liability of county commissioners for defaults of sheriff, see section 3931 and the note thereto.

§ 7994(a). Taxes payable in installments in certain counties.—The sheriff, tax collectors, deputy tax collectors and tax collecting officers of the following counties, and the tax collectors of each and every municipality situate in said counties are hereby authorized, empowered and directed to accept partial payments on taxes of not less than twenty-five per cent of the total amount of taxes due said counties or municipalities by any taxpayer thereof: Provided, that the time for paying said installments shall not be extended beyond the time now provided by law for the advertisement and sale of property for taxes: Provided further, no installment payment or payments shall operate as a discharge of the tax lien provided by law until the amount of the taxes of the taxpayers making such installment payment or payments shall have been paid in full. This section shall apply to the following counties and municipalities located therein: Alexander, Avery, Beaufort, Bertie, Bladen, Carteret, Chowan, Columbus, Edgecombe, Duplin, Franklin, Gates, Greene, Guilford, Harnett, Henderson, Hertford, Iredell, Jackson, Johnston, Lenoir, Madison, Martin, Mitchell, Nash, Northampton, Onslow, Pamlico, Perquimans, Pitt, Randolph, Robeson, Rockingham, Surry, Stokes, Transylvania, Tyrrell, Union, Vance, Washington, Warren, Wayne, Yancey, Haywood, Rowan and Swain. (1931, c. 402; 1933, c. 198.)

Editor's Note.—Haywood, Rowan, and Swain, were added to the list of counties to which this section applies by Public Laws 1933, c. 198.

§ 7995. Sheriff collecting by deputy.—When the sheriff shall collect by his deputies they shall, before the clerk of the board of commissioners or before a justice of the peace of the county, take and subscribe an oath faithfully and honestly to account for the taxes with the sheriff or other person authorized to receive the same. Such oath shall be filed with the register of deeds and kept in the office of the board of commissioners, and for failure of any deputy sheriff to pay over such taxes as he may collect he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 5241; 1917, c. 234, s. 88; 1919, c. 92, s. 88.)

§ 7996. Sheriff to attend for collection.—The sheriff or his deputy or tax collector shall attend at the courthouse or his office in the county town during the months of October and November for the purpose of receiving taxes. He shall also in like manner attend at least one day during the month of October at some one or more places in each township, of which fifteen days notice shall be given by advertisement at three or more public places and in a newspaper, if one is published in the county: Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the collecting officer from levying and selling after the first day of November, but he shall not sell before that day unless he has reason to believe the taxpayer is preparing to leave the county or state.

Chapter one hundred and fifty of the laws of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, and amendments thereto, and all special acts prescribing or authorizing a time for collection and settlement of state taxes differing from the general provisions of this chapter for the collection and settlement of state taxes, are hereby repealed. (Rev., ss. 2870, 2882, 5242; 1903, c. 251, s. 80; 1905, c. 590, s. 80; 1917, c. 234, s. 89; 1919, c. 92, s. 89.)

§ 7997. Commissioners may change the time for attending in townships.—The board of Commissioners of any county shall have the right, by resolution spread upon the minutes of the board, to abolish altogether or to change the time or times upon which the sheriff or other tax collector is now, or hereafter may be, required to attend each township in the county for the collection of the taxes levied and placed in his hands. Upon the passage of said resolution by the board of commissioners the sheriff or other tax collector shall attend in each township in his county at such times as shall be fixed by said board for the collection of taxes thereof: Provided, that fifteen days notice of the time and place of such attendance shall be given by the sheriff or other tax collector by advertisements in some newspaper published in said county, if one is published therein, or by advertisements posted at three or more public places, if no newspaper is published therein. (1919, c. 52.)

§ 7998. Time limited for collection of taxes.—The sheriff and, in case of his death, the sureties, shall have one year and no longer from the day prescribed for his settlement and payment of the state taxes to finish the collection of all taxes; but the extension of time for collection shall not extend the time of his settlement of the taxes. (Rev., ss. 2869, 5265; 1917, c. 234, s. 113; 1919, c. 92, s. 113.)

Legislative Power to Penalize. — The Legislature has the power to impose penalties on the sheriff for his delay or failure to make settlement with the proper county authorities within a stated time. State v. Gentry, 183 N. C. 825, 112 S. E. 427. The court said: "The power to coerce prompt collection and settlement of taxes is no less necessary than the power to levy and assess them, and both are essential to the maintenance of the government."

An extension of time within which a sheriff may settle state taxes, does not exonerate the sureties upon his bond. Worth v. Cox, 89 N. C. 44.

Applied in Berry v. Davis, 158 N. C. 170, 73 S. E. 900.

§ 7999. Abstract of tax due sent to another county.—If any person liable for taxes has no property in the county in which such taxes are due, but has property in any other county, the sheriff may make and certify under his hand an abstract of the taxes due by such person, as shown by the tax lists in his hands, and forward the same to the sheriff of any county in which property of such taxpayer may be found, with directions to collect such taxes. Such abstract shall have the force and effect of a tax list in any county to which it is sent, and the sheriff to whom it is sent shall collect the taxes in the same manner as he collects taxes appearing on the regular tax list of his county, and shall pay over to the sheriff from whom he receives such abstract the amount collected, less his lawful commissions. He shall make return of his proceedings under such abstract within thirty days after its receipt. Such abstract or a copy or duplicate thereof may be sent for collection to the same or some other county until the amount due shall be collected. (Rev., s. 2871; Code, s. 3692; 1872-3, c. 115, s. 28.)

§ 8000. Diligent inquiry as to removals. — It shall be the duty of every sheriff or every tax collecting officer of any county, city, or town, whenever he is informed that a taxpayer has removed from his county, city, or town without paying the taxes listed for that year, to make diligent inquiry to what county, city, or town the said taxpayer has removed, and in the settlement of the sheriff or other tax-collecting officer for any county, city, or town he shall state, under oath, that he has used due diligence and made faithful inquiry for the location of all taxpayers who have removed from his county, city, or town owing tax for said fiscal year, or the same shall be charged to him and not be allowed in his insolvent list; and the board of county commissioners, or other officers with whom said sheriff or other tax-collecting officer is required by law to make his settlement, shall carefully inspect the insolvent list filed for said fiscal year, and if said sheriff or other tax-collecting officer has not complied with the law to enforce collection of taxes at all times he shall be charged with the same. (Rev., s. 2872; 1905, c. 355.)

§ 8001. Register's certificate upon removal of taxpayer.—It shall be the duty of the sheriff or other tax-collecting officer of any county, city, or town, when he is informed that any taxpayer has removed from his county, city, or town without paying his taxes listed for that year and has no property in the county, city or town, or no property in any county known to the collecting officer, to make a report of the same, with a return of the tax receipt, to the register of deeds of his county, who shall make out a certificate, under his hand and seal, that such taxes were listed for that year, that the same are due and reported unpaid by the collecting officer for such county, city, or town. The sheriff or other collecting officer of any county, city, or town shall send the receipt, with the certificate, to the collecting officer of the county, city, or town to which the taxpayer has removed, and the same shall be a tax list in his hands for the collection of such taxes. (Rev., ss. 2873, 2874; 1905, c. 355, ss. 2, 3.)

§ 8002. Tax collected upon certificate.—The tax collector to whom such tax receipt has been sent shall proceed to the collection of the taxes according to the rules and regulations provided for the collection of taxes in his own county, city, or town, and shall report his proceedings to the officer from whom he received the said receipt within sixty days thereof. If such taxpayer is insolvent and the collecting officer cannot collect the tax as provided by law in his county, city, or town, he shall return the tax receipt, and shall state under his oath that he has used due diligence in making collection by levy, garnishment, or otherwise, that the taxpayer is insolvent and same cannot be collected; otherwise he shall be liable on his official bond for the tax, to be collected in a suit in any court in this state in the corporate name of the county, city, or town to which such taxes are due. The collecting officer shall be allowed a compensation of ten per centum for making collection of such taxes, and the register of deeds shall be allowed ten cents for making the above certificate, to be paid by the county, city, or town to which the taxes are due. (Rev., s. 2875; 1905, c. 355, ss. 4-6.)

§ 8003. Property in hands of receiver.—Whenever taxes are duly assessed against any corporation having chartered rights, or doing business in this state, or having property in this state, or against any person resident in this state or doing business, or having property in this state, and the tax list is in the hands of the sheriff, it shall be competent for such sheriff whenever such taxes, whether listed or unlisted, are due and unpaid, to levy upon and sell such part of the property, real and personal, belonging to such person or corporation as may be necessary to pay such taxes, listed or unlisted, whether the property of such corporation or person be in the hands of a receiver duly appointed or not; and in such cases it shall not be necessary for such officer to apply to and obtain from the court appointing such receiver, or having jurisdiction of the property or of the receiver, an order for the payment of such taxes, but the same may be collected as if the property was not in the hands of a receiver or in the custody of the law. The powers conferred by this section upon the sheriff shall not have the effect to relieve the receiver from his duties and liabilities to pay taxes as provided elsewhere in this chapter. (Rev., s. 2879; Code, ss. 699, 700; 1879, c. 2451, ss. 1-4.)

Cross Reference.—As to tax liens continuing on the property regardless into whose hands it passes, see § 1220 and the note thereto.

Nature of Right to Sell.—The statutory right to sell lands in a receiver's hands is cumulative to that given the sheriff against the owner, and the latter is not deprived of his right to pay or tender payment of the taxes due where it is necessary to protect himself against loss. Headman v. Commissioners, 177 N. C. 261, 98 S. E. 776.

Listing in Receiver's Name or Affecting Sale.—Listing the land in the name of the receiver instead of the true owner does not invalidate the sale of the land for taxes. Headman v. Commissioners, 177 N. C. 261, 264, 98 S. E. 776.

Applied in Hood v. McGill, 206 N. C. 83, 173 S. E. 20.

§ 8004. Attachment and garnishment proceedings.—If any poll tax or other tax shall not be paid within sixty days after the same shall be demandable, it shall be the duty of the sheriff, if he can find no property of the person liable sufficient to satisfy the same, to attach any debt or other property incapable of manual delivery, due or belonging to the person liable, or that may be come due before the expiration of the calendar year, and the person owing such debt or having such property in possession shall be liable for such tax. Any corporation, firm, or person who shall, on demand made, refuse to give to the tax collector of any county, city, or town a list giving the names of all persons employed by them who are liable for tax, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. For the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this section, the following form shall be used as an attachment, viz.:

To A. B. .....: Take notice, that this is to attach any debt that is now due or may become due to C. D., a delinquent in his poll (or property) tax for the year of nineteen hundred and ....., and you are hereby summoned to appear before E. F., an acting justice of the peace for ..... county, and disclose any indebtedness which is or may be due said delinquent by you during the present calendar year, and to show cause why judgment should not be rendered against you for said delinquent tax and costs of this proceeding ..... day of ....., 19...

..... E. F.,
Justice of the Peace

For serving notice the sheriff shall receive twenty-five cents, and if judgment is rendered, the justice shall receive twenty-five cents as costs. The justice shall hear and determine the matter as in other civil actions, and, if he find that the garnishee owes the delinquent any sum due or to become due during the calendar year, or has property or effects belonging to such delinquent, he shall give judgment against the garnishee for the taxes due by the delinquent and for costs, or for so much of such taxes and costs as the facts will warrant. If the amount of the tax be beyond the jurisdiction of the court of a justice of the peace, the sheriff may proceed by action and attachment in the superior court. All actions and proceedings instituted under this section shall be in the name of the sheriff. In no case shall the garnishee be adjudged to pay a greater sum than his indebtedness to the taxpayer or the value of the property of such taxpayer in his hands or under his control. (Rev., ss. 2880, 5201; Code, s. 3675; 1917, c. 234, s. 41; 1919, c. 92, s. 41.)

Sale by Assignee Prior to Levy.—Where an assignee for the benefit of the creditors of a taxpayer sells personal property of his assignor, on which a tax had been assessed, but not levied, prior to the assignment, the proceeds in the hands of the assignee are not subject to garnishment for the payment of the tax, but belong to the creditors. Shelby v. Tiddy, 118 N. C. 792, 24 S. E. 521.

§ 8004(a). Garnishment of pay of state employees for taxes.—When any agent or officer of the State shall have in his hands any money or funds due any employee of the State for salary or wages, it shall be competent and permissible for any county or city in the State, and/or the proper officer or officers thereof having in charge the collection of taxes, to proceed against the said State agent or officer, and the fund and the moneys in his hands, by way of garnishment for the collection of said taxes, as now provided by law for the garnishment of private persons. (1935, c. 112.)

§ 8005. Corporation failing to pay taxes; garnishment; penalty.—Whenever any corporation doing business in this state shall be delinquent in the payment of any taxes assessed or charged against it, the sheriff may notify any agent or officer of such corporation, or any person indebted thereto, of the amount of taxes due and unpaid by such corporation, and thereupon such agent, officer, or debtor shall pay to such sheriff or tax collector the amount he has in hand for, or of his indebtedness to, such corporation, or so much thereof as will satisfy such taxes and costs. The amount so paid shall be a discharge pro tanto of such agent, or officer, or debtor from his liability to such corporation. Any such agent, officer, or debtor who shall fail to pay over to the sheriff as required by this section shall be liable for such money in civil action to be brought by such sheriff in his name and official capacity; and such officer or agent of such corporation shall also be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars. If any corporation be delinquent for six months in the payment of the taxes lawfully assessed and charged upon or against it or its property, its charter shall be forfeited and a receiver shall be appointed to wind up its affairs in an action to be prosecuted by the attorney-general in the name of the state. (Rev., ss. 2881, 3786; 1901, c. 558, s. 29.)

§ 8005(a). Collection of arrears of tax for years 1921 to 1929; authority of personal representatives.—All Sheriffs and Tax Collectors who, by virtue of their office, have had the tax lists for the purpose of collecting taxes of their respective counties, towns and school districts, in their hands for the years one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight, and one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, and in case of death or default in collection, their personal representatives, bondsmen, or any agent or agents that they may designate, are authorized and empowered to collect arrears of taxes for each of the years aforesaid, under such rules and regulations as are now, or may hereafter be provided for the collection of taxes. (1923, c. 108, s. 1; 1925, c. 80, s. 1; 1929, c. 105, s. 1; 1931, c. 197, s. 1.)

Legislative Power to Enact.—The legislature had the power to enact this law. Hunt v. Cooper, 194 N. C. 265.

Remedies of Taxpayer.—Where the owner has neglected to pay back taxes he may not pay under protest and recover them, or successfully seek injunctive relief against the sheriff's sale, in the absence of allegation that the taxes collected by the sheriff were illegal or unlawfully collected. Hunt v. Cooper, 194 N. C. 265.

§ 8005(b). Payment of back taxes by fiduciaries; purchasers for value and encumbrances protected.—No executor or guardian shall be compelled to pay any tax under the provisions of section 8005(a) after he shall have made final settlement: Provided, that this law shall not authorize a sale of any land for taxes which has been conveyed prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, to a purchaser for value, and without actual notice of the non-payment of such taxes: Provided, further, that all lands sold for the non-payment of taxes, under the provisions of this law, shall be sold subject to encumbrances by mortgages or deeds in trust, executed prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven. (1923, c. 108, s. 2; 1929, c. 105, s. 2; 1931, c. 197, s. 2.)

§ 8005(d). Term of authority.—The authority given in sections 8005(a) and 8005(b) shall cease and determine on the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three. (1923, c. 108, s. 4; 1925, c. 80, s. 2; 1927, c. 89; 1929, c. 105, s. 5; 1931, c. 197, s. 5.)

§ 8005(e). Pending litigation unaffected.—This law shall not apply to taxes now involved in litigation. (1929, c. 105, s. 4; 1931, c. 197, s. 4.)

§ 8005(f). Collection of arrears of tax for years 1923 to 1931 by personal representative. — All sheriffs and tax collectors who, by virtue of their office, have had the tax lists for the purpose of collecting taxes of their respective counties, towns and school districts, in their hands for the years one thousand nine hundred twenty-three, one thousand nine hundred twenty-four, one thousand nine hundred twenty-five, one thousand nine hundred twenty-six, one thousand nine hundred twenty-seven, one thousand nine hundred twenty-eight, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine, one thousand nine hundred thirty and one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, and in case of death or default in collection, their personal representatives, bondsmen, or any agent or agents that they may designate, are authorized and empowered to collect arrears of taxes for each of the years aforesaid, under such rules and regulations as are now, or may hereafter be provided for the collection of taxes.

No executor or guardian shall be compelled to pay any tax under the provisions of this section after he shall have made final settlement: Provided, that this section shall not authorize a sale of any land for taxes which has been conveyed prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, to a purchaser for value, and without actual notice of the non-payment of such taxes: Provided, further, that all lands sold for the non-payment of taxes, under the provisions of this section, shall be sold subject to encumbrances by mortgages or deeds in trust, executed prior to January first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one.

Nothing herein contained shall be construed to relieve sheriffs, tax collectors, their representatives or bondsmen, from the liability imposed by the law to pay the state, county, town any other taxes at the time and place required by law.

This section shall not apply to taxes now involved in litigation.

The authority herein given shall cease and determine on the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five. (1933, c. 97.)

Part 1. Sale of Personalty

§ 8006. Personalty first exhausted.—The personal property of the taxpayer shall be levied upon and shall be sold for the satisfaction of his taxes before resorting to his real estate, if sufficient personalty subject to levy and sale can be found in the county of the sheriff having the tax list in hand: Provided, it shall be incumbent upon the taxpayer, mortgagee or other lien holder on taxpayer's realty, if said mortgage or other lienholder has notified the sheriff that he holds such mortgage or other lien, to point out to the sheriff personalty out of which the taxes may be made or else such taxpayer shall forfeit his rights under this section and his real estate shall be subject to the lien for taxes as if no other property had been listed by him. (Rev., s. 2884; Code, s. 3688; 1901, c. 558, s. 1; 1927, c. 221, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The proviso contained in this section was substituted for the last clause formerly found herein, which provided for pointing out personalty only by the taxpayer. The new proviso requires all lien holders to do this provided they have notified the sheriff of the lien which they hold on the taxpayer's realty.

As to creation and requisite of lien, see section 7986 and the note thereto, together with references there made.

Where Failure to Give Proper Notice.—Where the owner of real and personal property has not paid the taxes thereon assessed by a county, a mortgagee who has not received the statutory notice, may maintain his suit in equity against the sale of the personalty for the payment of the total taxes due. Section 8008, not applying. American Agricultural Chemical Co. v. Williamson, 191 N. C. 484, 132 S. E. 146.

Sale of Realty Valid Although Personalty Available.—See section 8011. Sheriff liable, however, to the taxpayer, see note of Geer v. Brown, 126 N. C. 238, 35 S. E. 470, under section 8010. Purchaser takes good title though personalty not first exhausted, see note of Stanley v. Board, 118 N. C. 75, 24 S. E. 12, under section 8030.

Failure to Comply with Section as Affecting Purchaser's Title.—This section is for the benefit of the taxpayer, and the failure of the sheriff to comply herewith does not affect the title of the purchaser at the sale under foreclosure of the realty for taxes. Craven County v. Parker, 194 N. C. 561, 140 S. E. 155.

Priority of Levies.—Where personal property is seized under a valid writ of attachment prior to the time it is pointed out by a mortgagee or purchaser of real property from the owner of the personalty for the collection of taxes levied against the realty, as provided by this section, the levy on the personalty for taxes is subject to the prior levy under attachment, and the attaching creditors are entitled to a prior claim on the proceeds of sale of the personalty. Henderson Bldg., etc., Ass'n v. Burwell, 206 N. C. 358, 174 S. E. 125.

Remedies for Wrongful Enforcement of Tax.—See 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 627 et seq.; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 568. See also Code section 7979 and the note thereto.

Applied in Hood v. McGill, 206 N. C. 83, 173 S. E. 20.

Referred to in McNair v. Boyd, 163 N. C. 478, 79 S. E. 966.

Stated in Reichland Shale Products Co. v. Southern Steel, etc., Co., 200 N. C. 226, 156 S. E. 777.

§ 8007. Levy as under execution.—The seizure and sale of personal property for taxes shall be governed by the laws regulating levy and sale under execution. (Rev., s. 2885; Code, s. 3688; 1901, c. 558, s. 1.)

§ 8008. What subject to levy. — All personal property subject to taxation shall be liable to be seized and sold for taxes, and the personal property of any deceased person shall be liable in the hands of any executor or administrator for any tax due by any testator or intestate; and all transfers of personal property by any taxpayer, made after his taxes are due, by way of gift, or mortgage, or deed of trust, or of assignment for creditors, or bequest by will, or in any other way or for any other purpose than a bona fide sale for value, in the ordinary course of dealing, shall be null and void as to such taxes and shall have no effect upon the rights, powers, and duties of the sheriff to levy upon and sell such property for such taxes: Provided, such levy be made within sixty days after such transfer. (Rev., s. 2886; Code, s. 3682.)

This section does not impinge on the creditor's claim of priority to the proceeds from a sale of personalty, where the creditor makes his attachment before the purchaser of realty points out the personalty for payment of taxes as provided in § 8006. Henderson Bldg., etc., Ass'n v. Burwell, 206 N. C. 358, 361, 174 S. E. 125.

§ 8009. Fees of sheriff and expenses of sale of personalty and realty.—The sheriff shall be entitled to fifty cents for each actual levy and sale of personalty and fifty cents for each advertisement of such sale, but in no case shall such sums be collected where no levy or sale or advertisement is made. For advertising lands for sale for taxes, twenty cents for each parcel advertised. For making each certificate of the sale and purchase of real estate, and for each deed for real estate, fifty cents. For entering memorandum or redemption on sale book, twenty-five cents. The county commissioners shall allow him in settlement such other sums as he has actually expended which were necessary for the due execution of his duties under this chapter. (Rev., s. 2883; 1903, c. 251, ss. 80, 87; 1901, c. 558, ss. 10, 11; 1917, c. 234, s. 89; 1919, c. 92, s. 89.)

Part 2. Sale of Realty

§ 8010. When land is liable.—If personal property of any taxpayer, sufficient for the satisfaction of his taxes and subject to levy, is not to be found in the county of the sheriff having the tax list in hand for collection, it shall be the duty of such sheriff to sell the real estate of such taxpayer, if delinquent in the payment of his taxes, under the directions set forth in this chapter. (Rev., s. 2887; Code, ss. 3688, 3691; 1901, c. 588, s. 1.)

Cross Reference.—For full treatment, see 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 568 et seq.; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 632 et seq. As to creation of lien, see section 7978; as to nature of action for enforcement thereof, see section 7990.

For an act to regulate the foreclosure of tax liens in Duplin county and the municipalities thereof, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 189.

Power Strictly Construed.—In selling lands for taxes, the sheriff acts under a statutory power which must be strictly pursued, and he must not only do the acts which are required to bring his sale within the power, but he must do them within the time prescribed. Taylor v. Allen, 67 N. C. 346.

Liability of Sheriff Failing to Exhaust Personalty.—The sale of land for taxes, before resorting to personal property, may render the sheriff liable to the tax debtor, but does not affect the title of the purchaser. Geer v. Brown, 126 N. C. 238, 35 S. E. 470, citing Stanley v. Baird, 118 N. C. 75, 24 S. E. 12. As to duty to exhaust personalty first, see section 8006.

Real Property Subject to Sale—Less Than Fee Simple.—The nonpayment of taxes by a delinquent holding an estate less than a fee simple, does not subject the fee to sale. Tucker v. Tucker, 108 N. C. 235, 13 S. E. 5.

Dower land is subject to sale for nonpayment of taxes, and may be purchased by the owner of the reversionary interest after dower right is over. Geer v. Brown, 126 N. C. 238, 35 S. E. 470.

Homesteads are made liable for sale for taxes by N. C. Const., Art. X, sec. 2. Tucker v. Tucker, 110 N. C. 333, 334, 14 S. E. 860.

Proper Listing of Lands Required.—Lands may be sold for taxes and a valid deed made therefor only when the lands are listed according to the requirements of the statute. Rexford v. Phillips, 159 N. C. 213, 74 S. E. 337. As to tax list affording authority to sheriff for the sale, see note of Peebler v. Taylor, 121 N. C. 38, 27 S. E. 999, under section 7991.

Time and Place of Sale.—See section 8012.

When and by Whom Tax Deed Made.—See section 8030 and note thereto.

Right to Enforce Lien in Equity.—See 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 633.

Redemption from Tax Sale.—See 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 637. See also, section 8038, 8039 and the notes thereto.

§ 8011. Sale conclusive as to liability.—Where actual sales of real estate are made for taxes under the general laws of the state, the taxpayer whose real estate has been sold for taxes shall be precluded thereafter from attacking such sale on the ground that the tax could have been procured from personal property. (1917, c. 234, s. 119; 1919, c. 92, s. 120.)

§ 8012. Time and place of sale.—The sale of real estate for taxes shall, unless otherwise expressly provided by law, be made at the courthouse door of the county, between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and four o'clock in the afternoon of the first Monday in May of each year, or upon the first Monday of any subsequent month, after giving the required notice of sale, but, if necessary, the sale may be continued from day to day until all the property advertised shall be disposed of. If, for any reason, the sale is not made on the day prescribed, another day may be set by the county commissioners at a regular meeting, and the sale shall be had on such day after advertisement and notice as required by this subchapter. (Rev., s. 2888; Code, s. 459; 1901, c. 558, s. 3; 1919, c. 92, s. 119.)

Cited in Orange County v. Wilson, 202 N. C. 424, 163 S. E. 113.

§ 8012(a) Sales on dates other than first Monday in June validated.—All sales of land for failure to pay taxes, held or conducted by any sheriff or any tax collector of any county, city, town or other municipality during the year one thousand nine hundred thirty, on any day subsequent to or other than the first Monday in June of said year, are hereby, approved, confirmed, validated and declared to be proper, valid and legal sales of such land and legally binding in all respects, and all certificates of sale made and issued upon and in accordance with such sales, are hereby, approved and validated to all intents and purposes, and with such full force and legal effect as if said sales had been held and conducted on said first Monday of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty. (1931, c. 160.)

§ 8012(b). Tax sales for 1931-32 on day other than law provides and certificates validated.—All sales of land for failure to pay taxes, held or conducted by any sheriff or any tax collector of any county, city, town or other municipality during the year one thousand nine hundred thirty-one and one thousand nine hundred thirty-two, on any day subsequent to or other than the first Monday in June of said year, be, and the same are hereby, approved, confirmed, validated and declared to be proper, valid and legal sales of such land and legally binding in all respects, and all certificates of sale made and issued upon and in accordance with such sales, be, and they are hereby, approved and validated to all intents and purposes, and with such full force and legal effect as if said sales had been held and conducted on said first Monday of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one and one thousand nine hundred thirty-two: Provided, this section shall not apply to Mecklenburg county and Durham county. (1933, c. 177, s. 1.)

§ 8012(c). Tax sales for 1933-34 and certificates validated.—All sales of land for failure to pay taxes held or conducted by any sheriff or any tax collector of any county, city, town or other municipality during the years one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three and one thousand nine hundred thirty-four or on any date subsequent to or other than the date prescribed by law and all certificates of sale executed and issued pursuant to and in accordance with such sales be and the same are hereby approved, confirmed and validated and shall have the same force and legal effect as if said sales had been held and conducted on the date prescribed by law.

The board of county commissioners of any county or the governing board of any city, town or other municipality may by resolution order the sheriff or tax collecting officer of the said county, city, town or other municipality to advertise in the manner provided by law and sell all land for the taxes of any year levied by the said county, city, town or other municipality, which land has not heretofore been legally sold for the failure to pay said taxes. The sale or sales herein authorized shall be held not later than the first Monday in September, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five, and certificates of sale shall be issued in accordance with and pursuant to said sale or sales in the same manner as if said sale or sales had been held and conducted as provided by law. Any sale held and conducted under the provisions of this paragraph and all certificates issued pursuant to such sales shall be and the same are hereby approved, confirmed and validated and shall have the same force and legal effect as if said sale had been held and conducted on the date prescribed by law.

All actions instituted in any county, city, town or other municipality for the foreclosure of certificates of sale issued for the taxes of the years one thousand nine hundred twenty-seven, one thousand nine hundred twenty-eight, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine, one thousand nine hundred thirty, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one and one thousand nine hundred thirty-two subsequent to October first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-four, and all such actions instituted before October first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five, shall be and the same are hereby approved, validated and declared to be legally binding and of the same force and effect as if said actions were instituted prior to October first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-four: Provided, that this section shall not be construed to repeal any private or local act passed by the general assembly of one thousand nine hundred thirty-five. (1935, c. 331.)

§ 8014. Sale advertised.—Before any real estate shall be sold for taxes the sheriff shall give public notice of the time, place, and cause of such sale by advertisement at the courthouse door and in some newspaper published in the county [or in any city or town nearest the property advertised], if any there be, for four successive weeks immediately preceding the day of sale. If there be no newspaper published in the county [or in any city or town nearest the property advertised], such advertisement must be posted for four weeks at some public place in each township of the county, except that in which the courthouse is located, in addition to posting at the courthouse door. Such advertisement must contain a notice that all the lands whose owners are delinquent in payment of their taxes of the preceding year will be sold, and shall set out a list of the lands to be sold and the amount of taxes, expenses, and costs due by each delinquent owner, giving his name. (Rev., s. 2890; Code, s. 3691; 1901, c. 558, s. 3.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1931, c. 126. which amended this section by inserting the words in brackets provided, "This Act shall apply only in Nash and Edgecombe Counties."

Public Laws 1933, c. 415 omitted Edgecombe from the exemption of the Amendatory Act of 1931.

For an act providing for advertisement of delinquent taxes for the years 1932 and 1933 where such advertisements have not been made, see Public Laws 1935, chapter 68.

Description of Lands—Parol Evidence.—The description of real property advertised to be sold for nonpayment of taxes giving delinquent's name and the number of acres "Washington Road, No. One Township," is not too vague for or uncertain to admit of parol testimony of identification, when the designated owner has but one tract of real estate in the county advertising the sale in its proceedings to foreclose. Craven County v. Parker, 194 N. C. 561, 140 S. E. 155.

Liability of Sheriff to Advertising Medium.—Publication of sale of real property for unpaid taxes is the official duty of the sheriff, and to be made on the day directed by the county commissioners; and the newspaper in which these notices are published has a right of action against the sheriff contracting for their publication, and not against the board of county commissioners, which only makes an allowance to the sheriff to cover such charges. Lane v. Graham County, 194 N. C. 723, 140 S. E. 712.

Cited in Craven County v. Parker, 194 N. C. 561, 140 S. E. 155; Orange County v. Wilson, 202 N. C. 424, 163 S. E. 113.

§ 8015. Manner of sale. — All sales of real estate for taxes shall be at public outcry of the highest bidder. All the advertised real estate of each delinquent shall be sold at the same time as one body, and no bid therefor shall be received unless sufficient in amount to discharge all the taxes due by the delinquent, together with all costs and expenses of sale. If no such bid be received, the county, city, or town, as the case may be, shall be deemed the purchaser, and the sheriff shall so record it on his sales book. If any bidder fail to pay the amount of his bid immediately upon his being declared the purchaser, the sheriff shall resell at once if he deem it proper to do so. (Rev., s. 2891; Code, ss. 3693, 3694; 1901, c. 558, ss. 37, 4.)

Cited in Lane v. Graham County, 194 N. C. 723, 726, 140 S. E. 712.

§ 8016. Sheriff failing to attend; selling property not liable for tax.—If any sheriff shall fail to attend any sale of lands as required by law in regard to tax sales, either in person or by competent deputy, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and liable to a penalty of three hundred dollars, to be recovered by an action in the superior court against the sheriff and his bondsmen. And if such officer or deputy shall sell or assist in selling any real property, knowing the same not to be subject to taxation, or that the taxes for which the same is sold have been paid, or shall knowingly and willingly sell or assist in selling any real property for payment of taxes to defraud the owner of such real property, or shall knowingly or willingly execute a deed for property so sold, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be liable to a fine of not less than one thousand nor more than three thousand dollars, or to imprisonment not exceeding one year, or to both fine and imprisonment, and to pay to the injured party all damages sustained by such wrongful act, and all such sales shall be void. (Rev., s. 3790; 1901, c. 558, s. 6.)

§ 8017. Record of sale kept. — It shall be the duty of the sheriff or tax collector of a county or municipality, immediately after the sale of land for taxes, to prepare a book containing a list of the names of all persons whose land has been sold for taxes showing the names of each delinquent taxpayer, the amount of taxes, penalty, cost of sale, the total amount of the certificate of sale and the name of the purchaser. If the county or municipality become the purchaser under the provisions of law, he shall record the fact in such book. The sheriff or tax collector shall certify such book and file the same in the office of register of deeds and said register of deeds shall keep and preserve said book. Said book and record of certificates of sale shall be sufficient notice to lien holders and other parties interested in the property sold for taxes. Any delinquent taxpayer, lien holder or party interested in said property may, upon presentation to the register of deeds of the certificates of sale marked paid and signed by the proper collecting officer, cause the register of deeds upon payment of a fee of ten cents to make an entry on said record giving the amount paid, the description of the property, whether in whole or a part thereof, and by whom said taxes were paid. Where the word "sheriff" appears in this act, it shall mean "the sheriff or tax collector of each county," or, "the tax collector of each city or town." (Rev., s. 2892; 1901, c. 558, ss. 5, 10; 1931, c. 260, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931, which struck out the former section and inserted the above in lieu thereof and also amended section 8037, provided: "This act shall not affect pending litigation, nor contracts made by the county commissioner with attorneys prior to the passage of this act. This act shall apply to all taxes and tax certificates up to and including the nineteen and twenty-nine levy but subject to pending litigation and contracts with attorneys as above set out and subject to section seven of chapter two hundred four, laws of one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine. Nothing in this act shall affect pending actions brought by any holder of a tax certificate other than a county, city or town."

This act, which was ratified on April 8, 1931, was amended by Public Laws 1931, c. 324, which added the following: "this act shall also apply to all taxes and tax certificates including the one thousand nine hundred and thirty levy and subsequent years."

§ 8018. Records sufficient proof of sale.—The books and records belonging to the offices of the register or sheriff, or copies thereof properly certified, shall be deemed sufficient evidence to prove the sale of any real property for taxes, the redemption thereof or the payment of the taxes thereon. (Rev., s. 2893; 1901, c. 558, s. 26.)

§ 8019. Land listed in wrong name.—No sale of real estate shall be void because such real estate was charged in the name of any other person than the rightful owner, if such real estate be in other respects sufficiently described. But no sale of property so listed in the name of the wrong person shall be held valid where the rightful owner has listed the same and paid the taxes thereon. (Rev., s. 2894; 1901, c. 558, s. 25.)

Sufficient Description Necessary.—This section distinctly says, and by clear implication implies, that the listing of the real estate is void if it is not sufficiently described. Bryson v. McCoy, 194 N. C. 91, 97, 138 S. E. 420.

Where a suit to foreclose a tax certificate is instituted against the person listing the property for taxation and the property is sufficiently described, the action is maintainable although the title to the land is in another. Forsyth County v. Joyce, 204 N. C. 734, 169 S. E. 655.

Insufficient Description.—A description of land in a list of sale for taxes as "Beaverdam Township name T. D. Bryson heirs, acres 400, amount $10.00," when the land consisted of an undivided one-half interest in 70 acres, in 200 acres, in 331 acres, and in 200 acres, under separate State grants, is not a sufficient description and a sale thereunder will be void. Bryson v. McCoy, 194 N. C. 91, 138 S. E. 420.

When Listed in Husband's Name. — When the land had been listed in the name of the husband, which belonged to the wife, and the husband had no interest therein, the tender to redeem made by the husband, notwithstanding birth of issue, when he is not acting for her or claiming under her, is not a sufficient one to invalidate the tax deed. Eames v. Armstrong, 146 N. C. 1, 59 S. E. 165.

Stated in Headman v. Commissioner, 177 N. C. 261, 98 S. E. 776; Stone v. Phillips, 176 N. C. 457, 97 S. E. 375.

§ 8020. Irregularities immaterial. — No irregularities in making assessments or in making the returns thereof in the equalization of property as provided by law, or in any other proceeding or requirement of law, shall invalidate the sale of any real estate when sold by the sheriff for delinquent taxes, nor in any manner invalidate the tax levied on any property or charged against any person. (Rev., s. 2895; 1901, c. 558, s. 27.)

See section 8021 and the note thereto.

§ 8021. Irregularities defined. — The following defects, omissions, and circumstances occurring in the assessment of any property for taxation, or in the levy of taxes, or elsewhere in the course of the proceedings, up to and including the execution and delivery of the deed for property sold for taxes, shall be taken and deemed to be mere irregularities within the meaning of the next preceding section: The failure of the assessors to take or subscribe an oath or attach one to an assessment roll; the omission of a dollar mark or other designation descriptive of the value of figures used to denote an amount assessed, levied, or charged against any property or the valuation of any property upon any record; the failure to make or serve any notice mentioned in this chapter; the failure or neglect of the sheriff to offer any real estate for sale for delinquent taxes thereon at the time mentioned in the advertisement or notice of such sale; failure of the sheriff to adjourn such sale from day to day, or any irregularity or informality in such adjournment; any irregularity or informality in the manner or order in which real estate may be offered for sale; the failure to assess any property for taxes or to levy any tax within the time provided by law; any irregularity, informality, or omission in any such assessment or levy; any defect in the description, upon any assessment book, tax list, sales book, or other record, of real or personal property assessed for taxation, or upon which any taxes are levied, or which may be sold for taxes, provided such description be sufficiently definite to enable the sheriff, or any person interested, to determine what property is meant or intended by the description, and in such cases a defective or indefinite description, on any book, list, or record, or in any notice or advertisement, may be made definite by the sheriff in the deed by which he may convey such property, if sold for taxes, by inserting in such deed a proper and definite description of the property so defectively or indefinitely described; any other irregularity, informality, or omission or neglect on the part of any person or in any proceedings, whether mentioned in this section or not; the omission of a seal to the sheriff's deed; the neglect or omission to tax or assess for taxation any person or property; the overtaxation of persons or property liable to be taxed. (Rev., s. 2896; 1901, c. 558, s. 28.)

Applied in Stone v. Phillips, 176 N. C. 457, 97 S. E. 375; Sanders v. Earp, 118 N. C. 275, 24 S. E. 8.

§ 8023. Cancellation of void sales and deeds.— Whenever it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the sheriff, either before the execution of a deed for real property sold for taxes or upon the deed being returned by the purchaser, that any real estate was sold which was not subject to taxation or upon which the taxes had been paid previous to the sale, he shall make an entry opposite such tract or lot on the record of same that the same was erroneously sold, and such entry shall be evidence of the fact therein stated; and in such cases the purchase money shall be refunded to the purchaser as provided by this chapter. If such deed has been registered, the sheriff may nullify the same by writing on the margin of the register's book, at the page on which the deed appears, that the same is canceled pursuant to this section and for the causes herein set forth. (Rev., s. 2898; 1901, c. 558, s. 22.)

§ 8024. Certificate of sale.—The sheriff shall give to the purchaser of real estate sold for taxes a written certificate, under his official signature, to the effect and in the form following:

North Carolina, ... County.

I, ..., sheriff of the county of ....., do hereby certify that the following described real estate in said county and state, to wit (describing the same and stating in whose name it was listed on the tax lists), was, on the ..... day of ....., 19...., duly sold by me, in the manner provided by law for the delinquent taxes of ..... for the year 19...., amounting to ..... dollars, including interest and penalty thereon and the cost allowed by law, when and where (name of the purchaser) purchased said real estate at the price of ..... dollars, he being the highest and best bidder for the same. And I further certify that unless redemption is made of said estate in the manner provided by law, the said ....., his heirs or assigns, will be entitled to a deed in fee therefor on and after the ..... day of ....., A. D. 19...., on surrender of this certificate.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, this ..... day of ..... A. D. 19..... ....., Sheriff.

(Rev., s. 2899; 1901, c. 558, s. 9.)

As to presumptive evidence of certificate, see section 8027.

§ 8025. Separate certificates required. — The real estate of each delinquent shall be inserted in a separate certificate notwithstanding the fact that the same person may have purchased the real estate of several delinquents. But this shall not apply to lands held in cotenancy or joint tenancy. Such lands may be inserted in one certificate, no matter how many delinquents may be interested therein. (Rev., s. 2900; 1901, c. 558, s. 9.)

§ 8026. Certificate to county, city, etc.; right to transfer.—When the county or other municipal corporation becomes the purchaser, under the provisions of this chapter, of any real estate sold for taxes, the sheriff shall issue a certificate of purchase in the name of such corporation substantially in the form provided by the two preceding sections. Such certificates shall remain in the custody of the sheriff, and at any time the county commissioners may assign such certificates to any person wishing to buy, for the amount expressed on the face of the certificate and interest thereon at the rate per centum which the taxes were drawing at the time of the purchase, or for the total amount of all tax on such real estate. Such assignment may be made by the endorsement of the name of the county by the chairman of the board of county commissioners, and such endorsement shall be made when ordered by the county commissioners. The commissioners or other governing body of the municipal corporation other than a county shall have the same right of transfer as is above conferred, such transfer to be made by the major or treasurer of such corporation and in its name. (Rev., s. 2901; 1901, c. 558, ss. 37, 39.)

Right of Assignee.—The assignee of the county commissioners of the certificate obtains only such interest as the county possessed, which was, by the statute under which this case was decided, the right to foreclosure. McNair v. Boyd, 163 N. C. 478, 79 S. E. 966. As to procedure for foreclosure, see section 8037.

§ 8027. Certificate presumptive evidence of validity.—The sheriff's certificate of sale and purchase shall be presumptive evidence of the regularity of all prior proceedings incident to such sale and purchase and of the due performance of all things essential to the validity thereof. (Rev., s. 2902; 1901, c. 558, s. 9.)

Part 2A. Sale When Payment Attempted by Worthless Check

§ 8027(a). Tax collecting officers authorized to sell property for non-payment of taxes. — In all cases in which the various tax collectors of the State, or any subdivision thereof, have received checks in payment of taxes for the years one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, one thousand nine hundred and thirty, or any subsequent years, and receipts have been issued for same, and said checks have been returned unpaid, without negligence on the part of the said tax collectors in presenting said checks for payment, the taxes for which said checks may have been received and for which receipts may have been issued shall be deemed not to have been paid and the said tax collectors are hereby empowered to advertise and sell the real estate and/or personal property on which said taxes were levied and for the payment of which said checks were given, and said tax collectors shall have full power and authority to sell said property, whether real or personal, as is now provided for the sale of property for taxes. (1931, c. 151, s. 1.)

§ 8027(b). Entry that taxes unpaid; innocent purchasers protected.—It shall be the duty of the various tax collectors of this State and all subdivisions thereof to enter upon their records or stubs of such receipts the fact that the taxes are unpaid. Provided, that nothing herein contained shall affect the rights of innocent purchasers for value. (1931, c. 151, s. 2.)

Part 3. Tax Deeds

§ 8028. Remedy of holder of certificates of sale. —Every county, person, firm or corporation, private or municipal, who has purchased any lands or interest in the same at any tax sale, as evidenced by sheriff's certificate of sale, or becomes a holder of any sheriff's certificate of sale referred to in section 8024, Consolidated Statutes, shall have the right of foreclosure of said certificate of sale by civil action and this shall constitute his sole right and only remedy to foreclose the same. (1927, c. 221, s. 4.)

Cross Reference.—As to county being required to foreclose within eighteen months when proceeding under this section, see § 8037 and the note thereto.

Editor's Note.—Formerly the holder of a sheriff's certificate of sale could obtain a deed for the real estate purchased by complying with the requirements heretofore found in this section, or he could proceed to foreclose his lien in an action in the nature of action to foreclose a mortgage. Now the holder of such certificate is no longer put to his election for by this section, his right of sale by foreclosure constitutes his sole right. As to the procedure for this right, see section 8037.

This section provides an exclusive remedy of an individual on a tax sale certificate, and the limitation prescribed for bringing action thereon applies, and an individual bringing action based on a tax sale certificate may not avail himself of the fact that no limitation is prescribed in § 7990, by alleging that the tax certificate was assigned him by the county and that the action was brought under § 7990. Local units directed to extend payment of taxes over period of five years and to remit penalties; time limit; payment of 1932 taxes as condition precedent. — The several counties, municipalities and other agencies of government owning taxes, or tax sales certificates for lands in their several units for the years one thousand nine hundred twenty-seven, one thousand nine hundred twenty-eight, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine, one thousand nine hundred thirty, and one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, at the request of the owner or owners of the land, are hereby authorized, empowered and directed to enter into agreements with the owners of the lands covered by said tax sales certificates whereby said taxes, or tax sales certificates, exclusive of interest and penalties, may be paid in installments covering a period not to exceed five years and bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, payable annually from and after the first day of April, 1933: Provided, that unless the said counties and the owners of lands covered by said taxes, or tax sales certificates, enter into said agreements on or before the first day of April, 1934, this section shall become inoperative and the said counties are authorized to proceed with foreclosure proceedings as hereinafter set out: Provided, that as a condition precedent to this settlement the several agencies of government are authorized and empowered in their discretion to require the payment of the 1932 taxes by resolution duly passed by the governmental agencies. (1933, c. 181, s. 1.)

§ 8034(b). Note given by landowner. — When said agreement is entered into between the counties, municipalities, and other governing agencies and the owner of said land covered by said taxes, or tax sales certificates, they shall take from the owner a note in substantially the following form: $.....

For the taxes for the years 192.., 192.., 192.., 193 .., and 193 .., on those lands in ..... Township, ... County, North Carolina, adjoining the lands of ..... (brief description of land) ..... Upon my failure to pay any installment of principal or interest, the whole amount shall immediately become due and payable. This note shall constitute a lien on the lands above described and said land shall be subject to foreclosure sale at the option of said county, municipality or other government agency under the law providing for foreclosure sales under tax sales certificates upon my failure to make the payments as above set out. WITNESS my hand and seal, this the ..... day of ....., 193 ... (1933, c. 181, s. 2.)

§ 8034(c). Note constitutes superior lien; not a novation; right of foreclosure preserved; default of single installment.—The said note, when given and received as above set out, shall constitute a first lien on the lands described, superior to all other liens except current taxes, and shall be of the same dignity as those, and said notes shall be construed as a continuing lien on the land from the time the lien of the taxes first attached against said land and shall not be considered a novation, and the said county or municipality and other governing agency taking said note shall have the right of foreclosure on said land under the law governing foreclosure of sale of lands under tax sales certificates at any time after said note or any installment thereof is due and within twelve months thereafter. The said county, municipality or other governing agency shall have a right at its option to foreclose after the failure of any one of the payments as provided in said note but shall not be compelled to foreclose until the whole note is due and within twelve months thereafter. (1933, c. 181, s. 3.)

§ 8034(d). Notes are continuing lien. — All notes taken for taxes, or tax sales certificates hereunder, shall be and constitute a continuing lien from the time the taxes were originally assessed on the lands therein described, but the said notes shall not be subject to be reduced to a personal judgment. (1933, c. 181, s. 4.)

§ 8034(e). Notation to be made on record of certificates. — Upon taking notes for taxes as above described, the auditor or county accountant, or other officer having charge of tax sales certificates, shall enter a notation of the same on the record of the tax sales certificates, and shall state on said record, the amount of said note and the time the said installments thereof are payable, and the said officers shall endorse said tax sales certificates as follows: "Absorbed in a note given this day as provided by chapter one hundred and eighty-one Laws of one thousand nine hundred thirty-three," and shall be signed by the said county accountant or other officer, and the said tax sales certificate shall be kept by the county accountant or other officer until the note taken therefor is paid or foreclosure proceedings thereon are completed. (1933, c. 181, s. 5.)

For amendment affecting Caswell county only, see Public Laws 1935, chapter 354.

§ 8034(f). Notes to be recorded in office of register of deeds.—Whenever a note is given and taken as heretofore provided, the same shall be registered in the office of the register of deeds of the county, in a book to be kept by him and marked "tax liens," said notes shall be prepared and recorded at the cost of the maker, and the fees for the same are hereby fixed as follows: For all work up to and including the drawing and execution of the note the sum of fifty cents to be paid to the county accountant or other officer doing the work. For probating the said note the clerk shall receive the sum of ten cents, and for recording and indexing same, the register of deeds shall receive the sum of fifteen cents: Provided, however, that in any county or city having such officials upon a salary basis, the above named fees shall be collected and paid into the general fund of such county or city. (1933, c. 181, s. 6.)

§ 8034(g). Tax liens for 1926 and prior years, not yet foreclosed, barred.—All tax liens held by counties, municipalities, and other governing agencies for the year one thousand nine hundred twenty-six and the years prior thereto, whether evidenced by the original tax certificates, or tax sales certificates, and upon which no foreclosure proceedings have been instituted, are hereby declared to be barred and uncollectible: Provided that no part of this section or of this part shall be construed as applying to liens for street and/or sidewalk improvements: Provided that this section shall not apply to Pamlico, Richmond and McDowell counties. (1933, c. 181, s. 7; c. 399.)

§ 8034(h). Extension of foreclosure on other taxes till October 1, 1934.—All counties, municipalities or other governing agencies holding tax sales certificates for lands for the years one thousand nine hundred twenty-seven, one thousand nine hundred twenty-eight, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine, one thousand nine hundred thirty, and one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, whether foreclosure proceedings have been instituted or not, are hereby given until October first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-four, to institute said proceedings, with all the rights and privileges and liens which they had at any time heretofore, which rights shall be in addition to and not in abrogation of the rights heretofore granted for foreclosure in the event a note is taken as hereinbefore provided. (1933, c. 181, s. 8.)

§ 8034(i). Schedule of discounts on delinquent taxes; interest and penalties to be remitted.—The governing authorities of the counties, municipalities or other subdivisions holding any claim for delinquent taxes upon lands for any of the years 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930 and/or 1931 are hereby authorized and directed to accept from any person or persons owning any interest in or holding any lien upon lands the principal amount of the taxes, less interest and penalties, in cash, less 10% if paid before April 1, 1934, or upon the installment plan provided for in section 8034(a): Provided the maker of any installment note may anticipate the payment thereof in whole or in part by paying the same in cash less 10% discount, if paid before installment is due: Provided further that a ten per cent discount shall be allowed on all delinquent taxes paid on or before December 1, 1933; seven and one-half per cent on all delinquent taxes paid after December 1, 1933, and before January 1, 1934; five per cent on all delinquent taxes paid after January 1, 1934, and before February 1, 1934; two and one-half per cent on all delinquent taxes paid after February 1, 1934, and before March 1, 1934. Provided, however, that this section shall not apply to taxes for the year 1932-1933: Provided that nothing in this section shall be construed to eliminate any costs of advertising or costs of foreclosure, it being the purpose and intention to only eliminate interest and penalties.

The provisos except the first shall not apply to any of those counties or municipalities which have by public, private or public-local laws amended this act in its application to said counties or municipalities. (1933, c. 181, s. 9; cc. 402, 548.)

For amendment affecting Brunswick and Caswell county only, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 370.

§ 8034(j). Provision as to lands of minors and tenants in common.—Whenever any lands, for which the counties, municipalities, or other governing agencies own tax sales certificates, or taxes are owned by minors or by several persons as tenants in common, the note heretofore provided for may be made and executed by either one or more of the tenants in common, and in case of a minor, by his or her guardian, or receiver, and the note when so executed, whether by one tenant in common alone or by a guardian, or receiver, shall constitute a lien on the whole interest in said land, if the taxes for which the tax sales certificates are held were taxes on the whole of said property. (1933, c. 181, s. 10.)

§ 8034(k). Rights of mortgagees to take title after notice to owners.—Any person, firm or corporation, who at the time of the purchase of any lands of any county or municipality at any tax sale is the bona fide owner or holder of a first mortgage or deed of trust covering the same, or any part thereof, for the payment of money or other valuable consideration, shall upon failure of the former owner or owners to take title thereto under this part within the time specified and after giving thirty days notice by registered mail to the last known address of said owner or owners be entitled to receive a deed therefor from the county or municipality in the same manner and under the same terms as provided for said owner or owners under this part. (1933, c. 181, s. 11.)

§ 8034(1). Lands already foreclosed and purchased by local units redeemable on five-year note; note secured by deed of trust. — Any county, municipality or other governmental agency which has heretofore bought lands under foreclosure proceedings are hereby authorized and empowered to convey the said land to the former owner for the amount of taxes, costs and charges which the said county, municipality or other governmental agency has paid for said lands and for the purchase price of said lands are hereby authorized and empowered to take a note from said former owner, payable in installments not to exceed five years and bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum. Said notes shall be secured by a deed of trust prepared and registered at the cost of the former owner, and providing for foreclosure upon default in the payment of any payment of principal or interest, provided that the said owner or owners or other persons interested shall take advantage of this option on or before the first day of April, 1934; and provided further that the county is still the bona fide holder of said lands; and provided further that the said owner or owners shall also include in said notes all subsequent taxes due on said land and that might have become due on said land if the said county, municipality or other governmental agency had not become the purchaser thereof under foreclosure proceedings. (1933, c. 181, s. 12.)

§ 8034(m). Redemption where certificate is in hands of third person.—Where any person has purchased a tax certificate in good faith, the owner is allowed to redeem same until April 1, 1934, by reimbursing the purchaser of the full amount paid with all necessary and proper expenses incurred, together with six per cent interest thereon. (1933, c. 181, s. 13.)

For amendment affecting Brunswick and Caswell counties only, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 370.

§ 8034(n). Counties excepted.—None of the provisions of this part shall apply to Davidson, Forsyth, Orange, Hyde and Mecklenburg Counties: Provided, that this part shall not be mandatory in the following counties or municipalities therein, but within the discretion of the governing bodies of the said counties or municipalities therein, to-wit: Alleghany, Beauford, Cleveland, Gaston, Polk, Granville, Catawba, Lincoln, Wilkes, Guilford, Surry, Moore, Richmond, Camden, Durham, Rockingham, Burke, Caldwell, New Hanover, Halifax, Union and Hertford. By section 2, c. 427, Public Laws of 1933 it is provided that the Tax Sales Certificates Refunding Act of 1933 shall not apply in Mecklenburg county. For amendments applicable in Chatham county only, see Public Laws 1933, c. 536; in Granville county, c. 304; in Beaufort, c. 314; and in Catawba, c. 315.

Part 4. Remedies of Purchasers at Tax Sales

§ 8035. Adjustment on sale by mistake.—When by mistake or wrongful act of the sheriff real estate has been sold on which no tax was due at the time, or whenever land is sold in consequence of error in describing said land in the tax receipt, the county or other municipal corporation, shall reimburse the purchaser by paying to him the amount of principal and costs by him expended in such purchase, with interest thereon at six per centum per annum; and the sheriff shall be liable to the county, or other municipal corporation, upon his tax bond, for all amounts so expended by it, or the purchaser and assigns may recover such amount and interest directly from the sheriff in an action upon his tax bond. But the sheriff and his sureties in all such cases as are provided for in this section shall be liable only for the wrongful acts of the sheriff and his deputies. Any amount paid by the county under this section for State taxes shall, on proper certificate from the chairman of the board of county commissioners, be allowed by the auditor and paid by the State Treasurer. (1927, c. 221, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—This section, with several others, was repealed by the Public Laws of 1927, but was re-enacted without change except for the word "said" after the word "describing" and preceding the word "land," in the first clause, being substituted for the word "such," formerly found at the place designated.

The provisions of this section do not apply to certificates of sale of land for taxes made prior to May 1, 1927, until May 1, 1928, and then only to such certificates of sale dated prior to May 1, 1927, as have not been the basis of sheriff's deeds executed prior to May 1, 1928.

§ 8036. Lien of purchaser.—The purchaser at a sale for taxes, and his heirs and assigns, shall have a lien on the real estate by him purchased at such sale for the amount of the purchase money paid and all interest, penalties, costs and charges allowed him by law; and if, after his purchase, he pays any taxes or assessments levied upon or which constitute an encumbrance upon such real estate, whether assessed before or after such purchase, he shall have a lien for all sums so paid out and for all interest, penalties, costs and charges allowed him by law. (1927, c. 221, s. 4.)

Editor's Note.—This section was one of the group repealed by the Public Laws of 1927, but it was re-enacted without change save for the addition of the words "or assessments" found near the middle of the section.

Amount Paid under Irregular Deed Recoverable.—A purchaser of land at a tax sale under the statute, subsequently acquiring an invalid title by reason of insufficient description, or void for not having been made within the statutory time, is entitled to have the amount he has paid therefor declared a lien on the land in his favor. Southern Immigration Improvement, etc., Co. v. Rosey, 144 N. C. 370, 57 S. E. 2.

Cited in Orange County v. Wilson, 202 N. C. 424, 163 S. E. 113.

§ 8037. Purchaser shall foreclose. — Every holder of a sheriff's certificate of sale or real estate for taxes shall have the right of lien against all real estate described in the certificate as in case of mortgage, and shall be subrogated to the rights of the state and of the county, or other municipal corporation, for the taxes for which such real estate was sold, and shall be entitled to a judgment for the sale of such real estate for the satisfaction of whatever sums may be due to him upon such certificate of sale and for any other amounts expended by him upon any other such certificate of sale of such real estate, or for taxes or assessments paid which were a lien upon such real estate, whether paid prior or subsequent to the acquisition of such certificate of sale. Such relief shall be afforded only in an action in the nature of an action to foreclose a mortgage, which action must be commenced as herein provided. Such action shall be governed in all respects as near as may be, by the rules governing actions to foreclose a mortgage. The person in whose name said real estate has been listed for taxation, together with the wife or husband, if married, shall be made defendants in said action and shall be served with process as in civil actions.

Notice, by posting at the courthouse door, shall be given to all other persons claiming any interest in the subject matter of the action to appear, present and defend their claims. Said notice shall describe the nature of the action and shall require such persons to set up their claims in six months from the date of the final appearance of the general advertisement of such notice as required herein or at any time before the order to make deed is made, otherwise they shall be forever barred and foreclosed of any and all interest or claims in/or to the property or the proceeds received from the sale thereof. General advertisement shall be made of such notice by publication, which advertisement shall appear once a week for four successive weeks and shall contain substantially the following:

FORECLOSURE SUITS FOR TAXES

ACTIONS INSTITUTED DURING THE MONTH OF

....., 19.....

..... Advertisement.

(First, second, third, or final)

Names of Plaintiffs. Names of Defendants. Township. Year Taxes Delinquent.

The cost of the general advertisement shall be prorated and taxed against each defendant. Upon the return of the summons executed upon the taxpayer, his/her wife or husband, the court shall proceed to judgment without awaiting the six months allowed to other claimants. In case the action is prosecuted by the state, county or other municipality, no prosecuting bond shall be required to be deposited or paid any officer; costs shall be taxed against the defendant or defendants as in other cases and after and when collected shall be paid to the officers entitled to receive the same: Provided, the fees allowed any officer shall not exceed one-half such fees allowed in other civil actions. The deed which shall be made to the purchaser as hereinafter provided for, shall convey the real estate to the purchaser in fee simple free from any and all claims or interest of the taxpayer his/her wife or husband or of any other person.

In the complaint filed in such action each certificate of sale held by the plaintiff and each sum expended by him for taxes or assessments on such real estate, or claimed by him as a lien on same, shall be set out separately. The description set out in the tax sale certificate shall be sufficient to support the lien and certificate of sale and the court shall require a description which is in fact and in law sufficient description of the real estate to be set out in the published notice, if any, as above provided, and in the interlocutory judgment of sale and in the final judgment of confirmation and to the end that such description may be obtained, the resident or presiding judge may order a survey of said real estate, if in his opinion a survey is necessary.

Every county, or political subdivision of the state which is now, or may hereafter become, the holder by purchase at sheriff's sale of land for taxes of any certificate of sale, shall bring action to foreclose the same within twenty-four months from the date of the certificate: Provided, however, the board of commissioners of any county or the governing body of any municipality shall employ an attorney to conduct such actions and shall fix his compensation which shall be paid out of the general fund and shall cause to be taxed in the bill of costs a fee which in no event shall exceed ten dollars ($10.00) in each suit for foreclosure for the purpose of reimbursing the general fund for the compensation of said attorney, and: Provided, further, no process tax shall be taxed for the use of the state against the defendant in any action to foreclose a certificate of sale.

The certificate of sale shall bear interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum on the entire amount of taxes and sheriff's cost, for a period of twelve months from the date of sale and thereafter shall bear interest at the rate of eight per centum per annum until paid, or until the final judgment of confirmation is rendered, but every holder of a certificate other than county, municipal corporation or other political subdivision, shall, in case said action is not instituted within eighteen months from the date of the first certificate of sale, only receive after the expiration of eighteen months on all amounts expended on, or in connection with, said purchase interest at the rate of 6 per centum per annum. In any action to foreclose the cost shall be taxed as in other civil actions and shall include an allowance for the commissioner appointed to make the sale, which shall not be more than 5 per centum of the amount at which the land is sold and one reasonable attorney's fee for plaintiff.

All certificates of sale evidencing purchases by counties shall immediately, upon being allowed as a credit in the settlement with the sheriff of the county, be delivered to the county accountant, county auditor, or other officer, specifically designated by the board of county commissioners, or other governing board of the county, except sheriff or tax collecting officer, and it shall be the duty of the officer, or such officer designated, to collect the same. In making the collection he shall collect interest at the rate provided in this chapter, which shall not be remitted either by said officer or the governing board of the county, or other political subdivision. If, at the end of sixteen months from the date of the certificate of sale, full collection of the tax, interest and cost has not been made, such officer shall proceed to foreclose the certificate of sale under the provisions of this article, and said action shall be instituted within twenty-four months from the date of the certificate of sale. Such officer shall call upon the county attorney to conduct the action to foreclose the certificate of sale and it shall be his duty to prosecute said action as vigorously as may be necessary to obtain early final action. After the institution of the action by counties or municipalities, the taxpayer shall have no right of redemption except upon the payment of the full tax, interest and other sums, and all cost and allowances, provided that the institution of the action to foreclose, shall not affect the rate of interest to be collected and the governing board of the county, or municipality, shall have no authority to remit or reduce the interest due under the certificate of sale, or otherwise interfere with the action to foreclose. Where the certificate of sale is taken by a municipality, all the provisions of this section shall apply to the foreclosure of such certificate of sale and to its collection and the governing authorities of the municipality may place such certificates of sale in the hands of one of its officers for collection and he shall have the same authority to collect them as the officer herein provided for counties. (1927, c. 221, s. 4; 1929, c. 204, ss. 2, 4; 1929, c. 334, s. 2; 1931, c. 260, ss. 1-5; 1933, c. 532, s. 1; 1935, c. 313.)

Cross Reference.—As to the constitutionality of Public Laws 1931, c. 260, § 3, if it attempts to revive a right of action, see Wilkes County v. Forester, 204 N. C. 163, 167 S. E. 691.

As to enforcement of tax lien in foreclosure, see section 7990 and the note thereto.

Editor's Note.—Before the act of 1927, c. 221, the purchaser of land at a tax sale could take a deed from the sheriff or bring a suit for foreclosure as in case of a mortgage. This was changed by that act, and the remedy was limited to a foreclosure (§ 8028) according to the method provided in the act. This was found to be rather burdensome and expensive, and the acts of 1929 made the procedure somewhat shorter and simpler and reduced the expense. This, however, was still found to be expensive and gave rise to much complaint, especially since in the great majority of sales the county or the municipality was forced to become the purchaser and then to bring the suits for foreclosure. The Act of 1931 also made some important changes in the practice, as will be seen from a comparison of the present with the former section. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 396.

The Act of 1931 as amended by Public Laws 1931, c. 389, provided: "Any person, corporation or firm, or the board of commissioners of any county or the governing body of any municipality holding a certificate of sale on which an action to foreclose has not been brought but according to the terms of chapter two hundred twenty-one of the Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven as amended should have been brought, shall have until the first day of December, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, to institute such action. This section and extension shall include all certificates executed for the sales prior to and including sales for the tax levy of the year one thousand nine hundred twenty-eight. The board of commissioners or the governing body of any county or municipality holding any certificate upon which action, has been brought, but upon which final judgment of confirmation has not been rendered, may, by recorded resolution, cause such action to be held in abeyance until the first day of December, one thousand nine hundred thirty-one, and the court shall abide by such resolution: Provided, however, that where any action to foreclose has heretofore been instituted or brought for the collection of any tax certificate, prior to the ratification of this act, under the then existing laws, nothing herein shall prevent or prohibit the continuance and suing to completion any of said suit or suits under the laws existing at the time of institution of said action. When a certificate of sale is held by a county and also by a city or town for the same tract or parcel of real property, both of such governmental units may be joined as parties plaintiff in the same foreclosure action, and in such event the proceeds derived from a foreclosure sale of such real property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the claims, shall be apportioned by the Court to the parties according to their respective liens."

As to provision excepting pending litigation, etc., see note to section 8017.

The provision in the third paragraph that the deed executed under the order of foreclosure shall convey to the purchaser the land free from the claims of all persons, probably means the claims of the defendants served with process will be immediately barred by the judgment, and the claims of others notified by publication will be barred after the expiration of the six months. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 399.

Public Laws of 1929 ch. 207, applicable only to Caldwell County, struck out all of paragraph five of this section and the words "and said action shall be instituted within eighteen months from the date of the certificate of sale" formerly appearing in lines 19 to 20 of the last paragraph of the section. Public Laws 1929 ch. 151 made the same amendments as to Bladen County.

Public Laws 1929 ch. 207 provided: "Whenever Buncombe County or any municipal corporation or political sub-division of the state therein, is required to institute actions for the foreclosure of tax sale certificates under the provisions of this section, the County Attorney shall be and he is hereby relieved of any duty to institute and prosecute such actions, and the Board of County Commissioners of said county, is authorized to institute and prosecute such actions through counsel to be designated by said Board or governing body, or the governing body of such municipal corporation or political sub-division.

Public Laws of 1933, c. 532, inserted, near the middle of the second paragraph of this section, the words "or at any time before the order to make deed is made."

Public Laws 1933, c. 560, in repealing Public Laws 1933, c. 148, provides: In no event shall the attorney fee exceed two dollars and fifty cents in each suit for foreclosure; the total cost of the taxpayer including attorneys' fee shall not exceed six dollars, including the newspaper advertisement which shall not exceed three dollars, and the interest and penalty on tax sale certificates shall be eight per centum per annum. So far as the provisions of laws in force on January 1, 1933, relate to taxes levied in 1932 and 1933, all actions and proceedings required to be taken in the months of May, June, and July, in the years 1933 and 1934, shall be taken in the months of August, September, and October, respectively. Suits to foreclose certificates evidencing sales in 1931 and prior years for taxes or special assessments on real property may be brought at any time not later than October 1, 1934. The act also provides that nothing therein shall be construed as repealing any of the provisions of sections 2492(36), 7880-(196), 8034(a)-8034(n), any part of the Machinery Act of 1933, or any private or public-local act of 1933, relating to the levy or collection of taxes in Mecklenburg, Gaston, Ashe, Macon, Davidson, Swain, Wayne, Pitt, Guilford, Lee, Yancey, Craven, and Henderson counties. The act further provides that it shall not effect Wake county or any suit pending in Guilford county on the 8th day of April, 1931, in which the real estate affected shall not be redeemed before the final sale.

Public Laws of 1933, chapter 560, is amended by Public Laws of 1935, chapters 108, 305, 368, 428, 448.

For an act applicable in Northampton County only, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 103. For an act applicable in Mitchell county only, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 217, as amended by chapter 349. For amendment limiting the time to the years 1935 and 1936, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 234, as amended by chapters 336, 366, 395; Public Laws of 1931, chapter 260, as amended by Public Laws of 1935, chapter 368. For an act relating to Granville county only, see Public Laws of 1935, chapter 286.

Requirements Mandatory.—Under this section, a good tax title can be obtained by sale, but the statute must be strictly followed. Bryson v. McCoy, 194 N. C. 91, 97.

This section is intended to facilitate the collection of taxes and to assure purchasers at tax sales that there is such a thing as "a good tax deed." Buncombe County v. Arbogast, 205 N. C. 745, 748, 172 S. E. 364.

The limitation on the time for bringing the action under this section has no application to the foreclosure of the lien of taxes under section 7990. New Hanover County v. Whiteman, 190 N. C. 332, 129 S. E. 808. See note of this case under section 7990.

The State as a sovereign power has the right to prescribe by statute the notice to be given to those interested in lands to be foreclosed under tax sale certificates except where the manner of notice interferes with the provisions of the Federal Constitution, and a statutory provision that substitutes notice by publication to be given in the newspapers as in an action in rem does not violate the "due process" clause of the Federal Constitution, and the purchaser at the judicial foreclosure sale, when fairly made in conformity with the provisions of this and following sections acquires title free from the claims of those who may have an interest in the locus in quo who do not appear and defend their rights. Orange County v. Jenkins, 200 N. C. 202, 156 S. E. 774.

Service Is Complete upon Compliance with Section.—This section designates those upon whom original process must be served and requires nothing more than constructive service upon all other persons who claim an interest in the subject-matter; and when these provisions are complied with the service is complete. Orange County v. Wilson, 202 N. C. 424, 427, 163 S. E. 113.

Legal and Equitable Owners May Appear and Move That Deed Be Cancelled.—The legal and equitable owners of land, although not parties to the suit to foreclose a tax certificate on the land, as provided by this section, may appear and make a motion to cancel the deed to the purchaser at the sale, and to make the purchaser at the sale a party to the action, on the grounds that the land was not listed in the name of the true owner, as provided by §§ 7971(15), (36), and that the service by publication obtained in the action was void because the listed owner was a resident of the county. Buncombe County v. Penland, 206 N. C. 299, 173 S. E. 609.

Rights of Mortgage Lien Holders.—Where those claiming a mortgage lien on lands have their mortgage on record before the beginning of proceedings to enforce the tax lien on the lands and have been served by publication in the action to foreclose the tax certificate, in accordance with the provisions of this section, and within six months from the service by publication they appear and file answers, their mortgage liens are not affected by the sale of the lands by a commissioner appointed by the court in the action to foreclose the tax certificate, and upon establishing their interest in the land, they are entitled to have the judgment and sale of the land declared void, and the deed to the purchaser at the sale set aside upon reimbursing the purchaser for the amount of taxes paid plus interest, penalties and costs. Street v. Hildebrand, 205 N. C. 208, 171 S. E. 58.

It is necessary that the holders of liens under prior registered mortgages be made parties and be duly served with summons in proceedings to foreclose a tax sale certificate in order for the purchaser at the sale to obtain title free from the lien of the encumbrances, the holders of such liens being entitled to notice and an opportunity to be heard under the fundamental law of the land as a part of due process, and the provisions of this section cannot affect this fundamental right of notice and hearing. Beaufort County v. Mayo, 207 N. C. 211, 176 S. E. 753.

This section eliminates the purchaser's right to demand a deed and provides that relief shall be afforded only in an action in the nature of a suit to foreclose a mortgage. For historical background, see Forsyth County v. Joyce, 204 N. C. 734, 738, 169 S. E. 655.

When Owner Is Minor.—Under the provisions of this section an action instituted in September, 1929, against the person in whose name the land was listed to foreclose tax certificates for the years of 1924, 1925, 1926, and 1928, in which the minor owner was made a party by summons issued in February, 1932, is not barred by the statute of limitations. Forsyth County v. Joyce, 204 N. C. 734, 169 S. E. 655.

As to actions against minors, see § 451 and notes thereto.

Remedy Is Ineffective after Eighteen Months.—Even if the sovereign elects or chooses to foreclose the sale certificate, this section sets the time clock on eighteen months from the date of the certificate, and after the lapse of that period, the remedy is ineffective. Logan v. Griffith, 205 N. C. 580, 582, 172 S. E. 348.

County Bound by Limitation. — Where a county has purchased certain land at a tax sale and elects to proceed to foreclose its tax certificate under the provisions of § 8028, the county is bound by the limitation prescribed by this section, and its action to foreclose such certificate is barred after the elapse of eighteen months from the date of the purchase of the certificates when the limitation prescribed by the statute is properly pleaded. Wilkes County v. Forester, 204 N. C. 163, 167 S. E. 691.

The lien for taxes can be enforced by the State or its political subdivisions under § 7990, and no statute of limitations applies to the sovereign in such action, but where the State or its political subdivisions elect to proceed under this section, the limitations therein prescribed apply. Reichland Shale Products Co. v. Southern Steel, etc., Co., 200 N. C. 226, 156 S. E. 777.

Cited in Craven County v. Parker, 194 N. C. 561, 140 S. E. 155.

§ 8037(a). Neglect of duty by officer misdemeanor. — Any officer required by this act to collect certificates of sale, or foreclose the same, or designated by the governing board of any county to perform said duties, who shall neglect his duties with respect thereto, shall upon conviction be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to such fine or imprisonment as may be imposed by the court in its discretion and, in addition thereto, shall be liable for any loss resulting from his negligence. (1927, c. 221, s. 4.)

Public Laws 1929, ch. 149, § 2, repealed this section as to Buncombe County.

§ 8037(a½). Judgments pro confesso by clerk as to non-answering defendants.—In any action to foreclose the certificate of sale under the provisions of this act when it has been properly instituted and all party defendants have been properly served and the complaint is duly verified and and no answer is filed by some or all of said defendants, the clerk of the superior court in which such action is instituted may give a judgment pro confesso in which all the essential facts alleged in the complaint are recited against those defendants not answering. If none of the defendants, so properly served, file any answer, said clerk may proceed and make the orders provided for in this section without transferring the cause to the superior court in term time, and the same jurisdiction in such cases to make such orders as that conferred upon the resident judge of the superior court or the judge riding the district, is conferred upon the clerk. Where any of the parties, however, have answered and the answer creates any issue as to those parties, the subsequent proceedings shall be as provided in § 8037 as amended, except that the judgment pro confesso shall bind the parties who have not answered, and the facts so found shall be taken by the judge of the superior court as binding upon those particular defendants. But no such judgment shall be effective, or be made to become effective, until final order to make deed is made. (1929, c. 204, s. 3; 1933, c. 532, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 532, added the last sentence of this section as it now reads.

Judgment by Default as Creating Estoppel.—Where the county has bid in land sold by it for nonpayment of taxes and assigned the certificate to another for value, and the assignee has brought action to foreclose his certificate in which summons has been served on the owners of the land in whose name the lands had been listed, a judgment by default final for the want of an answer will estop the original owners of the land or those claiming under them from claiming title as against the purchaser at the sale of the lands by the commissioner appointed by the court in the foreclosure proceedings. Street v. Hildebrand, 205 N. C. 208, 171 S. E. 58.

§ 8037(b). Filing of list of liens by lien holder with registers of deeds. — Between the first day of December and the first day of May after taxes are due, any lien holder or interested party may file a list with the register of deeds containing the names of taxpayers on whose property a lien or interest is held showing such information with respect to each of such taxpayers as is hereinafter required to be recorded by said register of deeds. Such list shall be accompanied by a fee of ten cents for each name contained therein and may be filed with the register of deeds by registered mail with a return receipt requested therefor. It shall thereupon be the duty of the register of deeds to record such list in a book designated as "Record of Taxes for Mortgagees" and such record shall contain with respect to each taxpayer included in such list as filed the following:

The date when the list was filed,

The name of the taxpayer,

The name and address of the lien holder or other interested party,

The book and page in his office wherein such lien or liens are recorded, and

If said property is subject to taxes of a municipality, the name of such municipality.

The register of deeds shall keep a cross-index of such "Records of Taxes for Mortgagees" and in any action to foreclose a certificate of sale, all lien holders or other interested parties having filed a list as provided herein and if such list contains the name of the defendant in the action, shall be made parties to said action and the cost of the service of the summons shall be taxed against the lien holder. The rights of such lien holders shall not be affected unless made parties to the action. (1931, c. 260, s. 6.)

This section cannot affect the fundamental law requiring notice and opportunity to be heard. Beaufort County v. Mayo, 207 N. C. 211, 216, 176 S. E. 753.

Part 5. Redemption from Tax Sales

§ 8038. Manner of redemption.—The owner or occupant of any land sold for taxes, or any person having a lien thereon or any interest or estate therein, may redeem the same, at any time within one year after the day of such sale, by paying the sheriff for the use of such purchaser, his heirs or assigns, the sum mentioned in his certificate, with interest thereon at the rate of twenty per centum per annum from the date of purchase, together with all other taxes subsequently paid, whether for any year previous or subsequent to such sale, and interest thereon at the same rate from the date of such payment, together with all costs and provisions of this chapter. The sheriff shall enter a memorandum of the redemption in the list of sales and give a receipt therefor to the person redeeming the same, for which he may charge a fee of twenty-five cents, to be paid by the person redeeming, and shall hold the redemption money paid, subject to the order of the purchaser, his agent or attorney. But if any such purchaser, other than a county or other municipal corporation, shall suffer such real estate to be again sold for taxes, he shall be entitled to only ten per cent interest, instead of twenty per cent, as allowed in this and the next preceding section. Infants, idiots, and insane persons may redeem any land belonging to them within one year after the expiration of such disability on like terms as if the redemption had been made within one year from the date of said sale and from the date of each subsequent payment of taxes thereon at the rate of twenty per centum per annum on the several amounts so paid by the purchaser until redemption. (Rev., s. 2913; 1901, c. 558, ss. 11, 12.)

Cross Reference.—For full treatment of the subject, see 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 637 et seq.; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 569 et seq. As to forfeiture by life tenant failing to redeem, see section 7982 and the note thereto; as to redemption by remaindermen, see note of Smith v. Miller, 158 N. C. 98, 102, 73 S. E. 118, under section 7982.

Editor's Note.—For an act, purporting in its caption to be applicable in Buncombe county only but general in its terms, providing for the redemption of land sold during 1928, 1929, and 1930, see Public Laws 1933, c. 280.

Statutory Requirements Mandatory.—To be entitled to redeem land from a tax sale, the person must comply with the requirements of this section, and the right exists only when this is done. Jones v. Schull, 153 N. C. 517, 69 S. E. 498.

Sole Remedy of Landowner.—The right of redemption given by this section constitutes the sole remedy of the landowner or occupant. Townsend v. Drainage Commissioners, 174 N. C. 556, 560, 94 S. E. 104. Citing and approving, Beck v. Meroney, 135 N. C. 532, 47 S. E. 613.

Exercise of Right on Last Day.—Where an owner of land has until a certain day to redeem land sold for taxes, a tender of the tax on that day by the owner or his agent, is in time. Thomas v. Nichols, 127 N. C. 319, 37 S. E. 327.

Erroneous Calculation by Sheriff.—When the amount necessary to redeem is erroneously calculated by the sheriff, and the amount so computed is paid by the owner, such payment constitutes a redemption, as the party redeeming has the right to rely on the statement of the state's officer as to the amount due. Beck v. Meroney, 135 N. C. 532, 47 S. E. 613.

Error of Few Cents in Fixing Amount.—Where the owner or his agent inquires of the sheriff, or his deputy in charge, the amount to be paid for the redemption, such owner or his agent has a right to regard the amount so stated as correct, and an error of a few cents made by the sheriff in fixing the amount will not be held fatal. Thompson v. Whitehall Co., 203 N. C. 652, 166 S. E. 807.

Medium of Payment.—It is sufficient to make payment to the sheriff by check. Beck v. Meroney, 135 N. C. 532, 47 S. E. 613.

Applicability to Minors.—The last clause of this section so far as it affects minors, is not now effective. Forsyth County v. Joyce, 204 N. C. 734, 739, 169 S. E. 655.

Redemption by Infants—Extension of Time.—For a minor to be entitled to an extension of time, beyond the statutory period, he must have been the owner of the property at the time of the sale. McMillan v. Hogan, 129 N. C. 314, 40 S. E. 63. Failure to redeem after one year of the removal of his disability, will bar the infant's right to redeem. Jones v. Schull, 153 N. C. 517, 69 S. E. 498.

Same—Death of Owner During Redemption Period.—The death of the owner of land, sold for taxes, before the expiration of the period given for redemption, does not extend the time for redemption until the owner's infant heirs become of age. McMillan v. Hogan, 129 N. C. 314, 40 S. E. 63.

Effect of Redemption on Subsequent Deed.—Where the property owner exercises his right to redeem before the county commissioners direct the execution of a deed to the purchaser, the deed is ineffectual. Merrimon v. Lyman, 124 N. C. 434, 32 S. E. 732. As to effect of husband's tender to redeem land belonging to his wife, see note of Eames v. Armstrong, 146 N. C. 1, 59 S. E. 165, under section 8019.

Applied in Braswell v. Richmond County, 206 N. C. 74, 173 S. E. 41.

Cited in Hines v. Williams, 198 N. C. 420, 152 S. E. 39; Buncombe County v. Arbogast, 205 N. C. 745, 749, 172 S. E. 364.

§ 8039. To whose benefit it inures.—Any redemption made shall inure to the benefit of the person having the legal or equitable title to the property redeemed, subject to the right of the person making the same to be reimbursed by the person benefited, which reimbursement is hereby made a condition precedent to the vesting of any interest or estate, under the benefits of this section, in the real estate redeemed in the person whose duty it is to make such reimbursement. (Rev., s. 2914; 1901, c. 558, s. 11.)

Art. 15. Sheriff's Settlement of Taxes

Part 1. Settlements with State Treasurer

§ 8040. Record of settlement of taxes kept.—Every sheriff shall keep a record of the taxes collected by him from the clerk of the court, register of deeds, and under schedule B of license taxes in this chapter. A suitable book for the purpose shall be provided by the state auditor for recording all forfeitures, arrears from insolvents, double taxes and taxes on unlisted subjects; and on the first Monday in December in each year the sheriff shall deliver, on oath, to the board of commissioners a statement setting forth all sums received to that date not previously accounted for, the date of such receipts, the person from whom received, the amount received from each person, the subjects on which received, and the aggregate amounts, accompanied by an affidavit taken and subscribed before the clerk of the commissioners and attested by him, that the statement is correct, and that no receipts have been omitted; and the register of deeds shall record the same in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall, before the second Monday in December, send an abstract of such statement, with the affidavit, to the state auditor, on a blank to be furnished by the state auditor, record the same in a book kept in his office for that purpose, and keep a copy of the same in a conspicuous place in the courthouse until the first day of January next ensuing. (Rev., s. 5244; 1917, c. 234, s. 89; 1919, c. 92, s. 100.)

§ 8041. How insolvents allowed.—No tax due from insolvents shall be credited to the sheriff in settlements with the state auditor except such as shall be allowed by the board of commissioners, a list whereof, containing the names and amounts and subscribed by the sheriff, shall be returned by him to the board of commissioners, and the same shall be allowed only on his making oath that he has been at the dwelling-house or usual place of abode of each of the taxpayers and could not there or elsewhere in the county find any property wherewith to discharge his taxes or such part thereof as is returned unpaid, and that the persons named in the list were insolvent at the time when by law he ought to have endeavored to collect the taxes. Such list shall be recorded in the commissioners' docket and a copy thereof shall be returned to the state auditor on or before the day of the settlement of the sheriff with the treasurer. (1917, c. 234, s. 89; 1919, c. 92, s. 89.)

§ 8042. Time and manner of settlement.—The sheriff or other accounting officer shall, on or before the second Monday of January in each year, settle his estate tax account with the commissioners of his county and pay the amount for which said sheriff or collector is liable to the treasurer of the state, in such manner or at such place as he shall direct, on or before the third Monday of said month: Provided, the state treasurer may extend the time on a sufficient amount to cover the state tax on the land sales in each county to the first Monday in May. The commissioners shall forthwith report to the state auditor the amount due from such accounting officer, setting forth therein the net amount due to each fund; and the treasurer, upon a statement from the state auditor, shall open an account against such officer and debit him accordingly. Upon the failure of the board of county commissioners to make this report to the state auditor on or before the third Monday of January of each year, or if a report has been filed which is not correct and the commissioners fail to file an amended and corrected report within thirty days after being notified so to do by the state auditor, the commissioners of such county shall each personally be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars, and it shall be the duty of the state auditor forthwith to institute an action in the county of Wake to enforce the same. The sheriff or tax collector, in making his settlements as aforesaid, shall file with the commissioners a duplicate of the list required in this chapter. In such settlement the sheriff or other officer shall be charged with the amount of public tax as the same appears by the abstract of the taxables transmitted to the state auditor; also with all double taxes on unlisted property by him received, and with other tax which he may have collected or for which he is chargeable. The state auditor shall give to each sheriff or tax collector a certified statement embracing the subjects of taxation contained in both lists and the amount of tax on each subject which the sheriff or tax collector shall deposit with the clerk of the commissioners of his county for public inspection. The sheriffs and tax collectors shall receive five per cent on all taxes collected by them for state, county, township, school district, or other purposes whatsoever, up to the sum of fifty thousand dollars, and upon all such sums so collected by him in excess thereof he shall receive two and one-half per cent commission, and the sheriffs or tax collectors shall receive for their own use, in addition to other fees or salary received by them, commission of five per cent on all privilege and license taxes collected under schedule B of the revenue act, and any provision in any local act in conflict with this provision is hereby repealed. All laws and clauses of laws, whether general or special, in conflict herewith are hereby repealed: Provided further, that this section shall not apply so as to affect the compensation of the sheriff or tax collector of Buncombe county as fixed by private statute. (Rev., s. 5245; 1917, c. 234, s. 101; 1919, c. 92, s. 101.)

As to sheriff's duty to settle school tax, and penalty for failure to do so, see section 5500 and note thereto.

The Settlement Has Attributes of Contract.—An account stated and settlement between a county and its tax collector have the force of a contract, and operate as a bar to a subsequent accounting, except upon a specific allegation of fraud or mistake. Settle v. Doggett, 87 N. C. 203.

Failure of Sheriff to Pay—Action by Commissioners.—It was held in Commissioners v. Clarke, 73 N. C. 255, that no action upon the bond of a sheriff for a failure to pay taxes could be brought on the relation of the commissioner except on the failure or refusal of the county treasurer to bring the action.

Fees of Sheriff Regulated by Legislature.—The regulation of the sheriff's fees is within the control of the legislature and may be reduced during the term of the incumbent. Commissioner v. Stedman, 141 N. C. 448, 54 S. E. 269.

Same—Basis of Compensation Changed—(1) Right of Out-Going Sheriff.—A sheriff whose term of office expires is entitled to collect the taxes on the lists in his hands and to receive commissioner therefor, notwithstanding the office has been placed upon a salary basis for his successor. Commissioner v. Bain, 173 N. C. 377, 92 S. E. 176. As to presumption surrounding such an act of the legislature, see note of this case under section 3207.

Same—Same—(2) Where Sheriff Re-Elected.—Upon the re-election of the sheriff he receives only the salary fixed by the act of legislature changing the basis of compensation. Miller v. Deaton, 170 N. C. 386, 87 S. E. 123.

Same—Drainage Districts.—This section, allowing sheriffs a commission of 5 per cent on "assessments collected," refers only to taxes collected for general governmental purposes, and not to assessments in drainage districts imposed for the special benefits to the lands therein, and commissions on assessments for maintenance are limited to 2 per cent by Laws 1909; and this construction is not affected by the repeal of sec. 36, Laws 1909, by ch. 152, sec. 2, Laws 1917. Commissioners v. Davis, 182 N. C. 140, 108 S. E. 506.

§ 8043. Deductions allowed sheriff.—The state auditor, in making the settlement of the amount due from the sheriff or tax collector aforesaid, shall deduct from the list returned—

1. Taxes on personal property certified by the clerk of the commissioners of the county, by order of the commissioners, to be insolvent and uncollectible.

2. All overpayments made in former settlements by reason of any error in the clerk's abstracts of taxables.

3. The commission allowed by law. (Rev., s. 5246; 1917, c. 234, s. 102; 1919, c. 92, s. 102.)

Scope of Deduction.—The State Auditor is permitted under this section to make deduction of over-payment in the settlement for taxes collected when there is error in the "clerk's abstract of taxables," and the sheriff is "charged with more than the true amount," etc. (section 8047) and though the same deductions and corrections are permitted the county in making settlement under section 1322, these statutes are inapplicable when the credits claimed are not for either of these causes. Commissioners v. Hall, 177 N. C. 490, 99 S. E. 372.

The foregoing decision was placed on the ground that "to do otherwise would be to permit an offset or counterclaim." It is to be noted that by the 1927 amendment, taxes are made a debt for all purposes. It would seem that offset and counterclaim are now applicable to taxes.—Ed. Note.

§ 8044. Sheriff's compensation for settlement.—For his settlement with the state treasurer the sheriff or tax collector shall be allowed by said board of commissioners, and deducted from the amount due the state, three dollars for each day he may be actually necessarily engaged therein with the commissioners at the county-seat. (Rev., s. 5247; 1917, c. 234, s. 103; 1919, c. 92, s. 103.)

§ 8045. Penalty for failure to settle.—In every case of failure by the sheriff or other accounting officer to settle his account within sixty days from the time prescribed by section 8042 for such settlement, and to take the oath required in his settlement and pay the amount due to the treasurer, the state auditor shall forthwith report to the treasurer the account of such sheriff or officer, as shown by abstract of listed and unlisted taxables furnished by the register of deeds or auditor for such county, deducting therefrom for commissions, but adding thereto one thousand dollars and ten per centum of the amount of taxes with which said sheriff is charged for the amount of taxes supposed not to appear in the list transmitted by the register of deeds or auditor, and furnish him a copy of the official bond of the said officer and his sureties; and if the whole amount be not paid, the treasurer, on motion of the solicitor in superior court of Wake county, before the clerk thereof, within thirty days after default shall have occurred, shall recover judgment against him and his sureties, without other notice than is given by the delinquency of the officer; and to the end that obligations and names may be known, the clerk of the superior court shall, on or before the second Monday in each year, transmit to the state auditor a copy, certified under the seal of the court, of the bond of the sheriff and his sureties, upon pain for his default of forfeitng to the state one thousand dollars, which the state auditor shall and is hereby specially charged to collect in like manner and at such times as is provided in this section. (Rev., 5248; 1917, c. 234, s. 104; 1919, c. 92, s. 104.)

Constitutionality.—This section is constitutional. Worth v. Cox, 89 N. C. 44.

Where Payment Obtained before Clerk.—It is no valid objection to a judgment obtained on a sheriff's bond, for his failure to collect and pay over the public taxes, that the judgment was obtained before the Clerk of the Superior Court, and that the same was also taken without notice to the sureties. Prairie v. Jenkins, 75 N. C. 545. Nor is it essential that a demand be made. McGuire v. Williams, 123 N. C. 349, 31 S. E. 627.

§ 8046. Penalties may be released.—The treasurer of the state, with the advice and approval of the attorney-general, is hereby authorized, when in the judgment of these officers it may be best to secure the interest of the state and will not lose any lien held by the state, to grant indulgence to defendants in execution and relinquish penalties upon payment of amount of dues owing to the state; and likewise to bid for in behalf of the state and purchase property of said defendants when deemed necessary to secure the payment of the dues. (Rev., s. 5252; 1917, c. 234, s. 106; 1919, c. 92, s. 106.)

§ 8047. Sheriff may recover overpayment.—If a sheriff or tax collector shall, in consequence of an error in the abstract of taxes sent to the state auditor, or otherwise, be charged with more than the true amount with which he should be chargeable, and pay the amount so charged in excess to the treasurer of the state, the auditor shall, upon the certificate of the board of commissioners setting forth the nature of such error, give his warrant upon the treasurer of the state for the amount so paid in excess, and the treasurer shall pay the same. (Rev., s. 5261; 1917, c. 234, s. 80; 1919, c. 92, s. 80.)

The errors under this section are confined to those causing the sheriff to be "charged with more than the true amount with which he should be chargeable." Commissioners v. Hall, 177 N. C. 490, 492, 99 S. E. 372.

Part 2. Settlement of County Taxes

§ 8048. Time for settlement of county taxes.—The sheriff or tax collector shall pay the county taxes to the county treasurer or other lawful officer. He shall at no time retain over three thousand dollars for a longer time than ten days under a penalty of two per centum per month to the county upon all sums so unlawfully retained, and shall, on oath, render a statement to the board of commissioners at their monthly meeting of the amount in his hands. On or before the first Monday of February in each year the sheriff shall account to the county treasurer or other lawful officer for all taxes due the county for the fiscal year, and on failing to do so he shall pay the county treasurer a penalty of two per centum per month on all sums unpaid, and this shall be continued until final settlement: Provided, the board of county commissioners may in their discretion relieve the sheriff or tax collector of said penalty of two per centum per month upon payment in full of the county taxes: Provided further, the county commissioners may extend the time of settlement of county taxes by the sheriff of the county to the first Monday in May. (Rev., s. 5249; 1917, c. 234, s. 105; 1919, c. 92, s. 105.)

§ 8049. Manner of settlement.—The sheriff or tax collector shall be charged with the sums appearing by the tax list as due for the county taxes, and shall be allowed to deduct therefrom, in like manner as is prescribed by law in regard to his settlement of the state taxes, all insolvents and uncollectible poll taxes, and also the amount of county tax on the lands bid off by the county, and costs and fees, which shall be, for making a deed, fifty cents; for registering, twenty-five cents; and such other necessary sums as were actually paid by the sheriff: Provided, a majority of any board of county commissioners may extend the time for collecting and settlement of county taxes in the respective counties to such time as they may deem expedient, not to extend beyond the first of May in the year following in which taxes were levied: Provided further, that any sheriff, tax collector or county treasurer who shall use any part of the county or state taxes otherwise than as directed by law shall forfeit double the amount of his commission on county and state taxes for the year in which he so misused said taxes. No mortgage or lien on any property shall be superior to the taxes on such property, whether said mortgage or lien was given prior or subsequent to the levy of the taxes. (Rev., s. 5250; 1917, c. 234, s. 107; 1919, c. 92, s. 107.)

Liability of Commissioners to Sureties.—The county commissioners are not liable to the sureties in a sheriff's bond where such sureties have been compelled to pay for the failure of the sheriff to comply with this section. Hudson v. McArthur, 152 N. C. 445, 67 S. E. 995.

As to right of sheriff to have granted him allowance for insolvents, where he fails to settle for taxes within appointed time, see note of Board v. Wall, 117 N. C. 378, 23 S. E. 358, under section 3930.

§ 8050. Auditing accounts of officers. — The board of county commissioners, at their last regular or other subsequent meeting in each year, shall appoint one or more of their number, not to exceed three, to be present at the accounting and settlements between the sheriff and county treasurer provided for in the preceding section, and also to audit and settle accounts of the county treasurer and all other county officers authorized to receive or disburse county funds. The account so audited shall be reported to the board of county commissioners, and when approved by them shall be filed with the clerk and recorded on his book, and shall be prima facie evidence of their correctness, and impeachable only for fraud or special error: Provided, the compensation allowed the committee for their services shall not exceed three dollars per day each for the time actually spent in said settlements, and there shall be no allowance for extra clerical aid. Whenever any ex-sheriff or ex-tax collector, of any county, or tax district, has collected taxes for said county or district for more than one year and has settled in full with the proper officers for said taxes for any and all previous year or years, as provided by law, and it shall be made to appear that there were specific errors or mistakes made against said ex-sheriff or ex-tax collector in any such settlement or settlements, the county commissioners shall have authority to correct any such errors or mistakes or give said ex-sheriff or ex-tax collector credit for the amount of any such errors or mistakes so made against him on his final settlement upon his going out of said office.

In all actions for settlement for taxes due any county or special tax district by any ex-sheriff or ex-tax collector for taxes collected for the last year such ex-sheriff or ex-tax collector collecting said taxes shall receive as a credit by way of set-off or counter claim against any amount for which he may be found liable for such year, any amount that he may have overpaid such county or tax district for any previous year. (Rev., s. 5251; 1917, c. 234, s. 108; 1919, c. 92, s. 108; 1925, c. 254.)

Editor's Note.—The last two clauses contained in this section, providing for the correction of error, etc., found in the settlement of an ex-sheriff or ex-tax collector, are new with the Public Laws 1925.

Untrue Account Prima Facie Fraudulent.—When a public officer renders an account which is not true, it is prima facie fraudulent. Commissioner v. Taylor, 77 N. C. 404.

School Taxes Included in Accounting.—See note of Tillery v. Candler, 118 N. C. 888, 24 S. E. 709, under section 1322.

Stated in Williamson v. Jones, 127 N. C. 178, 37 S. E. 202.

§ 8051. Penalty for failure to account with county.—In case the sheriff of a county shall fail, neglect, or refuse to account with the county treasurer and auditing committee as above required, or to pay what may rightfully be found due on such accounts, he shall forfeit and pay to the state for the use of the county a penalty of twenty-five hundred dollars. It shall be the duty of the county treasurer, and if he neglect or refuse to perform it, it shall be the duty of the chairman of the board of commissioners to cause an action to be brought in the superior court of the county on the bond of the sheriff, against him and his sureties, to recover the amount owing by him and the penalty aforesaid. If the sheriff shall fraudulently and corruptly fail to account as aforesaid, he shall be criminally liable thereupon in like manner and with same penalties imposed for such criminal defalcation as provided in section 8045 for failure to settle the state taxes. (Rev., s. 5253; 1917, c. 234, s. 109; 1919, c. 92, s. 109.)

As to action on sheriff's bond, see section 3930 and the note thereto.

When Penalty Recoverable.—The penalty of $2,500 recoverable as a forfeiture against a sheriff under the provisions of this section is where he fails, neglects, or refuses to make settlement or to render an account to the county treasurer and auditing committee upon demand; or his failure, neglect or refusal to pay over the amount rightfully found to be due after account had or settlement made; and a recovery of such penalty may not be properly allowed in a judgment upon an affirmative finding, in an action where the cause was heard and determined upon the single question as to whether the defendant sheriff had failed to pay over the amount which the sheriff claimed to be due. State v. Gentry, 183 N. C. 825, 112 S. E. 427.

As to account having force of a contract, see note of Suttle v. Doggett, 87 N. C. 203, under section 8042.

Who Entitled to Sue.—It is not the imperative duty of the board of county commissioners to institute suits against a delinquent officer for failure to account and pay over public moneys. Under sec. 1402, the Code, they may do so, but the county treasurer is regularly the proper officer to bring such action; and in an action against a commissioner for failure to perform his duty in that respect, it is necessary to allege and prove that the commissioners negligently failed or willfully refused to exercise their authority. Bray v. Barnard, 109 N. C. 44, 13 S. E. 729.

Defenses—Failure to Appoint Auditing Committee.—Where a sheriff of a county has failed to make settlement of money collected for taxes, as required by law, but has unsuccessfully sought to obtain an extension of time from the county commissioners, he may not successfully resist the statutory penalty under the provisions of this section on the ground that the county board of commissioners had not appointed a committee to audit the account between him and the treasurer, especially when the commissioners had appointed a special auditor who could have acted on the account at any time. State v. Gentry, 183 N. C. 825, 112 S. E. 427.

Same—Tax Books Attached by Creditors.—The fact that the tax books were attached in a suit brought against the sheriff by his creditors subsequently to the time when he should have settled with the commissioners was no defense to the action instituted for the collection of the balance of the taxes due, nor can the sheriff be excused upon the ground that he misunderstood the order of reference made in the action. Board v. Wall, 117 N. C. 378, 23 S. E. 358.

Same—Denial of Credits Due.—Where a sheriff is sued on his bond for taxes due by him, and he defends upon the ground that he has been denied certain credits to which he claims he is due, he must set out such credits specifically in his answer. Williamson v. Jones, 127 N. C. 178, 37 S. E. 202.

Discharge of Part Payment—Burden of Proof.—Where an action is brought against a sheriff for failure to collect and pay over taxes he is properly chargeable with the amount of the tax list, and the burden of proving a discharge of any part thereof is upon him. Board v. Wall, 117 N. C. 378, 23 S. E. 358.

Liability of Deputy's Sureties.—Where a party is deputized for the purpose of collecting taxes, the sureties upon his bond are liable to the county for the money collected by the deputy after the registration of his principal. Perry v. Campbell, 63 N. C. 257.

Action on Bond—Essentials of Complaint.—Where a sheriff had rendered an account of the taxes collected by him in a settlement with the county treasurer, which account was not itemized, it was held, in an action upon his bond that it was not necessary for the complaint to specify any errors in such settlement. Commissioners v. Taylor, 77 N. C. 404.

§ 8052. County treasurer to fix day for settlement.—In each year the county treasurer shall give five days notice to all county officers (except the sheriff) authorized to receive or disburse the county funds, to appear at the courthouse on a certain day in January, before him and the committee appointed by the board of commissioners, and present an account of all sums received or disbursed for the county, with their vouchers, and any officer failing to attend and account shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. The accounts, when audited, shall be reported to the board of commissioners at their next meeting, and if approved, shall be filed with the clerk and recorded in their proceedings, together with their approval, and shall be deemed prima facie correct. (Rev., s. 5262; 1917, c. 234, s. 110; 1919, c. 92, s. 110.)

UNITED STATES LANDS

§ 8053. Acquisition of lands for specified purposes authorized; concurrent jurisdiction reserved.—The United States is authorized, by purchase or otherwise, to acquire title to any tract or parcel of land in the state of North Caroilna, not exceeding twenty-five acres, for the purpose of erecting thereon any customhouse, courthouse, postoffice, or other building, including lighthouse, lightkeepers' dwellings, life-saving stations, buoys and coal depots and buildings connected therewith, or for the establishment of a fishcultural station and the erection thereon of such buildings and improvements as may be necessary for the successful operations of such fishcultural station. The consent to acquisition by the United States is upon the express condition that the state of North Carolina shall so far retain a concurrent jurisdiction with the United States over such lands as that all civil and criminal process issued from the courts of the state of North Carolina may be executed thereon in like manner as if this authority had not been given, and that the state of North Carolina also retains authority to punish all violations of its criminal laws committed on any such tract of land. (Rev., s. 5426; Code, ss. 3080, 3083; 1887, c. 136; 1899, c. 10; 1870-1, c. 44, s. 5.)

§ 8054. Unused lands to revert to state.—The consent given in the preceding section is upon consideration of the United States building lighthouses, lighthousekeepers, dwellings, life-saving stations, buoys, coal depots, fish stations, postoffices, customhouses, and other buildings connected therewith, on the tracts or parcels of land so purchased, or that may be purchased and that the title to land so conveyed to the United States shall revert to the state unless the construction of the aforementioned buildings be completed thereon within ten years from the date of the conveyance from the grantor. (Rev., s. 5426; Code, ss. 3080, 3083; 1899, c. 10; 1887, c. 136; 1870-1, c. 44, s. 5.)

§ 8055. Exemption of such lands from taxation.—The lots, parcels, or tracts of land acquired under this chapter, together with the tenements and appurtenances for the purpose mentioned in this chapter, shall be exempt from taxation. (Rev., s. 5428; Code, s. 3082; 1870-1, c. 44, s. 3.)

When Exemption Begins.—A contract to convey lands to the United States Government reservation, under the Federal statute, does not vest the title in the Government until survey made, acreage determined, purchase price paid, or conveyance made and title approved by the Attorney-General, and until then the land is subject to State taxes under the State statutes. Caldwell Land, etc., Co. v. Commissioners, 174 N. C. 634, 94 S. E. 406.

§ 8056. Conveyances of such lands to be recorded.—All deeds, conveyances, or other title papers for the same shall be recorded, as in other cases, in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which the lands so conveyed may lie, in the same manner and under the same regulations as other deeds and conveyances are now recorded, and in like manner may be recorded a sufficient description by metes and bounds, courses and distances, of any tract or legal division of any public land belonging to the United States, which may be set apart by the general government for the purpose before mentioned, by an order, patent, or other official document or paper so describing such land. (Rev., s. 5429; Code, s. 3081; 1870-1, c. 44, s. 2; 1872-3, c. 201.)

§ 8057. Forest reserve in North Carolina authorized; powers conferred.—The United States is authorized to acquire by purchase, or by condemnation with adequate compensation, except as hereinafter provided, such lands in North Carolina as in the opinion of the federal government may be needed for the establishment of a national forest reserve in that region. This consent is given upon condition that the state of North Carolina shall retain a concurrent jurisdiction with the United States in and over such lands so far that civil process in all cases, and such criminal process as may issue under the authority of the state of North Carolina against any person charged with the commission of any crime without or within said jurisdiction, may be executed thereon in like manner as if this consent had not been given. Power is hereby conferred upon the congress of the United States to pass such laws as it may deem necessary to the acquisition as hereinbefore provided, for incorporation in such national forest reserve such forest-covered lands lying in North Carolina as in the opinion of the federal government may be needed for this purpose, but as much as two hundred acres of any tract of land occupied as a home by bona fide residents in this state on the eighteenth day of January, one thousand nine hundred and one, shall be exempt from the provisions of this section. Power is hereby conferred upon congress to pass such laws and to make or provide for the making of such rules and regulations, of both civil and criminal nature, and to provide punishment therefor, as in its judgment may be necessary for the management, control, and protection of such lands as may be from time to time acquired by the United State under the provisions of this section. (Rev., s. 5430; 1901, c. 17; 1929, c. 67, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1929 struck out the word "Western" whenever appearing in this section and inserted "North" in the title.

§ 8058. Acquisition of lands for river and harbor improvement; reservation of right to serve process.—The consent of the legislature of the state is hereby given to the acquisition by the United States of any tracts, pieces, or parcels of land within the limits of the state, by purchase or condemnation, for use as sites for locks and dams, or for any other purpose in connection with the improvement of rivers and harbors within and on the borders of the state. The consent hereby given is in accordance with the seventeenth clause of the eighth section of the first article of the constitution of the United States, and with the acts of congress in such cases made and provided; and this state retains concurrent jurisdiction with the United States over any lands acquired and held in pursuance of the provisions of this section, so far as that all civil and criminal process issued under authority of any law of this state may be executed in any part of the premises so acquired or the buildings or structures thereon erected. (1907, c. 681.)

§ 8059. Acquisition of lands for public buildings; cession of jurisdiction; exemption from taxation.—The consent of the state is hereby given, in accordance with the seventeenth clause, eighth section, of the first article of the constitution of the United States, to the acquisition by the United States, by purchase, condemnation, or otherwise, of any land in the state required for the sites for customhouses, courthouses, postoffices, arsenals or other public buildings whatever, or for any other purposes of the government.

Exclusive jurisdiction in and over any land so acquired by the United States shall be and the same is hereby ceded to the United States for all purposes except the service upon such sites of all civil and criminal process of the courts of this state; but the jurisdiction so ceded shall continue no longer than the said United States shall own such lands. The jurisdiction ceded shall not vest until the United States shall have acquired title to said lands by purchase, condemnation, or otherwise.

So long as the said lands shall remain the property of the United States when acquired as aforesaid, and no longer, the same shall be and continue exempt and exonerated from all state, county, and municipal taxation, assessment, or other charges which may be levied or imposed under the authority of this state. (1907, c. 25.)

§ 8059(a). Further authorization of acquisition of land.—The United States is hereby authorized to acquire lands by condemnation or otherwise in this State for the purpose of preserving the navigability of navigable streams and for holding and administering such lands for National Park purposes: Provided, that this section and the following section shall in no wise affect the authority conferred upon the United States and reserved to the State in sections eight thousand fifty-seven (8057) and eight thousand fifty-eight (8058) of the Consolidated Statutes. (1925, c. 152, s. 1.)

§ 8059(b). Condition of consent granted in preceding section.—This consent is given upon condition that the State of North Carolina shall retain a concurrent jurisdiction with the United States in and over such lands so far that civil process in all cases, and such criminal process as may issue under the authority of the State of North Carolina against any person charged with the commission of any crime, without or within said jurisdiction, may be executed thereon in like manner as if this consent had not been given. (1925, c. 152, s. 2.)

§ 8059(c). Migratory bird sanctuaries or other wild life refuges.—The United States is authorized to acquire by purchase, or by condemnation with adequate compensation, such lands in North Carolina as in the opinion of the Federal Government may be needed for the establishment of one or more migratory bird sanctuaries or other wild life refuges. This consent is given upon condition that the State of North Carolina shall retain a concurrent jurisdiction with the United States in and over such lands so far that civil process in all cases, and such criminal process as may issue under the authority of the State of North Carolina against any person charged with the commission of any crime without or within said jurisdiction, may be executed therein in like manner as if this consent had not been given. Power is hereby conferred upon the Congress of the United States to pass such laws as it may deem necessary to the acquisition as hereinbefore provided, for incorporation in such sanctuaries or refuges such lands lying in North Carolina as in the opinion of the Federal Government may be suitable and needed for this purpose. Power is hereby conferred upon Congress to pass such laws and to make or provide for the making of such rules and regulations, of both civil and criminal nature, and to provide punishment therefor, as in its judgment may be necessary for the management, control and protection of such lands as may be from time to time acquired by the United States under the provisions of this section. (1929, c. 163, s. 1.)

§ 8059(d). Acquisition of land for inland waterway from Cape Fear River; grant of state lands.—For the purpose of aiding in the construction of the proposed inland waterway by the United States from the Cape Fear River at Southport to the North Carolina-South Carolina State line, the Secretary of State is hereby authorized to issue to the United States of America a grant to the land located within said inland waterway, right-of-way, which is to be one thousand feet to seventeen hundred fifty feet wide in so far as such land is subject to grant by the State of North Carolina, the said grant to issue upon a certificate furnished to the Secretary of State by the Secretary of War, or by any authorized officer of the corps of engineers of the United States Army, or by any other authorized official, exercising control over the construction of the said waterway. Whenever in the construction of such inland waterway within this State, lands theretofore submerged shall be raised above the water by the deposit of excavated material, the land so formed shall become the property of the United States if within the limits of said inland waterway, right-of-way, herein set out one thousand feet to seventeen hundred fifty feet and the Secretary of State is hereby authorized to issue to the United States a grant to the land so formed within the limits above specified, the grant to issue upon a certificate furnished to the Secretary of State by some authorized official of the United States, as above provided. If said lands so required for the inland waterway right-of-way shall be marshlands, or sound lands, the title to which has heretofore been vested in the State Board of Education, the Governor of the State, as President thereof, and the Superintendent of Public Instruction as Secretary, are hereby authorized and required to execute proper conveyance to the United States of America for said marshlands or sound lands, free of cost, both to the State and to the United States Government, upon a certificate furnished to said Board of Education by the Secretary of War, or by any authorized officer of the corps of engineers of the United States Army, or by any other authorized official exercising control over the construction of the said inland waterway. (1931, c. 2, s. 1.)

§ 8059(e). Transportation Advisory Commission to secure right-of-way over private lands; condemnation by United States. — If the title to any part of the lands required by the United States Government for the construction of such inland waterway from the Cape Fear River at Southport to the North Carolina-South Carolina State line shall be in any private person, company or corporation, railroad company, street railway company, telephone or telegraph company, or other public service corporation or shall have been donated or condemned for any public use by any political sub-division of the State, or if it may be necessary, for the purpose of obtaining the proper title to any lands, the title to which has heretofore been vested in the State Board of Education, then the Transportation Advisory Commission, created under chapter two hundred and sixty-six. Public Laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, in the name of the State of North Carolina, is hereby authorized and empowered, acting for and in behalf of the State of North Carolina, to secure a right-of-way one thousand to seventeen hundred fifty feet wide for said inland waterway across and through such lands or any part thereof, by purchase, donation or otherwise, through agreement with the owner or owners where possible, and when any such property is thus acquired, the Governor and Secretary of State shall execute a deed for the same to the United States; and if for any reason the said commission shall be unable to secure such right-of-way across any such property by voluntary donation by and/or with the owner or owners, the said Commission acting for and in behalf of the State of North Carolina is hereby vested with the power to condemn the same, and in so doing, the ways, means, methods and procedure of chapter thirty-three of the Consolidated Statutes of one thousand nine hundred nineteen, entitled "Eminent Domain," shall be used by it as near as the same is suitable for the purposes of this act, and in all instances, the general and special benefits to the owner thereof shall be assessed as offsets against the damages to such property or lands.

As such condemnation proceedings might result in delay in the acquiring of title to all parts of the right-of-way and in the construction of the said inland waterway by the United States, said Transportation Advisory Commission is authorized to enter any of said lands and property and take possession of the same at the time hereinafter provided as needed for this use in behalf of the State or the United States Government for the purposes herein set out, prior to the bringing of the proceeding for condemnation and prior to the payment of the money for such land or property under any judgment in condemnation. In the event the owner or owners shall appeal from the report of the commissioners appointed in any condemnation proceeding hereunder, it shall not be necessary for said commission, acting in behalf of the State of North Carolina, the State of North Carolina, or the United States Government, to deposit the money assessed by said commissioners with the clerk.

Whenever proceedings in condemnation are instituted in pursuance of the provisions of this section, the said commission upon the filing of the petition or petitions in such proceedings, shall have the right to take immediate possession, on behalf of the State of such lands or property to the extent of the interest to be acquired and the order of the Clerk of the Superior Court of the county where the action is instituted, shall be sufficient to vest the title and possession in the State through the Transportation Advisory Commission. The Governor and Secretary of State shall, upon vesting of the title and possession, execute a deed to the United States and said lands or property may then be appropriated and used by the United States for the purposes aforesaid: Provided, that in every case the proceedings in condemnation shall be diligently prosecuted to final judgment in order that the just compensation, if any, to which the owners of the property are entitled may be ascertained and when so ascertained and determined, such compensation, if any, shall be promptly paid as hereinafter in this act provided.

If the United States Government shall so determine, it is hereby authorized to condemn and use all lands and property which may be needed for the purposes herein set out and which is specifically described and set out in paragraph next preceding, under the authority of said United States Government, and according to the provisions existing in the Federal Statutes for condemning lands and property for the use of the United States Government. In case the United States Government shall so condemn said land and property, the said Transportation Advisory Commission is hereby authorized to pay all expenses of the condemnation proceedings and any award that may be made thereunder, out of the money which may be appropriated for said purposes.

All sums which may be agreed upon between the said Transportation Advisory Commission and the owner of any property needed by the United States Government for said inland waterway and all sums which may be assessed in favor of the owner of any property condemned hereunder, shall constitute and remain a fixed and valid claim against the State of North Carolina until paid and satisfied in full, but the order of the clerk when entered in any condemnation proceeding shall divest the owner of the land condemned of all right, title, interest and possession in and to such land and property. (1931, c. 2, s. 2.)

§ 8059(f). Use declared paramount public purpose. — In such condemnation proceedings the uses for which such land or property is condemned are hereby declared to be for a purpose paramount to all other public uses, and the fact that any portion of it has heretofore been condemned by a railroad company, a street railway company, telephone or telegraph company, or other public service corporation, or by any political subdivision of the State of North Carolina, for public uses, or has been conveyed by any person or corporation for any such public uses, or vested in the State Board of Education, or by any other act dedicated to any public use, shall in no way affect the right of the State of North Carolina, or the United States Government, to proceed and condemn such land and property as hereinbefore provided. (1931, c. 2, s. 3.)

§ 8059(g). Method of payment of expenses and awards. — Whenever said Commission has agreed with the owner of any such land or property as to the purchase price thereof, or the damage for the construction of the inland waterway has finally been determined in any condemnation proceeding necessary to secure such land or property, the said Commission is hereby authorized and directed to pay all of said sums and other expenses incident thereto by proper warrant upon the sum which may be appropriated for said purpose, and all such sums shall constitute and remain a fixed and valid claim against the State of North Carolina until paid and satisfied in full. (1931, c. 2, s. 4.)

§ 8059(h). (Rev., s. 3063; Code, s. 3837; R. C., c. 117, s. 1; 1741, c. 32, s. 2; 1866, c. 125.)

Constitutional.—This section is not in conflict with sec. 5 Art. 9, of the Constitution, which provides that the net proceeds of all penalties, etc., shall go to the school fund. Sutton v. Phillips, 116 N. C. 502, 21 S. E. 968.

Clark, J., in delivering the opinion of the court in Sutton v. Phillips, 116 N. C. 502, 21 S. E. 968, uses this language: "While the courts have the power, and it is their duty in a proper case, to declare an act of the legislature unconstitutional, it is a well recognized principle that the court will not declare that this co-ordinate branch of the government has exceeded the powers vested in it unless it is plainly and clearly the case. If there is any reasonable doubt, it will be resolved in favor of the lawful exercise of them by the representatives of the people." McDonald v. Morrow, 119 N. C. 66, 26 S. E. 132, 135.

Indictment.—This section providing for a penalty for selling by unauthorized weights and measures, and for selling by other measures than the standard (the word "weight" which appears in the first clause being omitted), a finding for plaintiff on the second ground is error where the article sold was meat, because meat is an article which is not sold by measure. Sutton v. Phillips, 116 N. C. 502, 21 S. E. 968.

§ 8068. To keep record.—It shall be the duty of the state standard-keeper to keep a book, in which he shall keep an accurate account of all the weights and measures by him delivered, and the expenses incurred by him in the purchase of such weights and measures, subject to the inspection of the state treasurer and the general assembly. (Rev., s. 3071; Code, s. 3847; 1866-7, c. 126, s. 2.)

Art. 3. County Standard-Keeper

§ 8069. Appointment; term; oath; bond.—The weights and measures, stamps and brands thus provided shall be kept at the courthouse of the respective counties by a standard-keeper, to be elected by the board of commissioners for the term of two years; the person thus elected shall, before the board of county commissioners, take the oath required for public officers and also an oath of office, and shall give bond, with good and sufficient surety, payable to the state of North Carolina, in the sum of two hundred dollars, conditioned for the safe-keeping of weights and measures, stamps and brands of said county, and for the faithful performance of the duties of his office. (Rev., ss. 306, 3072; Code, s. 3840; R. C., c. 117, s. 4; 1741, c. 32, s. 3; 1816, c. 901, s. 2; 1827, c. 22, s. 3.)

§ 8070. Removal of standards.—The standard-keeper may remove the weights and measures, stamps and brands from the courthouse, not to exceed sixty days in any one year, for the purpose of testing weights and measures throughout the county. (Rev., s. 3072.)

§ 8071. Testing and marking standards; penalty.—Every person, firm, or corporation using weights and measures of any and every kind which shall be used in buying or selling or bartering, or for hire, or in fixing or determining the amount of toll or charge or rate for any service shall allow or permit the standard-keeper of the county to try, examine, and adjust by the standard, at least once every year, all the said weights and measures of any and every kind used as aforesaid, and every person, firm, or corporation who shall neglect to comply with the requirements of this section shall forfeit and pay fifty dollars, to be recovered at the suit of the standard-keeper, one-half to his use and the other half to the use of the county wherein the default occurs. It shall be the duty of the standard-keeper, when practicable, to mark, by stamp or brand, the weights or measures found or made to agree with the standard, and shall give a certificate of such examination and adjustment, stating the weights and measures examined and adjusted. (Rev., s. 3073; 1909, s. 695; 1925, c. 299.)

As to penalty, see notes to section 8064.

Editor's Note.—In the case of Nance v. Sou. Ry., 149 N. C. 366, 63 S. E. 116, it was held under the Revisal section 3073 that this section as it then appeared applied only to those "buying and selling by weights and measures" and did not apply to weights and measures used by railroads in charging toll. By amendment of 1909 this section by its express terms was made to apply to weights used for "toll or charge of rate." By amendment Public Laws 1925 testing was changed from "every two years" to every year.

§ 8072. Destruction of unadjusted standards.—In every instance where the standard-keeper shall have before him for adjustment, or shall find in the possession of any person, intending to use the same, any weight or measure that cannot be adjusted so as to meet the requirements of the law, it shall be the duty of the standard-keeper to destroy the same. (Rev., s. 3074; Code, s. 3848; 1866-7, c. 126, s. 4.)

§ 8073. Local: Office abolished in certain counties.—The office of county standard-keeper is abolished in the following counties, and in these counties the section regulating that office and its duties do not apply: Ashe, Beaufort, Bertie, Bladen, Brunswick, Camden, Cumberland, Currituck, Gaston, Halifax, Lincoln, Montgomery, Moore, Northampton, Rockingham, Rutherford, Swain, Vance, Warren, Yadkin, Yancey. (Rev., ss. 3072, 3073; 1909, c. 106 (Ashe); 1909, s. 354 (Camden); 1909, c. 695 (Swain); P. L. 1911, c. 153 (Vance); P. L. 1911, c. 593 (Brunswick, Cumberland, Yadkin); 1929, c. 136, s. 1 (Rockingham).

Art. 4. Surveyors

§ 8074. Standard surveyor's chain; tests.—The standard measure for a surveyor's chain shall be twenty-two standard yards, a standard half or two-pole chain shall be eleven standard yards, a standard quarter or one-pole chain shall be five and one-half standard yards; but every person using a surveyor's chain, half-chain, or quarter-chain for measuring land shall every two years test the same in the manner hereinafter provided. (Rev., s. 3075; 1889, c. 409; 1899, c. 665.)

§ 8075. Using untested chain misdemeanor.— If any person who shall use any chain for measuring land without having the same first measured and sealed by the standard-keeper, or who shall use the same for a longer period than two years without bringing it to the standard-keeper and having the same measured and sealed by him, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not exceeding ten dollars. (Rev., s. 3684; 1889, c. 409, s. 2.)

§ 8076. Tests for magnetic variation and for chain.—Every surveyor operating in any of the counties of this state with magnetic instruments, whether in a public or private capacity, shall, between the first day of January and thirty-first day of December in each and every year, carefully test his needle upon the official meridian monuments in the county in which he resides or the nearest county in which such monuments have been erected, by adjusting his instrument over the intersection of the lines cut into the top of one of the meridian monuments so established and sighting to the intersection of the lines cut into the top of the other meridian monument, noting the variation of the magnetic from the true meridian and the direction thereof, and shall test the chain or other instrument of linear measure upon the distance from center to center as indicated by intersecting lines of the two beams, tablets, or other official monuments set at or near the county courthouse for this purpose, noting the error of such instrument as compared with the standard of the monuments. (Rev., s. 3076; 1899, c. 665, s. 1; 1901, c. 642.)

§ 8077. Magnetic variation to be recorded with survey.—On every official record of a survey of lands made after the first day in July, nineteen hundred and one, in any county in which meridian monuments have been erected, there shall be entered by the surveyor making such survey a record as to the date of testing the magnetic instrument used, and the amount of declination or variation of the magnetic needle indicated at such test. (Rev., s. 3076.)

§ 8078. Surveys in another county; data as to variation recorded.—Before making surveys in any county other than the one in which the magnetic instrument and instruments for linear measure to be used have already been tested, said surveyor shall procure in writing from the register of deeds of the county in which said monuments have been established, nearest to the point where the survey is to be made, a statement giving the declination of the magnetic needle for the year in which it was last determined, and the rate and discretion of the variation of said magnetic needle since that time, and this data shall be recorded as a part of the record of his survey. But no surveyor shall be required to go outside of the county in which he resides for the purpose of testing the instruments herein named. (Rev., s. 3077; 1899, c. 665, s. 1.)

§ 8079. Tests returned to register; records kept.—Such tests and the correction, if any, resulting therefrom shall be returned by the surveyor in writing and under oath to the register of deeds for the county in which such meridian is situate within ten days from the taking of the observations, setting forth the name of the surveyor, his residence, the character of the instrument tested, the date of the observations, the declination east or west of the magnetic needle from the true meridian, together with a fee of ten cents for filing and registering the same; and such return shall be filed and registered by the register of deeds in a book property ruled and lettered, to be furnished by the board of commissioners of the county, to be used for such purpose exclusively and entitled "The Meridian Record." (Rev., s. 3078; 1899, c. 665, s. 1.)

§ 8080. Meridian monuments protected by county commissioners.—It shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners to maintain and protect the meridian monuments and tablets or monuments for the testing of chains or other instruments of linear measure established by the state, or national surveys coöperating with the county authorities, in good order and condition as the official standards of the county. (Rev., s. 3079; 1899, c. 665, s. 2.)

§ 8081. Defacing meridian monuments misdemeanor.—If any person shall in any manner injure, deface, remove, or destroy any meridian monument or tablets, or any part thereof, or shall fail, neglect, or refuse to do and perform any act, matter, or thing by law required of him to be done in connection with such monuments or tablets, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall pay a fine or be imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court. (Rev., s. 3743; 1899, c. 665, s. 3; 1893, c. 282, s. 4.)

Art. 5. Standard Weight Packages of Grits, Meal and Flour

§ 8081(a). Corn meal. — It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to pack for sale, sell, or offer for sale in this state corn meal except in packages containing one pound, two pounds, three pounds, five pounds, ten pounds, twenty-five pounds, fifty pounds, or one hundred pounds, or multiple of one hundred pounds, and whether the meal is bolted or unbolted shall be stated on the package. (1921, c. 170, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1931, c. 299, repealed this section as to Clay, Lenoir, Transylvania and Swain Counties.

Public Laws 1931, c. 122, applicable only to Jackson County, amended this section by changing the words "twenty-five pounds, fifty pounds, or one hundred pounds, or multiple of one hundred pounds," to "twenty-four pounds, forty-eight pounds, or ninety-six pounds, and that all multiples thereof shall be in like proportion."

The acts of 1933, c. 82 repealed this section as to Macon county.

§ 8081(b). Hominy or grits. — It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to pack for sale, sell, or offer for sale any hominy or grits except in packages of one pound, one and one-half pounds, two pounds, three pounds, five pounds, ten pounds, twenty-five pounds, fifty pounds, or one hundred pounds, or multiples of one hundred pounds. (1921, c. 170, s. 2; 1933, c. 162.)

Editor's Note.— Public Laws of 1933, c. 162, added "two pounds" and "twenty-five pounds" to the list of weights enumerated in this section.

§ 8081(c). Flour; sales from bulk.—It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to pack for sale, sell, or offer for sale in this state flour, except in packages containing six pounds, twelve pounds, twenty-four pounds, forty-eight pounds, ninety-eight pounds, or one hundred and ninety-six pounds of flour, and the net weight of all grits, meal, or flour shall be stated on the package of such meal, flour, or grits, with the name and address of the maker or jobber: Provided, the provisions of this article shall not apply to the retailing of grits, meal or flour direct to customers from bulk, when the same is priced and delivered by actual weight. (1921, c. 170, s. 3.)

§ 8081(c1). Packages of corn meal, grits or flour weighing five pounds or less. — The provisions of the above three sections shall not apply to packages of corn meal, grits and/or flour weighing five pounds or less but same may be packed for sale, sold or offered for sale when and if the said packages are plainly and conspicuously marked, which said marking must show the net contents by avoirdupois weight, and said packages must be so filled that the size will not tend to deceive or aid in the perpetration of fraud in the sale thereof. (1935, c. 269.)

§ 8081(d). Inspections for discovery of violations of law; certification of violations to solicitor. —The board of agriculture shall cause to be made from time to time such inspections as may be necessary to determine whether the provisions of this article have been violated. If it shall appear from such inspection that any provisions of this article have been violated, the commissioner of agriculture shall certify the facts to the solicitor in the district in which the violation was committed, and furnish that officer with the facts in the case. (1921, c. 170, s. 4.)

§ 8081(e). Violation of law a misdemeanor; seizure and sale of goods; release by commissioner.—Any person or persons violating any provision of this article shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by fine or imprisonment in the discretion of the court, and the meal or flour offered for sale in violation of this article shall be subject to seizure, condemnation, and sale by the commissioner of agriculture, as is provided for the seizure, condemnation, and sale of commercial fertilizers; and the proceeds thereof, if sold, less the legal cost and charges, shall be paid into the treasury for the use of the department of agriculture in executing the provisions of this article: Provided, that the commissioner of agriculture may in his discretion order the release of the grits, meal, or flour seized when the owner of same shall offer to pack it in accordance with the provisions of this article, and it shall appear to the satisfaction of the commissioner that said owner did not intend to violate the provisions of the law. (1921, c. 170, s. 5.)

§ 8081(f). Meal and flour on hand.—The provisions of this article shall not apply to meal or flour on hand March 9, 1921. (1921, c. 170, s. 6.)

§ 8081(g). Article effective, when. — Except as provided in section 8081(f) this article shall be in force from and after April first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one. (1921, c. 170, s. 7.)

CHAPTER 133A
WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT

Art. 1. General Provisions

§ 8081(h). Official title.—This article shall be known and cited as "The North Carolina Workmen's Compensation Act." (1929, c. 120, s. 1.)

Construction.—The Workmen's Compensation Act is to be construed liberally to effectuate the broad intent of the act to provide compensation for employees sustaining an injury arising out of and in the course of the employment, and no technical or strained construction should be given to defeat this purpose. Johnson v. Asheville Hosiery Company, 199 N. C. 38, 153 S. E. 591.

The provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act are to be liberally construed to effectuate the legislative intent as gathered from the act to award compensation for the injury or death of an employee arising out of and in the course of his employment, irrespective of the question of negligence. Reeves v. Parker-Graham-Sexton, Inc., 199 N. C. 236, 154 S. E. 66.

The various provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act are to be construed in their relations to each other as a whole to effectuate the intent of the Legislature to provide compensation to an employee for injury arising out of and in the course of his employment. Rice v. Denny Roll & Panel Co., 199 N. C. 154, 154 S. E. 69.

Basis of Liability.—The Workmen's Compensation Act takes into consideration certain elements of a mutual concession between the employer and employee by which the question of negligence is eliminated, and liability under the act rests upon the employer upon the condition precedent of an injury by accident occurring in the course of employment and arising out of it. Conrad v. Cook-Lewis Foundry Co., 198 N. C. 723, 153 S. E. 266.

State Statute Governs Rights of Parties.—The rights of employer, employee, and insurance carrier under a workmen's compensation statute are governed by the law of the state of the statute. Betts v. Southern Ry. Co., 71 F. (2d) 787, 789.

§ 8081(i). Definitions. — When used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires —

(a) The term "employment" includes employment by the State and all political subdivisions thereof, and all public and quasi-public corporations therein and all private employments in which five or more employees are regularly employed in the same business or establishment, except agriculture and domestic service and sawmills and logging operators in which less than fifteen employees are regularly employed.

(b) The term "employee" means every person engaged in an employment under any appointment or contract of hire or apprenticeship, express or implied, oral or written, including aliens, and also minors, whether lawfully or unlawfully employed, but excluding persons whose employment is both casual and not in the course of the trade, business, profession or occupation of his employer, and as relating to those so employed by the State, the term "employee" shall include all officers and employees of the State, except only such as are elected by the people, or by the General Assembly, or appointed by the Governor, either with or without the confirmation of the Senate; as relating to municipal corporations and political subdivisions of the State, the term "employee" shall include all officers and employees thereof, except such as are elected by the people or elected by the council or other governing body of said municipal corporation or political subdivision, who act in purely administrative capacities, and to serve for a definite term of office. Any reference to an employee who has been injured shall, when the employee is dead, include also his legal representative, dependents, and other persons to whom compensation may be payable.

(c) The term "employer" means the State and all political subdivisions thereof, all public and quasi-public corporations therein, every person carrying on any employment and the legal representative of a deceased person or the receiver or trustee of any person.

(d) The term "person" means individual, partnership, association or corporation.

(e) "Average weekly wages" shall mean the earnings of the injured employee in the employment in which he was working at the time of the injury during the period of fifty-two weeks immediately preceding the date of the injury, divided by fifty-two; but if the injured employee lost more than seven consecutive calendar days at one or more times during such period, although not in the same week, then the earnings for the remainder of such fifty-two weeks shall be divided by the number of weeks remaining after the time so lost has been deducted. Where the employment prior to the injury extended over a period of less than fifty-two weeks, the method of dividing the earnings during that period by the number of weeks and parts thereof during which the employee earned wages shall be followed; provided, results fair and just to both parties will be thereby obtained. Where, by reason of shortness of time during which the employee has been in the employment of his employer or the casual nature or terms of his employment, it is impracticable to compute the average weekly wages as above defined, regard shall be had to the average weekly amount which during the fifty-two weeks previous to the injury was being earned by a person of the same grade and character employed in the same class of employment in the same locality or community.

But where for exceptional reasons the foregoing would be unfair, either to the employer or employee, such other method of computing average weekly wages may be resorted to as will most nearly approximate the amount which the injured employee would be earning were it not for the injury.

Wherever allowances of any character made to an employee in lieu of wages are specified part of the wage contract they shall be deemed a part of his earnings.

(f) "Injury and personal injury" shall mean only injury by accident arising out of and in the course of the employment, and shall not include a disease in any form, except where it results naturally and unavoidably from the accident.

(g) The term "carrier" or "insurer" means any person or fund authorized under § 8081(www) to insure under this article and includes self-insurers.

(h) The term "commission" means the North Carolina Industrial Commission, to be created under the provisions of this act.

(i) The term "disability" means incapacity because of injury to earn the wages which the employee was receiving at the time of injury in the same or any other employment.

(j) The term "death" as a basis for a right to compensation means only death resulting from an injury.

(k) The term "compensation" means the money allowance payable to an employee or to his dependents as provided for in this act, and includes funeral benefits provided herein.

(l) The term "child" shall include a posthumous child, a child legally adopted prior to the injury of the employee, and a stepchild or acknowledged illegitimate child dependent upon the deceased, but does not include married children unless wholly dependent upon him. "Grandchild" means a child as above defined of a child as above defined. "Brother" and "sister" include stepbrother and stepsisters, half brothers and half sisters, and brothers and sisters by adoption, but does not include married brothers nor married sisters unless wholly dependent on the employee. "Child," "grandchild," "brother," and "sister" include only persons who at the time of the death of the deceased employee are under eighteen years of age.

(m) The term "parent" includes step-parents and parents by adoption, parents-in-law, and any person who for more than three years prior to the death of the deceased employee stood in the place of a parent to him, if dependent on the injured employee.

(n) The term "widow" includes only the decedent's wife living with or dependent for support upon him at the time of his death; or living apart for justifiable cause or by reason of his desertion at such time.

(o) The term "widower" includes only the decedent's husband who at the time of her death lived with her and was dependent for support upon her.

(p) The term "adoption" or "adopted" means legal adoption prior to the time of the injury.

(q) The singular includes the plural and the masculine includes the feminine and neuter.

(r) In all claims for compensation for hernia or rupture, resulting from injury by accident arising out of and in the course of the employee's employment, it must be definitely proven to the satisfaction of the Industrial Commission:

First. That there was an injury resulting in hernia or rupture.

Second. That the hernia or rupture appeared suddenly.

Third. That it was accompanied by pain.

Fourth. That the hernia or rupture immediately followed an accident.

Fifth. That the hernia or rupture did not exist prior to the accident for which compensation is claimed.

All hernia or rupture, inguinal, femeral or otherwise, so proven to be the result of an injury by accident arising out of and in the course of employment, shall be treated in a surgical manner by a radical operation. If death results from such operation, the death shall be considered as a result of the injury, and compensation paid in accordance with the provisions of § 8081(ss). In non-fatal cases, if it is shown by special examination, as provided in § 8081(hh), that the injured employee has a disability resulting after the operation, compensation for such disability shall be paid in accordance with the provisions of this act.

In case the injured employee refuses to undergo the radical operation for the cure of said hernia or rupture, no compensation will be allowed during the time such refusal continues. If, however, it is shown that the employee has some chronic disease, or is otherwise in such physical condition that the Commission considers it unsafe for the employee to undergo said operation, the employee shall be paid compensation in accordance with the provisions of this article. (1929, c. 120, s. 2; 1933, c. 448.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 448, added, to subsection (a) of this section, the clause applicable to saw-mills and logging operators.

Injury Arising out of and in the Course of Employment.—In construing this act the words "out of and in the course of the employment," used in connection with injuries compensable thereunder, is not to be determined by the rules controlling in negligent default cases at common law, but an accidental injury is compensable thereunder if there is a causal relation between the employment and injury, if the injury is one which, after the event, may be seen to have had its origin in the employment, and it need not be shown that it is one which ought to have been foreseen or expected. Conrad v. Cook-Lewis Foundry Co., 198 N. C. 723, 153 S. E. 266.

This definition presents a double aspect. "In the course of" refers to the time, place and circumstances under which the accident occurred. This is, in most cases, a fairly simple question. The real difficulty arises in determining whether the accident is one "arising out of the employment." That this is considered as a mixed question of law and fact makes the problem all the more difficult. In the final analysis it means that there must be apparent "to the rational mind, upon consideration of all the circumstances, a causal connection between the conditions under which the work is required to be performed and the resulting injury." For instance, an injury occasioned by an assault of a co-employee and growing out of differences in regard to the employment was held to be within the definition. But where the assault grew out of personal malice unconnected with the employment, no compensation was awarded. In the further case of an unprovoked assault by a third person upon an employee, the risk having arisen out of the employment, a recovery was allowed. Moreover, if the injury occurs from a prank played by a fellow workman, compensation is given. But if the injured employee engaged in the play, no recovery is permitted. 8 N. C. L. Rev. 418.

The definition of injury given in § 2(f) also provides that it "shall not include a disease in any form, except where it results naturally and unavoidably from the accident." In applying this to the following case the Commission evinced a willingness to construe definitions liberally. Plaintiff, a truck driver, sustained an injury to his eye while cleaning a carburetor. The injury irritated his eye and resulted in ulcer. Seven days after the accident the plaintiff was treated by a doctor, who gave the plaintiff some lotion to use. He visited the doctor three times. Then gonorrhea opthalmia showed up, which was on the thirteenth day after the accident. As a result of the infection the plaintiff lost one eye and suffered a partial loss of use in the other eye. Compensation was allowed. The Commission said that the disease was "natural" because one infection opened the way for other infections. There was more trouble with the word "unavoidably." The Commission quotes from the opinions rendered in other jurisdictions to illustrate that "unavoidably" does not mean "absolutely inescapable," but that "a thing is generally considered unavoidable when common prudence and foresight cannot prevent it." And since no evidence was presented that the plaintiff had been careless, and since the plaintiff had no reason to suspect a possible infection of this nature, the disease was found to have resulted unavoidably from the accident. This liberal construction tends to effectuate the general purpose of the Workmen's Compensation Act. 8 N. C. L. Rev. 421.

In construing sub-section (f) of this Act the words "arising out of the employment" in regard to injuries compensable is broad and comprehensive, and must be determined in the light and circumstances of each case, and the act, applying only to industries employing more than four workmen, contemplates the gathering together of workmen of varying characteristics, and the risks and hazards of such close contact, joking and pranks by the workmen, is an incident to the business and grow out of it, and is an ordinary risk assumed by the employer under the act. Chambers v. Union Oil Co., 199 N. C. 28, 153 S. E. 594.

The question of whether compensation is recoverable under this act depends upon whether the accident complained of arises out of and in the course of the employment of the one injured, and its determination depends largely upon the facts of each particular case as matters of fact and conclusions of law, and general definitions are unsatisfactory. Harden v. Thomasville Furniture Co., 199 N. C. 733, 155 S. E. 728.

Where in a proceeding under this act the evidence tends to show that the employee was a moulder in the employer's foundry, and that he struck his negro assistant with a shovel after the assistant had spoken words to him he deemed insulting, whereupon the assistant left the employment and returned and shot the claimant while he was doing his work, causing permanent injury, is sufficient within the intent and meaning of the terms "injury by accident arising out of and in the course of the employment." Conrad v. Cook-Lewis Foundry Co., 198 N. C. 723, 153 S. E. 266.

In order for compensation to be recovered for the death of an employee under this act it is required that the injury causing death result from an accident arising out of and in the course of the employment, as a proximate cause, and where compensation is sought for the killing of one employee by another for purely personal and unrelated grounds, or when one was employed at night and the other by day, and the killing at night was a result of personal enmity alone, and these facts are found by the Commission and approved by the trial judge, the judgment denying the right of compensation will be affirmed on appeal. Harden v. Thomasville Furniture Co., 199 N. C. 733, 155 S. E. 728.

An injury compensable under such sections (f) of this section, is one by accident arising out of and in the course of the employment, the words "out of" referring to the origin or cause of the accident, and the words "in the course of" to the time, place and circumstances under which the accident occurred. Ridout v. Rose's 5-10-25c. Stores, 205 N. C. 423, 171 S. E. 642.

Where a deliveryman was driving a truck in the course of his employment and, while passing a group of boys playing baseball, a baseball struck the windshield and a piece of glass from the windshield struck him in the eye, resulting in serious injury, it was held that the injury resulted from an accident arising out of and in the course of the employment, within the meaning of this section. Perkins v. Sprott, 207 N. C. 462, 177 S. E. 404.

Evidence that claimant was not sure that the mill in which he was employed would be operated on the day in question and that he rode to work with another employee, requesting his son to follow in his car to ride him home in case the mill was not operated, and that upon getting to work and ascertaining that the mill would be operated, he put his lunch in the room where he worked and went to a platform at the front of the mill to tell his son not to wait for him, and that he there slipped on ice and fell to his injury is sufficient to support the finding that the injury resulted from an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment. Gordon v. Thomasville Chair Co., 205 N. C. 739, 172 S. E. 485.

As a general rule an injury suffered by an employee while going to or returning from his work does not arise out of and in the course of his employment. Bray v. Weatherly & Co., 203 N. C. 160, 165 S. E. 332.

Casual Employment.—Section 8081(u) of this act providing that the act shall not apply to casual employees, is not totally repugnant to this section providing for compensation for an injury to an employee while "in the course of the trade, business," etc., and an employee is entitled to compensation even if the employment is casual if he is injured in the course of the trade, business, etc. Johnson v. Asheville Hosiery Co., 199 N. C. 38, 153 S. E. 591.

By § 8081(u) and sub-section (b) of this section, the act does not apply to casual employees. But in sub-section (e) of this section it is provided that where because of the short duration of the employment or casual nature or terms of the employment it is impractical to compute the average weekly wage a different mode of reckoning may be used. Yet this seeming conflict appears not to have been brought to the Commission's attention. 8 N. C. L. Rev. 423.

The restriction of this act excluding injuries sustained in casual employment will not exclude an applicant under the provisions of the act when he sustains injuries in the course of the general trade, business, etc., of the employer and material or expedient therein, and the painting of the interior of a machine room to give the employees therein a better light or for the protection of the permanent structure is not a casual employment and is one in the general course of business, and the Workmen's Compensation Act applies to an injury received by a workman engaged in such painting. Johnson v. Asheville Hosiery Company, 199 N. C. 38, 153 S. E. 591.

Employment is not casual because intermittent. The Commission has said: ". . . we must conclude that the legislature did not contemplate an employment to be continuous in order to bring it within the act, as they certainly would not enact a statute with such requirements that common knowledge would show to be a nullity under such construction." Employment that is definite, whether for a day or for a year, is not casual. 8 N. C. L. Rev. 422.

The word "accident" within the meaning of this act is defined to be an unlooked for or untoward event which is not expected or designed by the person who suffers the injury, and the mere fact that the injury is the result of a wilful and criminal assault of a fellow-servant does not of itself prevent the injury from being accidental. Conrad v. Cook-Lewis Foundry Co., 198 N. C. 723, 153 S. E. 266.

The word "accident" within the meaning of this act should be construed in its wide and practical sense to give effect to the intent of the act, and an injury produced by inhaling asbestos dust for a period of five months is an accidental injury within the terms of this section, the test being not the amount of time taken to produce the injury but whether it was produced by unexpected and unforeseen, and therefore, accidental means. McNeely v. Carolina Asbestos Co., 206 N. C. 568, 174 S. E. 509.

If an employee is injured as a result of the horse-play of a fellow-workman the injured employee is not precluded from recovering his damages under this act if he did not participate therein. Chambers v. Union Oil Co., 199 N. C. 28, 153 S. E. 594.

A newsboy engaged in selling papers is held not to be an employee of the newspaper within the meaning of that term as used in this section, the newsboy not being on the newspaper's payroll and being without authority to solicit subscriptions and being free to select his own methods of effecting sales, although some degree of supervision was exercised by the newspaper. Creswell v. Charlotte News Pub. Co., 204 N. C. 380, 168 S. E. 408.

The secretary and treasurer of an automobile sales company who was injured while traveling to collect accounts due the company was an employee of the company within the intent and meaning of this section at the time of the injury. Hunter v. Hunter Auto Co., 204 N. C. 723, 169 S. E. 648.

A worker employed by a city under a contract stipulating the wages to be received by the worker is an employee of the city within the meaning of this section, and the fact that the city obtains the money to pay the wages from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is immaterial on the question of the relationship between the worker and the city. Mayze v. Forest City, 207 N. C. 168, 176 S. E. 270.

Person Receiving Federal Relief Not an Employee.—A person furnished work for the relief of himself and family and paid with funds provided by the Federal Relief Administration is not an "employee" of the relief administrative agencies within the meaning of this section. Jackson v. North Carolina Emergency Relief Administration, 206 N. C. 274, 173 S. E. 580.

A person employed by a graded school district as teacher and director of athletics is an employee of a political subdivision of the State, and is entitled to the benefits of the Compensation Act under this section. Perdue v. State Board of Equalization, 205 N. C. 730, 172 S. E. 396.

Whether an injured person is an executive officer or an employee within the meaning of this section, is to be determined by the nature of the act performed by him at the time of the injury, but mere desultory, disconnected, and infrequent acts of manual labor not reasonably required by the exigencies of the situation will not classify an executive officer as an employee in the performance fo such acts. Nissen v. Winston-Salem, 206 N. C. 888, 175 S. E. 310.

Deputy Sheriff as Employee.—Where a deputy sheriff acting upon his own responsibility and contrary to the instructions of the sheriff received a fatal injury by a person whom he had arrested, he was not an employee of the county within the meaning of this act. Saunders v. Allen, 208 N. C. 189, 179 S. E. 754.

Employee Collecting Accounts. — Where there is evidence that it was the employee's duty to collect accounts of his employer for goods sold upon the installment plan and that the employee endeavored to collect an account from a debtor and was struck by another also owing an account to the employer, the injury resulting in death, the evidence is sufficient to sustain a finding by the Industrial Commission that the injury was the result of an accident arising out of and in the course of the employment, and such a finding of fact is conclusive and binding. Winberry v. Farley Stores, 204 N. C. 79, 167 S. E. 475.

Hernia.—It is sufficient for the Commission to find the facts required under this section and award compensation if the pain immediately followed the accident although the hernia was not discovered until diagnosis by a physician some days thereafter. Ussery v. Erlanger Cotton Mills, 201 N. C. 688, 161 S. E. 307.

Review of Decision.—If there was no conflicting evidence and the Industrial Commission decided as a matter of law that there was no sufficient competent evidence that the injury to plaintiff was "by accident arising out of and in the course of employment", the question is one of law and is reviewable by the court upon appeal. Massey v. Board of Education, 204 N. C. 193, 167 S. E. 695.

Where Record Silent as to Material Fact at Issue.—Where in proceedings under this act there is no finding or adjudication in reference to the contention of the employer that the claimant's injury was occasioned by his wilful intention to injure his assailant, a fellow-servant, the cause will be remanded for a definite determination of the question. Conrad v. Cook-Lewis Foundry Co., 198 N. C. 723, 153 S. E. 266.

Quoted, sub-sec. (a), in the dissenting opinion of Clarkson, J., in Thompson's Dependents v. Johnson Funeral Home, 205 N. C. 801, 804, 172 S. E. 500.

§ 8081 (j). Pending litigation unaffected. — The provisions of this article shall not affect pending litigations. (1929, c. 120, s. 3.)

§ 8081 (k). Presumption that all employers and employees have come under provisions of chapter. — From and after the taking effect of this article every employer and employee, except as herein stated, shall be presumed to have accepted the provisions of this article respectively to pay and accept compensation for personal injury or death by accident arising out of and in the course of the employment, and shall be bound thereby, unless he shall have given, prior to any accident resulting in injury or death, notice to the contrary in the manner herein provided. (1929, c. 120, s. 4.)

An allegation that the intestate had not accepted the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act is immaterial for the reason that this section provides in substance that every employer and employee coming within the purview of the act is presumed to have accepted the provisions thereof. Hanks v. Southern Public Utilities Co., 204 N. C. 155, 156, 167 S. E. 560.

Where the evidence does not show that the employer has regularly in service as many as five employees in the same business within this State, the presumption under this section is not operative. Thompson's Dependents v. Johnson Funeral Home, 205 N. C. 801, 803, 172 S. E. 500.

Applied in Arp v. Wood & Co., 207 N. C. 41, 175 S. E. 719; McNeely v. Carolina Asbestos Co., 206 N. C. 568, 174 S. E. 509.

§ 8081 (l). Notice of non-acceptance and waiver of exemption. — Either an employer or an employee, who has exempted himself by proper notice from the operation of this article, may at any time waive such exemption, and thereby accept the provisions of this article by giving notice as herein provided.

The notice of non-acceptance of the provisions of this article and notice of waiver of exemption heretofore referred to shall be given thirty days prior to any accident resulting in injury or death: Provided, that if any such accident occurred less than thirty days after the date of employment, notice of such exemption or acceptance given at the time of employment shall be sufficient notice thereof. The notice shall be in writing or print, in substantially the form prescribed by the Industrial Commission, and shall be given by the employer by posting the same in a conspicuous place in the shop, plant, office, room, or place where the employee is employed, or by serving it personally upon him; and shall be given by the employee by sending the same in registered letter, addressed to the employer at his last known residence or place of business, or by giving it personally to the employer or any of his agents upon whom a summons in civil action may be served under the laws of the State. A copy of the notice in prescribed form shall also be filed with the Industrial Commission.

In any suit by an employer or an employee who has exempted himself by proper notice from the application of this article, a copy of such notice duly certified by the Industrial Commission shall be admissible in evidence as proof of such exemption. (1929, c. 120, s. 5.)

§ 8081(m). Presumption as to contract of service.—Every contract of service between any employer and employee covered by this article, written or implied, now in operation or made or implied prior to the taking effect of this article, shall, after the act has taken effect, be presumed to continue, subject to the provisions of this article; and every such contract made subsequent to the taking of this act shall be presumed to have been made subject to the provisions of this article, unless either party shall give notice, as provided in § 8081 (l), to the other party to such contract that the provisions of this act other than Sections 8081 (v), 8081 (w), 8081 (x), and 8081 (vvv) are not intended to apply.

A like presumption shall exist equally in the case of all minors, unless notice of the same character be given by or to the parent or guardian of the minor. (1929, c. 120, s. 6.)

§ 8081 (n). No special contract can relieve an employer of obligations.—No contract or agreement, written or implied, no rule, regulation, or other device shall in any manner operate to relieve an employer, in whole or in part, of any obligation created by this article, except as herein otherwise expressly provided. (1929, c. 120, s. 7.)

§ 8081(o). State or subdivision and employees thereof.—Neither the State nor any municipal corporation within the State, nor any political subdivision thereof, nor any employee of the State or of any such corporation or subdivision, shall have the right to reject the provisions of this article relative to payment and acceptance of compensation, and the provisions of §§ 8081(l), 8081(m), 8081(v), 8081(w), and 8081(x) shall not apply to them: Provided, however, that any county or special school district may, at its option, by action of the governing body of such county or school district at a regular meeting of such governing body, exempt itself entirely from the operation of this article: Provided, however, that such action on the part of such governing body shall not become effective until thirty days after such action is taken, and notice thereof filed with the Industrial Commission: and, Provided further, that such action on the part of any county or special school district exempting itself from the operation of this article shall not have the effect of relieving such county or school district in any degree from any liability against such county or school district already accrued prior to the taking of such action, or accruing during the said thirty-day period after the taking of such action. (1929, c. 120, s. 8; 1931, c. 274, s. 1.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added the provisos to this section.

Applied in Perdue v. State Board of Equalization, 205 N. C. 730, 172 S. E. 396.

§ 8081 (p). Prior injuries and deaths unaffected. — The provisions of this article shall not apply to injuries or deaths, nor to accidents which occurred prior to the taking effect of this article. (1929, c. 120, s. 9.)

Applied in Hafleigh & Co. v. Crossingham, 206 N. C. 333, 173 S. E. 619.

§ 8081 (q). Employer to secure payment of compensation. — Every employer who accepts the compensation provisions of this article shall secure the payment of compensation to his employees in the manner hereinafter provided; and while such security remains in force, he or those conducting his business shall only be liable to any employee who elects to come under this article for personal injury or death by accident to the extent and in the manner herein specified. (1929, c. 120, s. 10.)

§ 8081(r). Other rights and remedies excluded; right to sue tort feasors; minor illegally employed; subrogation; amount of compensation as evidence; compromise. — The rights and remedies herein granted to an employee where he and his employer have accepted the provisions of this act, respectively, to pay and accept compensation on account of personal injury or death by accident, shall exclude all other rights and remedies of such employee, his personal representative, parents, dependents or next of kin, as against his employer at common law, or otherwise, on account of such injury, loss of service, or death: Provided, however, that in any case where such employee, his personal representative, or other person may have a right to recover damages for such injury, loss of service, or death from any person other than the employer, compensation shall be paid in accordance with the provisions of this chapter: Provided, further, that after the industrial commission shall have issued an award, the employer may commence an action in his own name and/or in the name of the injured employee or his personal representative for damages on account of such injury or death, and any amount recovered by the employer shall be applied as follows: First to the payment of actual court costs, then to the payment of attorneys' fees when approved by the industrial commission; the remainder or so much thereof as is necessary shall be paid to the employer to reimburse him for any amount paid and/or to be paid by him under the award of the industrial commission; if there then remain any excess, the amount thereof shall be paid to the injured employee or other person entitled thereto. If, however, the employer does not commence such action within six months from the date of such injury or death, the employee, or his personal representative shall thereafter have the right to bring the action in his own name, and the employer, and any amount recovered shall be paid in the same manner as if the employer had brought the action.

The amount of compensation paid by the employer, or the amount of compensation to which the injured employee or his dependents are entitled, shall not be admissible as evidence in any action against a third party.

When any employer is insured against liability for compensation with any insurance carrier, and such insurance carrier shall have paid any compensation for which the employer is liable or shall have assumed the liability of the employer therefor, it shall be subrogated to all rights and duties of the employer, and may enforce any such rights in the name of the injured employee or his personal representative; but nothing herein shall be construed as conferring upon the insurance carrier any other or further rights than those existing in the employer at the time of the injury to or death of the employee, anything in the policy of insurance to the contrary notwithstanding.

In all cases where an employer and employee have accepted the workmen's compensation act, any injury to a minor while employed contrary to the laws of this state shall be compensable under this article the same and to the same extent as if said minor were an adult. (1929, c. 120, s. 11; 1933, c. 449.)

Editor's Note.—Public Laws of 1933, c. 449, struck out this section as it formerly appeared and inserted the above in lieu thereof. A comparison of the old with the new is necessary to determine the changes.

In General.—This section assigns the injured person's right of action against a tort-feasor to the employer or to the employer's insurer and enables the assignee to maintain the action which the employee could have maintained had no such assignment been made. Phifer v. Berry, 202 N. C. 388, 392, 163 S. E. 119.

The remedy under the Workmen's Compensation Act is exclusive and under the express terms of this section an employer is relieved of all further liability for injury to or death of an employee, and where the administrator of a deceased employee brings action against third persons for the employee's wrongful death, the motion of the defendants that the deceased's employer be made a party as a joint tort-feasor with them should be denied. Brown v. Southern R. Co., 202 N. C. 256, 162 S. E. 613.

Manifestly the statute was designed primarily to secure prompt and reasonable compensation for an employee, and at the same time to permit an employer or his insurance carrier, who had made a settlement with the employee, to recover the amount so paid from a third party causing the injury to such employee. Moreover, the statute was not designed as a city of refuge for a negligent third party. Brown v. Southern R. Co., 204 N. C. 668, 671, 169 S. E. 419.

Remedy Is Exclusive.—Where the allegations and evidence in an action for damages at common law show that the injury in suit was caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of plaintiff's employment, defendant's motion of nonsuit will be granted, as plaintiff's remedy under this act is exclusive of all other remedies. McNeely v. Carolina Asbestos Co., 206 N. C. 568, 174 S. E. 509.

But the right of the administrator to maintain an action for death by wrongful act is not defeated, in view of this section, as a result of the widow's acceptance of compensation. Betts v. Southern Ry. Co., 71 F. (2d) 787.

Right under Death by Wrongful Act Statute of Another State Not Affected.—The acceptance of compensation under this act cannot affect the right to pursue a remedy against a third person under the wrongful death statute of another state, unless there is something in the law of the latter state which so provides. Betts v. Southern Ry. Co., 71 F. (2d) 787, 789.

But Assignment of Such Claim Is Governed by Law of This State.—The assignment of the right of recovery against a third person under the wrongful death statute of one state as the result of acceptance by the beneficiary of compensation from the employer under the compensation act of this state, in the absence of any provision to the contrary in the law of the state of the injury, is governed by the law of this state. Betts v. Southern Ry. Co., 71 F. (2d) 787, 789.

Necessity for New Action against Third Person.—Whether the employer or insurance carrier who has paid compensation may proceed in the action which has been instituted against a third person by an injured employee or his personal representative, or must institute a new and independent action, is a question of procedure and under the law of this state it is proper to proceed in the action which has been instituted. Betts v. Southern Ry. Co., 71 F. (2d) 787, 791.

Because of the provisions of this section, the employer is not a joint tort-feasor, and an acceptance of an award against said employer for compensation would not discharge a third person whose negligence had contributed to the injury or death of the employee. Id.

Setting up Employer's Negligence.—In an action begun under this section a third person tort-feasor may set up the employer's negligence in bar of recovery, since the employer will not be allowed to profit by his own wrong in causing the employee's death. Brown v. Southern R. Co., 204 N. C. 668, 169 S. E. 419.

Double Recovery.—It would seem that by inadvertence no provision was inserted to bar the employee in the event he made settlement with a third party-tort-feasor. That the Commission has construed the act to include a settlement is rather a tribute to its liberal policy, for under a strict interpretation a double recovery by the injured employee would be possible. 8 N. C. L. Rev. 424.

This section might be construed to deny compensation to an employee who had received a settlement from the third party who caused the injury, but to deny to the third person, who paid for the supposed discharge, the power to set this fact up by way of defense to the claims of the employer who, in ignorance of the settlement, paid compensation. This is not quite a paradox. The employee should not be allowed a double recovery. The employer paying compensation should not be denied his remedy against the third person who made the settlement. To allow the settlement with employees (often secured through the improvidence and ignorance of the injured employee) to exonerate the third party-tort-feasor would deny to the employer paying compensation the full protection contemplated by the act in such a situation, for settlements are not always as much as compensation would be. It would seem that when a third party takes a release or settles a claim, he should secure the approval of the person or corporation liable for compensation, and that failure to do so should destroy the effect of the release as a defense to a claim by an employer who had paid compensation for the same injury. 8 N. C. L. Rev. 425.

Applied in Lincoln v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 207 N. C. 787, 178 S. E. 601.

§ 8081 (t). Intoxication or willful neglect of employee; wilful disobedience of statutory duty. —No compensation shall be payable if the injury or death was occasioned by the intoxication of the employee or by the wilful intention of the employee to injure or kill himself or another. When the injury or death is caused by the wilful failure of the employer to comply with any statutory requirement or any lawful order of the Commission, compensation shall be increased ten per cent. When the injury or death is caused by the wilful failure of the employee to use a safety appliance or perform a statutory duty or by the wilful breach of any rule or regulation adopted by the employer and approved by the Commission and brought to the knowledge of the employee prior to the injury, compensation shall be reduced ten per cent. The burden of proof shall be upon him who claims an exemption or forfeiture under this section. (1929, c. 120, s. 13.)

§ 8081(u). Exceptions from provisions of article.—(a) This article shall not apply to railroads or railroad employees nor in any way repeal, amend, alter or affect article seven (7) of chapter sixty-seven (67) of the code, or any section thereof, relating to liability of railroads for injuries to employees; nor, upon the trial of any action in tort for injuries not coming under the provisions of this article, shall any provision herein be placed in evidence or be permitted to be argued to the jury: Provided, however, that the foregoing exemption to railroads and railroad employees shall not apply to electric street railroads or employees thereof; and this article shall apply to electric street railroads and employees thereof, and to this extent the provisions of article seven, of chapter sixty-seven of the consolidated statutes is hereby amended: Provided further, that the proviso shall not apply to Mecklenburg county.

(b) This article shall not apply to casual employees, farm laborers, federal government employees in North Carolina, and domestic servants, nor to employees of such persons, nor to any person, firm or private corporation that has regularly in service less than five employees in the same business within this state, unless such employees and their employers voluntarily elect, in the manner hereinafter specified, to be bound by this article: Provided, however, that when an employee files a claim with the North Carolina industrial commission and it shall appear that the employer has insured his liability under the Workmen's Compensation Act in any authorized corporation, association, or in any mutual insurance association formed by a group of employers so authorized, this shall be prima facie evidence that such employer and his employees have elected to be bound by this act, and, in such cases upon failure of the defendant and/or the insurance carrier to show by competent and sufficient evidence that the defendant employer was not bound by, or subject to the provisions of, the Workmen's Compensation Act at the time of the injury, compensation may be awarded by the industrial commission without any express findings in their award as to accepance of the act by the parties.

(c) This article shall not apply to state prisoners nor to county convicts.

(d) This article shall not apply to persons, firms or corporations engaged in selling agricultural products for the producers thereof on commission or for other compensation, paid by the producers, provided the product is prepared for sale by the producer. (1929, c. 120, s. 14; 1933, c. 401; 1935, c. 150.)

Editor's Note. — Public Laws of 1933, c. 401, inserted the proviso at the end of subsection (a) of this section.

The proviso to subsection (b) was added by the 1935 amendment.

Number of Regular Employees.—Where in a hearing before the Industrial Commission the employer testifies that he employed three men other than himself, and another witness testifies that at the time of the injury in suit there were two men working besides the employer and that the other employees were on vacation, the evidence is insufficient to support the finding that the parties were bound by this act, since the evidence tends to show that the employer regularly employed less than five employees. Thompson's Dependents v. Johnson Funeral Home, 205 N. C. 801, 172 S. E. 500.

Where the findings of fact of the Industrial Commission that the deceased was an employee of the defendant and that the defendant employed more than five workers, are not supported by any evidence in the hearing before it, the findings are jurisdictional, and upon appeal to the Superior Court the award should be set aside and vacated. Poole v. Sigmon, 202 N. C. 172, 162 S. E. 198.

A demurrer to an action for death of an employee, on the ground that the action is cognizable only by the Industrial Commission, is properly overruled when it does not appear on the face of the complaint that the defendant employed more than five men in this State. Hanks v. Southern Public Utilities Co., 204 N. C. 155, 167 S. E. 560. See also Allen v. American Cotton Mills, 206 N. C. 704, 175 S. E. 98.

Applied in Aycock v. Cooper, 202 N. C. 500, 163 S. E. 569.

§ 8081(v). Employers not bound by article may not use certain defenses in damage suit.— An employer who elects not to operate under this article shall not, in any suit at law instituted by an employee subject to this article to recover damages for personal injury or death by accident, be permitted to defend any such suit at law upon any or all of the following grounds:

(a) That the employee was negligent.

(b) That the injury was caused by the negligence of a fellow employee.

(c) That the employee has assumed the risk of the injury. (1929, c. 120, s. 15.)

This section cannot be held to have abolished the simple tool doctrine as a ground of defense. Newbern v. Great Atlantic, etc., Tea Co., 68 F. (2d) 523, 526, 91 A. L. R. 781.

§ 8081(w). Adhering employer may use such defenses against non-adhering employee. — An employee who elects not to operate under this article shall, in any action to recover damages for personal injury or death brought against an employer accepting the compensation provisions of this article, proceed at common law, and the employer may avail himself of the defenses of contributory negligence, negligence of a fellow servant, and assumption of risk, as such defenses exist at common law. (1929, c. 120, s. 16.)

§ 8081(x). Defenses denied to non-adhering employer as against non-adhering employee.— When both the employer and employee elect not to operate under this article, the liability of the employer shall be the same as though he alone rejected the terms of this article, and in any suit brought against him by such employee the employer shall not be permitted to avail himself of any of the common-law defenses cited in section § 8081(v): Provided, however, that any sheriff may exempt himself and any and all deputies appointed by him from the provisions of this act by notice in writing to the Industrial Commission, such notice to be made on forms prescribed by the Industrial Commission. (1929, c. 120, s. 17; 1931, c. 274, s. 2.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added the proviso to this section.

§ 8081(y). Settlements allowed in accordance with article.—Nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to prevent settlements made by and between the employee and employer so long as the amount of compensation and the time and manner of payment are in accordance with the provisions of this article. A copy of such settlement agreement shall be filed by employer with and approved by the Industrial Commission. (1929, c. 120, s. 18.)

§ 8081(z). Prompt payment of compensation required; installments; notice to commission; penalties. — Compensation under this article shall be paid periodically, promptly and directly to the person entitled thereto unless otherwise specifically provided.

(a) The first installment of compensation payable under the terms of an agreement shall become due on the fourteenth day after the employer has knowledge of the injury or death, on which date all compensation then due shall be paid. Thereafter compensation shall be paid in installments weekly except where the Commission determines that payment in installments should be made monthly or at some other period.

(b) The first installment of compensation payable under the terms of an award by the Commission, or under the terms of a judgment of the court upon an appeal from such an award, shall become due seven days from the date of such an award or from the date of such a judgment of the court, on which date all compensation then due shall be paid. Thereafter compensation shall be paid in installments weekly, except where the Commission determines that payment in installments shall be made monthly or in some other manner.

(c) Upon making the first payment, and upon suspension of payment for any cause, the employer shall immediately notify the Commission, in accordance with the form prescribed by the Commission, that payment of compensation has begun or has been suspended, as the case may be.

(d) If any installment of compensation payable in accordance with the terms of an agreement approved by the Commission without an award is not paid within fourteen days after it becomes due, as provided in sub-division [illegible] this section, or if any installment of compensation payable in accordance with the terms of an award by the Commission is not paid within fourteen days after it becomes due, as provided in subdivision (b) of this section, there shall be added to such unpaid installment an amount equal to 10 per centum thereof, which shall be paid at the same time as, but in addition to, such installment, unless such non-payment is excused by the Commission after a showing by the employer that owing to conditions over which he had no control such installment could not be paid within the period prescribed for the payment.

(e) Within sixteen days after final payment of compensation has been made, the employer shall send to the Commission a notice, in accordance with a form prescribed by the Commission, stating that such final payment has been made, the total amount of compensation paid, the name of the employee and of any other person to whom compensation has been paid, the date of the injury or death, and the date to which compensation has been paid. If the employer fails to so notify the Commission within such time, the Commission shall assess against such employer a civil penalty in the amount of $25.00. (1929, c. 120, s. 18½.)

§ 8081(aa). Liability of principal contractors; certificate that sub-contractor has complied with law; right to recover compensation of those who would have been liable; order of liability.—Any principal contractor, intermediate contractor, or sub-contractor who shall sublet any contract for the performance of any work without requiring from such sub-contractor or obtaining from the Industrial Commission a certificate, issued by the Industrial Commission, stating that such sub-contractor has complied with § 8081(www) hereof, shall be liable to the same extent as such sub-contractor for the payment of compensation and other benefits under this article on account of the injury or death of any employee of such sub-contractor, due to an accident arising out of and in the course of the performance of the work covered by such sub-contract. If the principal contractor, intermediate contractor, or sub-contractor shall obtain such certificate at the time of sub-letting such contract to sub-contractor, they shall not thereafter be held liable to any employee of such sub-contractor for compensation or other benefits under this chapter. The Industrial Commission, upon demand, shall furnish such certificate, and may charge therefor the cost thereof, not to exceed twenty-five (25) cents.

Any principal contractor, intermediate contractor, or sub-contractor paying compensation or other benefits under this article, under the foregoing provisions of this section, may recover the amount so paid from any person, persons, or corporation who, independently of such provision, would have been liable for the payment thereof.

Every claim filed with the Industrial Commission under this section shall be instituted against all parties liable for payment, and said Commission, in its award, shall fix the order in which said parties shall be exhausted, beginning with the immediate employer. (1929, c. 120, s. 19.)

§ 8081(bb). Priority of compensation claims against assets of employer.—All rights of compensation granted by this article shall have the same preference or priority for the whole thereof against the assets of the employer as is allowed by law for any unpaid wages for labor. (1929, c. 120, s. 20.)

§ 8081(cc). Claims unassignable and exempt from taxes and debts; agreement of employee to contribute to premium or waive right to compensation; unlawful deduction by employer. — No claim for compensation under this article shall be assignable, and all compensation and claims therefor shall be exempt from all claims of creditors and from taxes.

No agreement by an employee to pay any portion of premium paid by his employer to a carrier or to contribute to a benefit fund or department maintained by such employer for the purpose of providing compensation or medical services and supplies as required by this article shall be valid, and any employer who makes a deduction for such purpose from the pay of any employee entitled to the benefits of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500.00. No agreement by an employee to waive his right to compensation under this chapter shall be valid. (1929, c. 120, s. 21.)

For a discussion of this section, see 8 N. C. L. Rev. 477, et seq.

§ 8081(dd). Written notice of accident to employer.—Every injured employee or his representative shall immediately on the occurrence of an accident, or as soon thereafter as practicable, give or cause to be given to the employer a written notice of the accident, and the employee shall not be entitled to physician's fees nor to any compensation which may have accrued under the terms of this article prior to the giving of such notice, unless it can be shown that the employer, his agent or representative, had knowledge of the accident, or that the party required to give such notice had been prevented from doing so by reason of physical or mental incapacity, or the fraud or deceit of some third person; but no compensation shall be payable unless such written notice is given within thirty days after the occurrence of the accident or death, unless reasonable excuse is made to the satisfaction of the Industrial Commission for not giving such notice, and the Commission is satisfied that the employer has not been prejudiced thereby. (1929, c. 120, s. 22.)

Cited in Wilson v. Clement Co., 207 N. C. 541, 542, 177 S. E. 797.

§ 8081(ee). What notice is to contain; defects no bar; notice personally or by registered letter.—The notice provided in the foregoing section shall state in ordinary language the name and address of the employee, the time, place, nature, and cause of the accident, and of the resulting injury or death; and shall be signed by the employee or by a person on his behalf, or, in the event of his death, by any one or more of his dependents, or by a person in their behalf.

No defect or inaccuracy in the notice shall be a bar to compensation unless the employer shall prove that his interest was prejudiced thereby, and then only to such extent as the prejudice.

Said notice shall be given personally to the employer or any of his agents upon whom a summons in civil action may be served under the laws of the State, or may be sent by registered letter addressed to the employer at his last known residence or place of business. (1929, c. 120, s. 23.)

Cited in Wilson v. Clement Co., 207 N. C. 541, 542, 177 S. E. 797.

§ 8081(ff). Right to compensation barred after one year.—(a) The right to compensation under this article shall be forever barred unless a claim be filed with the industrial commission within one year after the accident, and if death results from the accident, unless a claim be filed with the commission within one year thereafter.

(b) If any claim for compensation is hereafter made upon the theory that such claim or the injury upon which said claim is based is within the jurisdiction of the industrial commission under the provisions of this article, and if the commission, or the supreme court on appeal, shall adjudge that such claim is not within the act, the claimant, or if he dies, his personal representative shall have one year after the rendition of a final judgment in the case within which to commence an action at law. (1929, c. 120, s. 24; 1933, c. 449, s. 2.)

Editor's Note. — Public Laws of 1933, c. 449, added subsection (b) to this section.

When the employer has filed with the Commission a report of the accident and claim of the injured employee, the claim is filed with the Commission within the meaning of this section. Hardison v. Hampton, 203 N. C. 187, 188, 165 S. E. 355.

Implied Agreement Not to Plead Statute.—Where the injured party was led to believe that his wages were accruing to his benefit, and he delayed filing his claim for more than twelve months, it was held that the doctrine of equitable estoppel would not apply so as to defeat the application of this section, there being no request by defendant that claimant delay the pursuit of his rights, nor an express or implied agreement not to plead the statute. Wilson v. Clement Co., 207 N. C. 541, 177 S. E. 797.

Effect of Dismissal on Rights of Dependents.—Where the claim of an employee under the Compensation Act is dismissed because not filed within one year of the accident, as provided by this section, and pending appeal the employee dies as a result of the accidental injury, his dependents' claim for compensation for his death brought one month after his death is not barred, the dependents not being parties in interest in the prior proceeding, and their claim being an original right enforceable only after his death. Wray v. Carolina Cotton, etc., Co., 205 N. C. 782, 172 S. E. 487. Note.—This case was decided under this section as it stood prior to the 1933 amendment.

§ 8081(gg). Medical treatment and supplies.—Medical, surgical, hospital, and other treatment, including medical and surgical supplies as may reasonably be required, for a period not exceeding ten weeks from date of injury to effect a cure or give relief and for such additional time as in the judgment of the commission will tend to lessen the period of disability, and in addition thereto such original artificial members as may be reasonably necessary at the end of the healing period shall be provided by the employer. In case of a controversy arising between the employer and employee relative to the continuance of medical, surgical, hospital, or other treatment, the industrial commission may order such further treatments as may in the discretion of the commission be necessary.

The commission may at any time upon the request of an employee order a change of treatment and designate other treatment suggested by the injured employee subject to the approval of the commission, and in such a case the expense thereof shall be borne by the employer upon the same terms and conditions as hereinbefore provided in this section for medical and surgical treatment and attendance.

The refusal of the employee to accept any medical, hospital, surgical or other treatment when ordered by the industrial commission, shall bar said employee from further compensation until such refusal ceases, and no compensation shall at any time be paid for the period of suspension unless in the opinion of the industrial commission the circumstances justified the refusal, in which case, the industrial commission may order a change in the medical or hospital service.

If in an emergency on account of the employer's failure to provide the medical or other care as herein specified, a physician other than provided by the employer is called to treat the injured employee, the reasonable cost of such service shall be paid by the employer if so ordered by the industrial commission: Provided, however, if he so desires, an injured employee may select a physician of his own choosing to attend, prescribe and assume the care and charge of his case, subject to the approval of the industrial commission. (1929, c. 120, s. 25; 1931, c. 274, s. 4; 1933, c. 506.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 amended this section by striking out all of the provisions on voluntary treatment furnished by the employer and inserting a sentence empowering the commission on request of the employee to order a change of treatment at the employer's expense. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 405.

Public Laws of 1933, c. 506, inserted the proviso at the end of this section relating to the selection of a physician.

§ 8081(hh). Liability for medical treatment measured by average cost in community; malpractice of physician.—The pecuniary liability of the employer for medical, surgical, hospital service or other treatment required, when ordered by the Commission, shall be limited to such charges as prevail in the same community for similar treatment of injured persons of a like standard of living when such treatment is paid for by the injured person, and the employer shall not be liable in damages for malpractice by a physician or surgeon furnished by him pursuant to the provisions of this section, but the consequences of any such malpractice shall be deemed part of the injury resulting from the accident, and shall be compensated for as such. (1929, c. 120, s. 26.)

Injury or suffering sustained by an employee in consequence of the malpractice of a physician or surgeon furnished by the employer or carrier is not ground for an independent action; under this section it is a constituent element of the employee's injury for which he is entitled to compensation. In such event the employer and the carrier are primarily liable and the question of secondary liability is eliminated. Hoover v. Globe Indemnity Co., 202 N. C. 655, 657, 163 S. E. 758.

§ 8081(ii). Medical examination; facts not privileged; refusal to be examined suspends compensation; autopsy.—After an injury, and so long as he claims compensation, the employee, if so requested by his employer or ordered by the Industrial Commission, shall submit himself to examination, at reasonable times and places, by a duly qualified physician or surgeon designated and paid by the employer or the Industrial Commission. The employee shall have the right to have present at such examination any duly qualified physician or surgeon provided and paid by him. No fact communicated to or otherwise learned by any physician or surgeon who may have attended or examined the employee, or who may have been present at any examination, shall be privileged, either in hearings provided for by this article or any action at law brought to recover damages against any employer who may have accepted the compensation provisions of this article. If the employee refuses to submit himself to or in any way obstructs such examination requested by and provided for by the employer, his right to compensation and his right to take or prosecute any proceedings under this article shall be suspended until such refusal or objection ceases, and no compensation shall at any time be payable for the period of obstruction, unless in the opinion of the Industrial Commission the circumstances justify the refusal or obstruction. The employer, or the Industrial Commission, shall have the right in any case of death to require an autopsy at the expense of the party requesting the same. (1929, c. 120, s. 27.)

§ 8081(jj). Compensation allowed for first seven days.—No compensation shall be allowed for the first seven calendar days of disability resulting fron an injury, except the benefits provided for in § 8081(gg). Provided, however, that in the case the injury results in disability of more than twenty eight (28) days, the compensation shall be allowed from the date of the disability. (1929, c. 120, s. 28.)

§ 8081(kk). Compensation for total incapacity or death.—Where the incapacity for work resulting from the injury is total, the employer shall pay, or cause to be paid, as hereinafter provided, to the injured employee during such total disability, a weekly compensation equal to 60 per centum of his average weekly wages, but not more than eighteen dollars, nor less than seven dollars, a week; and in no case shall the period covered by such compensation be greater than four hundred weeks, nor shall the total amount of all compensation exceed six thousand dollars. In case of death the total sum paid shall be six thousand dollars less any amount that may have been paid as partial compensation during the period of disability, payable in one sum to the personal representative of deceased. (1929, c. 120, s. 29.)

For a discussion of this section, see 8 N. C. L. Rev. 427, et seq.

Construction.—Construing this act as a whole to effectuate the intent and purpose of the Legislature, it is held that the purpose of the act is to provide compensation for the employee injured in case the injury is not fatal, and for those dependent upon him in case the injury is fatal, and the last clause of this section purporting to provide for the personal representative of the deceased is construed to be repugnant to and irreconcilable with the other provisions of the act, and should be disregarded in giving effect to its other provisions, §§ 8081(tt) and 8081(vv) providing in clear language and comprehensive detail for a full legal method of determining compensation for fatal injuries, and where a dependent has been awarded compensation under said sections she is not entitled to the maximum award as administratrix under this section. Smith v. Carolina Power & Light Co., 198 N. C. 614, 152 S. E. 805.

This section should be construed in pari materia with § 8081(mm) allowing compensation for the loss of members, and so construed it is held that where an employee has suffered an injury to his hand arising out of and in the course of his employment, and the injury causes him total temporary disability in the course of its healing, and renders it necessary to amputate certain parts of certain fingers of the hand, he is entitled to receive compensation under § 29 for total temporary disability, and in addition thereto compensation for the loss of the parts of his fingers under § 31, there being no provision in the act that the latter should preclude the former, compensation for the latter to begin upon expiration of the compensation for the former. Rice v. Denny Roll & Panel Co., 199 N. C. 154, 154 S. E. 69.

§ 8081(ll). Partial incapacity; pro-rating where total disability results in partial. — Except as otherwise provided in the next section hereafter, where the incapacity for work resulting from the injury is partial, the employer shall pay, or cause to be paid, as hereinafter provided, to the injured employee during such disability, a weekly compensation equal to 60 per centum of the difference between his average weekly wages before the injury and the average weekly wages which he is able to earn thereafter, but not more than eighteen dollars a week, and in no case shall the period covered by such compensation be greater than three hundred weeks from the date of injury. In case the partial disability begins after a period of total disability, the latter period shall be deducted from the maximum period herein allowed for partial disability. (1929, c. 120, s. 30.)

§ 8081(mm). Other rates of compensation.—In cases included by the following schedule, the disability in each case shall be deemed to continue for the period specified, and the compensation so paid for such injury shall be specified therein, to-wit:

(a) For the loss of a thumb, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during sixty weeks.

(b) For the loss of a first finger, commonly called the index finger, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during thirty-five weeks.

(c) For the loss of a second finger, sixty per centum of average weekly during thirty weeks.

(d) For the loss of a third finger, sixty per centum of average weekly wages during twenty weeks.

(e) For the loss of a fourth finger, commonly called the little finger, sixty per centum of average weekly wages during fifteen weeks.

(f) The loss of the first phalange of the thumb or any finger shall be considered to be equal to the loss of one-half of such thumb or finger, and the compensation shall be for one-half of the periods of time above specified.

(g) The loss of more than one phalange shall be considered the loss of the entire finger or thumb; Provided, however, that in no case shall the amount received for more than one finger exceed the amount provided in this schedule for the loss of a hand.

(h) For the loss of a great toe, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during thirty weeks.

(j) For the loss of one of the toes other than a great toe, sixty per centum of average weekly wages during ten weeks.

(k) The loss of the first phalange of any toe shall be considered to be equal to the loss of one-half of such toe, and the compensation shall be for one-half of the periods of time above specified.

(l) The loss of more than one phalange shall be considered as the loss of the entire toe.

(m) For the loss of a hand, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during one hundred and fifty weeks.

(n) For the loss of an arm, sixty per centum of average weekly wages during two hundred weeks.

(o) For the loss of a foot, sixty per centum of average weekly wages during one hundred and twenty-five weeks.

(p) For the loss of a leg, sixty per centum of average weekly wages during one hundred and seventy-five weeks.

(q) For the loss of an eye, sixty per centum of the average weekly wages during one hundred weeks.

(r) The loss of both hands or both arms, or both feet, or both legs or both eyes, or any two thereof shall constitute total and permanent disability, to be compensated according to the provisions of § 8081(kk).

(s) For the complete loss of hearing in one ear, sixty per centum of average weekly wages during seventy weeks; for the complete loss of hearing in both ears, sixty per centum of average weekly wages during one hundred and fifty weeks.

(t) Total loss of use of a member or loss of vision of an eye shall be considered as equivalent to the loss of such member or eye. The compensation for partial loss of or for partial loss of use of a member or for partial loss of vision of an eye shall be such proportion of the payments above provided for total loss as such partial loss bears to total loss. Loss of both arms, hands, legs, or vision in both eyes shall be deemed permanent total disability, and shall be compensated under § 8081(k)

In case of serious facial or head disfigurement, the Industrial Commission shall award proper and equitable compensation not to exceed $2,500.00.

The weekly compensation payments referred to in this section shall all be subject to the same limitations as to maximum and minimum as set out in § 8081(kk); provided, however, that the foregoing schedule of compensation shall not be deemed to apply and compensate for serious disfigurement resulting from any injury to any employee received while in and about the duties of his employment. And provided, further, that the Industrial Commission created by this article shall have power and authority to make and award a reasonable compensation for any serious bodily disfigurement received by any employee within the meaning of this article, not to exceed twenty-five hundred ($2500) dollars. And provided, further, that disfigurement shall also include the loss or serious or permanent injury of any member or organ of the body for which no compensation is payable under the schedule of specific injuries set out in this section. (1929, c. 120, s. 31; 1931, c. 164.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 added the last proviso to this section in an apparent effort to meet the decisions in the cases of Henninger v. Industrial Commission, 1 N. C. I. C. 3; Porter v. Jennings Cotton Mills, 1 N. C. I. C. 218. See 8 N. C. Law Rev. 423-424, 9 N. C. Law Rev. 405.

The effect of the proviso in subsec. (t) of this section relating to serious disfigurement is to exclude the compensation for facial and head disfigurement only from the "weekly compensation payments" contained in the "foregoing schedule of compensation," and does not exclude such compensation from the limitation upon total compensation under the act. Arp v. Wood & Co., 207 N. C. 41, 42, 175 S. E. 719.

§ 8081(nn). Refusal of injured employee to accept suitable employment as suspending compensation.—If an injured employee refuses employment procured for him suitable to his capacity he shall not be entitled to any compensation at any time during the continuance of such refusal, unless in the opinion of the Industrial Commission such refusal was justified. (1929, c. 120, s. 32.)

§ 8081(oo). Prorating permanent disability received in other employment. — If any employee has a permanent disablity or has sustained a permanent injury in service in the Army or Navy of the United States, or in another employment other than that in which he received a subsequent permanent injury by accident, such as specified in § 8081(mm) he shall be entitled to compensation only for the degree of disability which would have resulted from the later accident if the earlier disability or injury had not existed. (1929, c. 120, s. 33.)

§ 8081(pp). Employee receiving an injury when being compensated for former injury.—If an employee receives an injury for which compensation is payable, while he is still receiving or entitled to compensation for a previous injury in the same employment, he shall not at the same time be entitled to compensation for both injuries, unless the later injury be a permanent injury such as specified in § 8081(mm); but he shall be entitled to compensation for that injury and from the time of that injury which will cover the longest period and the largest amount payable under this article. (1929, c. 120, s. 34.)

§ 8081(qq). How compensation paid for two injuries; employer liable only for subsequent injury.—If any employee receives a permanent injury as specified in § 8081(mm) after having sustained another permanent injury in the same employment, he shall be entitled to compensation for both injuries, but the total compensation shall be paid by extending the period and not by increasing the amount of weekly compensation, and in no case exceeding five hundred weeks.

If an employee has previously incurred permanent partial disability through the loss of a hand, arm, foot, leg, or eye, and by subsequent accident incurs total permanent disability through the loss of another member, the employer's liability is for the subsequent injury only. (1929, c. 120, s. 35.)

§ 8081(rr). Accidents taking place outside state; employee receiving compensation from another state. — Where an accident happens while the employee is employed elsewhere than in this State which would entitle him or his dependents to compensation if it had happened in this State, the employee or his dependents shall be entitled to compensation, if the contract of employment was made in this State, if the employer's place of business is in this State, and if the residence of the employee is in this State; provided his contract of employment was not expressly for service exclusively outside of the State; provided, however, if an employee shall receive compensation or damages under the laws of any other State nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to permit a total compensation for the same injury greater than is provided for in this article. (1929, c. 120, s. 36.)

For a discussion of this section, see 8 N. C. L. Rev. 427, et seq.

§ 8081(ss). Where injured employee dies before total compensation is paid.—When an employee receives or is entitled to compensation under this article for an injury covered by § 8081(mm) and dies from any other cause than the injury for which he was entitled to compensation, payment of the unpaid balance of compensation shall be made to his next of kin dependent upon him for support, in lieu of the compensation the employee would have been entitled to had he lived.

Provided, however, that if the death is due to a cause that is compensable under this article, and the dependents of such employee are awarded compensation therefor, all right to unpaid compensation provided by this section shall cease and determine. (1929, c. 120, s. 37.)

An award inadvertently entered by the Industrial Commission after the death of the claimant on appeal from the award is irregular, but not void, and the proceedings do not abate, this section providing that payment of the unpaid balance should be made to his next of kin dependent upon him at the time of his death. Butts v. Montague, 204 N. C. 389, 168 S. E. 215.

§ 8081(tt). Where death results proximately from accident; prorating as to persons partially dependent; compensation to aliens.—If death results proximately from the accident and within two years thereafter, or while total disability still continues, and within six years after the accident, the employer shall pay for or cause to be paid, subject, however, to the provisions of the other sections of this article in one of the methods hereinafter provided, to the dependents of the employee, wholly dependent upon his earnings for support at the time of accident, a weekly payment equal to 60 per centum of his average weekly wages, but not more than eighteen dollars, nor less than seven dollars, a week for a period of three hundred and fifty weeks from the date of the injury, and burial expenses not exceeding two hundred dollars. If the employee leaves dependents only partly dependent upon his earnings for support at the time of the injury, the weekly compensation to be paid, as aforesaid, shall equal the same proportion of the weekly payments for the benefit of persons wholly dependent as the amount contributed by the employee to such partial dependents bears to the annual earnings of the deceased at the time of his injury. When weekly payments have been made to an injured employee before his death, the compensation to dependents shall begin from the date of the last of such payments, but shall not continue more than three hundred and fifty weeks from the date of the injury. Compensation under this article to aliens not residents (or about to become non-residents) of the United States or Canada shall be the same in amount as provided for residents, except that dependents in any foreign country shall be limited to surviving wife and child or children, or if there be no surviving wife or child, or children, to surviving father or mother whom the employee has supported, either wholly or in part for the period of one year prior to the date of the injury, and except that the Commission may, at its option, or upon the application of the insurance carrier shall, commute all future installments of compensation to be paid to such aliens by paying or causing to be paid to them one-half of the commuted amount of such future installments of compensation as determined by the Commission. (1929, c. 120, s. 38.)

§ 8081(uu). Spouse and child to be conclusively presumed to be dependent; other cases determined upon facts; division of death benefits among those wholly dependent; when division among partially dependent. — A widow, a widower, and/or a child shall be conclusively presumed to be wholly dependent for support upon the deceased employee. In all other cases questions of dependency, in whole or in part, shall be determined in accordance with the facts as the facts may be at the time of the accident; but no allowance shall be made for any payment made in lieu of board and lodging or services, and no compensation shall be allowed unless the dependency existed for a period of three months or more prior to the accident. If there is more than one person wholly dependent, the death benefit shall be divided among them; the persons partly dependent, if any, shall receive no part thereof. If there is no one wholly dependent, the death benefit shall be divided among them according to the relative extent of their dependency.

The widow, or widower and all children of deceased employees shall be conclusively presumed to be dependents of deceased and shall be entitled to receive the benefits of this article for the full periods specified herein. (1929, c. 120, s. 39.)

See § 8081(i) for statutory definition of the term "child."

The determination of the extent of the dependency of partial dependents has proven troublesome. See 8 N. C. L. Rev. 426.

The common-law wife of a deceased employee is not entitled to compensation under the provisions of this act. Reeves v. Parker-Graham-Sexton, Inc., 199 N. C. 236, 237, 154 S. E. 66.

An illegitimate child, born after the death of its father, who before his death had acknowledged his paternity of the child, is a dependent of its deceased father within the meaning of this section, and such child is entitled to share with children of its deceased father who were born of his marriage to their mother, from whom their father had been divorced prior to his death, in compensation awarded under this act to his dependents. Lippard v. Southeastern Exp. Co., 207 N. C. 507, 177 S. E. 801.

§ 8081(vv). Commutation of benefit and payment on failure of dependents; second injury fund. — If the deceased employee leaves no dependents the employer shall pay to the next of kin as herein defined the commuted amount provided for in section 8081(tt) for whole dependents; but if the deceased left no next of kin as herein defined, then said commuted amount shall be paid to the Industrial Commission to be held and disbursed by it in the manner hereinafter provided; one-half of said commuted amount shall be retained by the Industrial Commission and the other one-half paid to the personal representative of the deceased to be by him distributed to the next of kin as defined in the Statutes of Distribution; but if there be no next of kin as defined in the Statutes of Distribution, then the personal representative shall pay the same to the Industrial Commission after payment of costs of administration. For the purpose of this section the term "next of kin" shall include only the father, mother, widow, child, brother or sister of the deceased.

Amounts paid to the Industrial Commission under this section shall constitute a Second Injury Fund, to be held by the commission and disbursed by it in unusual cases of second injuries as follows: (1) To provide additional compensation in case of second injuries referred to in section 8081(oo): Provided, however, such additional compensation when added to the compensation awarded under said section shall not exceed the amount which would have been payable for both injuries had both been sustained in the subsequent accident. (2) To provide for an injured employee who has sustained permanent total disability, in the manner referred to in section 8081(qq), compensation in addition to the compensation which shall be awarded under said section; such additional compensation, however, when added to the compensation awarded under said section shall not exceed the compensation for permanent total disability as provided in section 8081(kk).

The additional compensation herein provided for is to be paid out of the Second Injury Fund exclusively and only to the extent which the assets of said fund shall permit. (1929, c. 120, s. 40; 1931, c. 274, s. 5.)

Editor's Note.—This section formerly provided for a payment to the personal representative of a deceased employee who left no dependents. It was amended by the Act of 1931 so as to direct payment to a narrow class of next of kin specially defined by the section. Failing such persons, a more complicated arrangement is provided. The original Act was criticised as providing an unjustifiable windfall for non-dependent next of kin. The present amendment makes a half-hearted move toward cutting off this bounty for relatives at the expense of the employer, the industry and eventually the public, by turning a part of the money over to the Commission in some cases. A clerical error in the amending Act was corrected by Public Laws 1931, c. 319. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 406.

For a discussion of this section, see 8 N. C. L. Rev. 427, et seq.

While there is no computed amount provided by this section for payment to the personal representative of a deceased employee for death resulting from an injury compensable thereunder, the act provides the method by which such amount can be commuted, which is payable to the personal representative for the benefit of the heirs at law of the deceased employee. Reeves v. Parker-Graham-Sexton, Inc., 199 N. C. 236, 237, 154 S. E. 66.

§ 8081(ww). Total compensation not to exceed $6,000. — The total compensation payable under this article shall in no case exceed Six Thousand ($6,000) Dollars. (1929, c. 120, s. 41.)

The amount allowed by the Industrial Commission for serious facial or head disfigurement is to be included with other amounts allowed an injured employee in determining the total compensation allowed such employee, which in no case may exceed six thousand dollars. Arp. v. Wood & Co., 207 N. C. 41, 175 S. E. 719.

§ 8081(xx). Deduction of unauthorized payments. — Any payments made by the employer to the injured employee during the period of his disability, or to his dependents, which by the terms of this article were not due and payable when made, may, subject to the approval of the Industrial Commission be deducted from the amount to be paid as compensation: Provided, that in the case of disability such deductions shall be made by shortening the period during which compensation must be paid and not by reducing the amount of the weekly payment. (1929, c. 120, s. 42.)

§ 8081(yy). Commission may prescribe monthly or quarterly payments.—The Industrial Commission, upon application of either party, may, in its discretion, having regard to the welfare of the employee and the convenience of the employer, authorize compensation to be paid monthly or quarterly instead of weekly. (1929, c. 120, s. 43.)

§ 8081(zz). Lump sums. — Whenever any weekly payment has been continued for not less than six weeks, the liability therefor may, in unusual cases, where the parties agree and the Industrial Commission deems it to be the best interest of the employee of his dependents, or where it will prevent undue hardships on the employer or his insurance carrier, without prejudicing the interests of the employee or his dependents, be redeemed, in whole or in part, by the payment by the employer of a lump sum which shall be fixed by the Commission, but in no case to exceed the commutable value of the future installments which may be due under this article. The Commission, however, in its discretion, may at any time in the case of a minor who has received permanently disabling injuries, either partial or total, provide that he be compensated, in whole or in part, by the payment of a lump sum, the amount of which shall be fixed by the Commission, but in no case to exceed the commutable value of the future installments which may be due under this article. (1929, c. 120, s. 44.)

For a discussion of this section, see 8 N. C. L. Rev. 427, et seq.

§ 8081(zz) 1. Reducing to judgment outstanding liability of insurance carriers withdrawing from state.—Upon the withdrawal of any insurance carrier from doing business in the state that has any outstanding liability under the workmen's compensation act, the insurance commissioner shall immediately notify the North Carolina industrial commission, and thereupon the said North Carolina industrial commission shall issue an award against said insurance carrier and commute the installments due the injured employee, or employees, and immediately have said award docketed in the superior court of the county in which the claimant resides, and the said North Carolina industrial commission shall then cause suit to be brought on said judgment in the state of the residence of any such insurance carrier, and the proceeds from said judgment after deducting the cost, if any, of the proceeding, shall be turned over to the injured employee, or employees, taking from such employee, or employees, the proper receipt in satisfaction of his claim. (1933, c. 474.)

§ 8081(aaa). To receive lump sum payments; receipt to discharge employer. — Whenever the Industrial Commission deems it expedient, any lump sum, subject to the provisions of the foregoing section, shall be paid by the employer to some suitable person or corporation appointed by the Superior Court in the county wherein the accident occurred, as trustee, to administer the same for the benefit of the person entitled thereto, in the manner provided by the Commission. The receipt of such trustee for the amount as paid shall discharge the employer or any one else who is liable therefor. (1929, c. 120, s. 45.)

§ 8081(bbb). Right of Commission to review awards and change same.—Upon its own motion or upon the application of any party in interest on the grounds of a change in condition, the Industrial Commission may review any award, and on such review make an award ending, diminishing, or increasing the compensation previously awarded, subject to the maximum or minimum provided in this article, and shall immediately send to the parties a copy of the award. No such review shall affect such award as regards any moneys paid but no such review shall be made after twelve months from the date of the last payment of compensation pursuant to an award under this article. (1929, c. 120, s. 46; 1931, c. 274, s. 6.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 struck out the words "last award" formerly ending this section and inserted in lieu thereof the words "last payment" of compensation pursuant to an award under this chapter.

Delay in Seeking Review.—Where the findings of the Industrial Commission, supported by evidence, are to the effect that a review of the award of compensation is sought by an employee more than twelve months from the date of the last payment, the order of the Commission denying further compensation will be upheld by the courts in view of this section. Lee v. Rose's 5-10-25c. Stores, 205 N. C. 310, 171 S. E. 87.

§ 8081(ccc). Receipts relieving employer; payment to minors; when payment of claims to dependents subsequent in right discharges employer. —(a) Whenever payment of compensation is made to a widow or widower for her or his use, or for her or his use and the use of the child or children, the written receipt thereof of such widow or widower shall acquit the employer: Provided, however, that in order to protect the interests of minors or incompetents the Industrial Commission may at its discretion change the terms of any award with respect to whom compensation for the benefit of such minors or incompetents shall be paid.

(b) Whenever payment is made to any person eighteen years of age or over, the written receipt of such person shall acquit the employer.

(c) Payment of death benefits by an employer in good faith to a dependent subsequent in right to another or other dependents shall protect and discharge the employer, unless and until such dependent or dependents prior in right shall have given notice of his or their claims. In case the employer is in doubt as to the respective rights of rival claimants, he may apply to the Industrial Commission to decide between them. (1929, c. 120, s. 47; 1931, c. 274, s. 7.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 struck out the former section and substituted the above.

§ 8081(ddd). Benefits of mentally incompetent or minor employees under 18 to be paid to a trustee, etc.—If an injured employee is mentally incompetent or is under eighteen years of age at the time when any right or privilege accrues to him under this article, his guardian, trustee, or committee may in his behalf claim and exercise such right or privilege. (1929, c. 120, s. 48.)

§ 8081(eee). Limitation as against minors or mentally incompetent.—No limitation of time provided in this article for the giving of notice or making claim under this article shall run against any person who is mentally incompetent, or a minor dependent, as long as he has no guardian, trustee, or committee. (1929, c. 120, s. 49.)

§ 8081(fff). Contribution allowed employers of same injured employee.—Whenever an employee, for whose injury or death compensation is payable under this article, shall at the time of the injury be in joint service of two or more employers subject to this article, such employers shall contribute to the payment of such compensation in proportion to their wages liability to such employee; provided, however, that nothing in this section shall prevent any reasonable arrangement between such employers for a different distribution as between themselves of the ultimate burden of compensation. (1929, c. 120, s. 50.)

tions, can be classed as a representative of employees. One member, to be designated by the Governor, shall act as chairman. (1929, c. 120, s. 51; 1931, c. 274, s. 8.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 struck out the following words formerly appearing at the end of this section: "And such member so selected as chairman shall not be one who, on account of his previous vocation, employment or affiliations, can be classed either as representative of employers or as representative of employees."

§ 8081(hhh). Salaries and expenses; secretary and other clerical assistance; annual report.—(a) The salaries of the chairman and each of the other Commissioners shall be fixed by the Governor, subject to the approval of the Advisory Budget Commission, such salaries to be payable in monthly installments.

(b) The Commission may appoint a secretary whose duties shall be prescribed by the Commission, and whose salary shall be not more than thirty-six hundred ($3600) dollars a year and who, upon entering upon his duties, shall give bond in such sum as may be fixed by the Commission, and who may be removed at the will of the Commission. The Commission may also employ such clerical or other assistance as it may deem necessary, and fix the compensation of all persons so employed, such compensation to be in keeping with the compensation paid to the persons employed to do similar work in other State departments.

(c) The members of the Commission and its assistants shall be entitled to receive from the State their actual and necessary expenses while traveling on the business of the Commission, but such expenses shall be sworn to by the person who incurred the same, and shall be approved by the chairman of the Commission before payment is made.

(d) All salaries and expenses of the Commission shall be audited and paid out of the State Treasury, in the manner prescribed for similar expenses in other departments or branches of the State service, and to defray such salaries and expenses a sufficient appropriation shall be made under the general appropriation act as made to other departments, commissions and agencies of the State government.

(e) The Commission shall publish annually for free distribution a report of the administration of this article, together with such recommendations as the Commission deems advisable. (1929, c. 120, s. 52; 1931, c. 274, s. 9.)

Editor's Note.—Prior to the 1931 amendment the salary of the chairman was fixed at $4500 a year and each of the other commissioners received $4000.

§ 8081(iii). Offices and supplies; deputies with power to subpoena witnesses and to take testimony; meetings; hearings.—(a) The Commission shall be provided with adequate offices in which the records shall be kept and its official business transacted during regular business hours; it shall also be provided with necessary office furniture, stationery, and other supplies.

(b) The Commission may appoint deputies, who shall have the power to subpoena witnesses and administer oaths, and who may take testimony in such cases as the Commission may deem proper. Such testimony shall be transmitted in writing to the Commission, and the Commission shall fix the compensation of such deputies.

(c) The Commission or any member thereof may hold sessions at any place within the State as may be deemed necessary by the Commission.

(d) Hearings before the Commission shall be open to the public and shall be stenographically reported, and the Commission is authorized to contract for the reporting of such hearings. The Commission shall by regulation provide for the preparation of a record of the hearings and other proceedings. (1929, c. 120, s. 53; 1931, c. 274, s. 10.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 amended subsection (a) of this section by striking out after the word "offices" the following: "in the capitol, or some other suitable building in the City of Raleigh."

§ 8081(jjj). Rules and regulations; subpoena of witnesses; examination of books and records; depositions; costs.—(a) The Commission may make rules, not inconsistent with this article, for carrying out the provisions of this article. Processes and procedure under this article shall be as summary and simple as reasonably may be. The Commission or any member thereof, or any person deputized by it, shall have the power, for the purpose of this article, to subpoena witnesses, administer or cause to have administered oaths, and to examine or cause to be examined such parts of the books and records of the parties to a proceeding as relate to questions in dispute. Any party to a proceeding under this article may, upon application to the Commission, which application shall set forth the materiality of the evidence to be given cause the depositions of witnesses residing within or without the State to be taken, the costs to be taxed as other costs by Commission. Such depositions shall be taken after giving the notice and in the manner prescribed by law for depositions in actions at law, except that they shall be directed to the Commission, the Commissioner, or the Deputy Commissioner before whom the proceedings may be pending.

(b) The County Sheriffs and their respective deputies shall serve all subpoenas of the Commission or its deputies, and shall receive the same fees as are now provided by law for like services; each witness who appears in obedience to such subpoena of the Commission shall receive for attendance the fees and mileage for witnesses in civil cases in courts of the county where the hearing is held.

(c) The Superior Court shall, on application of the Commission or any member or deputy thereof, enforce by proper proceedings the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production and examination of books, papers and records. (1929, c. 120, s. 54.)

For a discussion of this section, see 8 N. C. L. Rev. 427, et seq.

While there is no direct statutory provision giving the Industrial Commission power to order a rehearing of an award made by it for newly discovered evidence, the Commission has such power in proper instances in accordance with its rules and regulations, as provided by this section, it being the intent of the Legislature, as gathered from the whole act, to give the Industrial Commission continuing jurisdiction of all proceedings begun before it with appellate jurisdiction in the Superior Court on matters of law only. Butts v. Montague Bros., 208 N. C. 186, 179 S. E. 799.

§ 8081(kkk). Blank forms and literature; accident reports; Studies and investigations and recommendations to General Assembly; to co-operate with agencies of U. S. for prevention of injury.—(a) The Commission shall prepare and cause to be printed, and upon request furnish, free of charge to any employee or employer, such blank forms and literature as it shall deem requisite to facilitate or prompt the efficient administration of this act.

(b) The Commission shall tabulate the accident reports received from employers in accordance with section 8081(vvv) and shall publish the same in the annual report of the Commission and as often as it may deem advisable, in such detailed or aggregate form as it may deem best. The name of the employer or employee shall not appear in such publications, and the employers' reports shall be private records of the Commission, and shall not be open for public inspection except for the inspection of the parties directly involved, and only to the extent of such interest. These reports shall not be used as evidence against any employer in any suit at law brought by any employee for the recovery of damages.

(c) The Commission shall make studies and investigations with respect to safety provisions and the causes for injuries in employments covered by this article, and shall from time to time make to the General Assembly and to employers and carriers such recommendations as it may deem proper as to the best means of preventing such injuries.

(d) In making such studies and investigations the Commission is authorized (1) to co-operate with any agency of the United States charged with the duty of enforcing any law securing safety against injury in any employment covered by this chapter, or any State agency engaged in enforcing any laws to assure safety for employees, and (2) to permit any such agency to have access to the records of the Commission. In carrying out the provisions of this section the Commission or any officer or employee of the Commission is authorized to enter at any reasonable time upon any premises, tracks, wharf, dock, or other landing place, or to enter any building, where an employment covered by this article is being carried on, and to examine any tool, appliance, or machinery used in such employment. (1929, c. 120, s. 55.)

§ 8081(lll). Memorandum of agreement between employer and employee to be submitted to Commission on prescribed forms for approval.—If after seven days after the date of the injury, or at any time in case of death, the employer and the injured employee or his dependents reach an agreement in regard to compensation under this article, a memorandum of the agreement in the form prescribed by the Industrial Commission, accompanied by a full and complete medical report, shall be filed with and approved by the Commission; otherwise such agreement shall be voidable by the employee or his dependents.

If approved by the Commission, thereupon the memorandum shall for all purposes be enforceable by the court's decree as hereinafter specified. (1929, c. 120, s. 56.)

§ 8081(mmm). In event of disagreement, Commission is to make award after hearing.—If the employer and the injured employee or his dependents fail to reach an agreement, in regard to compensation under this article within fourteen days after the employee has knowledge of the injury or death, or if they have reached such an agreement which has been signed and filed with the Commission, and compensation has been paid or is due in accordance therewith, and the parties thereto then disagree as to the continuance of any weekly payment under such agreement, either party may make application to the Industrial Commission for a hearing in regard to the matters at issue, and for a ruling thereon.

Immediately after such application has been received the Commission shall set the date for a hearing, which shall be held as soon as practicable, and shall notify the parties at issue of the time and place of such hearing. The hearing shall be held in the city or county where the injury occurred, unless otherwise agreed to by the parties and authorized by the Industrial Commission. (1929, c. 120, s. 57.)

§ 8081(nnn). Determination of disputes by Commission.—The Commission or any of its members shall hear the parties at issue and their representatives and witnesses, and shall determine the dispute in a summary manner. The award, together with a statement of the findings of fact, rulings of law, and other matters pertinent to the questions at issue shall be filed with the record of the proceedings, and a copy of the award shall immediately be sent to the parties in dispute. The parties may be heard by a deputy, in which event he shall swear or cause the witnesses to be sworn, and shall transmit all testimony to the Commission for its determination and award. (1929, c. 120, s. 58.)

§ 8081(ooo). Review of award. — If application is made to the Commission within seven days from the date when notice of the award shall have been given, the full Commission shall review the award, and, if good ground be shown therefor, reconsider the evidence, receive further evidence, rehear the parties or their representatives, and, if proper, amend the award. (1929, c. 120, s. 59.)

§ 8081(ppp). Award conclusive as to facts; or certified questions of law.—The award of the Commission, as provided in § 8081(nnn), if not reviewed in due time, or an award of the Commission upon such review, as provided in § 8081(ooo) shall be conclusive and binding as to all questions of fact; but either party to the dispute may, within thirty days from the date of such award, or within thirty days after receipt of notice to be sent by registered mail of such award, but not thereafter, appeal from the decision of said Commission to the Superior Court of the county in which the alleged accident happened, or in which the employer resides or has his principal office, for errors of law, under the same terms and conditions as govern appeals in ordinary civil actions. The Commission, of its own motion, may certify questions of law to the Supreme Court, for decision and determination by the said Court. In case of an appeal from the decision of the Commission, or of a certification by said Commission of questions of law, to the Supreme Court, said appeal or certification shall operate as a supersedeas, and no employer shall be required to make payment of the award involved in said appeal or certification until the questions at issue therein shall have been fully determined in accordance with the provisions of this article. (1929, c. 120, s. 60.)

Jurisdictional Facts Not Conclusive on Appeal.—Both a proper construction of the language of this section, and well-settled principles of law lead to the conclusion that where the jurisdiction of the Industrial Commission to hear and consider a claim for compensation under the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act, is challenged by an employer, on the ground that he is not subject to the provisions of the act, the findings of fact made by the Commission, on which its jurisdiction is dependent, are not conclusive on the Superior Court, and that said court has both the power and the duty, on the appeal of either party to the proceeding, to consider all the evidence in the record, and find therefrom the jurisdictional facts, without regard to the finding of such facts by the Commission. Aycock v. Cooper, 202 N. C. 500, 505, 163 S. E. 569.

Evidence Not Considered on Appeal.—Under this section an award of the Industrial Commission is conclusive and binding as to all questions of fact when supported by sufficient, competent evidence, and neither the Supreme Court nor the Superior Court can consider the evidence for the purpose of determining the facts on appeal. Reed v. Lavender Bros., 206 N. C. 898, 172 S. E. 877.

The findings of fact by the Industrial Commission as to whether injury to an employee was by accident arising out of and in the course of his employment are conclusive on the courts upon appeal when the findings are supported by competent evidence of sufficient probative force. Perdue v. State Board of Equalization, 205 N. C. 730, 172 S. E. 396.

The jurisdiction of the Superior Court is limited to questions of law only. Byrd v. Gloucester Lbr. Co., 207 N. C. 253, 176 S. E. 572.

Where there is evidence that the driver of the employer's oil truck habitually carried a pistol in order to protect his employer's property, and that the employer acquiesced therein, and that the plaintiff was injured while filling a fuel tank in the course of his employment by the accidental explosion of the pistol carried by the driver when the driver threw it back into his truck after he and the plaintiff had joked about whether the pistol would shoot, the evidence discloses that the injury arose out of the employment and is sufficient to support the finding of fact by the Industrial Commission to that effect, which is conclusive and binding on appeal. Chambers v. Union Oil Co., 199 N. C. 28, 153 S. E. 594.

The statutes regulating appeals from a justice of the peace are applicable and control in appeals from the Industrial Commission to the Superior Court, this section failing to provide the procedure for such appeals. Higdon v. Nantahala Power, etc., Co., 207 N. C. 39, 175 S. E. 710.

Newly Discovered Evidence.—When a proceeding for compensation under the provisions of this act has been duly docketed in the Superior Court, upon an appeal from an award of the Industrial Commission, the Superior Court has the power in a proper case to order a rehearing of the proceeding by the Industrial Commission on the ground of newly discovered evidence, and to that end to remand the proceeding to the Commission. Byrd v. Gloucester Lbr. Co., 207 N. C. 253, 255, 176 S. E. 572.

Right to Reverse and Remand Cause.—Where all the facts are admitted and the Industrial Commission denies compensation on the facts as a matter of law, the Superior Court, on appeal, has jurisdiction, in view of this section, to reverse the Industrial Commission and remand the cause. Perkins v. Sprott, 207 N. C. 462, 177 S. E. 404.

Applied in Smith v. Hauser & Co., 206 N. C. 562, 174 S. E. 455.

§ 8081(qqq). Agreements approved by Commission or awards may be filed as judgments; discharge or restoration of lien.—Any party in interest may file in the Superior Court of the county in which the injury occurred a certified copy of a memorandum of agreement approved by the Commission, or of an order or decision of the Commission, or of an award of the Commission unappealed from or of an award of the Commission affirmed upon appeal; whereupon said court shall render judgment in accordance therewith, and notify the parties. Such judgment shall have the same effect, and all proceedings in relation thereto shall thereafter be the same, as though said judgment had been rendered in a suit duly heard and determined by said court: Provided, if the judgment debtor shall file a certificate duly issued by the Industrial Commission, showing compliance with § 8081(www) of this chapter, with the Clerk of the Superior Court in the county or counties where such judgment is docketed, then such clerk shall make upon the judgment roll an entry showing the filing of such certificate, which shall operate as a discharge of the lien of the said judgment, and no execution shall be issued thereon; provided, further, that if at any time there is default in the payment of any installment due under the award set forth in said judgment the court may, upon application for cause and after ten days' notice to judgment debtor, order the lien of such judgment restored, and execution may be immediately issued thereon for past due installments and for future installments as they may become due. (1929, c. 120, s. 61.)

§ 8081(rrr). Expenses of appeals brought by insurers. — If the Industrial Commission at a hearing on review or any court before which any proceedings are brought on appeal under this article, shall find that such hearing or proceedings were brought by the insurer, and the Commission or court by its decision orders the insurer to make, or to continue, payments of compensation to the injured employee, the Commission or court may further order that the cost to the injured employee of such hearing or proceedings, including therein reasonable attorney's fee to be determined by the Commission shall be paid by the insurer as a part of the bill of costs. (1929, c. 120, s. 62; 1931, c. 274, s. 11.)

Editor's Note.—This section was radically changed by the Act of 1931. It formerly allowed costs in any proceeding found to have been prosecuted or defended without reasonable grounds to be thrown on the party so acting unreasonably. 9 N. C. Law Rev. 407.

This section is valid. Russell v. Western Oil Co., 206 N. C. 341, 174 S. E. 101.

Discretion of Court.—The power given the court under this section to order that the cost to the injured employee of such proceedings, including a reasonable attorney's fee to be determined by the Commission, shall be paid by the insurer as part of the bill of costs is within the discretion of the court, and an order appearing in the judgment will not be reviewed by this Court. State v. Davidson, 205 N. C. 735, 172 S. E. 489.

Applied in Williams v. Thompson, 203 N. C. 717, 166 S. E. 906.

§ 8081(sss). Commission may appoint qualified physician to make necessary examinations; expenses; fees.—The Commission or any member thereof, may upon the application of either party, or upon its own motion, appoint a disinterested and duly qualified physician or surgeon to make any necessary medical examination of the employee, and to testify in respect thereto. Said physician or surgeon shall be allowed traveling expenses and a reasonable fee to be fixed by the Commission, not exceeding ten dollars for each examination and report, but the Commission may allow additional reasonable amounts in extraordinary cases. The fees and expenses of such physician or surgeon shall be paid by the employer. (1929, c. 120, s. 63; 1931, c. 274, s. 12.)

Editor's Note.—The Act of 1931 substituted the word "employer" for the word "state" formerly ending this section.

§ 8081(ttt). Legal and medical fees to be approved by Commission; misdemeanor to receive fees unapproved by Commission, or to solicit employment in adjusting claims.—(a) Fees for attorneys and physicians and charges of hospitals for services under this article shall be subject to the approval of the Commission; but no physician shall be entitled to collect fees from an employer or insurance carrier until he has made the reports required by the Industrial Commission in connection with the case.

(b) Any person (1) who receives any fee, other consideration, or any gratuity on account of services so rendered, unless such consideration or gratuity is approved by the Commission or such court, or (2) who makes it a business to solicit employment for a lawyer or for himself in respect of any claim or award for compensation, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall, for each offense, be punished by a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment not to exceed one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. (1929, c. 120, s. 64.)

§ 8081(uuu). Commission to determine all questions.—All questions arising under this article if not settled by agreements of the parties interested therein, with the approval of the Commission, shall be determined by the Commission, except as otherwise herein provided. (1929, c. 120, s. 65.)

§ 8081(vvv). Employer's record and report of accidents; records of Commission not open to public; supplementary report upon termination of disability; penalty for refusal to make report; when insurance carrier liable.—(a) Every employer shall hereafter keep a record of all injuries, fatal or otherwise, received by his employees in the course of their employment on blanks approved by the Commission. Within ten days after the occurrence and knowledge thereof, as provided in § 8081(dd), on an injury to an employee, causing his absence from work for more than three days, a report thereof shall be made in writing and mailed to the Industrial Commission on blanks to be procured from the Commission for this purpose.

(b) The records of the Commission, in so far as they refer to accidents, injuries, and settlements, shall not be open to the public, but only to the parties satisfying the Commission of their interest in such records and the right to inspect them.

(c) Upon the termination of the disability of the injured employee, or if the disability extends beyond a period of sixty days, then, also, at the expiration of such period the employer shall make a supplementary report to the Commission on blanks to be procured from the Commission for the purpose.

(d) The said report shall contain the name, nature, and location of the business of the employer, and name, age, sex, and wages and occupation of the injured employee; and shall state the date and hour of the accident causing injury, the nature and cause of the injury, and such other information as may be required by the Commission.

(e) Any employer who refuses or neglects to make the report required by this section shall be liable for a penalty of not less than five dollars and not more than twenty-five dollars for each refusal or neglect. The fine not herein provided may be assessed by the Commission in an open hearing, with the right of review and appeal as in other cases. In the event the employer has transmitted the report to the insurance carrier for transmission by such insurance carrier to the Industrial Commission, the insurance carrier wilfully neglecting or failing to transmit the report shall be liable for the said penalty. (1929, c. 120, s. 66.)

§ 8081(www). Adhering employers required to carry group insurance; prove financial ability to pay for benefits.—Every employer who accepts the provisions of this article relative to the payment of compensation shall insure and keep insured his ability thereunder in any authorized corporation, association, organization, or in any mutual insurance association formed by a group of employers so authorized, or shall furnish to the Industrial Commission satisfactory proof of his financial ability to pay direct the compensation in the amount and manner and when due, as provided for in this article. In the latter case the Commission may require the deposit of an acceptable security, indemnity or bond to secure the payment of the compensation liabilities as they are incurred. (1929, c. 120, s. 67.)

For comment on the provisions of this section through section (cccc) in relation to the law of contracts, see 13 N. C. Law Rev., 102.

Stated in Thompson's Dependents v. Johnson Funeral Home, 205 N. C. 801, 807, 172 S. E. 500.

§ 8081(xxx). Adhering employers required to give proof within 30 days that they have complied with preceding section; fine for not keeping liability insured; review; liability for compensation. — (a) Every employer accepting the compensation provisions of this article shall, within thirty days, after this article takes affect, file with the Commission, in form prescribed by it, and thereafter, annually or as often as may be necessary, evidence of his compliance with the provisions of § 8081(www) and all others relating thereto.

(b) Any employer required to secure the payment of compensation under this article who refuses or neglects to secure such compensation shall be punished by a fine of ten cents for each employee at the time of the insurance becoming due, but not less than one dollar nor more than fifty dollars for each day of such refusal or neglect, and until the same ceases; and he shall be liable during continuance of such refusal or neglect to an employee either for compensation under this article or at law in the same manner as provided in § 8081(v).

The fine herein provided may be assessed by the Commission in an open hearing, with the right of review and appeal as in other cases. (1929, c. 120, s. 68.)

§ 8081(yyy). Certificate of compliance with law; revocation and new certificate.—Whenever an employer has complied with the provisions of § 8081(www), relating to self-insurance, the Industrial Commission shall issue to such employer a certificate, which shall remain in force for a period fixed by the Commission, but the Commission may, upon at least sixty days' notice and a hearing to the employer, revoke the certificate upon satisfactory evidence for such revocation having been presented. At any time after such revocation the Commission may grant a new certificate to the employer upon his petition. (1929, c. 120, s. 69.)

§ 8081(zzz). Insurance policies must contain clause that notice of employer is notice to insurer; etc.—All policies insuring the payment of compensation under this article must contain a clause to the effect that, as between the employer and the insurer, the notice to or acknowledgment of the occurrence of the injury on the part of the insured employer shall be deemed notice or knowledge as the case may be, on the part of the insurer; that jurisdiction of the insured for the purposes of this article shall be jurisdiction of the insurer, that the insurer shall in all things be bound by and subject to the awards, judgments, or decrees rendered against such insured employer, and that insolvency or bankruptcy of the employer and/or discharge therein shall not relieve the insurer from the payment of compensation for disability or death sustained by an employee during the life of such policy or contract. (1929, c. 120, s. 70.)

§ 8081(aaaa). Policy must contain agreement promptly to pay benefits; continuance of obligation of insurer in event of default.—No policy of insurance against liability arising under this article shall be issued unless it contains the agreement of the insurer that it will promptly pay to the person entitled to same all benefits conferred by this article, and all installments of the compensation that may be awarded or agreed upon, and that the obligation shall not be affected by any default of the insured after the injury or by any default in giving notice required by such policy or otherwise. Such agreement shall be construed to be a direct promise by the insurer to the person entitled to compensation enforceable in his name. (1929, c. 120, s. 71.)

§ 8081(bbbb). Law written into each insurance policy; form of policy to be approved by Insurance Commissioner; law inapplicable to single catastrophe hazards.—(a) Every policy for the insurance of the compensation herein provided, or against liability therefor, shall be deemed to be made subject to the provisions of this chapter. No corporation, association, or organization shall enter into any such policy of insurance unless its form shall have been approved by the Insurance Commissioner.

(b) This article shall not apply to policies of insurance against loss from explosion of boilers or fly-wheels or other similar single catastrophe hazards: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to relieve the employer from liability for injury or death of an employee as a result of such explosion or catastrophe. (1929, c. 120, s. 72.)

§ 8081(cccc). Rates for insurance; carrier to make reports for determination of solvency; tax upon premium; returned or canceled premiums; reports of premiums collected; wrongful or fraudulent representation of carrier punishable as misdemeanor; notices to carrier; employer who carries own risk shall make report on payroll.—(a) The rates charged by all carriers of insurance, including the parties to any mutual insurance association writing insurance against the liability for compensation under this article, shall be fair, reasonable, and adequate, with due allowance for merit rating; and all risks of the same kind and degree of hazard shall be written at the same rate by the same carrier. No policy of insurance against liability for compensation under this article shall be valid until the rate thereof has been approved by the Commissioner of Insurance; nor shall any such carrier of insurance write any such policy or contract until its basic and merit rating schedules have been filed with, approved, and not subsequently disapproved by the Commissioner of Insurance.

(b) Each such insurance carrier shall report to the Commissioner of Insurance, in accordance with such reasonable rules as the Commissioner of Insurance may at any time prescribe, for the purpose of determining the solvency of the carrier and the adequacy of its rates; for such purpose the Commissioner of Insurance may inspect the books and records of such insurance carrier, and examine its agents, officers, and directors under oath.

(c) Every person, partnership, association, corporation, whether organized under the laws of this or any other state or country, every mutual company or association and every other insurance carrier insuring employers in this State against liability for personal injuries to their employees, or death caused thereby, under the provisions of this article, shall, as hereinafter provided, pay a tax upon the premium received, whether in cash or notes, in this State, or on account of business done in this State, for such insurance in this State, at the rate provided in the Revenue Act then in force, which tax shall be in lieu of all other taxes on such premiums, which tax shall be assessed and collected as hereinafter provided; provided, however, that such insurance carriers shall be credited with all canceled or returned premiums actually refunded during the year on such insurance.

(d) Every such insurance carrier shall, for the six months ending December thirty-first, nineteen hundred and twenty-nine, and semi-annually thereafter, make a return, verified by the affidavit of its president and secretary, or other chief officers or agents, to the Commissioner of Insurance, stating the amount of all such premiums and credits during the period covered by such return. Every insurance carrier required to make such return shall file the same with the Commissioner of Insurance within thirty days after the close of the period covered thereby, and shall at the same time pay to the State Insurance Commissioner the tax provided in the Revenue Act then in force on such premium ascertained, as provided in sub-section (c) hereof, less returned premium on canceled policies.

(e) If any such insurance carrier shall fail or refuse to make the return required by this article, the said Commissioner of Insurance shall assess the tax against such insurance carrier at the rate herein provided for, on such amount of premium as he may deem just, and the proceedings thereon shall be the same as if the return had been made.

(f) If any such insurance carrier shall withdraw from business in this State before the tax shall fall due, as herein provided, or shall fail or neglect to pay such tax, the Commissioner of Insurance shall at once proceed to collect the same; and he is hereby empowered and authorized to employ such legal process as may be necessary for that purpose, and when so collected he shall pay the same into the State Treasury. The suit may be brought by the Commissioner of Insurance, in his official capacity, in any court of this State having jurisdiction. Reasonable attorney's fees may be taxed as costs therein, and process may issue to any county of the State, and may be served as in civil actions, or in case of unincorporated associations, partnerships, inter-indemnity contracts, upon any agent of the parties thereto upon whom process may be served under the laws of this State.

(g) Any person or persons who shall in this State act or assume to act as agent for any such insurance carrier whose authority to do business in this State has been suspended, while such suspension remains in force, or shall neglect or refuse to comply with any of the provisions of this section obligatory upon such person or party, or who shall wilfully make a false or fraudulent statement of the business or condition of any such insurance carrier or false or fraudulent return as herein provided, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment for not less than ten nor more than ninety days, or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

(h) Whenever by this article, or the terms of any policy contract, any officer is required to give any notice to an insurance carrier, the same may be given by delivery, or by mailing by registered letter properly addressed and stamped, to the principal office or general agent of such insurance carrier within this State, or to its home office, or to the secretary, general agent, or chief officer thereof in the United States, or the State Insurance Commissioner.

(i) Any insurance carrier liable to pay a tax upon premiums under this article shall not be liable to pay any other or further tax upon such premiums, under any other law of this State.

(j) Every employer carring his own risk under the provisions of § 8081(www) shall, under oath, report to the Commission his payroll, subject to the provisions of this chapter. Such report shall be made in form prescribed by the Commission, and at the times herein provided for premium reports by insurer. The Commission shall assess against such payroll a maintenance fund tax computed by taking such per cent of the basic premiums charged against the same or most similar industry or business taken from the manual insurance rate then in force in this State as is assessed in the Revenue Act against the insurance carriers for premiums collected on compensation insurance policies. (1929, c. 120, s. 73; 1931, c. 274, s. 13.)

Construction.—The moneys received under sub-section (j) of this section is a special fund available to the Industrial Commission for its maintenance, but comes within the statute creating the Budget Bureau, and the two statutes should be construed in pari materia, and the Budget Bureau is authorized and required to allocate to the Industrial Commission so much of the special fund created by said sub-section as is necessary to carry out its function efficiently, and also allocate additional money from funds of a similar nature to the extent and amount necessary to the Industrial Commission for this purpose. North Carolina Industrial Commission v. O'Berry, 197 N. C. 595, 150 S. E. 44.

§ 8081(dddd). Collection of fines and penalties. —The Industrial Commission shall have the power by civil action brought in its own name to enforce the collection of any fines or penalties provided by this article, and fines or penalties collected by the Commission shall become a part of the maintenance fund referred to in sub-section (j) of section 8081(cccc). (1931, c. 274, s. 14.)

§ 8081(eeee). Salaries and expenses to be paid out of Contingency and Emergency Fund.— For the purpose of paying salaries and expenses of the Commission and its necessary employees in making preparations and putting this article into operation such sums as may be necessary shall be paid out of allotments by the Governor and Council of State out of the Contingency and Emergency appropriation under § 7486(v) of the Code. (1929, c. 120, s. 75.)

Art. 2. Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau

§ 8081(ffff). Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau created; objects, functions, etc. — There is hereby created a Bureau to be known as the Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau of North Carolina, with the following objects, functions and sources of income:

(a) To maintain rules and regulations and fix premium rates for Workmen's Compensation Insurance and equitably adjust the same as far as practicable, in accordance with the hazards of individual risks by inspection by the Bureau.

(b) To furnish upon request of any employer in the State of North Carolina or to any member of the compensation rating and Inspection Bureau of North Carolina, upon whose risk a compensation rate has been promulgated, information as to the rating, including the method of its compilation, and to encourage employers to reduce the number and severity of accidents by offering reduced premium rates for improved working conditions under such uniform system of merit or schedule rating as may be approved by the Insurance Commissioner of the State of North Carolina.

(c) The Bureau shall make a rating survey of each risk inspected which survey shall clearly show the location of all ratable items: Provided, however, that the Bureau shall not describe the items or make any recommendations for accident prevention, such service being reserved as a proper and essential field for the competitive enterprise of its individual members. (1931, c. 279, s. 1.)

§ 8081(gggg). Membership in Bureau of carriers of insurance; acceptance of rejected risks; rules and regulations for maintenance; Insurance Commissioner or deputy ex-officio Chairman. — Before the Insurance Commissioner shall grant permission to any mutual association, reciprocal or stock company, or any other insurance organization to write compensation or employers' liability insurance in this State, it shall be a requisite that they shall subscribe to and become members of the Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau of North Carolina.

It shall be the duty of all companies underwriting workmen's compensation insurance in this State and being members of the compensation rating and inspection bureau of North Carolina, as defined in this section, to insure and accept any workmen's compensation insurance risk which shall have been tendered to and rejected by any three members of said bureau in the manner hereinafter provided. When any such rejected risk is called to the attention of the compensation rating and inspection bureau of North Carolina and it appearing that said risk is in good faith entitled to such coverage, the bureau shall fix the initial premium therefor, (subject to the approval of the insurance commissioner), and upon its payment said bureau shall designate a member whose duty it shall be to issue a standard workmen's compensation policy of insurance containing the usual and customary provisions found in such policies therefor. Before any such risk shall be assigned under the provisions of this section such risk shall, if demanded, furnish the bureau a certificate of the division of standards and inspection of the department of labor that he is complying with the rules and regulations of that department. The bureau shall within thirty days after the approval of this law, make and adopt such rules as may be necessary to carry this law into effect, subject to final approval of the insurance commissioner. As a prerequisite to the transaction of workmen's compensation insurance in this State every member of said bureau shall file with the insurance commissioner written authority permitting said bureau to act in its behalf as provided in this section, and an agreement to accept such risks as are assigned to said insurance by said bureau, as provided in this section.

(a) Each member of the Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau writing compensation insurance in the State of North Carolina shall, as a requisite thereto, be represented in the aforesaid Bureau and shall be entitled to one representative and one vote in the administration of the affairs of the Bureau. They shall, upon organization, elect a governing committee, which governing committee shall be composed of equal representation by participating and non-participating members.

(b) The Bureau, when created, shall adopt such rules and regulations for its procedure as may be necessary for its maintenance and operation. The expense of such bureau shall be borne by its members by quarterly contributions to be made in advance, such necessary expense to be advanced by prorating such expense among the members in accordance with the amount of gross Workmen's Compensation premiums written in North Carolina during the preceding year ending December the thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty, and members entering since that date to advance an amount to be fixed by the governing committee. After the first fiscal year of operation of the bureau the necessary expenses of the bureau shall be advanced by the members in accordance with rules and regulations to be established and adopted by the governing committee.

(c) The Insurance Commissioner of the State of North Carolina, or such deputy as he may appoint, shall be ex officio chairman of the Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau of North Carolina, and the Insurance Commissioner or such deputy designated by him shall preside over all meetings of the governing committee or other meetings of the Bureau and it shall be his duty to determine any controversy that may arise by reason of a tie vote between the members of the governing committee. (1931, c. 279, s. 2; 1935, c. 76.)

Editor's Note.—All of this section preceding subsection (a) except the first sentence was inserted by the 1935 amendment.

§ 8081(hhhh). Governing committee; production of books and records for compilation of appropriate statistics; rates subject to approval of Insurance Commissioner.—In order to carry into effect the objects of the two preceding sections the Bureau members shall immediately elect its governing committee who shall employ and fix the salaries of such personnel and assistance as is necessary, subject to the approval of the Insurance Commissioner, and the Insurance Commissioner is hereby authorized to compel the production of books, data, papers, and records relating to or bearing upon such data as is necessary to compile statistics for the purpose of determining the pure cost and expense loading of Workmen's Compensation Insurance in North Carolina and this information shall be available and for the use of the Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau, for the compilation and promulgation of rates on Workmen's Compensation Insurance. All such rates compiled and promulgated by such Bureau shall be submitted to the Insurance Commissioner for approval as provided in section 8081(cccc). (1931, c. 279, s. 3.)

Art. 3. Occupational Diseases

§ 8081(1). Occupational disease made compensable; "accident" defined; diseases excepted under certain conditions. — Disablement or death of an employee resulting from an occupational disease described in § 8081(2) shall be treated as the happening of an injury by accident within the meaning of the North Carolina Workmen's Compensation Act and the procedure and practice and compensation and other benefits provided by said act shall apply in all such cases except as hereinafter otherwise provided. The word "accident," as used in the Workmen's Compensation Act, shall not be construed to mean a series of events in employment, of a similar or like nature, occurring regularly, continuously or at frequent intervals in the course of such employment, over extended periods of time, whether such events may or may not be attributable to fault of the employer, and disease attributable to such causes shall be compensable only if culminating in an occupational disease mentioned in and compensable under this article: Provided, however, no compensation shall be payable for asbestosis and/or silicosis as hereinafter defined if the employee, at the time of entering into the employment of the employer by whom compensation would otherwise be payable, falsely represented himself in writing as not having previously been disabled or laid off because of asbestosis or silicosis (1935, c. 123.)

21. Tenosynovitis, caused by trauma in employment.
22. Carbon monoxide poisoning.
23. Poisoning by sulphuric, hydrochloric or hydroflouric acid.
24. Asbestosis.
25. Silicosis.

Occupational diseases caused by chemicals shall be deemed to be due to exposure of an employee to the chemicals herein mentioned only when as a part of the employment such employee is exposed to such chemicals in such form and quantity, and used with such frequency as to cause the occupational disease mentioned in connection with such chemicals. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(3). "Disablement" defined. — The term "disablement" as used in this article as applied to cases of asbestosis and silicosis means the event of becoming actually incapacitated, because of such occupational disease, from performing normal labor in the last occupation in which remuneratively employed; but in all other cases of occupational disease shall be equivalent to "disability" as defined in § 8081(i), paragraph (i). (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(4). "Disability" defined. — The term "disability" as used in this article means the state of being incapacitated as the term is used in defining "disablement" in § 8081(3). (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(5). Limitation on compensable diseases. —The provisions of this article shall apply only to cases of occupational disease in which the last exposure in an occupation subject to the hazards of such disease occurred on or after the date on which this article shall have taken effect. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(6). Persons liable.—In any case where compensation is payable for an occupational disease, the employer in whose employment the employee was last injuriously exposed to the hazards of such disease, and the insurance carrier, if any, which was on the risk when the employee was so last exposed under such employer, shall be liable. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(7). Claims for certain diseases restricted; time limit for filing claims.—An employer shall not be liable for any compensation for asbestosis, silicosis or lead poisoning unless disablement or death results within three years after the last exposure to such disease, or, in case of death, unless death follows continuous disability from such disease, commencing within the period of three years limited herein, and for which compensation has been paid or awarded or timely claim made as hereinafter provided and results within seven years after such last exposure. Claims for all other occupational diseases shall be barred unless claims shall be filed with the industrial commission within one year from the disablement or death caused by such occupational disease. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(8). Employer to provide treatment.—In the event of disability from an occupational disease, the employer shall provide reasonable medical and/or other treatment for such time as in the judgment of the industrial commission will tend to lessen the period of disability or provide needed relief; provided, however, medical and/or other treatment for asbestosis and/or silicosis shall not exceed a period of three years nor cost in excess of three hundred thirty-four ($334.00) dollars in any one year; and, provided further, all such treatment shall be first authorized by the industrial commission after consulting with the advisory medical committee. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(9). Compulsory examination of employees. — The compulsory examination of employees and prospective employees as herein provided applies only to persons engaged or about to engage in an occupation which has been found by the industrial commission to expose them to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis. The industrial commission shall designate by order each industry found subject to any such hazard and shall notify the employers therein before such examinations are required. On and after the date on which this article becomes operative it shall be the duty of every employer, in the conduct of whose business his employees or any of them are subjected to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis, to provide prior to employment necessary examinations of all new employees for the purpose of ascertaining if any of them are in any degree affected by asbestosis and/or silicosis or peculiarly susceptible thereto; and every such employer shall from time to time, as ordered by the industrial commission, provide similar examinations for all of his employees whose employment exposes them to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis. At least one member of the advisory medical committee or other physician designated by the industrial commission shall make such examinations or be present when any such examination is made. The refusal of an employee to submit to any such examination shall bar such employee from compensation or other benefits provided by this article in the event of disablement and/or death resulting from exposure to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis subsequent to such refusal. It shall be the duty of the industrial commission to make and/or order inspections of employments and to keep a record of all employments subjecting employees to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis, and to notify the employer in any case where such hazard shall have been found to exist. The unreasonable failure of an employer to provide for any examination or his unreasonable refusal to permit any inspection herein authorized shall constitute a misdemeanor and shall be punishable as such. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(10). Compensation for employee temporarily removed from hazardous employment; payment for training for readjustment to other work; waiver of right to compensation.—Where an employee, though not actually disabled, is found by the industrial commission to be affected by asbestosis and/or silicosis, and it is also found by the industrial commission that such employee would be benefited by being taken out of his employment and that such disease with such employee has progressed to such a degree as to make it hazardous for him to continue in his employment and is in consequence removed therefrom by order of the industrial commission, he shall be paid compensation as for temporary total or partial disability, as the case may be, until he can obtain employment in some other occupation in which there are no hazards of such occupational disease: Provided, however, compensation in no such case shall be paid for a longer period than twenty weeks to an employee without dependents, nor for a longer period than forty weeks to an employee with dependents, and in either case said period shall begin from the date of removal from the employment, unless actual disablement from such disease results later and within the time limited in § 8081(7). When in any such case the forced change of occupation shall in the opinion of the industrial commission require that the employee be given special training in order to properly readjust himself there shall be paid for such training and incidental traveling and living expenses an additional sum which shall not exceed three hundred ($300.00) dollars, in the case of an employee without dependents, and which shall not exceed five hundred ($500.00) dollars in the case of an employee with dependents, such payment to be made for the benefit of the employee to such person or persons as the industrial commission may direct; provided, however, no such payment shall be made unless the employee accepts the special training herein provided, nor shall payment be made for a longer period of time than the employee shall accept such special training. If an employee has been so compensated, and whether or not specially trained for another occupation, and he thereafter engages in any occupation which exposes him to hazards of silicosis and/or asbestosis without first having obtained the written approval of the industrial commission, neither he, his dependents, personal representative nor any other person shall be entitled to any compensation for disablement or death from silicosis and/or asbestosis: Provided, however, that an employee so affected, as an alternative to forced change of occupation, may, subject to the approval of the industrial commission, waive in writing his right to compensation for any aggravation of his condition that may result from his continuing in his hazardous occupation; but in the event of total disablement and/or death as a result of asbestosis and/or silicosis with which the employee was so affected compensation shall nevertheless be payable, but in no case, whether for disability or death or both, for a longer period than one hundred (100) weeks. Such written waiver must be filed with the industrial commission, and the commission shall keep a record of each waiver, which record shall be open to the inspection of any interested person. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(11). "Silicosis" and "asbestosis" defined.—The word "silicosis" shall mean the characteristic fibrotic condition of the lungs caused by the inhalation of dust of silica or silicates. "Asbestosis" shall mean a characteristic fibrotic condition of the lungs caused by the inhalation of asbestos dust. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(12). Period necessary for employee to be exposed.—Compensation shall not be payable for disability or death due to silicosis and/or asbestosis unless the employee shall have been exposed to the inhalation of dust of silica or silicates or asbestos dust in employment for a period of not less than two years in this state, provided no part of such period of two years shall have been more than ten years prior to the last exposure. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(13). General act to control as regards benefits. — Except as herein otherwise provided, in case of disablement or death from silicosis and/or asbestosis, compensation shall be payable in accordance with the provisions of the North Carolina Workmen's Compensation Act. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(14) Reduction of rate where tuberculosis develops. — In case of disablement or death due primarily from silicosis and/or asbestosis and complicated with tuberculosis of the lungs compensation shall be payable as hereinbefore provided, except that the rate of payments may be reduced one-sixth. (1935, c. 123.)

waiver of notice and claim where payments are made; claim where benefits are discontinued. — Unless written notice of the first distinct manifestation of an occupational disease shall be given to the employer in whose employment the employee was last injuriously exposed to the hazards of such disease or to the industrial commission within thirty (30) days after such manifestation, and, in case of death, unless also written notice of such death shall be given by the beneficiary hereunder to the employer or the industrial commission within ninety (90) days after occurrence, and unless claim for disability and/or death shall be made within one (1) year after the disablement or death, respectively, all rights to compensation for disability or death from an occupational disease shall be forever barred: Provided, however, that notice and/or claim shall be deemed waived in case of disability or death where the employer or insurance carrier voluntarily makes compensation payments therefor, or, within the time above limited, has actual knowledge of the incurrence of the disease or of the death and its cause, or by his or its conduct misleads the injured employee or claimant reasonably to believe that notice and/or claim has or have been waived; and, Provided further, that where compensation payments have been made and discontinued, and further compensation is claimed, whether for disability or death from asbestosis, silicosis or lead poisoning, the claim for such further compensation shall be made within two years after the last payment, but in all other cases of occupational disease claim for further compensation shall be made within one year after the last payment. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(16). Post-mortem examinations; notice to next of kin and insurance carrier.—Upon the filing of a claim for death from an occupational disease where in the opinion of the industrial commission a post-mortem examination is necessary to accurately ascertain the cause of death, such examination shall be ordered by the industrial commission. A full report of such examination shall be certified to the industrial commission. The surviving spouse or next kin and the employer or his insurance carrier, if their identity and whereabouts can be reasonably ascertained, shall be given reasonable notice of the time and place of such post-mortem examination, and, if present at such examination, shall be given an opportunity to witness the same. Any such person may be present at and witness such examination either in person or through a duly authorized representative. If such examination is not consented to by the surviving husband or wife or next of kin, all right to compensation shall cease. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(17). Controverted medical questions. — If on the hearing of a claim for compensation for asbestosis and/or silicosis, any controverted medical question or questions shall arise, the industrial commission shall reserve its decision and award until it shall have received a report from the advisory medical committee; and the industrial commission may in its discretion refer to said committee controverted medical questions arising out of other occupational disease claims. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(18). Hearing before advisory medical committee; inspection of medical reports. — The advisory medical committee, upon reference to it of a case of occupational disease shall notify the employee, or, in case he is dead, his dependents or personal representative, and his employer to appear before the advisory medical committee at a time and place stated in the notice. If the employee be living, he shall appear before the advisory medical committee at the time and place specified then or thereafter and he shall submit to such examinations including clinical and x-ray examinations as the advisory medical committee may require. The employee, or, if he be dead, the claimant and the employer shall be entitled to have present at all such examinations, a physician admitted to practice medicine in the state who shall be given every reasonable facility for observing every such examination whose services shall be paid for by the claimant or by the employer who engaged his services. If a physician admitted to practice medicine in the state shall certify that the employee is physically unable to appear at the time and place designated by the advisory medical committee, such committee may, upon the advice of the industrial commission, and on notice to the employer, change the place and/or time of the examination so as to reasonably facilitate the examination of the employee, and in any such case the employer shall furnish transportation and provide for other reasonably necessary expenses incidental to necessary travel. The claimant and the employer shall produce to the advisory medical committee all reports of medical and x-ray examinations which may be in their respective possession or control showing the past or present condition of the employee to assist the advisory medical committee in reaching its conclusions. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(19). Report of committee to industrial commission. — The advisory medical committee, shall, as soon as practicable after it has completed its consideration of a case, report to the industrial commission its opinion regarding all medical questions involved in the case. The advisory medical committtee shall include in its report a statement of what, if any, physician or physicians were present at the examination on behalf of the claimant or employer and what, if any, medical reports and x-rays were produced by or on behalf of the claimant or employer. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(21). Appointment of advisory medical committee; terms of office; duties and functions; salaries and expenses.—There shall be an advisory medical committee consisting of three members, who shall be licensed physicians in good professional standing and peculiarly qualified in the diagnosis and/or treatment of occupational diseases. They shall be appointed by the industrial commission with the approval of the governor, and one of them shall be designated as chairman of the committee by the industrial commission. The members of committee shall be appointed to serve terms as follows: One for a term of two years, one for a term of four years, and one for a term of six years. Upon the expiration of each term as above mentioned the industrial commission shall appoint a successor for a term of six years; except that the terms of the members first appointed shall expire June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six. The function of the committee shall be to conduct examinations and make reports as required by §§ 8081(17)-8081(20), and to assist in any post-mortem examinations provided for in § 8081(16) when so directed by the industrial commission. Members of the committee shall devote to the duties of the office so much of their time as may be required in the conducting of examinations with reasonable promptness, and they shall attend hearings as scheduled by the industrial commission when their attendance is desired for the purpose of examining and cross-examining them respecting any report or reports made by them.

The members of the advisory medical committee shall be paid such salaries and/or fees and expenses, and in monthly installments or in such other manner as may be determined by the governor and approved by the advisory budget commission. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(22). Expenses of making examinations.—The industrial commission shall establish a schedule of reasonable charges to defray expenses incurred in making examinations pursuant to §§ 8081(9) and 8081(16), such charges to be collected in accordance with rules and regulations which shall be adopted by the industrial commission. Said charges shall be collected from employers who by order of the industrial commission are determined to be subject to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(24). Making up deficiency by assessment upon employers in hazardous industries; provision for annual fund. — In the event the amount appropriated by the general assembly and the charges, fees and allowances so assessed and collected and paid into the state treasury shall not be sufficient to pay the full cost incurred by the advisory medical committee in making examinations of employees, and conducting post-mortem examinations, and in making investigations of claims arising under this article, and in testifying before the industrial commission, the industrial commission shall assess against the employers found by the industrial commission to be subject to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis an amount sufficient to pay such cost, said amount to be assessed against such employers pro rata on the basis of annual payroll. The industrial commission is authorized to assess and collect in advance in the beginning of any year from the employers subject to such hazard an amount estimated as necessary to pay such cost. Said amount when so assessed shall be paid by such employers within ten days after the notice of assessment, and when collected by the industrial commission shall be paid into the state treasury as a part of the fund out of which to pay the expenses of the advisory medical committee. In the event such amount so assessed shall be found to be in excess of the cost incurred by such advisory medical committee in the performance of its duties under this article, such excess shall be credited against the estimate of the cost to be incurred by said committee for the succeeding year. In case the amount so assessed shall be insufficient to pay such cost the industrial commission is authorized to make an additional assessment to be made at the end of the regular assessment period and to be collected from the employers subject to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(25). Inspection of hazardous employments; refusal to allow inspection made misdemeanor.—The industrial commission shall make inspections of employments for the purpose of ascertaining whether such employments, or any of them, are subject to the hazards of asbestosis and/or silicosis, and for the purpose of making studies and recommendations with a view to reducing and/or eliminating such hazards. The industrial commission, and/or any person selected by it, is authorized to enter upon the premises of employers where employments covered by this article are being carried on to make examinations and studies as aforesaid. Any employer, or any officer or agent of an employer, who unreasonably prevents or obstructs any such examinations or study shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (1935, c. 123.)

§ 8081(28). Stock workmen's compensation security fund created.—There is hereby created a fund to be known as "The Stock Workmen's Compensation Security Fund," for the purpose of assuring to persons entitled thereto the compensation provided by the workmen's compensation act for employments insured in insolvent stock carriers. Such fund shall be applicable to the payment of valid claims for compensation or death benefits heretofore or hereafter made pursuant to the workmen's compensation act, and remaining unpaid, in whole or in part, by reason of the default, after the effective date of this article, of an insolvent stock carrier. Expenses of administration also shall be paid from the fund as herein provided. Such fund shall consist of all contributions received and paid into the fund by stock carriers, as herein defined, all property and securities acquired by and through the use of moneys belonging to the fund, and of interest earned upon moneys deposited or invested as herein provided. The fund shall be administered by the commissioner of this State in accordance with the provisions of this article. (1935, c. 228, s. 3.)

§ 8081(29). Verified report of premiums to be filed by stock carrier.—Every stock carrier shall, on or before the first day of September, nineteen hundred and thirty-five, file with the treasurer of the State and with the commissioner identical returns, under oath, on a form to be prescribed and furnished by the commissioner, stating the amount of net written premiums for the six months' period ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred thirty-five on policies issued, renewed or extended by such carrier, to insure payment of compensation pursuant to the workmen's compensation act. For the purposes of this article "net written premiums" shall mean gross written premiums less return premiums on policies returned not taken, and on policies canceled. Thereafter, on or before the first day of March and September of each year, each such carrier shall file similar identical returns, stating the amount of such net written premiums for the six months' period ending, respectively, on the preceding December thirty-first and June thirtieth, on policies issued, renewed or extended by such carrier. (1935, c. 228, s. 4.)

§ 8081(30). Contributions by stock carriers of 1% of net written premiums.—For the privilege of carrying on the business of workmen's compensation insurance in this State, every stock carrier shall pay into the stock fund on the first day of September, nineteen hundred thirty-five, a sum equal to one per centum (1%) of its net written premiums as shown by the return hereinbefore prescribed for the period ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred thirty-five, and thereafter each such stock carrier, upon filing each semi-annual return, shall pay a sum equal to one per centum (1%) of its net written premiums for the period covered by such return. (1935, c. 228, s. 5.)

§ 8081(31). Contributions to stop when stock fund equals 5% of loss reserves; resumption of contributions. — When the aggregate amount of all such payments into the stock fund, together with accumulated interest thereon, less all its expenditures and known liabilities, becomes equal to five per centum (5%) of the loss reserves of all stock carriers for the payment of benefits under the workmen's compensation act as of December thirty-first, next preceding, no further contributions to said fund shall be required to be made; provided, however, that whenever, thereafter, the amount of said fund shall be reduced below five per centum (5%) of such loss reserves as of said date by reason of payments from and known liabilities of said stock fund, then such contribution to said fund shall be resumed forthwith, and shall continue until said fund, over and above its known liabilities, shall be equal to five per centum (5%) of such reserves. (1935, c. 228, s. 6.)

§ 8081(32). Rules and regulations for administration of stock fund; examination of books and records; penalty for failure to file report or pay assessment; revocation of license.—The commissioner may adopt, amend and enforce the rules and regulations necessary for the proper administration of said stock fund. In the event any stock carrier shall fail to file any return or make any payment required by this article, or in case the commissioner shall have cause to believe that any return or other statement filed is false or inaccurate in any particular, or that any payment made is incorrect, he shall have full authority to examine all the books and records of the carrier for the purpose of ascertaining the facts and shall determine the correct amount to be paid and may proceed in any court of competent jurisdiction to recover for the benefit of the fund any sums shown to be due upon such examination and determination. Any stock carrier which fails to make any statement as required by this article, or to pay any contribution to the stock fund when due, shall thereby forfeit to said fund a penalty of five per centum (5%) of the amount of unpaid contribution determined to be due as provided by this article plus one per centum (1%) of such amount for each month of delay, or fraction thereof, after the expiration of the first month of such delay, but the commissioner may upon good cause shown extend the time for filing of such return or payment. The commissioner shall revoke the certificate of authority to do business in this State of any carrier which shall fail to comply with the provisions of this article or to pay any penalty imposed in accordance with this article. (1935, c. 228, s. 7.)

§ 8081(33). Separation of stock fund; disbursements; investment; sale of securities.—The stock fund created by this article shall be separate and apart from any other fund so created and from all other state moneys. The state treasurer shall be the custodian of said fund; and all disbursements from said fund shall be made by the state treasurer upon vouchers signed by the commissioner as hereinafter provided. The moneys of said fund may be invested by the state treasurer only in the bonds or securities which are the direct obligations or which are guaranteed as to principal and interest by the United States or of this State. The state treasurer may sell any of the securities in which said fund is invested, if advisable for its proper administration or in the best interests of such fund, and all earnings from the investments of such fund shall be credited to such fund. (1935, c. 228, s. 8.)

§ 8081(34). Payment of claim from stock fund when carrier insolvent; subrogation of employer paying claim; recovery against employer or receiver of insolvent carrier.—A. A valid claim for compensation or death benefits, or installments thereof, heretofore or hereafter made pursuant to the workmen's compensation act, which has remained or shall remain due and unpaid for sixty days, by reason of default by an insolvent stock carrier, shall be paid from the stock fund in the manner provided in this section. Any person in interest may file with the commissioner an application for payment of compensation or death benefits from the stock fund on a form prescribed and furnished by the commissioner. If there has been an award, final or otherwise, a certified copy thereof shall accompany the application. The commissioner shall thereupon certify to the state treasurer such award for payment according to the terms of the same, whereupon payment shall be made by the state treasurer.

B. Payment of compensation from the stock fund shall give the fund no right of recovery against the employer.

C. An employer may pay such award or part thereof in advance of payment from the stock fund and shall thereupon be subrogated to the rights of the employee or other party in interest against such fund to the extent of the amount so paid.

D. The state treasurer as custodian of the stock fund shall be entitled to recover the sum of all liabilities of such insolvent carrier assumed by such fund from such carrier, its receiver, liquidator, rehabilitator or trustee in bankruptcy and may prosecute an action or other proceedings therefor. All moneys recovered in any such action or proceedings shall forthwith be placed to the credit of the stock fund by the state treasurer to reimburse the stock fund to the extent of the moneys so recovered and paid. (1935, c. 228, s. 9.)

§ 8081(35). Mutual workmen's compensation security fund created. — There is hereby created a fund to be known as "The Mutual Workmen's Compensation Security Fund," for the purpose of assuring to persons entitled thereto the compensation provided by the workmen's compensation act for employments insured in insolvent mutual carriers. Such fund shall be applicable to the payment of valid claims for compensation or death benefits heretofore or hereafter made pursuant to the workmen's compensation act, and remaining unpaid, in whole or in part, by reason of the default, after the effective date of this article, of an insolvent mutual carrier. Expenses of administration also shall be paid from the fund as herein provided. Such fund shall consist of all contributions received and paid into the fund by mutual carriers, as herein defined, of property and securities acquired by and through the use of moneys belonging to the fund and of interest earned upon moneys deposited or invested as herein provided. The fund shall be administered by the commissioner in accordance with the provisions of this article. (1935, c. 228, s. 10.)

§ 8081(36). Verified report of premiums to be filed by mutual carrier. — Every mutual carrier shall, on or before the first day of September, nineteen hundred thirty-five, file with the treasurer of the State and with the commissioner identical returns, under oath, on a form to be prescribed and furnished by the commissioner of insurance, stating the amount of net written premiums for the six months' period ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred thirty-five, on policies issued, renewed or extended by such carrier, to insure payment of compensation pursuant to the workmen's compensation act during said period. For the purpose of this article "net written premiums" shall mean gross written premiums less return premiums on policies returned not taken and on policies cancelled. Thereafter, on or before the first day of March and September, of each year, each such carrier shall file similar identical returns, stating the amount of such net written premiums for the six months' periods ending, respectively, on the preceding December thirty-first and June thirtieth, on such policies issued, renewed or extended by such carrier. (1935, c. 228, s. 11.)

tieth, nineteen hundred thirty-five, and thereafter each such mutual carrier, upon filing each semi-annual return, shall pay a sum equal to one per centum (1%) of its net written premiums, as shown for the period covered by such return. (1935, c. 228, s. 12.)

§ 8081(38). Distribution of excess when mutual fund equals to 5% of loss reserves; distribution of fund when liabilities liquidated. — Whenever the mutual fund, less all its known liabilities, shall exceed five percentum (5%) of the loss reserves of all mutual carriers for the payments of losses under the workmen's compensation act, as of December thirty-first next preceding, distribution of such excess shall be made as repayments for successive fund years, commencing with the first fund year, to the mutual carriers in the proportion in which they respectively made contributions for such fund year: Provided, however, no such distribution shall reduce the fund, less all its known liabilities, below an amount equal to five per centum (5%) of such loss reserves as of said date. Such repayments shall be made from time to time until the mutual carriers for the first fund year shall have received their proportionate shares of the contributions for the first fund year including interest, if any. Such repayments for succeeding fund years in their order shall be made on the same basis. The insolvency of any mutual carrier shall automatically terminate its right to such repayments and the withdrawal of any mutual carrier from the transaction of workmen's compensation insurance business in this State shall automatically suspend its right to such repayments until all its liabilities for workmen's compensation losses in this State shall have been fully liquidated. If and when all liabilities of all mutual carriers for workmen's compensation losses in this State shall have been fully liquidated, distribution shall be made of the remaining balance of the mutual fund in the proportion in which each such mutual carrier made contributions to the mutual fund. (1935, c. 228, s. 13.)

§ 8081(39). Administration, custody, etc., of mutual fund. — The provisions of §§ 8081(32), 8081(33) and 8081(34) shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to the administration, custody and investment of and payments from the mutual fund. (1935, c. 228, s. 14.)

§ 8081(40). Notice of insolvency; report of claims and unpaid awards.—Forthwith upon any carrier becoming an insolvent stock carrier, or an insolvent mutual carrier, as the case may be, the commissioner shall so notify the North Carolina industrial commission, and the North Carolina industrial commission shall immediately advise the commissioner (a) of all claims for compensation pending or thereafter made against an employer insured by such insolvent carrier, or against such insolvent carrier; (b) of all unpaid or continuing agreements, awards or decisions made upon claims prior to or after the date of such notice from the commissioner; and (c) of all appeals from or applications for modifications or recision or review of such agreements, awards or decisions. (1935, c. 228, s. 15.)

§ 8081(41). Right of commissioner to defend claims against insolvent carriers; arrangement with other carriers to pay claims.—The commissioner or his duly authorized representative may investigate and may defend before the North Carolina industrial commission or any court any or all claims for compensation against an employer insured by an insolvent carrier or against such insolvent carrier and may prosecute any pending appeal or may appeal from or make application for modification or recision or review of an agreement, award or decision against such employer or insolvent carrier. Until all such claims for compensation are closed and all such awards thereon are paid the commissioner, the administrator of the funds, shall be a party in interest in respect to all such claims, agreements and awards. For the purposes of this article the commissioner shall have exclusive power to select and employ such counsel, clerks and assistants as may be deemed necessary and to fix and determine their powers and duties, and he may also, in his discretion, arrange with any carrier or carriers to investigate and defend any or all such claims and to liquidate and pay such as are valid and the commissioner may from time to time reimburse, from the appropriate fund, such carrier or carriers for compensation payments so made, together with reasonable allowance for the services so rendered. (1935, c. 228, s. 16.)

§ 8081(42). Expenses of administering funds.—The expense of administering the stock fund shall be paid out of the stock fund and the expense of administering the mutual fund shall be paid out of the mutual fund. The commissioner shall serve as administrator of each fund without additional compensation, but may be allowed and paid from either fund expenses incurred in the performance of his duties in connection with that fund. The compensation of those persons employed by the commissioner shall be deemed administration expenses payable from the fund in the manner provided in § 8081(33). The commissioner shall include in his regular report to the legislature a statement of the expense of administering each of such funds for the preceding year. (1935, c. 228, s. 17.)

§ 8081(43). Contributions relieving carrier of posting bond or making special deposit.—Contributions made by any stock or mutual carrier to the funds created by this article shall relieve such carriers from filing any surety bond or making any deposit of securities required under the provisions of any law of this State for the purpose of securing the payment of workmen's compensation benefits only. (1935, c. 228, s. 18.)

WRECKS

§ 8082. Number and boundaries of wreck districts.—The counties of Currituck, Dare, Hyde, Carteret, Onslow, Brunswick, and New Hanover are hereby divided into the following wreck districts, namely:

Currituck.—The first to extend from the Virginia state line to Judy's cove; the second to extend from the Judy's cove to Josephus Baum's fish house; the third to extend from Josephus Baum's fish-house to the county line of Dare.

Dare.—The first to extend from the county line of Currituck to the north point of Oregon inlet; the second to extend from the north point of Oregon inlet to the south point of New inlet; the third to extend from the south point of New inlet to the patrol house between Gull Shoal and Little Kennakeet life-saving stations; the fourth to extend from the last named patrol house to the patrol house between Big Kennakeet and Cape Hatteras life-saving stations; the fifth to extend from the last named patrol house to Creed's Hill life-saving stations; the sixth to extend from Creed's Hill life-saving stations to the county line of Hyde county.

Hyde.—The county of Hyde shall constitute one wreck district, which shall extend from the Dare county line to the Carteret county line.

Carteret.—The first from the Hyde county line to Core Banks life-saving station; the second from Core Banks life-saving station to Old Topsail inlet; the third from Old Topsail inlet to the Onslow county line.

Onslow.—The first from Bogue inlet to New River inlet; the second from New River inlet to the New Hanover county line.

New Hanover and Brunswick.—To extend from the Onslow county line to the South Carolina state line. (Rev., s. 5439; 1899, c. 79, ss. 1-9; 1903, c. 85; 1905, c. 199; 1915, c. 42.)

Editor's Note.—In the early case of Etheridge v. Jones, 30 N. C. 100, the question arose as to the right of the commissioners to take possession of a stranded ship without the consent of the master. It was held in that case that the commissioners did not have exclusive control of a wrecked vessel and the master or owner could take control of and dispose of a wrecked vessel without any responsibility to the commissioners.

The case of Hitfield v. Baum, 35 N. C. 394, 395 lays down the rule that there is an easement or right of way reserved by necessity for any person to enter over the land of another for the purpose of reaching and carrying away the cargo of a wrecked vessel.

§ 8083. Commissioners of wrecks; appointment, residence and term of office. — The governor, whenever it may be necessary, shall appoint a commissioner of wrecks for each of the districts designated in the preceding section. Each commissioner shall reside in the district for which he is appointed, unless separated by navigable waters, in which case the distance shall not exceed three miles. The restrictions as to residence shall not apply to Hyde county. No person who holds any office of profit or trust under the laws of the United States or the state of North Carolina, nor any person who is a pilot, shall hold the office of commissioner of wrecks. The term of office shall be for two years. (Rev., s. 5440; 1899, c. 79, ss. 10, 12, 13; 1903, c. 85; 1907, c. 398.)

§ 8084. Commissioners to give bond. — Every person appointed a commissioner of wrecks shall enter into a bond, with good and sufficient surety, in the sum of two thousand dollars, payable to the state of North Carolina and conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties. This bond shall be approved by the board of county commissioners and deposited in the office of the clerk of the superior court. (Rev., s. 305; 1899, c. 79, s. 10.)

§ 8085. Commissioners to take oath of office.— Every person appointed a commissioner of wrecks, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall go before some officer duly authorized to administer oaths and take an oath to perform faithfully the duties of his office, and the oaths to support the constitution of the state and of the United States. (Rev., s. 5441; 1899, c. 79, s. 11.)

§ 8086. Duty of commissioners. — Upon the earliest intelligence given that any ship or vessel is stranded, it shall be the duty of the commissioner in whose district the same is stranded, or his duly authorized agent, to repair at once to such wrecked ship or vessel, and upon the permission of its master to summon immediately a sufficient number of men who, acting under the direction of the commissioner or his agent, shall at once proceed to save the cargo and material of such wrecked vessel. As soon as any such stranded property is saved it shall be immediately placed under guard, one guard to be selected by the commissioner or owner representing the same, and one other guard to be selected by the salvors. Such goods or stranded property shall be kept under strict guard until sold or the salvors are paid as provided in this chapter. (Rev., s. 5442; 1899, c. 79, s. 14; 1901, c. 178.)

§ 8087. Salvage to be paid, or its payment secured, before release of goods. — Every person who assists in saving such cargo or material shall, within thirty days after saving the same, be paid a reasonable reward by the owner or master of the stranded vessel, or by the merchant whose vessel or goods are saved. In default of payment of a reasonable compensation the goods or other property so saved shall remain in the joint custody of the commissioner and salvors until all such charges are paid, or until the payment thereof is secured to the satisfaction of the parties saving such goods or other property. (Rev., s. 5443; 1899, c. 79, ss. 14, 15.)

§ 8088. Adjustment of salvage when the parties cannot agree.—If the parties shall disagree touching the amount of reward or salvage to be paid to the persons employed, the commander, owner, or commissioner who represents the property saved shall choose one disinterested person, and the salvors shall nominate one other, who shall adjust and ascertain the same. If the persons thus chosen cannot agree, they shall choose one other indifferent person as umpire to decide between them: Provided, that the amount to be paid the salvors shall be determined and agreed upon before sale is made of such property. (Rev., s. 5444; 1899, c. 79, s. 16.)

§ 8089. Sale of wrecked property for salvage; compensation of commissioner.—If the owner of the vessel, or the property which has been saved, shall fail for thirty days after the salvage has been ascertained, either by agreement or as provided for in the preceding section, to pay such salvage, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of wrecks in charge of such stranded or wrecked vessel or other property to sell the same at public sale, after first advertising such sale in the same manner as is required for sales of personal property under execution. Each commissioner shall provide himself with books and shall record in them all such sales by him made. He shall receive for selling any such wrecked or stranded property five per centum on the amount of sales, and in addition thereto he shall receive his actual expenses incurred in going to and returning from the place of the wreck, or where the property is stranded, to be paid out of the gross amount of such sales. At any public sale of stranded property, the salvors may select one person and the commissioner one other, who shall keep an accurate account of the sales, make the collections, settle with the commissioner his fees, and pay to the salvors the amount agreed on or awarded by the refrees. (Rev., s. 5445; 1899, c. 79, s. 17; 1901, c. 178; 1905, c. 66.)

§ 8090. Compensation of commissioner when there is no sale.—If any owner or merchant shall remove any such goods or other stranded property from the custody of any commissioner without a sale, then such commissioner shall receive, in addition to his actual expenses incurred for the purposes mentioned in the preceding section, two and one-half per centum on the amount of the value of such property, which amount shall be ascertained in the same manner as is provided for ascertaining the amount of the reward to be paid salvors in those cases where such reward cannot be determined by agreement. No commissioner shall receive any salvage or other reward except the commission prescribed in this chapter. (Rev., s. 5446; 1899, c. 79, ss. 17, 18; 1905, c. 66.)

§ 8091. Sale of unclaimed property.—Whenever any vessel, cargo, or material of any ship or vessel or any other property shall be cast ashore or taken up at sea and brought to shore, and no person is present to claim the same as owner, it shall be the duty of the commissioner of the district where the same is brought or cast ashore to take charge of such property and to proceed to advertise and sell it at public sale, first giving twenty days notice of such sale at three public places. On making any such sale the commissioner shall, out of the gross proceeds thereof, retain a commission of five per centum as his compensation and the amount awarded to the salvors pursuant to the provisions of this chapter. (Rev., s. 5447; 1899, c. 79, ss. 19, 20.)

§ 8092. Proceeds of sale to be paid to clerk of superior court.—When any commissioner shall undertake to sell any property where no person is or has been present to claim the same, it shall be his duty to notify the clerk of the superior court of his county of such sale. After any such sale is made, the commissioner shall forward to such clerk the proceeds of the sale, after deducting his commission of five per centum and paying the salvors the amount awarded to them as provided in this chapter. (Rev., s. 5448; 1899, c. 79, s. 21.)

§ 8093. Disposition of proceeds of sale by clerk.—It shall be the duty of the clerk of the superior court to make a record and keep an account of all moneys received by him from any commissioner of wrecks, and he shall advertise in some weekly newspaper in North Carolina the amount so received, giving a true description of the marks, numbers, and kinds of goods or other stranded property for which the same was sold. Each commissioner shall give the clerk of the superior court all necessary information for the proper enforcement of this section in each return made by him to the clerk. The clerk shall advertise for the space of sixty days, and if no person shall come to claim the money within a year and a day from the date of advertisement, then the clerk holding such money shall transmit the same, after deducting one per centum for his trouble and also after deducting the cost of advertising, to the treasurer of the state for the benefit of the public school funds. (Rev., s. 5449; 1899, c. 79, s. 22.)

§ 8094. Proof of ownership of property sold.—If any person shall claim to be the owner of any property sold as provided in the third preceding section and shall present his claim to the clerk holding the money arising from the sale of such property, it shall be the duty of such person to prove his title to the satisfaction of the clerk. If any person making a claim to such property be unknown to the clerk, then the clerk shall submit such claim to the consideration of three disinterested persons, one of whom shall be chosen by the claimant, and the decision of such referees shall always be final. (Rev., s. 5450; 1899, c. 79, s. 23.)

§ 8095. Stranded property to be reported; failure to report misdemeanor.—If any person shall find any wrecked or stranded property on or near the seashore, no person being present to claim the same, he shall as soon as possible give information thereof to the nearest commissioner of wrecks, who shall advertise and sell the same as provided in this chapter. If such finder shall refuse to report the goods so found, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than fifty dollars, or imprisoned not more than thirty days. (Rev., ss. 3548, 5451; 1899, c. 79, s. 24.)

§ 8096. Expenses to be deducted from proceeds of sales.—All necessary expenses shall be deducted from the gross proceeds of any sales made under this chapter. Such necessary expenses shall include only the cost of advertising, guarding, and surveying, when a survey is called by a notary public, as is provided by the Revised Statutes of the United States. (Rev., s. 5452; 1899, c. 79, s. 19.)

§ 8097. Violation of chapter a misdemeanor.—If any person shall violate any of the provisions of this chapter he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3562; 1899, c. 79, s. 26.)

§ 8098. Commissioner violating chapter liable for double damages and guilty of a misdemeanor.—If any commissioner of wrecks shall by fraud or wilful neglect violate any of the provisions of this chapter, or abuse the trust reposed in him, he shall forfeit and pay double the amount of damages to the party aggrieved. He shall also be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall forfeit his office and shall thereafter be incapable of acting as commissioner. (Rev., s. 3563; 1899, c. 79, s. 25.)

§ 8099. Interfering with commissioner in the discharge of his duties.—If any person shall wilfully and unlawfully resist, delay, or obstruct any commissioner of wrecks in discharging or attempting to discharge his duties as such commissioner, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Rev., s. 3564; 1905, c. 66, s. 2.)

CHAPTER 135

CONCERNING THE CONSOLIDATED STATUTES

§ 8100. Title of revision.—This revision of the statutes may be known and cited as The Consolidated Statutes.

§ 8101. Effect as to repealing other statutes.—All public and general statutes not contained in the Consolidated Statutes are hereby repealed, with the exceptions and limitations hereinafter mentioned. No statute or law which has been heretofore repealed shall be revived by the repeal contained in any of the sections of the Consolidated Statutes. All public and general statutes passed at the present session of the general assembly shall be deemed to repeal any conflicting provisions containd in the Consolidated Statutes.

Cited in 2 N. C. Law Rev. 175.

§ 8102. Repeal not to affect rights accrued, nor suits commenced.—The repeal of the statutes mentioned in the preceding section shall not affect any act done, or any right accruing, accrued or established, or any action or proceeding had or commenced in any case before the time when such repeal shall take effect; but the proceedings in every such case shall be conformed, when necessary, to the provisions of the Consolidated Statutes.

§ 8103. Offenses and penalties not affected.—No offense committed and no penalty or forfeiture incurred under any of the statutes hereby repealed, and before the time when such repeal shall take effect, shall be affected by the repeal.

§ 8105. Effect of repeal on persons holding office.—All persons who at this time shall hold any office under any of the acts hereby repealed shall continue to hold the same according to the tenure thereof.

§ 8106. What statutes not repealed.—The Consolidated Statutes shall not have the effect to repeal any public-local statute, any public statute which affects only a particular locality, any private statute, any statute relating to the boundary of the state or of any county, any act ceding the lands of the state to the general government, or any statute relating to the Cherokee lands, if the statute referred to was in force on the first day of January in the year one thousand nine hundred and nineteen.

Creating a Special County Court.—The provisions of a special local law creating a county court relating to the filing of pleading, etc., are not repealed by the general statute. Union Guano Co. v. Middlesex Supply Co., 181 N. C. 210, 106 S. E. 832.

A special public-local statute, providing for the drawing of grand juries, has not been repealed or modified by this section. State v. Davis, 203 N. C. 47, 52, 164 S. E. 732.

§ 8107. Consolidated Statutes effective August 1, 1919.—All provisions, chapters, subdivisions of chapters and sections contained in the Consolidated Statutes shall be in force from and after the first day of August, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen. (1919, c. 238, s. 8.)

Applied in Seminile Phosphate Co. v. Johnson, 188 N. C. 419, 124 S. E. 859.

§ 8108. Adoption of volume three of the consolidated statutes.—The chapters, subchapters and sections of the codification of the Public Laws enacted since the compilation of the Consolidated Statutes of North Carolina, as set out and contained in the publication known as volume three of the Consolidated Statutes of North Carolina, which codification and publication is provided for under chapter eighty-six, Public Laws of nineteen hundred and twenty-three, be adopted as constituting the Public Laws enacted since the publication of the Consolidated Statutes of North Carolina and previous to April first, nineteen hundred and twenty-three: Provided, that this section shall not have the effect of repealing any existing law and that it shall not be necessary to republish said statutes.

That such chapters, subchapters and sections as are referred to above shall be and constitute volume three, Consolidated Statutes of North Carolina. (1925, c. 99.)

§ 8108(1). References in statutes to Michie's North Carolina Code.—All acts of the general assembly of one thousand, nine hundred thirty-three, containing references to, or amendments of, any section or sections of "the North Carolina Code," or "The North Carolina Code of one thousand nine hundred thirty-one," or "Michie's North Carolina Code," are hereby declared to be intended as references to, and amendments of, the apposite, related, or cognate section or sections of the consolidated statutes, and all such references and amendments shall be liberally construed as intending to amend or relate to said apposite, related, or cognate sections of the said consolidated statutes. CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA

Adopted April 24, 1868, with Amendments to 1935

PREAMBLE

We, the people of the State of North Carolina, grateful to Almighty God, the Sovereign ruler of nations, for the preservation of the American Union and the existence of our civil, political and religious liberties, and acknowledging our dependence upon Him for the continuance of those blessings to us and our posterity, do for the more certain security thereof, and for the better government of this State, ordain and establish this Constitution.

ARTICLE I

Declaration of Rights

That the great, general and essential principles of liberty and free government may be recognized and established, and that the relations of this State to the Union and Government of the United States, and those of the people of this State to the rest of the American people, may be defined and affirmed, we do declare:

§ 1. The equality and rights of men.—That we hold it to be self-evident that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, the enjoyment of the fruits of their own labor, and the pursuit of happiness.

"Liberty" Qualified by Common Law Doctrines.—It is a recognized principle that a personal liberty is a constitutional right, and any act of Assembly which violates this right is not the law of the land and would be void by Art. I, sec. 17, of the Constitution. However, the meaning of general expressions such as "liberty" is qualified by the doctrines of the common law, and which as modified to suit our institutions, have been held a part of the law of this state. London v. Headen, 76 N. C. 72, 73, 75.

Same—Penalty for Refusing to Accept Office.—It is a doctrine of the common law that every citizen in peace, as well as in war, owes his services to the state when they are demanded, and a legislative enactment prescribing a penalty of $25 against any person who is duly elected or appointed town constable and who refuses to qualify is not violative of Art. I, sec. 17, which is a protective provision of the personal liberty referred to in this section. London v. Headen, 76 N. C. 72, 73, 75.

Exercise of Police Power Not Unlimited.—Compulsory vaccination is a valid exercise of governmental police power for the public welfare, health and safety, but if there are exceptional cases, where owing to the peculiar state of the health or system, vaccination would be dangerous, then the legislature cannot validly compel the person to submit to such protective measure, since this would be in violation of the rights recognized by this section as pre-existing and inherent in the individual. State v. Hay, 126 N. C. 999, 1006, 35 S. E. 459. For further limitations on police power, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 238 et seq.

Personal Liberty and Security, Political Rights, etc.—See 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 241 et seq.

§ 2. Political power and government.—That all political power is vested in, and derived from, the people; all government of right originates from the people, is founded upon their will only, and is instituted solely for the good of the whole.

In General.—In construing the provisions of the constitution in regard to elections (see Art. VI sec. I.) it should be kept in mind that this is a government of the people in which the will of the people—the majority—legally expressed, must govern and that these provisions should be liberally construed, that tend to promote a fair election, or expression of this popular will. Quinn v. Lattimore, 120 N. C. 426, 429, 26 S. E. 638.

Cited in State v. Hickey, 198 N. C. 45, 49, 150 S. E. 615.

§ 3. Internal government of the State. That the people of this State have the inherent, sole and exclusive right of regulating the internal government and policies thereof, and of altering and abolishing their Constitution and form of government whenever it may be necessary for their safety and happiness; but every such right should be exercised in pursuance of the law, and consistently with the Constitution of the United States.

Cross Reference.—For general treatment of police power including illustrative cases, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 238 et seq.; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 419 et seq. As to regulation of public school system, see section 5537.

Duty to Follow Decisions of Supreme Court.—It is the duty of the Supreme Court of the state to follow the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, upon questions involved in interstate commerce where Congress has assumed control of the matter relating thereto, and involved in the litigation. Norris v. Telegraph Co., 174 N. C. 92, 93 S. E. 465. But in intrastate cases, the decisions of the state Supreme Court are binding and will be followed in the U. S. Supreme Court though they appear "absured and illogical." Id.

Regulation of Criminal Practice. — The legislature has power to shape the criminal procedure of the state to provide remedies required by the exigencies of the present time. State v. Lewis, 142 N. C. 626, 634, 55 S. E. 600.

§ 4. That there is no right to secede.—That this State shall ever remain a member of the American Union; that the people thereof are a part of the American nation; that there is no right on the part of the State to secede, and that all attempts, from whatever source or upon whatever pretext, to dissolve said Union or to sever said nation, ought to be resisted with the whole power of the State.

§ 5. Of allegiance to the United States Government.—That every citizen of this State owes paramount allegiance to the Constitution and Government of the United States, and that no law or ordinance of the State in contravention or subversion thereof can have any binding force.

§ 6. Public debt; bonds issued under ordinance of Convention of 1868-, '68-'69, '69-'70, declared invalid; exception. — The State shall never assume or pay, or authorize the collection of any debt or obligation, express or implied, incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; nor shall the General Assembly assume or pay, or authorize the collection of any tax to pay, either directly or indirectly, expressed or implied, any debt or bond incurred, or issued, by authority of the Convention of the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, nor any debt or bond incurred or issued by the Legislature of the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, either at its special session of the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, or at its regular sessions of the years one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight and one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine, and one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine and one thousand eight hundred and seventy, except the bonds issued to fund the interest on the old debt of the State, unless the proposing to pay the same shall have first been submitted to the people and by them ratified by the vote of a majority of all the qualified voters of the State, at a regular election held for that purpose.

§ 7. Exclusive emoluments, etc.—No man or set of men are entitled to exclusive or separate emoluments or privileges from the community but in consideration of public services.

See § 2593(b) of the Code and the note thereto.

Editor's Note.—The majority of the cases wherein the litigating parties have relied on this section as the chief factor in the case which they make out, involve the determination of the question whether the particular grant or privilege given to a certain body can be construed as a valid exercise of the police power, and if so then the case is taken beyond the operative force of this section, since its provisions are not applicable to those powers and privileges, the exercise of which is for the benefit and good of the public. A few of the cases bearing on this point are given below; a full treatment of the subject of police power will be found in 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 238 et seq; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 419 et seq.

Purpose.—In summarizing the purpose of this section the court in Simonton v. Lanier, 71 N. C. 498, 503, speaking through Justice Bynum, says: "The wisdom and foresight of our ancestors is nowhere more clearly shown than in providing these fundamental safeguards against partial and class legislation, the insidious and ever-working foes of free and equal government."

Public Service Corporations.—The grant of a special charter to a railroad or other like corporation is not in conflict with this section of the constitution, the decisions in this state being to the effect that the charters of public-service corporations come directly within the exception contained in this provision. Reid v. Norfolk Sou. R. Co., 162 N. C. 355, 78 S. E. 306. This principle will be applied in behalf of municipal corporations, an agency of the state, created for the benefit of the public. Kornegay v. Goldsboro, 180 N. C. 441, 451, 105 S. E. 187.

Private Corporations.—A provision in a charter of a warehouse corporation to the effect that such corporation shall not be liable for loss or damages not provided for in its warehouse receipt or contract, attempts to confer exclusive privileges and is therefore unconstitutional under this section. Motley v. Warehouse Co., 122 N. C. 347, 30 S. E. 3; Motley v. Finishing Co., 124 N. C. 232, 32 S. E. 555.

A provision in a bank's charter allowing it to charge more than the legal rate of interest is void under this section of the constitution, where no public services are rendered in consideration of the grant. Simonton v. Lanier, 71 N. C. 498, 503.

A local public law which provides that the provisions of § 2445, should be read into private construction bonds, is in contravention of this section and 31 of our State Constitution, the statute failing to operate uniformly and equally in giving special privilege to the residents of the particular county and imposing heavier burdens on certain sureties. Plott Co. v. Ferguson Co., 202 N. C. 446, 163 S. E. 688.

Public Local Law as to Sale of Claims against Closed Banks Held Invalid.—Public-Local Laws and § 218(b), providing that depositors of certain closed banks might sell their claims for deposits to persons indebted to the banks at the date of their closing, and that the liquidation agents of such banks should accept such purchased claims as their face value in payment of the purchasers' debts to the banks, were held unconstitutional and void, being in violation of this section, in Edgerton v. Hood, 205 N. C. 816, 172 S. E. 481.

Regulation as to Maintenance of Market House.—It is within the power of a city or town to provide, by contract with its citizens, a market house and exclude with certain reasonable exceptions, the sale of fish at other places, it appearing that, under the contract, the market house was to remain under the full control of the municipal authorities, and that reasonable accommodation had been provided for the vendors, with reasonable charges for the stalls. State v. Perry, 151 N. C. 661, 65 S. E. 915.

Regulation as to the Practice of Medicine.—An act prohibiting the practice of medicine without registration is not brought within the inhibition of this section of the constitution because it contains a proviso to the effect that the act shall not apply to midwives nor to non-resident consulting physicians, as this does not constitute an exclusive privilege within the meaning of the section. State v. Van Doran, 109 N. C. 864, 869, 14 S. E. 32. See also, State v. Biggs, 133 N. C. 729, 46 S. E. 401.

Regulation of Vehicles for Hire.—A municipal ordinance requiring all operators of passenger motor vehicles for hire within the city to deposit with the treasurer of the city policies of liability insurance in responsible companies authorized to do business in the State in a stipulated amount for each car operated, or cash or securities in the sum required, is in contravention of this section and § 31, in that the ordinance fails to provide that the security required might be furnished by one or more solvent individual sureties. State v. Sasseen, 206 N. C. 644, 175 S. E. 142. See 13 N. C. Law Rev., 222, for a note on this case.

Exemption from Jury Service.—In State v. Cantwell, 142 N. C. 604, 614, 55 S. E. 820, Mr. Justice Walker in a dissenting opinion says that exemption from jury service by virtue of services in a fire department for five years is within the meaning of the word "privilege" as used in the constitution, which may be conferred in consideration of public services, and is not subject to revocation by the legislature.

§ 8. The legislative, executive, and judicial powers distinct.—The legislative, executive, and supreme judicial powers of the government ought to be forever separate and distinct from each other.

For full discussion of the subject, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 221 et seq.; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 414 et seq.

See § 483 and notes.

Generally.—Each of these coördinate departments has its appropriate functions, and one cannot control the action of the other, in the sphere of its constitutional power and duty. State v. Holden, 64 N. C. 829; Person v. Tax Com'rs, 184 N. C. 499, 115 S. E. 336.

The propriety of ordering sales of lands upon petition of the owner is purely a judicial duty and any private act of the General Assembly attempting to regulate the same is void under this section. Miller v. Alexander, 122 N. C. 718, 30 S. E. 125. For treatment as to encroachment on judiciary, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 223 et seq.

Where Office Created by Legislature.—It is competent for the legislature in creating an office, other than purely judicial, to reserve to itself the right to remove, or to the governor to suspend, the incumbent of the office. Caldwell v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 28 S. E. 554.

Court Practice Regulated by Judicial Department.—Under the present constitution, the supreme judicial power being independent of the other departments, the legislature cannot prescribe rules of practice for the Supreme Court; nevertheless, the courts have copied, almost verbatim, the provisions of the Code. Bird v. Gilliam, 125 N. C. 76, 79, 34 S. E. 196; Herndon v. Insurance Co., 111 N. C. 384, 16 S. E. 465. And where there is conflict, the rules made by the court will be observed, Cooper v. Com'rs, 184 N. C. 615; 113 S. E. 569. However, Art. 4, sec. 12 of the constitution gives to the General Assembly power to regulate proceedings in all the courts "below the Supreme Court." Horton v. Green, 104 N. C. 400, 401, 10 S. E. 470.

The independence of the Supreme Court only (and not of the entire judicial department) is provided for by this section. Wilson v. Jordan, 124 N. C. 683, 705, 33 S. E. 139. But there is nothing which gives the Supreme Court supervisory control over the legislature. Id.

Judicial Power as Aid to Legislative Act.—The judicial power can not be exercised in aid of an unfinished and inoperative act, so left upon the final adjournment, any more than in obstructing legislative action. State v. Robinson, 81 N. C. 409, 426. For treatment as to encroachment on legislature, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 240 et seq.; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 417 et seq.

§ 9. Of the power of suspending laws.—All power of suspending laws, or the execution of laws, by any authority, without the consent of the representatives of the people, is injurious to their rights, and ought not to be exercised.

§ 10. Elections free.—All elections ought to be free.

Cited in Edgerton v. Hood, 205 N. C. 816, 172 S. E. 481.

§ 11. In criminal prosecutions.—In all criminal prosecutions every man has the right to be informed of the accusation against him and to confront the accusers and witnesses with other testimony, and to have counsel for his defense, and not be compelled to give evidence against himself, or to pay costs, jail fees, or necessary witness fees of the defense, unless found guilty.

As to counsel, see § 4515 and notes; as to separation and exclusion of witnesses, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 143 et seq.

Information as to Accusation.—This section of the constitution does not require that the accused be informed of the charge against him in any special form or particular words, except it must be by presentment or indictment. State v. Carpenter, 173 N. C. 767, 92 S. E. 373; State v. Gibson, 169 N. C. 318, 85 S. E. 7. As to necessity for indictment, see N. C. Const., Art. I, sec. 12, and notes thereto.

Where a defendant convicted of a criminal offense has had sentence suspended upon condition that he appear at certain times in court and show good behavior, it is required that a judgment rendered at a later time find the facts upon which a sentence has been imposed and specify the findings of a certain criminal offense the defendant is found to have committed, in order to show that the defendant had been informed of the offense before sentence. State v. Gooding, 194 N. C. 271, 139 S. E. 436.

A charge to the jury which virtually puts the defendant upon trial for an additional offense to that named in the bill, in this case, conspiring with others than those alleged, violates the provisions of this section that "in all criminal prosecutions every man has the right to be informed of the accusation against him." State v. Mickey, 207 N. C. 608, 609, 178 S. E. 220.

Confrontation—Definition.—In State v. Thomas, 64 N. C. 74, 76, it is said that the word "confront" as used in this section does not simply secure to the accused the privilege of examining witnesses in his behalf, but is an affirmance of the common law rule that in trials by jury the witness must be present before the jury and the accused, so that he may be confronted, that is put face to face. It extends also to the right to require the witnesses to be placed under oath, subject to the test of a competent cross-examination. State v. Dixon, 185 N. C. 727, 119 S. E. 170. See also State v. Breece, 206 N. C. 92, 94, 173 S. E. 9. For full treatment of confrontation, see 4 N. C. Dig. 143 et seq.; 13 N. C. Dig. 613 et seq.

Under this construction it is held that entries in the course of business, upon the books of a railroad company by one at the time an agent of the company, and still living, but absent from the State, are not competent evidence of the facts therein set forth, upon the trial of a third person for crime. State v. Thomas, 64 N. C. 74.

By construing this section, which gives the accused the right to be confronted by witnesses, with the right to be present at the trial, the conclusion reached in this state is that the prisoner does not have to accompany the jury when it views the scene of the crime. Apparently the right to accompany the jury has never been raised in this state. 12 N. C. Law Rev., 268.

Same—Deposition.—Depositions taken in the absence of a criminal cannot be read against him. State v. Webb, 2 N. C. 103.

Same—Waiver of Right.—The accused has the right to insist upon the production of his accusers but this is a right which may be and is waived by a failure to assert it in proper time. State v. Mitchell, 119 N. C. 784, 25 S. E. 783, 1020. The right must be insisted upon in express terms and a general objection to the evidence is not sufficient. Id.

Self-Incrimination—Scope of Protection.—For fair interpretation of the clause that the defendant "shall not be compelled to give evidence against himself" seems to be to secure one who is or may be accused of crime from making any compulsory revelations which may be given in evidence against him on his trial for the offense. LaFontaine v. Southern Underwriters, 83 N. C. 133, 138.

This immunity extends, not only to one who actually testifies as a witness, but to the defendant in the trial, even though he decline to testify as a witness in his own behalf. State v. Hollingsworth, 191 N. C. 595, 132 S. E. 667.

As to witness testifying to any unlawful gaming done by himself or others, see section 1800 and note thereto.

Upon the trial of the defendant for violating the prohibition law the introduction in evidence of testimony of the officer making the arrest that he found a half-gallon jar of liquor on the person of the defendant is competent, and is not in violation of the constitutional provision that a defendant may not be compelled to give evidence against himself, the provision not applying to physical facts or conditions. State v. Hickey, 198 N. C. 45, 46, 150 S. E. 615.

The constitutional guarantee that a defendant shall not be compelled to testify against himself, as provided by this section, does not preclude testimony by a witness as to marks on defendant's body tending to identify him as the perpetrator of the crime. State v. Riddle, 205 N. C. 591, 172 S. E. 400.

The admission of incriminating testimony of defendant's physical condition by witnesses who examined her without objection does not violate defendant's constitutional right not to be compelled to give evidence against herself, as provided in this section. State v. Eccles, 205 N. C. 825, 172 S. E. 415.

Same—Demonstration of Act of Killing.—Upon trial for murder in the first degree when there is other circumstantial evidence of the prisoner's guilt, it is not duress to require the prisoner to place himself in such position as to show he could have fired the fatal shot from a window and killed the deceased, as this is not considered as making a person furnish evidence against himself, it being dependent upon physical facts and conditions and not upon confessions or statements of the prisoner. State v. Thompson, 161 N. C. 238, 76 S. E. 249.

Same—Forced Production of Incriminating Documents Not Allowed.—The protection afforded to defendants in criminal action by this section is a matter of absolute right to them, and extends to the forced production of letters and other papers in their possession that may tend to incriminate them upon the trial. State v. Hollingsworth, 191 N. C. 595, 132 S. E. 667.

Same—Waiver of Privilege.—The defendant waives his constitutional privilege not to answer questions tending to incriminate himself when he voluntarily testifies in his own behalf. State v. Allen, 107 N. C. 805, 11 S. E. 1016.

Same—Defendant Voluntarily Taking Stand.—See section 1799 of the code and notes thereto.

Must Have Opportunity to Prepare and Present Defense.—The constitutional right of a defendant in a criminal prosecution to confront his accusers and adverse witnesses with other testimony, as provided by this section, includes the right to a fair opportunity to prepare and present his defenses, which right must be accorded him not only in form, but in substance as well. State v. Whitfield, 206 N. C. 696, 175 S. E. 93.

Arrest and Search of Person Suspected of Carrying Intoxicants.—Where an officer sees a person leave his automobile with his appearance indicating that he had something concealed on his person and reasonably giving the impression that the person was carrying intoxicating liquor, the officer may immediately arrest and search such person, and where a half-gallon of liquor is found on the person of the defendant the action of the officer does not violate the provisions of this section. State v. Hickey, 198 N. C. 45, 46, 150 S. E. 615.

Payment of Witnesses' Fees Not Placed on Public.—This provision, exempting an acquitted defendant from payment of necessary witness fees of the defense, does not require that they shall be paid by the public; the section operates only to deprive the witnesses of their common law right to look to the defendant for payment. State v. Hicks, 124 N. C. 829, 32 S. E. 957.

Cited in State v. Wadford, 194 N. C. 336, 139 S. E. 608; State v. Goff, 205 N. C. 545, 552, 172 S. E. 407.

§ 12. Answers to criminal charges.—No person shall be put to answer any criminal charge except as hereinafter allowed, but by indictment, presentment, or impeachment.

For comprehensive treatment of this provision, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 331 et seq.; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 427 et seq.

Generally.—The words "except as hereinafter allowed" have reference to the last clause of section 13, and are intended to harmonize the two sections and let both operate. State v. Crook, 91 N. C. 536, 540.

A justice of the peace has no jurisdiction of an assault with a deadly weapon except to bind the defendant over, and by the provisions of this section, the Superior Court may proceed to trial only upon indictment duly found and returned, the words in this section "except as hereinafter allowed" referring to the latter clause of section 13 relating to trial of petty misdemeanors and not to an assault with a deadly weapon. State v. Myrick, 202 N. C. 688, 163 S. E. 803.

The word "indictment" means indictment by a grand jury as defined by the common law. State v. Mitchell, 202 N. C. 439, 443, 163 S. E. 581.

Necessity for Order for Grand Jury During Special Term.—Where defendant is tried at a special term of criminal court upon an indictment returned by a grand jury drawn for the special term, but there is no order by the Governor that a grand jury be drawn from such term, as provided by § 1450 of the Code, defendant's motion in arrest of judgment, made the first time in the Supreme Court upon appeal, must be allowed, pursuant to this section. State v. Baxter, 208 N. C. 90, 179 S. E. 450.

Applied in State v. Rawls, 203 N. C. 436, 166 S. E. 332

§ 13. Right of jury.—No person shall be convicted of any crime but by the unanimous verdict of a jury of good and lawful men in open court. The Legislature may, however, provide other means of trial for petty misdemeanors, with the right of appeal.

Cross References.—For general treatment of the subject, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 333 et seq.; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 428. For general provisions as to jurors, see sec. 2312 et seq.

The essential attributes of trial by jury guaranteed by this section, are the number of jurors, their impartiality and a unanimous verdict, and § 2330(a), providing that the court may order the selection of an alternate juror in those cases which seem likely to be protracted, does not infringe upon this constitutional provision. State v. Dalton, 206 N. C. 507, 174 S. E. 422.

Unanimous Verdict Required.—A verdict of guilty rendered by a less number than twelve is unconstitutional. State v. Berry, 190 N. C. 363, 130 S. E. 12. The verdict must be rendered in open court before the presiding judge. State v. Bazemore, 193 N. C. 336, 137 S. E. 172.

The defendant is entitled as a matter of right to know whether each juror assented to the verdict, announced by the juror who undertook to answer for the jury, and to that end he had the right to insist that a specific question be addressed to and answered by each juror in open court as to whether he assented to said verdict. State v. Boger, 202 N. C. 702, 704, 163 S. E. 877.

Poll of Jury.—The predominant purpose of the poll is to ascertain if the verdict as tendered by the jury is the "unanimous verdict of a jury of good and lawful men in open court," as prescribed by this section. Lipscomb v. Cox, 195 N. C. 502, 505, 142 S. E. 779. See Art. I, § 19.

See notes to section 585.

Jury Trial Preserved on Appeal.—The right of a trial by jury in a criminal action is preserved to the accused by the statutory requirement of a trial de novo in the Superior Court on appeal from a court of subordinate jurisdiction, and conviction in the Superior Court cannot be had unless upon the verdict of the jury, in accordance with the provisions of this section of our Constitution. State v. Pulliam, 184 N. C. 681, 114 S. E. 394.

Jury Trial Not Waivable.—A jury trial cannot be waived in a criminal action; hence where the facts were agreed upon by the state and the accused and submitted to the judge for his decision, it was held, that such a procedure is not warranted by the law. State v. Holt, 90 N. C. 749. The only exception being for the trial of petty misdemeanors. State v. Stewart, 89 N. C. 563. As to waiver in civil cases, see section 568 of the code and notes thereto.

Separate Provisions for Petty Misdemeanors.—The very purpose of conferring on the legislative power to provide means of trial other than by jury in the ordinary way, as to petty misdemeanors, is to avoid the inconvenience, expense and delay attendant upon indictment by the grand jury, the trial by the jury where the parties choose to waive it, in the ordinary course of criminal procedure. State v. Crook, 91 N. C. 536, 540.

Under this section indictment by grand jury is dispensed with in the trial of petty misdemeanors. State v. Lytle, 138 N. C. 738, 51 S. E. 66.

Same—Right of Appeal.—The right of appeal mentioned in the last clause of this section must be with the right in the party to appeal to the Supreme Court, and with power and jurisdiction in that court to review the decision of the court below in matters of law. State v. Ham, 83 N. C. 590, 591, 593.

The constitutional guaranty of a jury trial is met by the right of appeal which is given from the police court, in all cases, to the Superior Court. State v. Lytle, 138 N. C. 738, 51 S. E. 66. And this is true where the appeal is from a recorder's court. State v. Hyman, 164 N. C. 411, 79 S. E. 284.

Same—Waiver of Right.—A person on trial for a misdemeanor in a municipal court with right of appeal to the Superior Court, may waive his constitutional right to a trial by jury by consenting to the judgment therein entered, or by not appealing therefrom, and his afterwards employing an attorney and moving for the appeal within the time allowed by the statute applicable will not affect the fact that he had personally acquiesced in the judgment entered. State v. Lakey, 191 N. C. 571, 132 S. E. 570. State v. Pasley, 180 N. C. 695, 104 S. E. 533.

§ 14. Excessive bail.—Excessive bail should not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel or unusual punishment inflicted.

For general provisions as to bail, see sections 4574 et seq., of the code.

Bail—Test as to Reasonableness.—There are two things which have been looked upon as very good guides in determining the reasonableness of punishment; (1) what has formerly been expressly done in like cases, and (2) for the want of such particular discretion then to consider that which comes nearest to it. State v. Driver, 78 N. C. 423, 430.

It ought to be left to the judge who inflicts it under the circumstances of each case, and it ought not to be interferred with, except when the abuse is palpable. State v. Driver, supra; cited and approved in State v. Reid, 106 N. C. 714, 716, 11 S. E. 315.

Cruel and Unusual Punishment.—This section has been considered by the Supreme Court as an admonition to the judiciary in imposing sentence left to an extent within its discretion by the statutes, however, there is a decided intimation that in extraordinary and exceptional cases it may be held to affect legislative enactments as well. State v. Smith, 174 N. C. 804, 93 S. E. 910.

Same—Punishment for Two Offenses.—Where there is a conviction of the violation of two separate criminal statutes consolidated and tried as two counts under one bill of indictment, a sentence for each offense—the one to begin upon the expiration of the other term—confining the punishment as to each within that prescribed in the statute relating to it, cannot be considered under the facts of the case as cruel and unusual within the inhibition of this section. State v. Malpass, 189 N. C. 349, 127 S. E. 248.

Cruel and Unusual Punishment—Violation of Prohibition Law.—A sentence prescribed by statute for the violation of prohibition law is held not to be cruel or unusual within the meaning of this section. State v. Daniels, 197 N. C. 285, 148 S. E. 244.

§ 15. General warrants.—General warrants, whereby any officer or messenger may be commanded to search suspected places, without evidence of the act committed, or to seize any person or persons not named, whose offense is not particularly described and supported by evidence, are dangerous to liberty and ought not to be granted.

See section 4530 of the Code.

Cited in Rhodes v. Collins, 198 N. C. 23, 26, 150 S. E. 492.

§ 16. Imprisonment for debt.—There shall be no imprisonment for debt in this State, except in cases of fraud.

For treatment of subject generally, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 242 et seq. See also Code section 768 and the notes thereto.

What Constitutes Debt.—A fine or penalty imposed by a municipal ordinance is treated as a debt and under this section of the constitution, a person from whom it is attempted to be collected is exempt from arrest. State v. Earnhardt, 107 N. C. 789, 12 S. E. 426. A judgment on a note is likewise a debt and the defendant cannot be arrested therefor. Stewart v. Bryan, 121 N. C. 46, 28 S. E. 18.

But costs of prosecution against a prosecutor (upon acquittal of the accused or nolle prosequi entered), or against the accused upon a verdict of guilty, or a fine imposed, does not constitute a debt within the meaning of this section of the constitution, and hence the defendant may be imprisoned for non-payment of the same. State v. Wallin, 89 N. C. 578, 579. See section 1267. Nor is the duty of maintaining a bastard child imposed upon the father, such a debt as is contemplated by this section. State v. Palin, 63 N. C. 472, cited and approved in State v. Beasley, 75 N. C. 211, 212.

The words "except in cases of fraud," in this section of the Constitution, comprehend not only fraud in attempting to hinder, delay and defeat the collection of a debt by concealing property and other fraudulent devises, but embraces also fraud in making the contract—false representations for instance, and fraud in incurring the liability; for instance, when an administrator commits a fraud by applying the funds of the estate to his own use, paying his own debts, and the like. Melvin v. Melvin, 72 N. C. 384. See further for arrests in cases of fraud, section 768, par. 4, of the Code and notes thereto.

Not Applicable To Tort Actions.—The provision of this section of the constitution has no application to actions for tort; it is confined to causes of action arising ex-contractu. Long v. McLean, 88 N. C. 3. As to arrest for damages arising from tort, see Code 768, par. 1 and the notes thereto.

Section 4284 Constitutional.—Section 4284 of the Code does not contravene this section of the Constitution. See the notes to section 4284 of the code.

Section 4480 Unconstitutional.—Section 4480 of the Code is unconstitutional because it contravenes this section of the constitution. See the annotations under section 4480 of the code.

§ 17. No person taken, etc., but by law of land.—No person ought to be taken, imprisoned, or disseized of his freehold, liberties or privileges, or outlawed or exiled, or in any manner deprived of his life, liberty or property, but by the law of the land.

Cross Reference.—For full treatment of the subject-matter, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 328 et seq; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 427 et seq. As to qualification on term "liberty" see note of London v. Headen, under Art. I, sec. I.

What Constitutes "Law of the Land."—It is said by Mr. Webster in Dartmouth College v. Woodward, 4 Wheat. 518, 519, 4 L. Ed. 629, "By the law of the land is most clearly intended the general law; a law which hears before it condemns; which proceeds upon inquiry, and renders judgment only after trial. The meaning is that every citizen shall hold his life, liberty, property and immunities, under the protection of the general rules which govern society. Everything which may pass under the form of an enactment is not, therefore, to be considered the law of the land." Caldwell v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 477, 28 S. E. 554.

In Hoke v. Henderson, 15 N. C. 1, 16, Chief Justice Ruffin said: "The clause itself means that such legislative acts as profess in themselves directly to punish persons, or to deprive the citizen of his property, without trial before the judicial tribunals, and a decision upon the matter of rights, as determined by the laws under which is vested, according to the course, mode and usage of the common law as derived from our forefathers, are not effectually 'laws of the land' for those purposes." State v. Cutshell, 110 N. C. 538, 545, 15 S. E. 261.

Double Jeopardy.—A person cannot be tried twice for the same offense under this section. State v. Mansfield, 207 N. C. 233, 176 S. E. 761.

What Constitutes Due Process of Law.—See 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 328.

The obligation of a contract, within the meaning of the constitutional prohibition against impairment, includes all the means and assurances available for the enforcement of the contract at the time of its execution. Bateman v. Sterrett, 201 N. C. 59, 61, 159 S. E. 14.

An Office as Vested Property.—Whether or not an officer appointed for a definite time to a legislative office has a vested property therein or contract right thereto has given rise to conflicting views and inharmonious decisions. In the early case of Hoke v. Henderson, 15 N. C. 1, it is held that an office is property and is the subject of protection like any other property under the provisions of this section of the constitution. The reasoning used by the court in this case, which is to the effect that a public office exists by contracts between the state and the holder, has been the foundation for the decisions of the courts adhering to this view. See King v. Hunter, 65 N. C. 603; Cotten v. Ellis, 52 N. C. 545; Bailey v. Caldwell, 68 N. C. 472; State v. Gales, 77 N. C. 283; Wood v. Bellamy, 120 N. C. 212, 27 S. E. 113. The general trend of American authority appears to have always maintained the opposite view. See Taylor v. Beckham, 178 U. S. 548, 577, 44 L. Ed. 1187, 20 S. Ct. 890, 1009; Butler v. Pennsylvania, 10 How (U. S.) 402, 13 L. Ed. 472, the North Carolina doctrine being criticized in many of the cases. However, North Carolina has now gotten away from the view to which it adhered over a long period of time and is now in line with the general current of American authority, Hoke v. Henderson being expressly overruled in Mial v. Ellington, 134 N. C. 131, 46 S. E. 961. See historical treatment of this question contained in the Editor's Note to section 3200—Ed. Note.

Infringement of Rights of Litigating Party.—The discretion of the trial judge given him over the trial of a cause is rarely interferred with, though his action may be set aside for such gross abuse as would invade the legal rights to the prejudice of the appealing party. State v. Sauls, 190 N. C. 810, 130 S. E. 848. However, the right of appeal is not always essential to the "due process" clauses of the state or Federal constitutions. Gunter v. Sanford, 186 N. C. 452, 120 S. E. 41.

The question as to whether the defendant in a criminal action has sufficient time to prepare his defense before trial, and has thereby been deprived of his rights under the provisions of Article I, section 17, of our State Constitution, is one addressed to the sound discretion of the trial judge, which will not be reviewed on appeal when it is not made to appear that this discretionary power has been abused by him. State v. Burnett, 184 N. C. 783, 784, 115 S. E. 57.

Right of Cross Examination.—The right of the defendant in a criminal action to cross-examine expert witnesses who have testified their opinion against him is a material one, guaranteed by this section of the Constitution and a denial thereof may not be held as merely a technicality and harmless; or is this error cured by the fact that he has an opportunity to cross-examine one of these witnesses in refutation of the correctness of the facts upon which his conclusions was based, especially when the other witness is to be regarded as the most important one. State v. Hightower, 187 N. C. 300, 301, 121 S. E. 616.

License of Attorney Protected.—This section constitutes the basis of the decision in those cases holding that an attorney who has been duly licensed to practice law cannot be disbarred or deprived of his license and right to practice, except upon conviction for a criminal offense, or after confession in open court. See Ex-Parte Schenck, 65 N. C. 353, 354 and cases there cited.

A contingent remainderman in lands acquires his interest therein subject to the payment of testator's debts, and in that respect can acquire no vested interest therein, and a sale thereof in good faith and at a fair price by the executrix, for the payment of decedent's debts, as authorized by statute, when by proper proceedings the land could have been sold for the purpose, though the executrix has mistaken therein the authority given her under the will, cannot be held as contrary to the provision of this section. Charlotte Consolidated Constr. Co. v. Brockenbrough, 187 N. C. 65, 121 S. E. 7.

Irregular Taxation.—"In Commissioners v. Lacy, 174 N. C. 141, 93 S. E. 482, the court said: 'It is a fundamental principle in the law of taxation that taxes may only be levied for public purposes and for the benefit of the public on whom they are imposed, and to lay these burdens upon one district for benefits appertaining solely to another is in clear violation of established principles of right and contrary to the express provisions of our Constitution, Art. I, sec. 17, which forbids that any person shall be disseized of his freehold liberties and privileges or in any manner deprived of his life, liberty or property but by the law of the land.' " Cited and approved in Board v. Hanchett Bond Co., 194 N. C. 137, 139; Hinton v. Lacy, 193 N. C. 496, 137 S. E. 669.

Eminent Domain by Park Commission.—The exercise of the power of eminent domain by the North Carolina National Park Commission under Public Laws 1927, ch. 48, is not contrary to the "due process" clause of the State Constitution. Yarbrough v. Park Commission, 196 N. C. 284, 145 S. E. 563.

Only those whose interests in the particular lands sought to be taken for the national park contemplated by chapter 48, Public Laws of 1927, sec. 27, may sue in equity for injunctive relief on the ground that their lands are about to be taken contrary to the provisions of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution and of this section. Yarbrough v. Park Commission, 196 N. C. 284, 145 S. E. 563.

The exercise of the power of eminent domain by a corporation authorized by its charter to generate and sell electricity, and given power of eminent domain to acquire the necessary rights of way and lands for its dams cannot be said to be exercising this power in a private capacity in contravention of this section. Whiting Mfg. Co. v. Carolina Aluminum Co., 207 N. C. 52, 175 S. E. 698.

Approval of Law Authorizing Issue of Bonds.—Where a valid act authorizing a county to issue bonds has been passed in accordance with the provisions of the State Constitution, Art. II, sec. 14, leaving out the requirement that the question must first be submitted to the qualified voters, and another act ratified a few days later makes this requirement, the two acts will be construed in pari materia, and the later as not having a retroactive effect, and the county does not acquire a vested right under the first ratified act. Graham County v. Terry, 194 N. C. 22, 138 S. E. 443.

Sale of Land for Taxes.—For a valid sale of land for taxes, the tax list and notice of sale must contain a sufficiently definite description of the land to allow the land to be identified, and to be notice to those persons whose interest is to be affected, and if the description is not so definite, a sale thereunder will be void as not complying with the statute, and as taking property without giving notice and as not affording those whose property is sold an opportunity to be heard. Bryson v. McCoy, 194 N. C. 91, 138 S. E. 420.

Sale of Property at Foreclosure.—This section is not violated by sections 2593(b) (c) regulating the sale of real property upon the foreclosure of mortgages or deeds of trust. Woltz v. Asheville Safe Deposit Co., 206 N. C. 239, 173 S. E. 587.

The State may proceed directly or by authorization to others to sell lands for taxes upon proceedings to enforce a lien for the taxes thereon, and a publication of notice to all interested in the lands to appear and defend their rights is not a taking of property inhibited by this section. Orange County v. Jenkins, 200 N. C. 202, 156 S. E. 774.

The statute, authorizing the State Highway Commission to enter upon and take possession of lands before bringing condemnation proceedings and before making compensation, is not an infraction of constitutional rights and does not deprive an owner of notice and opportunity to be heard. North Carolina State Highway Comm. v. Young, 200 N. C. 603, 158 S. E. 925.

Cited in Kenilworth v. Hyder, 197 N. C. 85, 86, 147 S. E. 736.

§ 18. Persons restrained of liberty.—Every person restrained of his liberty is entitled to a remedy to inquire into the lawfulness thereof, and to remove the same, if unlawful; and such remedy ought not to be denied or delayed.

Stated in State v. Herndon, 107 N. C. 934, 12 S. E. 268; Harkins v. Cathy, 119 N. C. 649, 26 S. E. 136; In re Schenck, 74 N. C. 607.

§ 19. Controversies at law respecting property.—In all controversies at law respecting property, the ancient mode of trial by jury is one of the best securities of the rights of the people, and ought to remain sacred and inviolable.

Cross Reference.—For a comprehensive treatment of the subject, see 8 N. C. Enc. Dig. 320 et seq; 14 N. C. Enc. Dig. 598 et seq. As to courts in which jury trial required, see 8 N. C. Enc. Dig. 321. As to waiver of jury trial see section 568 and note thereto. See also, 8 N. C. Enc. Dig. 328.

In General.—This section guaranteeing the right of trial by jury in "controversies at law regarding property," includes equitable and legal elements involved in the determination of the issues made by the pleadings, but it is not required that a trial by jury be had at each stage of the proceedings when this right has elsewhere therein been properly safeguarded by statute. Commissioners v. George, 182 N. C. 414, 109 S. E. 77.

Every litigant has the constitutional right of trial by jury unless he voluntarily waives it, and, in case of a compulsory reference made to facilitate the trial of a cause, he can renew his demand for a jury trial by excepting to the report of the referee and pointing out the findings so expected to as a basis for issues. State v. Featherstone, 120 N. C. 446, 27 S. E. 124.

Right to a jury trial is guaranteed by this section, and where the parties do not consent to trial by the court, it may not determine, prior to the introduction of evidence, an issue of fact joined by the pleadings. Hershey Corp. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 207 N. C. 122, 176 S. E. 265.

The policy for the preservation of the right to a trial by jury provided for by this section of the constitution is ordinarily for the Legislature to declare. Board v. Forrest, 193 N. C. 519, 137 S. E. 431.

Right Not Unqualified.—This section does not confer the right to demand the intervention of a jury absolutely and unqualifiedly, but only in cases involving issues of fact. McQueen v. People's Nat. Bank, 111 N. C. 509, 513, 515, 16 S. E. 270.

This constitutional provision applies only to cases in which the prerogative existed at common law or by statute at the time the constitution was adopted. Groves v. Ware, 182 N. C. 553, 109 S. E. 568; Chowan & Southern R. Co. v. Parker, 105 N. C. 246, 11 S. E. 328.

Under Workmen's Compensation Act trial by jury is not a constitutional right. Hagler v. Mecklenburg Highway Comm., 200 N. C. 733, 734, 158 S. E. 383.

"Trial" refers to a dispute and issue of fact, and the expression "trial by jury," as used in this section does not necessarily signify that every legal controversy is to be determined by a jury. Com'rs v. George, 182 N. C. 414, 417, 109 S. E. 77.

Polling Jury in Civil Actions.—Under this section the losing party in a civil action may demand a polling of the jury upon the return of the verdict, as a matter of right. Culbreth v. Mfg. Co., 189 N. C. 208, 126 S. E. 419.

Upon the coming in of the verdict in a civil action, either party to the action has the constitutional right to have the jury polled before accepting the verdict as a unanimous one. In re Will of Sugg, 194 N. C. 638, 140 S. E. 604. See note under Art. I, § 13.

Affect of Fourteenth Amendment of Federal Constitution.—A trial by jury in suits at common law pending in the State Courts is not a privilege or immunity of national citizenship which the States are forbidden by the Fourteenth Amendment to abridge, and the requirements of the Federal Constitution that no person shall be deprived of his property without due process of law does not imply that all trials in the State Courts affecting property must be by jury, but it is met if the trial be had according to the settled course of Judicial Proceedings. Caldwell v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 28 S. E. 554.

§ 20. Freedom of the press.—The freedom of the press is one of the great bulwarks of liberty, and therefore ought never to be restrained, but every individual shall be held responsible for the abuse of the same.

Contract Prohibiting Entering into Business.—A contract upon the sale of a newspaper that the seller shall not for a period of ten years be connected with any newspaper in the state without obtaining the consent of the purchaser is not void under this section. Cowan v. Fairbrother, 118 N. C. 406, 24 S. E. 212.

This decision is placed on the ground that the framers of the constitution did not intend to restrict the power of any person to dispose of anything of value which, as the creature of his own mental or physical exertions, has become his property.—Ed. Note.

Applied in Pentuff v. Park, 194 N. C. 146, 138 S. E. 616; Osborn v. Leach, 135 N. C. 628, 47 S. E. 811.

§ 21. Habeas corpus.—The privileges of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended.

See § 2205 of the code, and notes thereto.

§ 22. Property qualification.—As political rights and privileges are not dependent upon, or modified by, property, therefore no property qualification ought to affect the right to vote or hold office.

§ 23. Representation and taxation.—The people of State ought not to be taxed, or made subject to the payment of any impost or duty, without the consent of themselves, or their representatives in General Assembly, freely given.

§ 24. Militia and the right to bear arms.—A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed; and, as standing armies in time of peace are dangerous to liberty, they ought not to be kept up, and the military should be kept under strict subordination to, and governed by, the civil power. Nothing herein contained shall justify the practice of carrying concealed weapons, or prevent the Legislature from enacting penal statutes against said practice.

Cross Reference.—For a comprehensive treatment of this section, see 12 N. C. Enc. Dig. 350 et seq.; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 740 et seq. As to what weapons prohibited, see 12 N. C. Enc. Dig. 353 et seq.

Generally.—This provision of the constitution plainly observes the distinction between the "right to keep and bear arms," and "the practice of carrying concealed weapons." The first, it is declared, shall not be infringed, while the latter may be prohibited. State v. Speller, 86 N. C. 697, 700. The court in this case say that even without this constitutional provision, the Legislature may by law regulate the right to bear arms in a manner conducive to the public place. Cited and approved in State v. Reams, 121 N. C. 556, 27 S. E. 1004. As to code provision regulating concealed weapons, see sec. 4410 of the Code, and notes thereto.

Power of Legislature Limited.—The last clause of this provision, constitutes an exception to the first and indicates the extent to which the right of the people to bear arms can be restricted; that is, the Legislature can prohibit the carrying of concealed weapons, but no further. State v. Kerner, 181 N. C. 574, 107 S. E. 222.

§ 25. Right of the people to assemble together.—The people have a right to assemble together to consult for their common good, to instruct their representatives, and to apply to the Legislature for redress of grievances. But secret political societies are dangerous to the liberties of a free people, and should not be tolerated.

§ 26. Religious liberty.—All men have a natural and inalienable right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences, and no human authority should, in any case whatever, control or interfere with the rights of conscience.

Applied in Hinton v. Lacy, 193 N. C. 496, 137 S. E. 669; Rodman v. Robinson, 134 N. C. 503, 47 S. E. 19.

§ 27. Education.—The people have the right to the privilege of education, and it is the duty of the State to guard and maintain that right.

Stated in Bear v. Commissioners, 124 N. C. 204, 32 S. E. 558; Collie v. Commissioners, 145 N. C. 170, 171, 59 S. E. 44.

§ 28. Elections should be frequent.—For redress of grievances, and for amending and strengthening the laws, elections should be often held.

§ 29. Recurrence to fundamental principles.—A frequent recurrence to fundamental principles is absolutely necessary to preserve the blessings of liberty.

Cited in Beaufort v. Mayo, 207 N. C. 211, 214, 176 S. E. 753.

§ 30. Hereditary emoluments, etc.—No hereditary emoluments, privileges, or honors ought to be granted or conferred in this State.

Editor's Note.—This provision is usually construed in connection with section 31 of this article. Reference is here made to the cases placed under that section.

§ 31. Perpetuities, etc.—Perpetuities and monopolies are contrary to the genius of a free state and ought not be allowed.

Cross Reference.—For full treatment of subject, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 300 et seq.; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 424 et seq.; see also Art. I, sec. 7.

As to invalidity of a local statute providing that the provisions of C. S. § 2445 should be read into private construction bonds under this section see Art. I, § 7 and notes thereto.

Early Vesting of Estates Favored.—Where, by a correct interpretation of the will, it will reasonably be allowed, the law will favor the early vesting of estates against the interests of a contingent remainderman. Walker v. Trollinger, 192 N. C. 744, 135 S. E. 871.

Applied to right to operate a public ferry in Robinson v. Lamb, 126 N. C. 492, 36 S. E. 29; and to right to operate filling station in certain designated districts, in Clinton v. Standard Oil Co., 193 N. C. 432, 137 S. E. 183; and to right to tax a bakery in Hilton v. Harris, 207 N. C. 465, 177 S. E. 411.

Quoted in Security Nat. Bank v. Sternberger, 207 N. C. 811, 820, 178 S. E. 595.

§ 32. Ex post facto laws.—Retrospective laws, punishing acts committed before the existence of such laws, and by them only declared criminal, are oppressive, unjust and incompatible with liberty; wherefore no ex post facto law ought to be made. No law taxing retrospectively sales, purchases, or other acts previously done, ought to be passed.

Cross Reference.—For full treatment of the subject, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 296 et seq.; 13 N. C. Enc. Dig. 423 et seq. As affecting rules of evidence, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 299. As to nature or extent of punishment, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 299.

See annotations to § 276(a).

Definition.—An ex post facto law is one which either makes that a crime which was not a crime when the offense was committed or which imposes a heavier sentence than that which was prescribed by law at that time. State v. Broadway, 157 N. C. 598, 72 S. E. 987. But a retrospective statute is not necessarily void. Tabor v. Ward, 83 N. C. 291. For other cases substantiating this principle, see 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 291 et seq.

Applies only to Criminal Statutes. — An ex post facto statute prohibited by this section relates only to criminal statutes, and though vested rights may not be affected by retroactive laws, contingent interests may be affected thereby, and where there is a voluntary trust estate with the limitation over upon a contingent determinable at some future time as to the persons who take thereunder, the power of revocation of the trust given by § 996, of the Code is not objectionable as falling within the Constitutional inhibition. Stanback v. Citizens Nat. Bank, 197 N. C. 292, 148 S. E. 313.

Whenever a retrospective statute applies to crimes and penalties, it is an ex post facto law. State v. Bell, 61 N. C. 76, 82; State v. Bond, 49 N. C. 9. See also, 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 296 for other cases.

§ 33. Slavery prohibited.—Slavery and involuntary servitude, otherwise than for crime, whereof the parties shall have been duly convicted, shall be, and are hereby forever prohibited within the State.

§ 34. State boundaries.—The limits and boundaries of the State shall be and remain as they now are.

§ 35. Courts shall be open.—All courts shall be open; and every person for an injury done him in his lands, goods, person, or reputation, shall have remedy by due course of law, and right and justice administered without sale, denial, or delay.

Delay Caused by Irregular Pleading.—Under the provisions of this section an adversary party ought not to be delayed in the final adjudication of the controversy by the fact that the exceptions taken by the opposite party are so drawn as to take two chances, first of a favorable decision by the court, and then of a finding in his favor by the jury. Driller Co. v. Worth, 118 N. C. 746, 747, 748, 24 S. E. 517. Nor ought he to be delayed because the demand for a jury trial fails to point out the precise issue as to which testimony must be offered. Id. So also, the rights of the appellee will be protected when the appellant failed to print the record as required, and motion to reinstate the case, after dismissal, came too late. Cowan v. Layburn, 116 N. C. 526, 20 S. E. 965.

The creation of inferior courts by the legislature has been useful in having justice administered without "delay" in accordance with this section. Albertson v. Albertson, 207 N. C. 547, 551, 178 S. E. 352.

Foreclosure of Mortgages.—This section is not violated by sections 2593(b) (c) regulating the sale of real property upon the foreclosure of mortgages or deeds of trust. Woltz v. Asheville Safe Deposit Co., 206 N. C. 239, 173 S. E. 587.

Applied in Myers v. Barnhardt, 202 N. C. 49, 161 S. E. 715.

§ 36. Soldiers in time of peace.—No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; nor in time of war but in a manner prescribed by law.

§ 37. Other rights of the people.—This enumeration of rights shall not be construed to impair or deny others retained by the people; and all powers not herein delegated remain with the people.

Stated in Nichols v. McKee, 68 N. C. 429, 431; State v. Lewis, 142 N. C. 626, 646, 55 S. E. 600.

ARTICLE II

Legislative Department

§ 1. Two branches.—The legislative authority shall be vested in two distinct branches, both dependent on the people, to-wit: a Senate and a House of Representatives.

As to the legislative power, generally, see 3 Enc. Dig. 221 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 414 et seq.

Cited in Wilson v. Jordan, 124 N. C. 683, 719, 33 S. E. 139; Saluda v. Polk County, 207 N. C. 180, 183, 176 S. E. 298.

§ 2. Time of assembly. — The Senate and House of Representatives shall meet biennially on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in January next after their election; and when assembled, shall be denominated the General Assembly. Neither house shall proceed upon public business unless a majority of all the members are actually present.

§ 3. Number of senators.—The Senate shall be composed of fifty senators, biennially chosen by ballot.

§ 4. Regulations in relation to districting the State for senators.—The Senate districts shall be so altered by the General Assembly, at the first session after the return of every enumeration by order of Congress, that each Senate district shall contain, as near as may be, an equal number of inhabitants, excluding aliens and Indians not taxed, and shall remain unaltered until the return of another enumeration, and shall at all times consist of contiguous territory; and no county shall be divided in the formation of a Senate district, unless such county shall be equitably entitled to two or more senators.

§ 5. Regulations in relation to apportionment of representatives.—The House of Representatives shall be composed of one hundred and twenty representatives, biennially chosen by ballot, to be elected by the counties respectively, according to their population, and each county shall have at least one representative in the House of Representatives, although it may not contain the requisite ratio of representation; this apportionment shall be made by the General Assembly at the respective times and periods when the districts of the Senate are hereinbefore directed to be laid off.

See note to the next succeeding section of this article.

§ 6. Ratio of representation.—In making the apportionment in the House of Representatives the ratio of representation shall be ascertained by dividing the amount of the population of the State, exclusive of that comprehended within those counties which do not severally contain the one hundred and twentieth part of the population of the State, by the number of representatives, less the number assigned to such counties; and in ascertaining the number of the population of the State, aliens and Indians not taxed shall not be included. To each county containing the said ratio and not twice the said ratio there shall be assigned one representative; to each county containing two but not three times the said ratio there shall be assigned two representatives, and so on progressively, and then the remaining representatives shall be assigned severally to the counties having the largest fractions.

Changing Dividing Line of Counties.—An act which changes the dividing line between two counties is not in conflict with this section. Commissioners v. Ballard, 69 N. C. 18.

§ 7. Qualifications for senators.—Each member of the Senate shall not be less than twenty-five years of age, shall have resided in the State as a citizen two years, and shall have usually resided in the district for which he was chosen one year immediately preceding his election.

§ 8. Qualifications for representatives.—Each member of the House of Representatives shall be a qualified elector of the State, and shall have resided in the county for which he is chosen for one year immediately preceding his election.

§ 9. Election of officers.—In the election of all officers, whose appointment shall be conferred upon the General Assembly by the Constitution, the vote shall be viva voce.

Presumption of Regularity.—Where a certificate shows that there was a legislative election of an officer and nothing else appearing, the law presumes a quorum and that the election was regular. Cherry v. Burns, 124 N. C. 761, 766, 33 S. E. 136.

§ 10. Powers in relation to divorce and alimony.—The General Assembly shall have power to pass general laws regulating divorce and alimony, but shall not have power to grant a divorce or secure alimony in any individual case.

Cross Reference.—For the legislative enactments passed pursuant to this section and the constructions thereof, see §§ 1655 et seq. of the code, and the notes thereto.

Only Limitation on Legislative Power.—The only limitation on powers in enacting statutes relating to divorce is found in this section. Cooke v. Cooke, 164 N. C. 272, 80 S. E. 178.

§ 11. Private laws in relation to names of persons, etc.—The General Assembly shall not have power to pass any private law to alter the name of any person, or to legitimate any person not born in lawful wedlock, to restore to the rights of citizenship any person convicted of an infamous crime, but shall have power to pass general laws regulating the same.

§ 12. Thirty days' notice shall be given anterior to passage of private laws.—The General Assembly shall not pass any private laws, unless it shall be made to appear that thirty days' notice of application to pass such a law shall have been given, under such direction and in such manner as shall be provided by law.

Notice Presumed to Be Given.—The courts will conclusively presume from the ratification of a private act that the notice required by this section has been given. Matthews v. Blowing Rock, 207 N. C. 450, 177 S. E. 429.

In Cox v. Commissioners of Pitt County, 146 N. C. 584, 585, 60 S. E. 516, 16 L. R. A. (N. S.) 253, is the following: The courts will not go behind the ratification of the act to ascertain whether notice has been given in accordance with this section, but will conclusively presume, from ratification, that the notice has been given. State v. Holmes, 207 N. C. 293, 299, 176 S. E. 746.

When Testimony Heard.—Except in case of bills coming within the provisions of section 14, the Supreme Court will not hear testimony for the purpose of showing that the notice required by this section was not given. Brodnax v. Groom, 64 N. C. 244; Gatlin v. Tarboro, 78 N. C. 119; Wilson v. Markley, 133 N. C. 616, 45 S. E. 1023; Bray v. Williams, 137 N. C. 387, 390, 49 S. E. 887.

No Ground for Collateral Impeachment.—Where an act granting a charter to a private corporation has been duly ratified, it may not be collaterally impeached in an action between it and another on the ground that the notice had not been made as required by this section. Carolina-Tennessee Power Co. v. Hiawassee River Co., 175 N. C. 668, 669, 96 S. E. 99.

The act creating the North Carolina National Park Commission (Laws 1927, ch. 48) is a public act and does not fall within the purview of this section requiring notice that applicaton to the General Assembly for the passage of a private act be made. Yarbrough v. Park Commission, 196 N. E. 284, 145 S. E. 563.

Cited in Commissioners v. Snuggs, 121 N. C. 394, 408, 28 S. E. 539.

§ 13. Vacancies.—If vacancies shall occur in the General Assembly by death, resignation, or otherwise, writs of election shall be issued by the Governor under such regulations as may be prescribed by law.

§ 14. Revenue.—No law shall be passed to raise money on the credit of the State, or to pledge the faith of the State, directly or indirectly, for the payment of any debt, or to impose any tax upon the people of the State, or allow the counties, cities or towns to do so, unless the bill for the purpose shall have been read three times in each house of the General Assembly and passed three several readings, which readings shall have been on three different days, and agreed to by each house respectively, and unless the yeas and nays on the second and third readings of the bill shall have been entered on the journal.

I. EDITOR'S NOTE.

Editor's Note.—The authorities as to the power of county taxation are thus analyzed and summarized in Tate v. Commissioners, 122 N. C. 812, 815, 30 S. E. 352.

A. For necessary expenses, the county commissioners may levy up to the constitutional limitation without a vote of the people or legislative permission.

B. For necessary expenses, the county commissioners may exceed the constitutional limitation by special legislative authority, without a vote of the people.

C. For other purposes than necessary expenses, a tax cannot be levied either within or in excess of the constitutional limitation except by a vote of the people under special legislative authority.

II. GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS.

Section Mandatory.—This section is mandatory. Commissioners v. Snuggs, 121 N. C. 394, 28 S. E. 539; Union Bank v. Commissioners, 119 N. C. 214, 25 S. E. 966; and must be strictly complied with. Smothers v. Com., 125 N. C. 480, 34 S. E. 554.

The adoption of this section, annulled all special powers remaining unexecuted, and not granted in strict conformity with its requirements. Commissioners v. Payne, 123 N. C. 432, 31 S. E. 711.

Burden of Proof.—Parties objecting have the burden of showing that acts had not been passed according to the requirements of this section. Slocomb v. Fayetteville, 125 N. C. 362, 365, 34 S. E. 436.

Section Not Retroactive.—See Board v. Travelers' Ins. Co., 128 Fed. 817.

Applies to Townships.—The restrictions are by necessary implication applicable to townships, as they are but constituent parts of the county organization. Wittkowsky v. Commissioners, 150 N. C. 90, 63 S. E. 275; Township Road Commission v. Commissioners, 178 N. C. 61, 100 S. E. 122.

Not Applicable to Necessary County Expense.—It is not necessary to enter the yeas and nays on an act to raise revenue for a necessary county expense. Black v. Commissioners, 129 N. C. 121, 122, 39 S. E. 818.

Issuing bonds for road purposes is a necessary expense to which the section does not apply. Leonard v. Commissioners, 185 N. C. 527, 117 S. E. 580. See Woodall v. Western Wake Commission, 176 N. C. 377, 97 S. E. 226.

An act authorizing treasurer to deliver state bonds is not within this section. Battle v. Lacy, 150 N. C. 573, 64 S. E. 505.

A motion to reconsider violates the efficacy of the original passage according to this section; for the act to be valid the final result must comply with this section. Allen v. Raleigh, 181 N. C. 453, 454, 107 S. E. 463.

A statute for the revaluation of property is not in its strict sense a revenue act within the meaning of this section. Hart v. Com., 192 N. C. 161, 134 S. E. 403.

Changing of County Agencies.—The Legislature has the power and authority to change the county tax agencies without further observing the requirements of the section. State v. Jennette, 190 N. C. 96, 129 S. E. 184.

Submission to People Not Required.—An act of the Legislature authorizing a bond issue for public roads is valid if conforming to this section of the State Constitution, without submitting the proposition to a vote of the people. Hargrave v. Commissioners, 168 N. C. 626, 84 S. E. 1044.

Cited in Nixon v. Asheville, 199 N. C. 217, 218, 154 S. E. 93; Penland v. Bryson City, 199 N. C. 140, 154 S. E. 88; Starmount v. Hamilton Lakes, 205 N. C. 514, 518, 171 S. E. 909.

III. NECESSITY OF FOLLOWING SECTION.

No Authority Conferred Unless Section Followed.—An act not having been passed with the formalities required by this section is void, and confers no authority upon a city to create the debt and issue the bonds therein provided for. Charlotte v. Shepard & Co., 122 N. C. 602, 29 S. E. 842; Glenn v. Wray, 126 N. C. 730, 36 S. E. 167; Cottrell v. Lenoir, 173 N. C. 138, 91 S. E. 827.

Valid and Invalid Act on Same Subject.—An act passed according to the requirements of this section cannot be construed with an act not so passed. Pritchard v. Com., 160 N. C. 476, 76 S. E. 488.

Where a town charter is not passed in accordance with this section, such town cannot levy any tax under said charter, but it may levy taxes for necessary expense. Rodman-Heath Cotton Mills v. Waxhaw, 130 N. C. 293, 41 S. E. 488.

Effect on Bonds on Failure to Comply with Section.—This section is mandatory; and, not having been complied with in the passage of certain laws authorizing certain counties, to subscribe for stock in a railroad company and issue bonds in payment therefor, bonds issued by a city pursuant thereto were void. Burlingham v. New Bern, 213 Fed. 1014.

A town may not pledge its faith or credit for the issuance of bonds for municipal purposes, unless under statutory authority given in conformity with the requirements of this section, or unless for necessary expenses. Storm v. Wrightsville Beach, 189 N. C. 679, 127 S. E. 17.

Estoppel To Deny Invalidity of Bonds.—Where township bonds are invalid because issued without authority, the township is not estopped from asserting such fact by recitals in the bonds that they are issued in compliance with the constitution and laws of the state. Debnam v. Chitty, 131 N. C. 657, 43 S. E. 3.

The payment of interest does not preclude the inquiry as to the validity of the bonds. Glenn v. Wray, 126 N. C. 730, 36 S. E. 167.

Who May Enjoin Bond Issue.—It is competent for a taxpayer to file a complaint on behalf of himself and all other taxpayers in the State, whereby to enjoin the issue of State bonds under an unconstitutional act of Assembly. Galloway v. Jenkins, 63 N. C. 147.

Readings on Same Day.—Where the journal of the state senate affirmatively shows that the first and second readings of a bill took place on the same day of the act is unconstitutional. Storm v. Wrightsville Beach, 189 N. C. 679, 127 S. E. 17.

IV. THE JOURNAL—SPEAKERS' CERTIFICATES.

See notes under § 23 of this article.

What Journal Must Show.—The journal must show who voted for the bill, and that the requisite number of Senators and members did so, and no other source of evidence can be invoked, and the certificate of the presiding officers that a bill has been read three times does not obviate the necessity of examining the journal. Burlingham v. New Bern, 213 Fed. 1014.

Omission of Negative Vote.—Where the journal of the house does not give the names of any members, as voting in the negative on a bill authorizing a township to issue bonds, and it does not affirmatively appear that there were none so voting, the statute is invalid. Debnam v. Chitty, 131 N. C. 657, 43 S. E. 3.

As this section requires that on the voting of a bill before the legislature the yeas and nays shall be entered on the journals, either the nays must be on the journal, or it must affirmatively appear that there were none. Commissioners v. De Rosset, 129 N. C. 275, 40 S. E. 43.

Where the House Journal showed that a certain law, authorizing the issuance of county bonds, was passed by the following vote: "Ayes 94, nays . . . ; total . . ."—such record sufficiently showed that there was no negative vote cast, under the presumption that the clerk of the House charged with the recording of the vote performed his duty, and hence such record constituted a sufficient compliance with this section. Commissioners v. Tollman, 145 Fed. 753, 754.

A bill to authorize a county to pledge its faith and credit by issuing bonds for road purposes, and duly ratified, is not invalid for the failure to meet the requirements of this section, by reason of the failure to record on the journal on the second reading in one of the branches of the legislature the "no" vote, when it is made to appear from the entries of the names of those voting in the affirmative that a majority of the voters had so voted, the absence of the entries of the names of those voting in the negative showing that there were none. Leonard v. Commissioners, 185 N. C. 527, 117 S. E. 580, citing Commissioners v. Trust Co., 143 N. C. 110, 55 S. E. 442.

Journals Conclusive.—The journals of the General Assembly, when competent as evidence, import absolute verity, and cannot be explained or altered by parol evidence. Wilson v. Markley, 133 N. C. 616, 45 S. E. 1023. They are the sole evidence as to whether the ayes and noes on a vote on a bill were entered on such journals. Commissioners v. De Rosset, 129 N. C. 275, 40 S. E. 43; Com'rs v. Coles, 96 Fed. 284; Allen v. Raleigh, 181 N. C. 453, 107 S. E. 463. And are conclusive as against not only a printed statute published by authority of law, but also against a duly enrolled act. Union Bank v. Commissioners, 119 N. C. 214, 25 S. E. 966; Commissioners v. Snuggs, 121 N. C. 394, 28 S. E. 539. See especially the concurring opinion of J. Furches in Commissioners v. Snuggs.

Correction of Journals.—A subsequent special session of the same Legislature may correct it journals of the regular session so as to show in point of fact that a bill of this character was properly passed in accordance with these provisions. Commissioners v. Farmers Bank, 152 N. C. 387, 67 S. E. 969.

Certificate of Speakers.—The certificate of the speakers of each house of the legislature is conclusive evidence that a bill was read and passed three several readings in each house. Commissioners v. De Rosset, 129 N. C. 275, 40 S. E. 43.

Effect of Certificate of Ratification.—The usual certificate of ratification is conclusive only of the fact of ratification, but not of a compliance with this section of the Constitution. Smathers v. Commissioners, 125 N. C. 480, 34 S. E. 554.

V. SUBSTITUTED BILLS—AMENDMENTS.

Substituted Bill. — Where a bill, authorizing a levy of taxes for road purposes, has been read, referred to a committee, and the committee has recommended a substitute, resulting in the tabling of the original bill and the passing of the substitute on two separate days in that branch of legislation, and otherwise conforming to the requirements of this section, in both branches of legislation, the substitute is to be regarded, in the contemplation of the Constitution, as an amendment to the original bill introduced, and the act may not successfully be questioned as not having passed on the several separate days required of a bill of this character. Edwards v. Commissioners, 183 N. C. 58, 110 S. E. 600.

Where a valid charter of a municipality authorizing the issuance of its bonds has been subsequently amended with regard thereto, but upon condition that the proposition be submitted to the voters, which was never done, and the Legislature attempts to pass a still later law amending the former act but which has not been done in accordance with the requirements of this section, the later acts are of no effect, leaving the charter of the town as to these provisions open, under the terms of which the bonds may yet be issued. Cottrell v. Lenoir, 173 N. C. 138, 91 S. E. 827.

Validation by Later Act.—Where a statute, pledging the faith and credit of the State in issuing State bonds, has not been passed in accordance with the provisions of this section is therefore invalid, its invalidity may be cured by a later statute passed as the Constitution requires, referring to the former statute, and supplying the omissions, and the bonds thereunder issued after the question has been submitted to and approved by the voters of the State, as the statute required, are valid. Hinton v. Lacy, 193 N. C. 496, 497, 137 S. E. 669.

In a suit by the commissioners of a school district to compel the county commissioners to deliver to it certain school bonds for negotiation that the voters of the district had approved at an election held according to the statutory provisions affecting them, it appeared that the issue was $50,000 in excess of the amount authorized by § 5678, and that the original act had not been passed in accordance with the requirements of this section but was later ratified by the Legislature in conformity therewith. There being no intervening vested rights the former infirmity of the bonds was cured by the later act. Board v. Commissioners, 183 N. C. 300, 111 S. E. 531.

When Amendment will Affect Constitutionality.—An act passed in accordance with this section is not rendered invalid by an amendment not passed in accordance with the constitutional provision, when it does not affect the taxing or other financial features of the act, or increase either the taxes or impose any additional burden on the taxpayer. Wagstaff v. Central Highway Commission, 174 N. C. 377, 93 S. E. 908.

No Change Effected.—Where the Legislature has passed an act authorizing a county to pledge its faith and credit in the issuance of bonds upon its several readings, upon its aye and no vote in accordance with this section, and by later ratification of an act requiring the question to be submitted to the qualified voters: Held, it is not required that the later ratified act be also passed in accordance with the constitutional requirement, and in the absence of a proper election, the bond issue will be declared invalid. Graham County v. Terry & Co., 194 N. C. 22, 138 S. E. 443.

Where the Legislature has passed an act authorizing a county to issue bonds according to the provisions of this section it is within its power to add a provision that the question be first submitted to the electorate of the county. Graham County v. Terry & Co., 94 N. C. 22, 138 S. E. 443.

No Presumption of Materiality.—Where the journal does not show the effect of the amendment there is no presumption that it was material. Frazier v. Board of Com'rs, 194 N. C. 49, 138 S. E. 433.

Evidence of Materiality.—Slips of paper attached by a rubber band to the cover of the original bill when it was engrossed are not admissible in determining whether an amendment was material. Frazier v. Board of Com'rs, 194 N. C. 49, 138 S. E. 433.

Material Amendment.—A material amendment made by one branch of the Legislature to a bill passed by the other, allowing a county to pledge its credit in issuing bonds for the improvement of the highways therein, must be concurred in according to the requirements of this section. Claywell v. Commissioners, 173 N. C. 657, 92 S. E. 481; Glenn v. Wray, 126 N. C. 730, 36 S. E. 167. This rule applies with greater force, when the amendment is by separate act. Guire v. Com'rs, 177 N. C. 516, 99 S. E. 430.

An amendment which made a material change in the valid act it proposed to amend is unconstitutional, and the commissioners are without authority to levy the tax specified in the later act. Township Road Commissioners v. Commissioners, 178 N. C. 61, 62, 100 S. E. 122.

Same—Increasing Interest Rate.—An amendment to an act authorizing a county to issue bonds for road construction, which increases the rate of interest from 5 per cent to 6 per cent, is to effect a material change in the former law. Guire v. Commissioners, 177 N. C. 516, 99 S. E. 430.

Same—Increasing Tax Rate. — When an act has been passed by the Legislature authorizing a graded school district to vote on the question of issuing school bonds in a certain amount, and amended at a subsequent session so as to authorize bonds to a larger amount and to run a longer time, both acts having been passed upon their several readings, with aye and no vote according to this section, an issue of bonds under a still later and similar act for a larger amount and upon a greater rate of taxation is invalid in toto when the later act is not likewise passed in accordance with this section. Russell v. Troy, 159 N. C. 366, 74 S. E. 1021.

The bonds are invalid even as to the amount authorized to be issued under the valid act, for that amount was only authorized at a less rate of taxation, etc., as to which the voters upon the proposition have not assented. Russell v. Troy, 159 N. C. 366, 74 S. E. 1021.

Same—Curtailing Territory to Which Applicable.—Where a bill is introduced in one branch of the Legislature for the issuance of bonds, and amendments have been made by the other branch, withdrawing certain of the more wealthy and popular townships from the liability for the indebtedness to be created, except under condition requiring the approval of the voters, the amendment is a material one, requiring for the validity of the act that it be passed in accordance with the requirements of this section. Claywell v. Commissioners, 173 N. C. 657, 92 S. E. 481.

But an act empowering special school districts of the State to issue bonds which followed the requirements of this section except that upon its last reading, by amendment, it was made to apply only to one district in the State, the effect of the amendment being to exclude the other districts, and the act being regularly enacted as to the one district retained, is valid as to that district. Gregg v. Commissioners, 162 N. C. 479, 78 S. E. 301.

Immaterial Amendment.—When an act has been passed in accordance with this section, an amendment, which does not increase the amount of the bonds or the taxes to be levied or otherwise materially change the original bill, may be adopted by the concurrence of both houses of the General Assembly. Commissioners v. Stafford, 138 N. C. 453, 50 S. E. 862.

An amendment which does not increase the amount of the bonds or tax to be levied, or otherwise materially change the bill is immaterial. Gregg v. Commissioners, 162 N. C. 479, 78 S. E. 301.

It is only when a material amendment is affected that a rereading is necessary. Frazier v. Board of Comm'rs, 194 N. C. 49, 138 S. E. 433.

Same—Substituting Name of Commissioner.—An amendment in the second branch of the Legislature substituting the name of a commissioner does not broaden the scope of the act or affect its financial feature, and the failure in the first branch to comply with this section will not alone affect its validity. Brown v. Commissioners, 173 N. C. 598, 92 S. E. 502.

Same—Charge in Caption.—A slightly different caption retaining the number of the original bill is an immaterial amendment. Brown v. Commissioners, 173 N. C. 598, 92 S. E. 502.

Materiality a Judicial Question.—Whether an amendment is material and required to be passed in accordance with this section is a question of law for the court, under the facts, and not controlled by an agreement between the parties. Wagstaff v. Central Highway Commission, 174 N. C. 377, 93 S. E. 908.

Cited in Fortune v. Commissioners, 140 N. C. 322, 329, 52 S. E. 950; Hinton v. Lacy, 193 N. C. 496, 137 S. E. 669.

§ 15. Entails.—The General Assembly shall regulate entails in such a manner as to prevent perpetuities.

§ 16. Journals.—Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, which shall be printed and made public immediately after the adjournment of the General Assembly.

§ 17. Protest.—Any member of either house may dissent from, and protest against, any act or resolve which he may think injurious to the public, or any individual, and have the reasons of his dissent entered on the journal.

§ 18. Officers of the House.—The House of Representatives shall choose their own speaker and other officers.

This is the only express grant of appointing power to the House of Representatives. People v. McKee, 68 N. C. 429, 432.

§ 19. President of the Senate.—The Lieutenant-Governor shall preside in the Senate, but shall have no vote unless it may be equally divided.

§ 20. Other senatorial officers.—The Senate shall choose its other officers and also a speaker (pro tempore) in the absence of the Lieutenant-Governor, or when he shall exercise the office of Governor.

This is the only express grant of appointing power to the Senate. People v. McKee, 68 N. C. 429, 432.

§ 21. Style of the acts.—The style of the acts shall be: "The General Assembly of North Carolina do enact."

§ 22. Powers of the General Assembly.—Each house shall be judge of the qualifications and election of its own members, shall sit upon its own adjournment from day to day, prepare bills to be passed into laws; and the two houses may also jointly adjourn to any future day, or other place.

Effect of Section.—This section withdraws from the consideration of our courts the question of title involved in a contest for a seat in the General Assembly. State v. Pharr, 179 N. C. 699, 103 S. E. 8.

§ 23. Bills and resolutions to be read three times, etc.—All bills and resolutions of a legislative nature shall be read three times in each house before they pass into laws, and shall be signed by the presiding officers of both houses.

Necessity of Signature.—The signatures of the presiding officers, by the Constitution, must be affixed to an act of legislation during the session of the general assembly, and are necessary to its completeness and efficacy. Scarborough v. Robinson, 81 N. C. 409.

Where an office was created by an act of the General Assembly but was not signed by the presiding officers until the three days data, an election in the interim to fill such office was void. State v. Meares, 116 N. C. 582, 583, 21 S. E. 973.

The judicial power can not be exercised in aid of an unfinished and inoperative act, so left upon the final adjournment, any more than in obstructing legislative action. Scarborough v. Robinson, 81 N. C. 409.

In the absence of the signature journals are not competent to prove compliance with this section. Frazier v. Board of Com'rs. 194 N. C. 49, 138 S. E. 433.

Effect of Signature.—When an act is certified to by the speakers as having been ratified, it is conclusive of the fact that it was read three several times in each house and ratified. Union Bank v. Commissioners, 119 N. C. 214, 222, 25 S. E. 966.

The usual certificate of ratification is conclusive only of the fact of ratification, but not of a compliance with Art. II, sec. 14, of the Constitution. Smathers v. Commissioners, 125 N. C. 480, 34 S. E. 554; Commissioners v. DeRassett, 129 N. C. 275, 40 S. E. 43.

Effect of Certificate.—The certificate is not sufficient to show that the bill was passed in compliance with section 14 of this article. Frazier v. Board of Com'rs, 194 N. C. 49, 138 S. E. 433.

But the signature is conclusive of passage according to this section. Frazier v. Board of Com'rs, 194 N. C. 49, 138 S. E. 433.

And the journals are not admissible to contradict such signature. Frazier v. Board of Com'rs, 194 N. C. 49, 138 S. E. 433.

Cited in Russell v. Ayer, 120 N. C. 180, 211, 27 S. E. 133; Commissioners v. Snuggs, 121 N. C. 394, 400, 28 S. E. 539; State v. Patterson, 134 N. C. 612, 620, 47 S. E. 808.

§ 24. Oath of members.—Each member of the General Assembly, before taking his seat, shall take an oath or affirmation that he will support the Constitution and laws of the United States, and the Constitution of the State of North Carolina, and will faithfully discharge his duty as a member of the Senate or House of Representatives.

§ 25. Terms of office.—The terms of office for senators and members of the house of representatives shall commence at the time of their election.

§ 26. Yeas and nays.—Upon motion made and seconded in either house by one-fifth of the members present, the yeas and nays upon any question shall be taken and entered upon the journals.

§ 27. Election for members of the General Assembly.—The election for members of the General Assembly shall be held for the respective districts and counties, at the places where they are now held, or may be directed hereafter to be held, in such manner as may be prescribed by law, on the first Thursday in August, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy, and every two years thereafter. But the General Assembly may change the time of holding the elections.

See Legislative Term of Office, 64 N. C. 785.

§ 28. Pay of members and officers of the General Assembly.—The members of the General Assembly for the term of their office shall receive a salary for their services of six hundred dollars each. The salaries of the presiding officers of the two houses shall be seven hundred dollars each: Provided, that in addition to the salaries herein provied for, should an extra session of the General Assembly be called, the members shall receive eight dollars per day each, and the presiding officers of the two houses ten dollars per day each, for every day of such extra session not exceeding twenty days; and should an extra session continue more than twenty days, the members and officers shall serve thereafter without pay.

Editor's Note.—Prior to the amendment to this section, proposed by Public Laws of 1927, c. 203 and ratified at the next general election, the members of the general assembly were paid four dollars per day, for a period not exceeding sixty days, and mileage. The presiding officers were paid six dollars per day and mileage. Both received a like rate of compensation for an extra session.

Special Committee of Investigation.—In as much as per diem of members of the General Assembly is allowed only during its session, which is limited to sixty days, the members of the legislative committee appointed to investigate certain facts and report to the General Assembly before its adjournment if possible, otherwise to the superior court, are not entitled to per diem for services rendered after adjournment when the resolution appointing them only provided for the necessary expenses of the committee while engaged in the investigation. Commercial, etc., Bank v. Worth, 117 N. C. 147, 23 S. E. 160. This case was decided prior to the amendment to this section fixing a salary for the members of the general assembly.—Ed. Note.

§ 29. Limitations upon power of General Assembly to enact private or special legislation.—The General Assembly shall not pass any local, private, or special act or resolution relating to the establishment of courts inferior to the Superior Court; relating to the appointment of justices of the peace; relating to health, sanitation, and the abatement of nuisances; changing the names of cities, towns, and townships; authorizing the laying out, opening, altering, maintaining, or discontinuing of highways, streets, or alleys; relating to ferries or bridges; relating to nonnavigable streams; relating to cemeteries; relating to the pay of jurors; erecting new townships, or changing township lines, or establishing or changing the lines of school districts; remitting fines, penalties, and forfeitures, or refunding moneys legally paid into the public treasury; regulating labor, trade, mining, or manufacturing; extending the time for the assessment or collection of taxes or otherwise relieving any collector of taxes from the due performance of his official duties or his sureties from liability; giving effect to informal wills and deeds; nor shall the General Assembly enact any such local, private or special act by the partial repeal of a general law, but the General Assembly may at any time repeal local, private, or special laws enacted by it. Any local, private or special act or resolution passed in violation of the provisions of this section shall be void. The General Assembly shall have power to pass general laws regulating matters set out in this section.

What Are Local Laws.—The interpretation of a statute, as to whether it is a local one, prohibited by this section of our Constitution should be largely left to the facts and circumstances of each particular case, giving significance to the rule that legislative acts are presumed to have been rightfully passed from proper motives, and that a classification of this kind, when made by them, should not be disturbed unless it is manifestly arbitrary and invalid. In re Harris, 183 N. C. 633, 112 S. E. 425.

Scope of Legislative Power.—See generally Webb v. Port Comm., 205 N. C. 663, 172 S. E. 377.

Establishment of Recorders' Courts.—A general law permitting the establishment of Recorders' courts in the State, excepting certain counties to the number of 44, leaving 56 within the provisions of the statute, is not a local law within the intent and meaning of this section nor is a statute amending the former general law taking a certain county and two others out of the excepted class enumerated in the general statutes, unconstitutional as a local or special act as to those counties, the effect of this statute being a reenactment of the general law including the particular counties. In re Harris, 183 N. C. 633, 112 S. E. 425.

Increasing Jurisdiction of Certain Court.—An act which authorizes the county commissioners to increase the jurisdiction of a certain recorder's courts in civil matters is unconstitutional. Durham Provision Co. v. Daves, 190 N. C. 7, 8, 128 S. E. 593.

Same—Courts Already Established.—This section does not apply to increasing the jurisdiction of such courts as are already established. State v. Horne, 191 N. C. 375, 131 S. E. 753.

Same—Effect on Emoluments.—Where the Legislature, in contravention of this section of the Constitution of this State, has established a court inferior to the superior court, an incumbent judge thereof, duly elected, may not successfully contend that he was deprived of the emoluments of his office by an unconstitutional statute, abolishing the court. Queen v. Commissioners, 193 N. C. 821, 138 S. E. 310.

Erection of Hospital.—An act authorizing a certain county to erect a tuberculosis hospital and issue bonds therefor, and provide a tax for its maintenance, upon the approval of the voters, is both a special and local act and void under this section. Armstrong v. Board, 185 N. C. 405, 117 S. E. 388.

National Park Act. — The provisions of the statute (Laws 1927, ch. 48) for the acquisition of lands for a national park affects the interest of the people of the State, and though local as to location, is for a public use in contemplation of its acquisition by the State for the purpose outlined in the act. Yarbrough v. Park Commission, 196 N. C. 284, 145 S. E. 563.

Extending Limits of School.—It is true that the boundaries of a "district" may be coterminous with those of a city or town but it does not follow that an act extending the limits of a city or town in which public schools may be maintained is necessarily a special act establishing or changing the lines of school districts in violation of the constitutional provision. Hailey v. Winston-Salem, 196 N. C. 17, 22, 144 S. E. 377.

Sanitary Districts.—An act of the Legislature (Private Laws 1927, c. 229) attempting to create a sanitary district within certain lines within a county for the construction and maintenance of sewer and water systems with certain assessments or taxing powers for the purpose is void, being in violation of the provisions of this section. Drysdale v. Prudden, 195 N. C. 722, 143 S. E. 530.

Building Bridges.—A legislative enactment relating to the building of bridges by a county over a nonnavigable stream or river does not necessarily come within the purview and control of this section. Mills v. Commissioners, 175 N. C. 215, 95 S. E. 481.

While authority given by statute to a county or other political agency of a state, to issue bonds for highways in aid to their maintenance or construction is not direct, local or special legislation as is prohibited by this section, it is otherwise where the statute directs the building of a bridge at a specified place across a stream between two counties, and as an incident permits the issuance of bonds or the levying of taxes for the purpose, pledging the faith and credit of the State. Day v. Commissioners, 191 N. C. 780, 133 S. E. 164.

Maintenance of Streets within City Limits.—The unlimited power in the General Assembly to provide for the creation and extension of corporate limits of municipal corporations, would seem to include the right to vest in such municipal corporations the authority to levy taxes to lay out and maintain highways and streets within such limits, since they are essential to the existence of such corporations, and such private act would not seem to contravene this section. Matthews v. Blowing Rock, 207 N. C. 450, 452, 177 S. E. 429.

Formation of Sewerage Districts.—A statute authorizing the formation of sanitary sewerage districts within county-wide limits, the boundaries of these to be fixed by certain designated local authorities in a specified manner, and done without previous notice to the voters, the statute is not a "local, private or special act relating to health, sanitation, etc." Reed v. Howerton Engineering Co., 188 N. C. 39, 40, 123 S. E. 479.

Drainage District.—A statute creating and designating the boundaries of a drainage district and providing taxation for its construction and maintenance is for a necessary purpose and does not fall within the purview of Art. VII, § 7, requiring its submission to the voters within the district, nor is it a local, private or special act relating to health or sanitation inhibited by this section. Kenilworth v. Hyder, 197 N. C. 85, 86, 147 S. E. 736.

Establishing or Changing Lines of School Districts.—Since the enforcement of this section, special act of the Legislature to establish or change the lines, etc., of a school district, and any proceedings under it, are null and void. Galloway v. Board, 184 N. C. 245, 114 S. E. 165.

A statute which lays off or defines by boundary a certain territory as a graded school district within a county, and provides for an issue of bonds upon the approval of the voters therein, for the necessary buildings and maintenance, comes within the provision of this section. Board v. Mutual Loan, etc., Co., 181 N. C. 306, 107 S. E. 130.

Same—Creation of Public School District.—A statute which creates a public school district and allows a bond issue, upon the approval of voters, for its equipment and maintenance, is a local or special act, prohibited by this section. Robinson v. Board, 182 N. C. 590, 109 S. E. 855.

Same—Incorporation of Existing Districts.—Incorporating existing local school districts for all purposes relating to the issuance or payment of bonds upon the approval of the voters of a district, is valid, and not in contravention to this section. Board v. Mutual Loan, etc., Co., 181 N. C. 306, 107 S. E. 130; Paschal v. Johnson, 183 N. C. 129, 110 S. E. 841.

Same—Increase of Bonds by Existing District.—Where a school district has been defined as to its boundaries, etc., and created under the provisions of a statute valid before the adoption of the amendment to our State Constitution, this section, and which authorized a bond issue in a certain sum, a statute passed since the adoption of this constitutional amendment authorizing an increase of the bonds to be issued, upon the approval of the voters according to the statutory amendment, does not contravene the provision of this section. Roebuck v. Board, 184 N. C. 144, 113 S. E. 676.

Same—Recognizing School District in Changed City Limits.—A public-local act that enlarged the city limits and recognized therein the independent existence of a public-school district within the former limits is not contrary to the provisions of our recent amendment to our Constitution, this section, as an attempt to establish a school district, or to change the limits of those already established. Duffy v. Greensboro, 186 N. C. 470, 120 S. E. 53.

Same—Submitting Question of Taxation.—A statute allowing an existing consolidated school district to submit the question of taxation and the issue of bonds for school purposes to the district is not prohibited by this section. Burney v. Bladen County, 184 N. C. 274, 275, 114 S. E. 298.

Machinery to Effect Void Act.—Where an act to create a public school district is unconstitutional, because it violates this section, the provision for bonds and taxation to carry out the purpose of the act are likewise void. Sechrist v. Commissioners, 181 N. C. 511, 107 S. E. 503.

Poll Tax for School Purposes Unconstitutional.—Since the adoption of this section a special school district may not impose a tax upon the polls for school purposes; and where a poll tax and a property tax have both been favorably voted for at an election held for the purpose, the tax upon the poll will be held unconstitutional and the property tax upheld by the courts. Board v. Bray, 184 N. C. 484, 485, 115 S. E. 47.

Ratifying Ordinance to Issue Bonds.—An act for the purpose of ratifying an ordinance, of county commissioners, to issue bonds and levy taxes for school purposes passed since the adoption of this section of the Constitution, is a local, private, or special act thereby prohibited; and the issuance of such bonds and levy of such taxes, will be permanently enjoined. Woosley v. Commissioners, 182 N. C. 429, 109 S. E. 368.

Maintenance of County Highways.—A public-local law applicable to the maintenance of the public highways of a county and authorizing taxation or issuance of bonds for this purpose, with certain specific supervision and control, is not such local or special act as falls within the inhibition of this section, where it does not affect the "laying out, opening, altering, maintaining or discontinuing" the then existing highways, etc. State v. Kelly, 186 N. C. 365, 119 S. E. 755.

Substitution of Road Control.—A statute that abolishes two boards of road commissioners in a county and gives to another board, created by the same act, entire control and management of the public roads and bridges of the county, does not violate this section of our State Constitution. Honeycutt v. Commissioners, 182 N. C. 319, 109 S. E. 4.

A public-local law authorizing the commissioners of a county to take over a specified highway within the county, constituting one of the principal highways within the county, connecting two important State highways, transferring to the said commissioners the bridges of the various townships for their care and supervision, is not violative of this section. Hill v. Commissioners, 190 N. C. 123, 129 S. E. 154.

Issuance of County Road Bonds.—An act of the legislature authorizing the road commissioners of a county to issue bonds, upon the approval of its electors, to obtain moneys for the expenditure upon certain particularly designated objects in respect to its public roads, and which does not contain any provision for the laying out, altering or discontinuing any road or highway, does not contravene this section. Road Comm'rs v. Bank, 181 N. C. 347, 107 S. E. 245.

An act of the legislature authorizing the issuance of county bonds for public roads is not in contravention of this section of the Constitution. Commissioners v. Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., 178 N. C. 170, 100 S. E. 421.

An act of the legislature authorizing the road commissioners of a county to issue bonds, upon the approval of its electors, to obtain moneys for the expenditure upon certain particularly designated objects in respect to its public roads, and which does not contain any provision for the laying out, altering or discontinuing any road or highway, does not contravene this section. Road Commissioners v. Bank, 181 N. C. 347, 107 S. E. 245.

Same—May Provide for Distributor of Fund.—An act of the legislature may prescribe a rule by which the proceeds of the sales of bonds it authorizes a county to issue for road purposes, shall be disbursed and distributed in order to effect the best results, when it is confined to the control and management of the funds, and leaves to the local authorities the power given them by this section over "the laying out, opening, or discontinuance of highways." Commissioners v. Pruden & Co., 178 N. C. 394, 100 S. E. 695.

Collection of Tax Liens.—An act relating to establishment and collection of tax liens, which applies to only one county of the State, is void as a violation of this section. Wake Forest v. Holding, 207 N. C. 808, 178 S. E. 594.

Cited in Albertson v. Albertson, 207 N. C. 547, 551, 178 S. E. 352; Edgerton v. Hood, 205 N. C. 816, 821, 172 S. E. 481.

§ 30. Inviolability of sinking funds. — The General Assembly shall not use nor authorize to be used any part of the amount of any sinking fund for any purpose other than the retirement of the bonds for which said sinking fund has been created.

Sum Erroneously Placed in Sinking Fund.—While sinking funds provided for the retirement of municipal bonds may not be diverted from that purpose to other municipal requirements by a city, a sum erroneously placed on the books of the city in a sinking fund by a clerk without authorization, which sum was actually derived from profits from the municipal electric plant, does not fall within the constitutional or statutory inhibitions, and the city may by ordinance correct the error of the clerk and use the funds for other lawful municipal purposes. Mewborn v. Kinston, 199 N. C. 72, 154 S. E. 76.

ARTICLE III

Executive Department

§ 1. Officers of the executive department; terms of office.—The executive department shall consist of a Governor, in whom shall be vested the supreme executive power of the State; a Lieutenant-Governor, a Secretary of State, an Auditor, a Treasurer, a Superintendent of Public Instruction, and an Attorney-General, who shall be elected for a term of four years by the qualified electors of the State, at the same time and places and in the same manner as members of the General Assembly are elected. Their term of office shall commence on the first day of January next after their election, and continue until their successors are elected and qualified: Provided, that the officers first elected shall assume the duties of their office ten days after the approval of this Constitution by the Congress of the United States, and shall hold their offices four years from and after the first day of January.

Duty of Governor.—The Governor as the constituted head of the executive department is changed with the duty of seeing that legislative acts are carried into effect. Winslow v. Morton, 118 N. C. 487, 490, 24 S. E. 417.

As to public officers generally, see 9 Enc. Dig. 774 et seq.; 15 Enc. Dig. 132 et seq.

Cited in People v. McKee, 65 N. C. 257; Pemberton v. McRae, 75 N. C. 497, 504; Caldwell v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 476, 28 S. E. 554 (Dissenting opinion of C. J. Faircloth); Wilson v. Jordan, 124 N. C. 683, 719, 33 S. E. 139.

§ 2. Qualifications of Governor and Lieutenant-Governor.—No person shall be eligible as Governor or Lieutenant-Governor unless he shall have attained the age of thirty years, shall have been a citizen of the United States five years, and shall have been a resident of this State for two years next before the election; nor shall the person elected to either of these two offices be eligible to the same office more than four years in any term of eight years, unless the office shall have been cast upon him as Lieutenant-Governor or president of the State.

§ 3. Returns of elections.—The returns of every election for officers of the executive department shall be sealed up and transmitted to the seat of government by the returning officer, directed to the Secretary of State. The return shall be canvassed and the result declared in such manner as may be prescribed by law. Contested elections shall be determined by a joint ballot of both houses of the General Assembly in such manner as shall be prescribed by law.

Editor's Note.—This section was amended in 1926 and the returns ordered sent to the Secretary of State instead of the speaker of the house of representatives as formerly.

As to elections generally, see 5 Enc. Dig. 76 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 823 et seq.

Where Returns Have Been Acted on.—In a proceeding to compel by mandamus a reassembling of a Board of County Canvassers and a recount of the votes cast in the county for candidates for the House of Representatives, where, since the institution of the action, the Board of State Canvassers has acted upon the returns transmitted to them, and issued a commission to the person elected on the face of the return, judicial action in the premises would be wholly unavailing, as the matter has passed beyond the jurisdiction of the court. O'Hara v. Powell, 80 N. C. 104.

§ 4. Oath of office for Governor.—The Governor, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall, in the presence of the members of both branches of the General Assembly, or before any justice of the Supreme Court, take an oath or affirmation that he will support the Constitution and laws of the United States, and of the State of North Carolina, and that he will faithfully perform the duties appertaining to the office of Governor, to which he has been elected.

§ 5. Duties of Governor.—The Governor shall reside at the seat of government of this State, and he shall, from time to time, give the General Assembly information of the affairs of the State, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall deem expedient.

§ 6. Reprieves, commutations, and pardons.—The Governor shall have the power to grant reprieves, commutations and pardons, after conviction, for all offenses (except in cases of impeachment), upon such conditions as he may think proper, subject to such regulations as may be provided by law relative to the manner of applying for pardons. He shall biennially communicate to the General Assembly each case of reprieve, commutation, or pardon granted, stating the name of each convict, the crime for which he was convicted, the sentence and its date, the date of commutation, pardon, or reprieve, and the reasons therefor.

As to pardons generally, see 9 Enc. Dig. 807 et seq., 15 Enc. Dig. 142 et seq.

Pardon Pending Appeal.—The term "conviction," in this section denotes a verdict of guilty rendered by a jury: Therefore, when defendant, after verdict and judgment in the court below, appealed to the supreme court and, pending such appeal, was pardoned by the Governor, such pardon is authorized by this section and is valid. State v. Alexander, 76 N. C. 231; State v. Mathis, 109 N. C. 815, 13 S. E. 917.

§ 7. Annual reports from officers of executive department and of public institutions.—The officers of the executive department and of the public institutions of the State shall, at least five days previous to each regular session of the General Assembly, severally report to the Governor, who shall transmit such reports, with his message, to the General Assembly; and the Governor may, at any time, require information in writing from the officers in the executive department upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

Applied in Arendell v. Worth, 125 N. C. 111, 34 S. E. 232. Cited in Nichols v. McKee, 68 N. C. 429, 435; Walker v. Bledsoe, 68 N. C. 457, 463.

§ 8. Commander-in-chief. — The Governor shall be Commander-in-chief of the militia of the State, except when they shall be called into the service of the United States.

Supremacy of Governor's Control.—Under this section the Governor's control is supreme, in the absence of legislation, "to provide for the organization," etc., of the militia, enacted pursuant to Article XII, section 3 of this constitution. Winslow v. Morton, 118 N. C. 486, 24 S. E. 417.

§ 9. Extra sessions of General Assembly.—The Governor shall have power on extraordinary occasions, by and with the advise of the Council of State, to convene the General Assembly in extra session by his proclamation, stating therein the purpose or purposes for which they are thus convened.

§ 10. Officers whose appointments are not otherwise provided for.—The Governor shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of a majority of the senators-elect, appoint all officers whose offices are esablished by this Constitution and whose appointments are not otherwise provided for.

Editor's Note.—In the Constitution of 1868 this section prohibited the general assembly from appointing or electing such officers, as herein provided for, but in 1875 this section was amended and this express prohibition removed. For a case decided under the former rule see State v. Stanley, 66 N. C. 60.

The words "whose appointments are not otherwise provided for," mean provided for by the Constitution. State v. Stanley, 66 N. C. 60.

The correct reading of this section is "not otherwise provided for by law." Nichols v. McKee, 68 N. C. 429, 435.

Filling Vacancy and Appointing for Regular Term.—The Governor never nominates to the Senate to fill vacancies. He does that alone, in all cases. But where officers have to be appointed to fill a regular term, then he nominates to the Senate, unless it be an officer who is elected by the people, and then he never nominates to the Senate, but fills the vacancy or term by his own appointment (unless there is an officer holding over), until the people can elect. Battle v. McIver, 68 N. C. 467 470.

The general appointing power is given to the Governor with the concurrence of the Senate; the power to fill vacancies, not otherwise provided for, is given to the Governor alone and that, whether the Legislature is in session or not, and without calling the Senate. Nichols v. McKee, 68 N. C. 429.

Appointment Limited to Constitutional Affairs.—The inherent right of the Governor to appoint is now restricted to constitutional offices and where the Constitution itself so provides; and all offices created by statute, including directorates in State institutions—in this case, the State Hospital at Raleigh—the power of appointment, either original or to fill vacancies, is subject to legislative provision as expressed in this section. Salisbury v. Croom, 167 N. C. 223, 83 S. E. 354.

Legislature Cannot Appoint Officers.—The Legislature can not authorize the presiding officers of its two branches to appoint proxies and directors in behalf of the State in corporations in which the State had an interest: nor can the Legislature itself make such appointments, for the reason that it would be an usurpation of executive power. Howerton v. Tate, 68 N. C. 546.

Same—When Legislature Assumes Appointment. — The Legislature having assumed to take the appointment of Directors for the State of the Western North Carolina Railroad from the Governor, it thereby dispensed with the necessity of his sending nominations to those officers to the Senate and left the Governor to pursue the law as far as he could. Howerton v. Tate, 68 N. C. 546.

Creation of New Office.—Where the General Assembly established a Court and, provided that the General Assembly should "elect a person to fill the vacancy in said office, which shall be caused by the ratification of this Act," the act was ratified, but the election of plaintiff to fill the office of Judge was not held until four days later, and the Governor refused the application of the plaintiff for a commission as Judge and appointed the defendant to the office between the time of the ratification of the Act and the election of the plaintiff to fill the office no such vacancy existed as is contemplated in this section. Ewart v. Jones, 116 N. C. 570, 21 S. E. 787.

Transfer of Duties of Office.—While the General Assembly has the power to abolish an office created by legislative authority, it cannot by mere transfer to others of the duties, connected with an institution, necessary and useful to the public, to be exercised by them, oust the incumbent from an office belonging to him under a contract with the State. State Prison v. Day, 124 N. C. 362, 32 S. E. 748.

Trustee's of University, Etc.—The trustees of the University, the Directors of the Penitentiary and of the Lunatic Asylum are public officers. Walker v. Bledsoe, 68 N. C. 457.

Directors of Institution for Deaf, Dumb and Blind.—The Directors of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind are officers made so by the Constitution and so called. Nichols v. McKee, 68 N. C. 429.

Superintendent of State Prison.—The place of superintendent of the State Prison, with its attendant duties, is a public office, not created by the Constitution but by a statute. State Prison v. Day, 124 N. C. 362, 32 S. E. 748.

Members of Board of Agriculture.—Members of the board of agriculture are not constitutional officers, but being of legislative creation, are within the power of legislative appointment, and are not exclusively, nor of necessity, within the power of executive appointment. Cunningham v. Sprinkle, 124 N. C. 638, 33 S. E. 138.

§ 11. Duties of the Lieutenant-Governor.— The Lieutenant-Governor shall be president of the Senate, but shall have no vote unless the Senate be equally divided. He shall, whilst acting as president of the Senate receive for his services the same pay which shall, for the same period, be allowed to the speaker of the House of Representatives; and he shall receive no other compensation except when he is acting as Governor.

§ 12. In case of impeachment of Governor, or vacancy caused by death or resignation.—In case of the impeachment of the Governor, his failure to qualify, his absence from the State, his inability to discharge the duties of his office, or, in case the office of Governor shall in anywise become vacant, the powers, duties and emoluments of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor until the disabilities shall cease or a new Governor shall be elected and qualified. In every case in which the Lieutenant-Governor shall be unable to preside over the Senate, the senators shall elect one of their own number president of their body; and the powers, duties and emoluments of the office of Governor shall devolve upon him whenever the Lieutenant-Governor shall, for any reason, be prevented from discharging the duties of such office as above provided, and he shall continue as acting Governor until the disabilities are removed, or a new Governor or Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected and qualified. Whenever, during the recess of the General Assembly, it shall become necessary for the president of the Senate to administer the government, the Secretary of State shall convene the Senate, that they may elect such president.

§ 13. Duties of other executive officers.—The respective duties of the Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Attorney-General shall be prescribed by law. If the office of any of said officers shall be vacated by death, resignation, or otherwise, it shall be the duty of the Governor to appoint another until the disability be removed or his successor be elected and qualified. Every such vacancy shall be filled by election at the first general election that occurs more than thirty days after the vacancy has taken place, and the person chosen shall hold the office for the remainder of the unexpired term fixed in the first section of this article.

Cited in People v. Wilson, 72 N. C. 155, 163; State v. Bullock, 80 N. C. 132 135.

§ 14. Council of State.— The Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer, and Superintendent of Public Instruction shall constitute, ex officio, the Council of State, who shall advise the Governor in the execution of his office, and three of whom shall constitute a quorum; their advice and proceedings in this capacity shall be entered in a journal, to be kept for this purpose exclusively, and signed by the members present, from any part of which any member may enter his dissent; and such journal shall be placed before the General Assembly when called for by either house. The Attorney-General shall be, ex officio, the legal adviser of the executive department.

§ 15. Compensation for executive officers.— The officers mentioned in this article shall, at stated periods, receive for their services a compensation to be established by law, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the time for which they shall have been elected, and the said officers shall receive no other emolument or allowance whatever.

The legislature may designate the compensation of these officials prior to the beginning of their terms and it should follow that the compensation may be declared a certain amount less the income tax on that amount. See § 7880(135). See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 256.

§ 16. Seal of State.—There shall be a seal of the State, which shall be kept by the Governor, and used by him, as occasion may require and shall be called "The Great Seal of the State of North Carolina." All grants and commissions shall be issued in the name and by the authority of the State of North Carolina, sealed with "The Great Seal of the State," signed by the Governor, and countersigned by the Secretary of State.

Countersign Defined.—The verb "countersign" means "to sign on the opposite side" or in addition to the signature of another, and the noun means "the signature of a secretary or other officer to a writing, or writings, added to that by the principal or superior to attest its authenticity." Richards v. Ritter Lumber Co., 158 N. C. 54, 73 S. E. 485.

Countersignature Need Not Be in Any Particular Place.— Within the intent and meaning of this section it is not required that the Secretary of State "countersign" grants of lands and commissions in any particular place or position thereon, and when a grant to the land in controversy is put in evidence by one of the parties and in all respects appears to be regular and authentic upon its face, it will not be held to be defective because the countersignature of the Secretary of State appears on the opposite side of the sheet from the signature of the Governor. Richards v. Ritter Lumber Co., 158 N. C. 54, 73 S. E. 485.

§ 17. Department of Agriculture, Immigration, and Statistics.—The General Assembly shall establish a Department of Agriculture, Immigration, and Statistics, under such regulations as may best promote the agricultural interests of the State, and shall enact laws for the adequate protection and encouragement of sheep husbandry.

Section Mandatory.—This section is not self-executing, but is mandatory upon the Legislature. Cunningham v. Sprinkle, 124 N. C. 638, 33 S. E. 138. See section 7646 of the Code for legislation passed pursuant to this section of the constitution.

Act Enlarging Board of Agriculture.—An act which enlarges the number of the board of agriculture, naming the additional members, is not in conflict with this section. Cunningham v. Sprinkle, 124 N. C. 638, 33 S. E. 138.

ARTICLE IV

Judicial Department

§ 1. Abolishes the distinctions between actions at law and suits in equity, and feigned issues.— The distinctions between actions at law and suits in equity, and the forms of all such actions and suits, shall be abolished; and there shall be in this State but one form of action for the enforcement or protection of private rights or the redress of private wrongs, which shall be denominated a civil action; and every action prosecuted by the people of the State as a party, against a person charged with a public offence for the punishment of the same, shall be termed a criminal action. Feigned issues shall also be abolished, and the facts at issue tried by order of court before a jury.

As to actions generally see 1 Enc. Dig. 124 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 21 et seq.

Effect of Section.—This section abolished the distinction between actions at law and suits in equity, leaving such rights and remedies to be enforced in the one court, which theretofore had administered simply legal rights. Peebles v. Gay, 115 N. C. 38, 39, 41, 20 S. E. 173.

Under this section and Art. IV, § 20 the Superior Courts became the successors of the Courts of Equity, having their jurisdiction and exercising their equitable powers unless restrained by statute. In re Smith, 200 N. C. 272, 274, 156 S. E. 494.

Legal and equitable rights and remedies are now determined in one and the same action. Woodall v. North Carolina Joint Stock Land Bank, 201 N. C. 428, 160 S. E. 475.

Feigned Issues. — Under the provisions of this section feigned issues are abolished. Hyatt v. McCoy, 194 N. C. 25, 138 S. E. 405.

Distinction between Principles Not Abolished.—Equity is now administered in the same courts as matters of law, but the distinction between equitable and legal principles have not been abolished. Waters v. Garris, 188 N. C. 305, 124 S. E. 334; Page Trust Co. v. Godwin, 190 N. C. 512, 130 S. E. 323; Furst v. Merritt, 190 N. C. 397, 130 S. E. 40.

This section abolishing the distinctions between actions at law and suits in equity, does not imply that the distinctions as between law and equity, are abolished. Principles of law, principles and doctrines of equity, remain the same they have ever been; the change wrought is in the method of administering them and, in some degree, the extent of the application of them. The abolition does not destroy equitable rights and remedies, nor does it merge legal and equitable rights. Scales v. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co., 195 N. C. 772, 775, 143 S. E. 868.

Equitable Rights Enforced by Civil Action. — Since the passage of this section the enforcement of an equitable right, as that of subrogation, can only be maintained by a civil action. Calvert v. Peebles, 82 N. C. 334, 338.

Rights of Prior Lienor Not Affected.—This section does not affect the rights of a prior lienor by a registered chattel mortgage in favor of a judgment creditor who has sold the personal property by execution under a judgment subsequent to the mortgage lien, or give the creditor a right to levy his execution instead of pursuing the equitable remedy. Rowland Hardware, etc., Co. v. Lewis, 173 N. C. 290, 92 S. E. 13.

"Criminal Action" and "Indictment" Synonymous. — The term "Criminal action" and "Indictment" as used in the Constitution, and in the Code are synonymous: Therefore, it would be equally regular to entitle a case upon the records of the Court, either as "the People v. A. B.—Criminal action," or the "State v. A. B.—Indictment." State v. Simons, 68 N. C. 378.

Defendant's Right to Know Nature of Demand.—The necessity for drawing pleadings in civil actions according to a prescribed or established precedent, ceased when the form of suits was abolished by this section. But one who is brought into Court to answer a demand for damages or for specific property, has the same fundamental right to know the nature of the demand sufficiently well to enable him, with the aid of competent counsel, to prepare his defense, that he has to be informed of the accusation for which he has to answer criminally. Conley v. Richmond, etc., Ry. Co., 109 N. C. 692, 693, 14 S. E. 303.

Asking for Ancilliary Remedy.—There being but one form of action in civil cases, the fact that a plaintiff asks for one of the many remedies ancillary thereto, to which he is not entitled, does not affect the action itself, which will go on if he is entitled to any other of the remedies. Hargrove v. Harris, 116 N. C. 418, 21 S. E. 916.

Pleadings Amended by Court.—Where a good cause of action is stated for equitable relief, but defective in form, the court may require the pleadings to be made definite and certain by amendment, the distinction between suits in equity and actions at law as to jurisdiction matters being abolished by this section. Green v. Harshaw, 187 N. C. 213, 121 S. E. 456.

Justices of the Peace.—This section does not give to courts of justices of the peace jurisdiction over the equity of correcting an account and settlement stated and had between the parties, so as to surcharge or falsify it for fraud or specified error, nor will the Superior Court acquire jurisdiction on appeal. Morganton v. Miller, 181 N. C. 364, 107 S. E. 209. But see the dissenting opinion of J. Clark.

Enforcement of Contracts.—The remedy for the enforcement of all kinds of contracts is now a civil action. Boles v. Caudle, 133 N. C. 528, 533, 45 S. E. 835.

This section providing that legal and equitable remedies be administered in the same court, does not abolish the recognized distinction in the principles applicable to each; and an action to force the provisions of a contract, being one at law, the equity that time is not the essence of the contract has no application. Makuen v. Elder, 170 N. C. 510, 87 S. E. 334.

Bastardy Proceedings.—By this section a proceeding in bastardy is a civil action, as distinguished from a criminal action. State v. McIntosh, 64 N. C. 607. For a full discussion of this subject see the Editor's Note to section 265 of the Code.

Action for Seduction.—To give this constitutional provision its common sense construction, it would see that the "feigned issue" in actions for seduction, of a loss of services and for damages based thereon, was abolished, and the action should and does rest on the true issue of damages for the wrong done. Hood v. Sudderth, 111 N. C. 215, 219, 16 S. E. 397.

This fictitious relation denied to a woman the right to maintain an action under the common law for her seduction. In some of the States the right has been conferred by statute; with us it has been recognized by judicial decision on the theory that feigned issues are abolished and that the woman is the real party in interest. Hyatt v. McCoy, 194 N. C. 25, 27, 138 S. E. 405.

Action for Money Had and Received.—Under this section an exception to a complaint that by its form it is for money had and received, and that the action cannot be maintained unless the money has been actually received, is untenable. Staton v. Webb, 137 N. C. 35, 36, 49 S. E. 55.

Action for Claim and Delivery.—There is no such thing as an action for claim and delivery. Under this section there is but one form of action in civil cases. Hargrove v. Harris, 116 N. C. 418, 419, 21 S. E. 916.

Mandamus.—There is now in this state, but one form of action, and the writ of mandamus is but a process of the court in that action. Belmont v. Reilly, 71 N. C. 260, 262.

Cited in Mitchell v. Henderson, 63 N. C. 643; Harkey v. Houston, 65 N. C. 137, 139; Abrams v. Cureton, 74 N. C. 523; Jones v. Mial, 79 N. C. 164, 167; dissenting opinion of Justice Walker in Turner v. McKee, 137 N. C. 251, 259, 49 S. E. 330; Henrietta Mills v. Rutherford County, 32 F. (2d) 570.

§ 2. Division of judicial powers.—The judicial power of the State shall be vested in a court for the trial of impeachments, a Supreme Court, Superior Courts, courts of justices of the peace, and such other courts inferior to the Supreme Court as may be established by law.

As to judicial power generally see 3 Enc. Dig. 232, 13 Enc. Dig. 417 et seq; as to courts generally see 3 Enc. Dig. 826 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 534 et seq.

Judicial Power Vested in These Courts.—By this section the judicial power of the State is vested in a court for the trial of impeachments, a Supreme Court, Superior Court and special courts; the jurisdiction of special courts is defined by section 19 of this Article. State v. Pender, 66 N. C. 314.

General county courts must be ranked among the "other courts" alluded to in this section and Art. 4, § 30. Meador v. Thomas, 205 N. C. 142, 146, 170 S. E. 110.

The Industrial Commission is primarily an administrative agency of the State in the administration of the Compensation Act and its judicial powers are but incidental thereto, and the administration of the powers conferred by the statute is not in contravention of this section and Art. IV, § 12, of the Constitution. Heavner v. Lincolnton, 202 N. C. 400, 162 S. E. 909.

Assembly Cannot Abolish Superior Courts or Courts of the Justices of Peace.—The Superior Courts and Courts of Justices of the Peace were created by the Constitution, and the General Assembly cannot abolish them. Rhyne v. Lipscombe, 122 N. C. 650, 29 S. E. 57.

Legislature Can Establish Criminal Courts.—Under this section, the Legislature can establish criminal courts. State v. Weddington, 103 N. C. 364, 9 S. E. 577.

An act of the General Assembly establishing a criminal court for a certain county, is constitutional. State v. Gales, 77 N. C. 283.

Faircloth in Caldwell v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 476, 28 S. E. 554; Mott v. Commissioners, 126 N. C. 866, 869, 36 S. E. 330; State v. Baskerville, 141 N. C. 811, 813, 53 S. E. 742.

§ 3. Trial court of impeachment.—The court for the trial of impeachments shall be the Senate. A majority of the members shall be necessary to a quorum, and the judgment shall not extend beyond removal from and disqualification to hold office in this State; but the party shall be liable to indictment and punishment according to law.

Cited in dissenting opinion of C. J. Faircloth in Caldwell v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 476, 28 S. E. 554.

§ 4. Impeachment.—The House of Representatives solely shall have the power of impeaching. No person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the senators present, when the Governor is impeached the Chief Justice shall preside.

As to removal of officers generally, see 9 Enc. Dig. 780, et seq.

Cited in dissenting opinion of C. J. Faircloth in Caldwell v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 425, 476, 28 S. E. 545; dissenting opinion of J. Clark in Mott v. Commissioners, 126 N. C. 866, 878, 36 S. E. 330.

§ 5. Treason against the State.—Treason against the State shall consist only in levying war against it, or adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court. No conviction of treason or attainder shall work corruption of blood or forfeiture.

As to reason generally, see 11 Enc. Dig. 810.

§ 6. Supreme Court Justices.—The Supreme Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and four associate justices.

Proposed Amendment.—Public Laws 1935, ch. 444, s. 1, proposed an amendment to this section to be voted on at the next general election. This amendment would strike out this section and insert in lieu thereof the following: "Supreme Court. The Supreme Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and four Associate Justices. The General Assembly may increase the number of Associate Justices to not more than six when the work of the Court so requires. The Court shall have power to sit in divisions, when in its judgment this is necessary for the proper dispatch of business, and to make rules for the distribution of business between the divisions and for the hearing of cases by the full Court. No decision of any division shall become the judgment of the Court unless concurred in by a majority of all the justices; and no case involving a construction of the Constitution of the State or of the United States shall be decided except by the Court in banc. All sessions of the Court shall be held in the City of Raleigh. This amendment made to the Constitution of North Carolina shall not have the effect to vacate any office or term of office now existing under the Constitution of the State, and filled or held by virtue of any election or appointment under the said Constitution, and the laws of the State made in pursuance thereof."

§ 7. Terms of the Supreme Court.—The terms of the Supreme Court shall be held in the city of Raleigh, as now, until otherwise provided by the General Assembly.

Cited in dissenting opinion of J. Walker in State v. Marsh, 134 N. C. 184, 197, 47 S. E. 6.

§ 8. Jurisdiction of Supreme Court.—The Supreme Court shall have jurisdiction to review, upon appeal, any decision of the courts below, upon any matter of law or legal inference. And the jurisdiction of said court over "issues of fact" and "questions of fact" shall be the same exercised by it before the adoption of the Constitution of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, and the court shall have the power to issue any remedial writs necessary to give it a general supervision and control over the proceedings of the inferior courts.

Cross Reference.—For a thorough treatment of the appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court, see sections 638 and 1411 of the code and annotations thereunder. As to appeals generally see 1 Enc. Dig. 346 et seq., 13 Enc. Dig. 70 et seq.

What Reviewable.—On appeal to the Supreme Court, only error as to the law or legal inferences are reviewable upon the record in the case. Merchants Nat. Bank v. Howard, 188 N. C. 543, 125 S. E. 126; Const. Art. IV, sec. 8.

The Supreme Court on appeal in a criminal action can review only matters of law or legal inference. State v. Brewer, 202 N. C. 187, 162 S. E. 363.

The competency, admissibility and sufficiency of the evidence in a criminal action is for the court, the weight, effect and credibility is for the jury, and on appeal the Supreme Court can review only matters of law or legal inference. State v. Harrell, 203 N. C. 210, 165 S. E. 551; Debnam v. Rouse, 201 N. C. 459, 160 S. E. 471; Carter v. Mullinax, 201 N. C. 783, 161 S. E. 486; State v. Casey, 201 N. C. 185, 159 S. E. 337; Woody Brothers Bakery v. Greensboro Life Ins. Co., 201 N. C. 816, 161 S. E. 554; State v. Whiteside, 204 N. C. 710, 169 S. E. 711.

This section empowers the Supreme Court to review on appeal any decision of the courts below, upon any matter of law or legal inference; and this is to be presented in accordance with the mandatory rules of the Supreme Court. State v. Bittings, 206 N. C. 798, 801, 175 S. E. 299.

Theory of Trial in Lower Court Is Adhered to.—The principle that an appeal will be determined in accordance with the theory of trial in the lower court, is enforced by this court because of its limited jurisdiction as an appellate court under this section. Apostle v. Acacia Mut. Life Ins. Co., 208 N. C. 95, 179 S. E. 444.

"Issues of Fact" Defined.—Issues of fact has been defined by the Court to mean "such matters of fact as are put in issue by the pleadings, and a decision of which would be final and conclude the parties upon the matters in controversy in the issue." Battle v. Mayo, 102 N. C. 413, 435, 9 S. E. 384.

Review of Issues of Fact.—The jurisdiction of the supreme court over issues of fact, under this section, will be assumed upon two conditions: 1. If the matter be of such an equitable nature as a court of equity under the former system took exclusive cognizance of. 2. If the proofs are written and documentary, and in all respects the same as they were when the judge of the court below passed upon them. Worthy v. Shields, 90 N. C. 192. See Keener v. Finger, 70 N. C. 35.

This prohibition of trials of "issues of fact" by the Supreme Courts extends to issues of fact as heretofore understood, and does not hinder that tribunal from trying such questions of fact as may be involved in a consideration of the propriety of continuing or vacating an order for a provisional injunction. Heilig v. Stokes, 63 N. C. 612.

The Supreme Court cannot consider a paper which, unrelated to the trial, purports upon its face to have raised an issue of facts after the adjournment as to the recitals set forth in the commission given the presiding judge. State v. Graham, 194 N. C. 459, 465, 140 S. E. 26.

Habeas Corpus.—No appeal to the Supreme Court lies upon the refusal of the judge, having jurisdiction, to release the petitioner in habeas corpus proceedings, except in cases concerning the care and custody of children, the remedy being by application for the writ of certiorari which lies in the discretion of the appellate court. State v. Hooker, 183 N. C. 763, 111 S. E. 351; State v. Yates, 183 N. C. 753, 111 S. E. 337. In re Blake, 184 N. C. 278, 114 N. C. 294.

Caveat to Will.—Under the provisions of this section the Supreme Court on appeal from an issue of devisavit vel non, involved in the trial of a caveat to a will, is confined to a consideration of assignments of error in matters of law and legal inference. In re Will of Brown, 194 N. C. 583, 140 S. E. 192.

Reduction of verdict by the trial court involves a matter of law reviewable by the Superior Court. Hyatt v. McCoy, 194 N. C. 760, 140 S. E. 807.

Applied in Hardy v. Heath, 188 N. C. 271, 277, 124 S. E. 564; King v. Taylor, 188 N. C. 450, 124 S. E. 751; Caldwell v. Caldwell, 189 N. C. 805, 128 S. E. 329; Newton v. § 9. Claims against the State.—The Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction to hear claims against the State, but its decisions shall be merely recommendatory; no process in the nature of execution shall isue thereon; they shall be reported to the next session of the General Assembly for its action.

See notes under § 1409 of the Code.

Purpose of Section.—The original jurisdiction conferred upon the supreme court by this section, is for the benefit only of such plaintiffs, and to be used only in such cases, as cannot otherwise obtain a footing in court by reason of the State's being a party. Bain v. State, 86 N. C. 49.

It was intended by the provision of this section that persons who asserted that they held legal claims aganist the sovereign State, should here find a tribunal before which they might have, in proper cases, the legality of their claims adjudicated—a tribunal before which the sovereign State would, for a certain purpose, abdicate the privilege of exemption from liability to be sued and appear as any other litigant, to the end that its liability to the petitioner might be determined by the law. Cowles v. State, 115 N. C. 173, 174, 179, 20 S. E. 384.

Only Way State Can Be Sued.—The State cannot be sued, except as provided in this section. Burton v. Furman, 115 N. C. 166, 171, 20 S. E. 443; Carpenter v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 184 N. C. 400, 114 S. E. 693.

Neither the State nor its subordinate agencies of government may be subject to suits or actions against it or them in its own courts or the courts of other states unless it has expressly consented to such suit. Dredging Company v. State, 191 N. C. 243, 131 S. E. 665.

The jurisdiction of the Supreme Court to hear claims against the State is confined to the powers given by this section and is not enlarged by the rules of procedure prescribed by statute, and where the complaint presents only an issue of fact the proceeding will be dismissed. Cahoon v. State, 201 N. C. 312, 160 S. E. 183.

Jurisdiction Recommendatory Only.—The original jurisdiction given the Supreme Court to pass upon claims against the State or its subordinate agencies of government, which are not subject to suit or execution under judgment, are recommendatory to the Legislature only, as to the matters of law involved upon facts agreed to, or made to appear, and this Court does not pass upon conflicting evidence to determine the facts at issue. Dredging Co. v. State, 191 N. C. 243, 131 S. E. 665.

What Examination Confined To.—The jurisdiction conferred upon the Supreme Court by this section to hear claims against the State is confined to an examination of and adjudication of the legal validity of such claims; no power to enforce its judgment is given the court; its decisions are merely recommendatory to the Legislature, who may provide for the judgment of the claims, if it sees proper to do so. Baltzer v. State, 104 N. C. 265, 10 S. E. 153.

Kind of Claims Reviewed. — The claim against the State must be such as, against any other defendant, could be reduced to judgment and enforced by execution. Bain v. State, 86 N. C. 49.

Necessity of Question of Law.—The Supreme Court has not original jurisdiction to hear claims against the State in cases in which no question of law is involved. Miller v. State, 134 N. C. 270, 46 S. E. 514; Bledsoe v. State, 64 N. C. 392.

The Supreme Court will not recommend to the Legislature the payment of a claim against the State, when no questions of law are involved, or when such questions are resolved against the claimant. Dredging Company v. State, 191 N. C. 243, 131 S. E. 665.

A claimant against the State is not entitled to the recommendatory jurisdiction of the Supreme Court upon petition presented to it under the provisions of this section when no question of law is presented by the facts in the petition. Warren v. State, 199 N. C. 211, 153 S. E. 864.

Repeal of Statute.—The repeal of statute under which a contract has been made between the plaintiff and the State in no way affects the plaintiff's rights under the contract. Clements v. State, 76 N. C. 199.

Matters of Small Value.—This section ought not to be invoked in matters of small value, particularly when there is no doubt about the law. The claimant should apply at once to the Legislature for relief. Sinclair v. State, 69 N. C. 47.

Suit against Agent of State.—A suit prosecuted against an officer or agent who represented the State in conduct and liability, and wherein the State is the real party whose action will be controlled by the judgment and against which relief is sought, is a suit against the State, and not against its officer or agent, whose acts are alleged to have caused the injury complained of. Carpenter v. Atlanta, etc., R. Co., 184 N. C. 400, 114 S. E. 693.

Action by Clerk for Fees.—The Supreme Court has not original jurisdiction of an action against the State by a clerk of the Superior Court for fees in an action instituted by the State and for which it has been adjudged liable. Miller v. State, 134 N. C. 270, 46 S. E. 514.

Holder of State Bonds.—An owner and holder of a bond of the State and coupons past due thereon has a right to invoke the recommendatory jurisdiction of the Supreme Court to pass upon the validity of the coupons as a claim against the State, under this section. Horne v. State, 82 N. C. 382.

Issues of Fact.—The Supreme Court in the exercise of its recommendatory original jurisdiction to hear claims against the State will dismiss any action brought against the State where the sole issue is one of fact. Lacy v. State, 195 N. C. 284, 141 S. E. 886.

A claim against the State Highway Commission for damages arising from an alleged breach of contract in the building of a State highway is a claim against the State, but when the only issues presented therein are ones of fact, the Supreme Court will not exercise its recommendatory original jurisdiction, and the action will be dismissed. Lacy v. State, 195 N. C. 284, 141 S. E. 886.

§ 10. Judicial districts for Superior Courts.—The State shall be divided into nine judicial districts, for each of which a judge shall be chosen; and there shall be held a Superior Court in each county at least twice in each year to continue for such time in each county as may be prescribed by law. But the General Assembly may reduce or increase the number of districts.

§ 11. Residences of judges; rotation in judicial districts; and special terms.—Every judge of the Superior Court shall reside in the district for which he is elected. The judges shall preside in the courts of the different districts successively, but no judge shall hold the courts in the same district oftener than once in four years; but in case of the protracted illness of the judge assigned to preside in any district, or of any other unavoidable accident to him, by reason of which he shall be unable to preside, the Governor may require any judge to hold one or more specified terms in said district, in lieu of the judge assigned to hold the courts of the said district; and the General Assembly may by general laws provide for the selection of special or emergency judges to hold the Superior Courts of any county, or district, when the judge assigned thereto, by reason of sickness, disability, or other cause, is unable to attend and hold said court, and when no other judge is available to hold the same. Such special or emergency judges shall have the power and authority of regular judges of the Superior Courts, in the courts which they are so appointed to hold; and the General Assembly shall provide for their reasonable compensation.

As to judgment authorized to be entered by the clerk, see section 593 of the code and notes thereto.

Proper Interpretation of Section.—The proper interpretation of this section is, that while the Governor is taking a reasonable time for deliberation and acquiring information that will aid him in choosing a competent and worthy officer, he may require an unoccupied judge to hold a specified term or terms of the courts of the district to which the successor of the deceased judge will be assigned by the general law immediately upon such successor's qualification. State v. Lewis, 107 N. C. 967, 12 S. E. 457, 13 S. E. 247.

Creation of Extra Term of Court.—The provisions of this section requiring the Judges to preside in the different districts successively, and prohibiting them from holding the courts in the same district oftener than once in four years, applies to the series of successive courts constituting a circuit or riding, and does not restrict the Legislature from creating an extra term of the superior court of a county and designating the resident judge to hold the same. State v. Monroe, 80 N. C. 373.

An act authorizing the Governor of the State to appoint special terms of the superior courts, is not unconstitutional. State v. Ketchey, 70 N. C. 621.

Inhibition Does Not Apply to Exchange Judges on Special Terms.—The inhibition contained in this section applies neither to the holding by any judge of the superior court of one or more regular terms of said court by exchange with some other judge, and with the sanction of the governor nor to the holding of special terms under the order contemplated in said provision. State v. Turner, 119 N. C. 841, 25 S. E. 810.

The governor under this section, can require a judge of the superior court to hold a term of the court in a county not within his own district. And when the governor so authorizes and empowers a judge to hold such court, expressing in the commission that it is done with his consent, and under that authority the judge holds the court, as between the judge and the suitors in the court, the consent and authority granted by the governor is equivalent to a command. State v. Watson, 75 N. C. 136.

Appointment upon Death of Judge.—Upon the death of one of the judges of the superior courts, the governor has the authority under this section to require one of the other judges to hold one or more specified terms of the courts in the district assigned to the deceased judge. State v. Lewis, 107 N. C. 967, 12 S. E. 457, 13 S. E. 247.

When Regular Judge Able to Hold Court.—Objection by the defendant charged with a capital felony to the authority of the judge assigned by the governor of the state to hold a special term of the superior court, upon the ground that the judge assigned to hold the courts of the district was in good health, and holding a term of the court in another county within the district, cannot be sustained as repugnant to or unauthorized by this section. State v. Montague, 190 N. C. 841, 130 S. E. 838.

Emergency judges, appointed under the provisions of our statute as to Supreme and superior court judges who have retired from active service in pursuance of the provisions of our Constitution, have no jurisdiction to hear and determine, at chambers, a matter of mandamus, or when not holding a term of court assigned to them. Dunn v. Taylor, 186 N. C. 254, 119 S. E. 495. Const. Art. IV, sec. 11.

While this section provides for the appointment of emergency judges by statute, and our statute confers the power of their appointment upon the governor under the restrictions of the Constitution that it may be done when the judge assigned thereto, by reason of sickness, disability or other cause, is unable to attend and hold the court, and when no other judge is available, the validity of the trial for a homicide during the designated term may not be maintained by the defendant upon his affidavit filed subsequent to the trial, raising an issue as to whether the resident judge of the district was available at the time of the trial. State v. Graham, 194 N. C. 459, 140 S. E. 26.

The power of special and emergency judges is defined and bounded by the words "in the court which they are so appointed to hold," and if not holding, they are without authority to approve special proceedings. Ipock v. North Carolina Joint Stock Land Bank, 206 N. C. 791, 796, 175 S. E. 127.

§ 12. Jurisdiction of courts inferior to Supreme Court.—The General Assembly shall have no power to deprive the judicial department of any power or jurisdiction which rightfully pertains to it as a coördinate department of the government; but the General Assembly shall allot and distribute that portion of this power and jurisdiction which does not pertain to the Supreme Court among the other courts prescribed in this Constitution or which may be established by law, in such manner as it may deem best; provide also a proper system of appeals; and regulate by law, when necessary, the methods of proceeding in the exercise of their powers, of all the courts below the Supreme Court, so far as the same may be done without conflict with other provisions of this Constitution.

The General Assembly may create inferior courts to Superior Court if provision is made for appeal to the Superior Court, subject to review by the Supreme Court upon further appeal, there being no conflict with other provisions of the Constitution. Jones v. Standard Oil Co., 202 N. C. 328, 162 S. E. 741.

Cannot Delegate Power.—The provisions of this section giving the Legislature the authority to distribute that portion of the judicial power and jurisdiction of courts not pertaining to the Supreme Court, among other courts is restricted in its exercise to the Legislature itself, and may not be delegated by it; and where a recorder's court has been already established, an act which authorizes the county commissioners to increase its jurisdiction in civil matters is unconstitutional. Durham Provision Co. v. Daves, 190 N. C. 7, 128 S. E. 593.

Under the authority of this section, the General Assembly may create courts inferior to the Supreme Court by private act or by general statute which does not delegate its discretion, and provided such inferior courts do not have substantially the same powers as those of the Superior Courts, and are given a less extensive jurisdiction, with provisions for appeal from such inferior court to the Superior Courts, so that the constitutional powers and provisions relative to the Superior Courts are not invaded. Albertson v. Albertson, 207 N. C. 547, 178 S. E. 352.

Acts Must Not Interfere with Vested Rights.—This section provides for the establishment of inferior courts by the Legislature; the acts passed for such purpose must not interfere with vested rights, or the constitutional rights of other parties. State v. Webb, 125 N. C. 243, 34 S. E. 430.

Recorder's Court.—The jurisdiction of the recorder's court is bestowed by the legislature under the authority of this section. Jones v. Brinkley, 174 N. C. 23, 25, 93 S. E. 372.

Supreme Court Rules.—The Supreme Court is given, by this section of the Constitution, exclusive power to make its own rules of practice, without legislative authority to interfere, and in case of conflict the rules made by the Court will be observed. Cooper v. Commissioners, 184 N. C. 615, 113 S. E. 569; State v. Ward, 184 N. C. 618, 113 S. E. 775; Hardy v. Heath, 188 N. C. 271, 124 S. E. 564.

The Supreme Court is an organic branch of the State government, and not bound by acts of the Legislature undertaking to regulate its rules of practice. Herndon v. Imperial Fire Ins. Co., 111 N. C. 384, 16 S. E. 465.

This section gives to the General Assembly power to regulate proceedings in all the courts "below the Supreme Court," but confers on the supreme court the exclusive power to regulate its own procedure. Horton v. Green, 104 N. C. 400, 10 S. E. 470.

§ 13. In case of waiver of trial by jury.—In all issues of fact, joined in any court, the parties may waive the right to have the same determined by a jury; in which case the finding of the judge upon the facts shall have the force and effect of a verdict by a jury.

For a thorough treatment of waiver of jury trial, see code section 568 and 572 and annotations thereunder.

Waiver of Indictment.—Section 4610 of the code, authorizing the waiver of an indictment in the Superior Court by the defendant bound over from an inferior court, is constitutional and valid. State v. Jones, 181 N. C. 543, 106 S. E. 827; Const. Art. IV, Sec. 13.

Attachment Proceedings.—In attachment and other ancillary proceedings it is competent for the court to find the facts from the affidavits and other evidence; and a party consenting to this mode of trial cannot afterwards demand a jury trial. Pasour v. Linberger, 90 N. C. 159.

Findings of Court Are Conclusive.—Where a jury trial is waived, the findings by the court upon conflicting evidence are conclusive under this section, and are not subject to review upon appeal. Barringer v. Wilmington Sav., etc., Co., 207 N. C. 505, 177 S. E. 795.

§ 14. Special courts in cities.—The General Assembly shall provide for the establishment of special courts, for the trial of misdemeanors, in cities and towns, where the same may be necessary.

See sections 1536 et seq., of the Code.

In General.—This section was construed with Art. IV, § 2 and Art. IV, § 30 in determining the meaning of "other courts" in the case of Meador v. Thomas, 205 N. C. 142, 170 S. E. 110.

Constitutionality of Act Establishing Court.—A legislative enactment creating a municipal court for an incorporated city or town, and conferring thereon jurisdiction in a territory extending one mile beyond its corporate limits over criminal cases concurrently cognizable in a justice's court, is valid and does not contravene this section. State v. Brown, 159 N. C. 467, 74 S. E. 580. See also, Washington v. Hammond, 76 N. C. 33.

Jurisdiction Confined to Misdemeanors.—This jurisdiction of courts established under this section is confined to misdemeanors. State v. Walker, 65 N. C. 461; State v. Baskerville, 141 N. C. 811, 53 S. E. 742.

Appeal.—The legislature cannot give to courts established under this section a right of appeal direct to the Supreme Court. State v. Lytle, 138 N. C. 738, 51 S. E. 66.

§ 15. Clerk of the Supreme Court.—The clerk of the Supreme Court shall be appointed by the Court, and shall hold his office for eight years.

§ 16. Election of Superior Court clerk.—A clerk of the Superior Court for each county shall be elected by the qualified voters thereof, at the time and in the manner prescribed by law for the election of members of the general Assembly.

See section 926 of the Code. As to clerks generally, see 3 Enc. Dig. 108, et seq., 13 Enc. Dig. 383 et seq.

§ 17. Term of office.—Clerks of the Superior Courts shall hold their offices for four years.

See section 926 of the Code.

§ 18. Fees, salaries and emoluments.—The General Assembly shall prescribe and regulate the fees, salaries, and emoluments of all officers provided for in this article; but the salaries of the judges shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

See secs. 3847 et seq., and the notes thereto.

The legislature may designate the compensation of these officials prior to the beginning of their terms and it should follow that the compensation may be declared a certain amount less the income tax on that amount. See § 7880(135). See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 256.

Salaries Exempt From Taxation.—Where the constitution provides that the salaries of judges shall not be diminished during their continuance in office, the salaries are exempt from taxation. In the Matter of Taxation of Salaries of Judges, 131 N. C. 692, 42 S. E. 970.

The constitutional restriction on the legislature not to diminish salaries of the judges during their continuance in office is still in force, unaffected or disturbed by the amendment of 1920, (as to income tax), and though their income from other sources may be taxed, a tax on their salarises during their term of office is to diminish their income from such source in contravention of the express terms of this section. Long v. Watts, 183 N. C. 99, 110 S. E. 765.

See Note in 1 N. C. Law Rev. 39.

Same—When Salaries Increased.—An increase of the salaries of the judges during a term of office is the fixing of their salary by the Legislature in such amount as in its judgment is a proper compensation for their services, and an attempt by an agency of the Legislature, either under actual or mistaken authority, to impose a tax thereon is an attempt to diminish these salaries during the term of office. Long v. Watts, 183 N. C. 99, 110 S. E. 765.

Same—Duty of Supreme Court to Pass upon Rights.—It is the duty of the Supreme Court to pass upon the rights of one of the judges of the State as a citizen thereof, when he, in a case properly presented, denies the constitutional right of the State or one of its designated agencies, to tax his salary paid to him as one of its judges, being in contravention of this section, prohibiting the Legislature from diminishing the salaries of the judges during their continuance in office. Long v. Watts, 183 N. C. 99, 110 S. E. 765.

Same—Compensation for Holding Extra Term.—The additional compensation of one hundred dollars given to a Superior Court Judge for services in holding a special term is a part of his salary. Buxton v. Commissioners, 82 N. C. 91.

§ 19. What laws are, and shall be, in force.—The laws of North Carolina, not repugnant to this Constitution or the Constitution and laws of the United State, shall be in force until lawfully altered.

§ 20. Disposition of actions at law and suits in equity, pending when this Constitution shall go into effect, etc.—Actions at law and suits in equity pending when this Constitution shall go into effect shall be transferred to the courts having jurisdiction thereof, without prejudice by reason of the change; and all such actions and suits commenced before, and pending at the adoption by the General Assembly of the rules of practice and procedure herein provided for, shall be heard and determined according to the practice now in use, unless otherwise provided for by said rules.

As to Superior Courts becoming the successors of Courts of Equity see § 1 of this Article and notes thereto.

§ 21. Election, terms of office, etc., of justices of the Supreme and judges of the Superior courts.—The justices of the Supreme Court shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State, as is provided for the election of members of the General Assembly. They shall hold their offices for eight years. The judges of the Superior Courts, elected at the first election under this amendment, shall be elected in like manner as is provided for justices of the Supreme Court, and shall hold their offices for eight years. The General Assembly may, from time to time, provide by law that the judges of the Superior Courts, chosen at succeeding elections, instead of being elected by the voters of the whole State, as is herein provided for, shall be elected by the voters of their respective districts.

§ 22. Transaction of business in the Superior Courts. — The Superior Courts shall be, at all times, open for the transaction of all business within their jurisdiction, except the trial of issues of fact requiring a jury.

Does Not Apply to Terms of Courts.—This section must be construed in connection with section 11 of this article, and does not apply to the terms of courts and matters connected therewith. Delfield v. Mercer Construction Co., 115 N. C. 21, 20 S. E. 167.

Court of Clerk Not Included.—The phrase "superior court" in this section does not mean the court of the clerk. McAdoo v. Benbow, 63 N. C. 461.

Rendition of Judgment After Term.—Where the issues of fact had been disposed of by a consent verdict, and the court having jurisdiction of the case, clearly, and being always open, there is nothing in this clause of the Constitution which forbids the rendition of a judgment upon verdict after the expiration of the term, as well as during the term. Harrell v. Peebles, 79 N. C. 26, 31. See, also, Shackelford v. Miller, 91 N. C. 181.

§ 23. Solicitors for each judicial district. — A solicitor shall be elected for each judicial district, by the qualified voters thereof, as is prescribed for members of the General Assembly, who shall hold office for the term of four years, and prosecute on behalf of the State, in all criminal actions in the Superior Courts, and advise the officers of justices in his district.

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1927, c. 99, and Public Laws 1929, c. 140 proposed amendments to this section which were defeated. Public Laws 1931, c. 367, proposed another amendment identical in language with the proposal of 1929 as follows:

"The State shall be divided into twenty solicitorial districts, for each of which a solicitor shall be chosen by the qualified voters thereof, as is prescribed for members of the General Assembly, who shall hold office for the term of four years, and prosecute on behalf of the State, in all criminal actions in the Superior Courts, and advise the officers of justices in his district. But the General Assembly may reduce or increase the number of districts."

Issuance of Capias.—A solicitor is the most responsible officer of the court and has been spoken of as "its right arm." He is a constitutional officer and his duties are presented by the constitution. The court has not authority to give the solicitor discretion as to when a capias shall issue, this not being within his duties. State v. McAbee, 189 N. C. 320, 127 S. E. 204.

§ 24. Sheriffs and coroners. — In each county a sheriff and coroner shall be elected by the qualified voters thereof, as is prescribed for members of the General Assembly, and shall hold their offices for two years. In each township there shall be a constable elected in like manner by the voters thereof, who shall hold his office for two years. When there is no coroner in a county, the clerk of the Superior Court for the county may appoint one for special cases. In case of a vacancy existing for any cause in any of the offices created by this section, the commissioners of the county may appoint to such office for the unexpired term.

As to sheriffs and constables, see sections 3925, 971. As to coroners, see section 1014 of the Code.

Editor's Note.—Public Laws 1931, c. 47, proposed an amendment to this section to be voted on at the next general election providing that sheriffs and coroners "shall hold their offices for a period of four years."

Intention Was Not to Restrict Powers of Constables.—The intention of those who drafted this section, when they wrote, "In each township there shall be a constable elected in like manner by the voters thereof, who shall hold his office for two years," was not to restrict the powers and duties of the constables to the township in which they were elected, but to intersperse the constables throughout every part of the county. State v. Corpening, 207 N. C. 805, 806, 178 S. E. 564.

Vacancy after Expiration of Term.—Where a constable was elected in 1875 for two years, and no election was had in 1877 a vacancy occurred which the county commissioners had the power to fill under this section. State v. McLure, 84 N. C. 153.

Where, before the expiration of his term a sheriff is re-elected but dies before the expiration of that term, the commissioners are entitled to appoint someone to fill the vacancy for the remainder of the first term and at the beginning of the next term should fill by appointment that vacancy also. People v. Smith, 81 N. C. 304.

§ 25. Vacancies. — All vacancies occuring in the offices provided for by this article of the Constitution shall be filled by the appointments of the Governor, unless otherwise provided for, and the appointees shall hold their places until the next regular election for members of the General Assembly, when elections shall be held to fill such offices. If any person, elected or appointed to any of said offices, shall neglect and fail to qualify, such offices shall be appointed to, held and filled as provided in case of vacancies occurring therein. All incumbents of said offices shall hold until their successors are qualified.

Limitation on Term Appointed For.—The provisions added to the original section were manifestly made, in view of the decision of the Supreme Court in People v. Wilson, 72 N. C. 155, and were intended to limit the tenure of the appointers of the Chief Executive, whether to fill a vacancy caused by the death or resignation of an incumbent, or by the refusal of a person elected to qualify, to the time intervening between the making of the appointment and the next regular election for members of the General Assembly, together with a reasonable interval for qualification. State v. Jones, 116 N. C. 570, 575, 21 S. E. 787.

Concurrence of Senate Unnecessary.—The general appointing power is given to the Governor with the concurrence of the Senate; the power to fill vacancies, not otherwise provided for, is given to the Governor alone, and that, whether the Legislature is in session or not, and without calling the Senate. N. C. v. Nichols, 68 N. C. 429.

Meaning of "Until the Next Regular Election." — The words "until the next regular election," in this section mean until the next regular election for the office in which a vacancy has occurred. People v. Wilson, 72 N. C. 155.

Refusal of Judge to Accept Office.—Where a person was elected judge of the Superior Court and declined to accept the office and never qualified there was a vacancy within the meaning of this section and the Governor had the power to fill such vacancy by appointing a successor. People v. Wilson, 72 N. C. 155.

Constables Not Included. — The provision in this section that "all incumbents of said offices shall hold until their successors are qualified," does not embrace the office of constable. State v. McLure, 84 N. C. 153.

§ 26. Terms of office of first officers.—The officers elected at the first election held under this Constitution shall hold their offices for the terms prescribed for them respectively, next ensuing after the next regular election for members of the General Assembly. But their terms shall begin upon the approval of this constitution by the Congress of the United States.

Time of First Election.—The next regular election for members of the General Assembly is to be held on the first Thursday in August 1870. Legislative Term of Office, 64 N. C. Appx. 787.

§ 27. Jurisdiction of justices of the peace. — The several justices of the peace shall have jurisdiction, under such regulations as the General Assembly shall prescribe, of civil actions, founded on contract, wherein the sum demanded shall not exceed two hundred dollars, and wherein the title to real estate shall not be in controversy; and of all criminal matters arising within their counties where the punishment cannot exceed a fine of fifty dollars or imprisonment for thirty days. And the General Assembly may give to the justices of the peace jurisdiction of other civil actions wherein the value of the property in controversy does not exceed fifty dollars. When an issue of fact shall be joined before a justice, on demand of either party thereto he shall cause a jury of six men to be summoned, who shall try the same. The party against whom the judgment shall be rendered in any civil action may appeal to the Superior Court from the same. In all cases of a criminal nature the party against whom the judgment is given may appeal to the Superior Court, where the matter shall be heard anew. In all cases brought before a justice, he shall make a record of the proceedings, and file the same with the clerk of the Superior Court for his county.

Cross References.—For a thorough treatment of the civil jurisdiction justice of the peace, see annotations under sections 1473 and 1474. As to their criminal jurisdiction, see annotations under section 1481.

Editor's Note.—While under the provisions of this section of the Constitution of 1868, the courts of the justice of the peace were given "exclusive original" jurisdiction in matters founded on contract when the amount involved did not exceed two hundred dollars, etc., the Convention of 1875 removed the restriction of legislative powers as to the jurisdiction of the Superior Court by eliminating the words "exclusive original" relating to the powers of justices courts. Const. Art. IV, section 27.

Jurisdiction of Justice.—A justice of the peace can only exercise such powers as are conferred upon him by this section of the Constitution, and the statutes in harmony therewith. His jurisdiction is special, not general, and his authority is not to be enlarged by principles of law applicable to courts of general jurisdiction; nor can he adopt methods of procedure not strictly allowed by law. State v. Jones, 100 N. C. 438, 6 S. E. 655.

Same—Jurisdiction Concurrent.—The jurisdiction conferred upon justices of the peace to try civil actions, where the property in controversy does not exceed fifty dollars, is concurrent with that possessed by the superior court. Montague v. Mial, 89 N. C. 137.

Same—Waiver of Objection by Appearance. — Where the defendant is sued on two accounts before a justice of the peace separately stated, each appearing to be in amount coming within his jurisdiction, but together exceeding it, by his appearing and acknowledging his liability for the sum total he thereafter waives his right on appeal to set up the defense that in fact the two accounts were but one. Honig v. Hawa, 194 N. C. 208, 139 S. E. 222.

Section Does Not Embrace Damages.—The provisions in this section, authorizing the General Assembly to give the Justices of the Peace "jurisdiction of other civil actions wherein the property in controversy does not exceed fifty dollars," is not a restriction, even by implication, to forbid conferring jurisdiction where damages and not property is in controversy. Malloy v. Fayetteville, 122 N. C. 480, 29 S. E. 880.

Contempt.—The constitutional restriction imposed by this section applies only to the administration of the law in the trial of criminal cases, and were not intended to affect the inherent or statutory powers possessed by these courts and conferred upon them as necessary to enable them to transact business and maintain a proper respect for their authority. C. S., 981, 983. State v. Hooker, 183 N. C. 763, 111 S. E. 351.

Criminal Appeals.—The clause of this section providing that in criminal cases in a justice's court, "the party against whom judgment is given may appeal to the superior court, where the matter shall be heard anew," is for the benefit only of the party accused. State v. Powell, 86 N. C. 640.

Appeal May Be Direct to Superior Court.—It is not required that an appeal from a judgment of the justice of the peace be first taken to the general county court of the county, but the appeal may be taken directly to the Superior Court. McNeeley v. Anderson, 206 N. C. 481, 174 S. E. 305.

"Thirty Days."—"Thirty days," as used in this section, is not synonymous with "one month:" It may be more or less. State v. Upchurch, 72 N. C. 146.

Legislature Cannot Confer Justice's Powers on Mayor. —The Legislature cannot confer on the Mayor of a town the judicial powers of a justice of the peace in civil actions. This section confers exclusive original jurisdiction on justice of the peace wherever the sum demanded does not exceed two hundred dollars. Edenton v. Wool, 65 N. C. 379. But see Editor's Note, supra.

Establishment of Special Courts.—This section should be construed with section 12 and 14, and the latter sections modify the first named so as to authorize and empower the Legislature to establish special courts in cities and towns and confer jurisdiction upon them without regard to its provisions and limitations. Farmers Cotton Oil Co. v. Blue Ridge Grocery Co., 169 N. C. 521, 86 S. E. 338; State v. Baskerville, 141 N. C. 811, 53 S. E. 742.

§ 28. Vacancies in office of justices.—When the office of justice of the peace shall become vacant otherwise than by expiration of the term, and in case of a failure by the voters of any district to elect, the clerk of the Superior Court for the county shall appoint to fill the vacancy for the unexpired term.

Conferring Authority on Governor.—A statute, conferring authority upon the Governor to fill vacancies in the office of justices of the peace, caused by the failure of the appointees of the General Assembly to qualify within the time therein prescribed, is not unconstitutional. Gilmer v. Holton, 98 N. C. 26, 3 S. E. 812.

§ 29. Vacancies in office of Superior Court clerk.—In case the office of clerk of a Superior Court for a county shall become vacant otherwise than by the expiration of the term, and in case of a failure by the people to elect, the judge of the Superior Court for the county shall appoint to fill the vacancy until an election can be regularly held.

Term of Appointee.—Under this section the appointee of the judge holds only until the next election at which members of the General Assembly are chosen. Rodwell v. Rowland, 137 N. C. 617, 50 S. E. 319.

§ 30. Officers of other courts inferior to Supreme Court. — In case the General Assembly shall establish other courts inferior to the Supreme Court, the presiding officers and clerks thereof shall be elected in such manner as the General Assembly may from time to time prescribe, and they shall hold their offices for a term not exceeding eight years.

Legislature May Elect Clerk.—Where a criminal court is created the legislature could either elect the clerk itself or devolve his election upon the people, or other constituency. White v. Murray, 126 N. C. 153, 157, 35 S. E. 256.

May Provide for Election of Officers of County Courts.—Under the provisions of this section, the Legislature is authorized to provide for the election of officers and clerks of General County Courts established by it, such courts being "other courts inferior to the Supreme Court" referred to in Art. IV, §§ 2 and 14. Meador v. Thomas, 205 N. C. 142, 170 S. E. 110.

The word "election" does not necessarily import a popular election by the qualified electors, and the delegation of the power to elect judges of the general county courts to the county commissioners is not an unlawful delegation of legislative power, this section providing that they "shall be elected in such manner as the general assembly may prescribe." Meador v. Thomas, 205 N. C. 142, 170 S. E. 110.

Deprivation of Inferior Judge's Office.—Where the Legislature has abolished a court inferior to the superior court of this state, the incumbent judge takes subject to this legislative right, and cannot successfully maintain that during the term of his office he has been thus deprived of his right of property guaranteed him by this section. Queen v. Comm'rs, 193 N. C. 821, 138 S. E. 310.

§ 31. Removal of judges of the various courts for inability.—Any judge of the Supreme Court, or of the Superior Courts, and the presiding officers of such courts inferior to the Supreme Court as may be established by law, may be removed from office for mental or physical inability, upon a concurrent resolution of two thirds of both houses of the General Assembly. The judge or presiding officer against whom the General Assembly may be about to proceed shall receive notice thereof, accompanied by a copy of the causes alleged for his removal, at least twenty days before the day on which either house of the General Assembly shall act thereon.

Cited in People v. Smith, 81 N. C. 304.

§ 32. Removal of clerks of the various courts for inability.—Any clerk of the Supreme Court, or of the Superior Courts, or of such courts inferior to the Supreme Court as may be established by law, may be removed from office for mental or physical inability; the clerk of the Supreme Court by the judges of said court, the clerks of the Superior Courts by the judge riding the district, and the clerks of such courts inferior to the Supreme Court as may be established by law by the presiding officers of said courts. The clerks against whom proceedings are instituted shall receive notice thereof, accompanied by a copy of the cause alleged for his removal, at least ten days before the day appointed to act thereon, and the clerk shall be entitled to an appeal to the next term of the Superior Court and thence to the Supreme Court as provided in other cases of appeals.

§ 33. Amendments not to vacate existing offices.—The amendments made to the Constitution of North Carolina by this convention shall not have the effect to vacate any office or term of office now existing under the Constitution of the State, and filled, or held, by virtue of any election or appointment under the said Constitution and the laws of the State made in pursuance thereof.

Legislature May Diminish Emoluments.—The Legislature has the constitutional power to diminish the emoluments of an office by the transfer of a portion of its duties to another office, and in such case the incumbent must submit. State v. Gales, 77 N. C. 283.

ARTICLE V

Revenue and Taxation

§ 1. Capitation tax; exemptions. — The General Assembly may levy a capitation tax on every male inhabitant of the State over twenty-one and under fifty years of age, which said tax shall not exceed two dollars, and cities and towns may levy a capitation tax which shall not exceed one dollar. No other capitation tax shall be levied. The commissioners of the several counties and of the cities and towns may exempt from the capitation tax any special cases on account of poverty or infirmity.

See section 7769 of the Code. As to taxation generally, see 11 Enc. Dig. 545, et seq., 15 Enc. Dig. 548 et seq.

Editor's Note. — Prior to 1920 this section contained an equalization clause which provided that the poll tax should equal the tax on property valued at three hundred dollars. This clause was struck out by the amendment of 1920.

Effect of Amendment on Bonds Purchased Prior Thereto.—The amendment will not have the effect of relating back and invalidating taxation on the polls in a school district which had met the constitutional requirement before the amendment had become the law; for such would have the effect of impairing vested rights existing under a valid contract. Board v. Bray Bros. Co., 184 N. C. 484, 115 S. E. 47; Hammond v. McRae, 182 N. C. 747, 110 S. E. 102.

The amendment will invalidate taxation of the polls in a township where the electors therein voted for the levy of a poll tax of six dollars in addition to the regular poll tax of two dollars although the election was held and the tax in question was voted before the amendment of this section. Dixon v. Board of County Com'rs, 200 N. C. 215, 156 S. E. 852.

Taxation for State and County Purposes Limited.—Taxation, for State and county purposes combined, for the current and necessary expenses of the county government and new debts, cannot exceed the constitutional limitation. French v. Board, 74 N. C. 692; Southern R. Co. v. Board, 148 N. C. 220, 61 S. E. 690.

No Limit on Taxation for Payment of Debts.—There is no limitation, however, of the power of taxation, upon either State or county, for the payment of their lawful debts, created before the adoption of the Constitution. French v. Board, 74 N. C. 692; Brothers v. Commissioners, 70 N. C. 726.

When Limitation May Be Exceeded.—Without special legislation a county may not authorize a levy of tax, exceeding the constitutional limitation upon the poll or property, to provided for a sinking fund to pay the principal and interest on bonds to be issued by it for highway purposes. It is otherwise as to a six months period of public schools required by Article IX, sec. 3. Bennett v. Board, 173 N. C. 625, 92 S. E. 603. See, also, Ballou v. Board, 182 N. C. 473, 475, 109 S. E. 628.

The limitation as to the levy on poll tax prescribed by this section, does not apply to the levy of a special tax by a county for road purposes, authorized by the Legislature submitted to the vote of the electors of the county and duly approved by them. Moose v. Board, 172 N. C. 419, 90 S. E. 441.

Working Road Not a Poll Tax.—The requirement to work the roads is not a poll or capitation tax. State v. Wheeler, 141 N. C. 773, 53 S. E. 358.

Section Does Not Apply to Municipal Corporations.—The restriction that the State and county tax combined shall never exceed $2 on the poll, applies only to State and county taxation, and not to municipal or quasi public corporations other than counties. Perry v. Commissioners, 148 N. C. 521, 62 S. E. 608.

Commissioners, 178 N. C. 449, 101 S. E. 91.

§ 2. Application of proceeds of State and county capitation tax. — The proceeds of the State and county capitation tax shall be applied to the purposes of education and the support of the poor, but in no one year shall more than twenty-five per cents thereof be appropriated to the latter purpose.

Section Only Applies to General Purposes. — An objection that an act applies a part of the county capitation tax to the use of the public roads in violation of this section, which appropriates the State and county poll tax "to the purposes of education and the support of the poor," can not be sustained, as that provision applies to the levy of taxation for general, not special, purposes. Crocker v. Moore, 140 N. C. 429, 53 S. E. 229.

Percentage Denoted to School Purpose.—Not less than 75 per cent of the capitation tax must be devoted to school purposes. Board v. Board, 127 N. C. 263, 37 S. E. 261.

Power of Legislature as to Indigents.—It is the exclusive right of the Legislature to determine and declare by whom and how the indigent of the State entitled to support shall be ascertained, and from what fund and by whom allowances for their support shall be made. Board v. Commissioners, 113 N. C. 379, 18 S. E. 661.

Board, 150 N. C. 116, 63 S. E. 724, concurring opinion of C. J. Clark in Waystaff v. Central Highway Comm., 177 N. C. 354, 358, 99 S. E. 1.

§ 3. Taxation shall be by uniform rule and ad-valorem; exemptions.—Laws shall be passed taxing, by a uniform rule, all moneys, credits, investments in bonds, stocks, joint-stock companies, or otherwise; and, also, all real and personal property, according to its true value in money: Provided, notes, mortgages, and all other evidences of indebtedness or any renewal thereof, given in good faith to build, repair, or purchase a home, when said loan does not exceed eight thousand dollars ($8,000), and said notes and mortgages and other evidences of indebtedness, or any renewal thereof, shall be made to run for not less than one nor more than thirty-three years, shall be exempt from taxation of every kind for fifty per cent of the value of the notes and mortgages; Provided, the holder of said note or notes must reside in the county where the land lies and there list it for taxation: Provided, further, that when said notes and mortgages are held and taxed in the county where the home is situated, then the owner of the home shall be exempt from taxation of every kind for fifty per cent of the value of said notes and mortgages. The word "home" is defined to mean lands, whether consisting of a building lot or larger tract, together with all the buildings and outbuildings which the owner in good faith intends to use as a dwelling place for himself or herself, which shall be conclusively established by the actual use and occupancy of such premises as a dwelling place of the purchaser or owner for a period of three months. The General Assembly may also tax trades, professions, franchises, and incomes: Provided, the rate of tax on incomes shall not in any case exceed six per cent (6%), and there shall be allowed the following exemptions, to be deducted from the amount of annual incomes, to-wit: for married man with a wife living with him, or to a widow or widower having minor child or children, natural or adopted, not less than $2,000; to all other persons not less than $1,000, and there may be allowed other deductions (not including living expenses) so that only net incomes are taxed.

Editor's Note.—This section was amended in 1920 so as to permit the taxing of incomes although the property from which the income was derived was already taxed. At the same time the exemption from taxation of home mortgages and notes was added.

Proposed Amendments.—Public Laws 1935, ch. 248, s. 2, proposed an amendment to this section to be voted on at the next general election. This amendment would strike out in line thirty-seven the words and figures "six per cent (6%)," and insert in lieu thereof the words and figures "ten per cent (10%)."

Public Laws 1935, ch. 248, s. 1, proposed an amendment to this section to be voted on at the next general election. This amendment would strike out all of this section down to, and including, the word "months," in line thirty-three, and substitute in lieu thereof the following:

"Sec. 3. State Taxation. The power of taxation shall be exercised in a just and equitable manner, and shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes on property shall be uniform as to each class of property taxed. Taxes shall be levied only for public purposes, and every act levying a tax shall state the object to which it is to be applied."

This section provides that the General Assembly may tax trades and professions; and while this clause does not expressly apply the rule of uniformity to taxes imposed on trades and professions it has been judicially determined that the rule applies to these taxes as well as to taxes on property. Roach v. Durham, 204 N. C. 587, 591, 169 S. E. 149.

What May Be Taxed.—All taxes must be levied upon the poll or upon property; or, in the nature of a license, upon "trades, professions, franchises and incomes." State v. Ballard, 122 N. C. 1024, 1026, 29 S. E. 899.

What "Property" Includes.—It seems that the word "property" is used by the Constitution in a sense to make it exclude "money, credits, investments in bonds," etc. Pullen v. Raleigh, 68 N. C. 451.

The words "all real and personal property," in this section are to be taken in their most comprehensive legal import, and include every kind of real and personal property whatever, not excepting the several classes of personal property expressly mentioned in the first clause of the section. Redmond v. Commissioners, 106 N. C. 123, 10 S. E. 845.

This section includes both tangible property, and taxes on "trades, professions, franchises, and incomes." Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. v. Doughton, 196 N. C. 145, 144 S. E. 701.

Property Is Taxable without Regard to Ownership.—In Latta v. Jenkins, 200 N. C. 255, 156 S. E. 857, it is said: By virtue of the provisions of this section, all property, real and personal, in this State, is subject to taxation, in accordance with a uniform rule, under laws which the General Assembly is required by the Constitution to enact, without regard to its ownership, and without regard to the purposes for which specific property is held, unless exempted by or under the provisions of section 5 of this article. Salisbury Hospital v. Rowan County, 205 N. C. 8, 10, 169 S. E. 805.

The tax on income, imposed by the Revenue Acts of this State, is not a tax on property, within the meaning of the requirement of this section that property shall be taxed according to its true value in money. State v. Kent-Coffey Mfg. Co., 204 N. C. 365, 371, 168 S. E. 397.

Under this section which limits income taxes to a maximum of six per cent, any attempted increase in productivity of this field of revenue had to come at the expense of the small income man, and this is what has happened. See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 255.

Tax Must Be Uniform.—This section imperatively requires that all real and personal property be taxed by a uniform rule according to its true value in money. Pocomoke Guano Co. v. Biddle, 158 N. C. 212, 73 S. E. 996.

The only constitutional restriction upon the power of the Legislature in classifying vocations and laying a tax of a different amount upon the different occupations is that the tax shall be uniform upon all in each classification. Dalton v. Brown, 159 N. C. 175, 75 S. E. 40.

When Tax Is Uniform.—A tax is uniform when it is equal upon all persons belonging to the described class upon which it is imposed. Gatlin v. Tarboro, 78 N. C. 119.

A tax is uniform and consistent with this section when it is equal on all persons in the same class, and hence a tax imposed on hotel keepers, which exempts from taxation those whose yearly receipts are less than $1,000, is not unconstitutional. Cobb v. Commissioners, 122 N. C. 307, 30 S. E. 338.

Who Tax on Occupation Must Reach.—A tax upon an occupation must reach all who follow it—all of a class, either of persons or things. Worth v. Petersburg R. Co., 89 N. C. 301, 302.

Reasonableness of Classification.—See notes under sections 7880(93), 7880(96), 7880(113).

The power of the Legislature to classify subjects for the purpose of taxation is flexible, and the reasonableness of any classification will generally be construed with reference to the facts of the particular case, the predominant limitation on the power to classify being that the classification must be reasonable and not arbitrary and must rest upon some substantial difference between the classes, and that the burden must be equal upon all in the same class, and a special classification by statute of wholesale grocers operating a cold storage chamber of some character for the preservation of fresh meats, as distinguished from those who handle only canned meats not requiring refrigeration, is a reasonable classification imposing an equal burden upon all of the class, and is constitutional and valid. Southern Grain Provision Co. v. Maxwell, 199 N. C. 661, 155 S. E. 557.

The classification must not be arbitrary or unjust, but must be based on substantial and reasonable differences between such classes. Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. v. Doughton, 196 N. C. 145, 144 S. E. 701.

While the provisions of this section do not expressly apply to taxes on trades, professions, franchises and incomes, it does apply to such taxes from its inherent justice, but the General Assembly has the power to classify trades, professions, franchises and incomes for taxation where the classifications are reasonable and not arbitrary and are based upon substantial differences between the classes and apply equally to all within the classification. Great A. & P. Tea Co. v. Maxwell, 199 N. C. 433, 154 S. E. 838.

Classifying Dealers in Different Kinds of Merchandise.—The requirement of this section that all taxes shall be uniform does not prohibit a municipality, which is empowered to tax persons engaged in mercantile business, from classifying dealers in a particular kind of merchandise, separately from those whose business it is to sell other articles falling within the same generic terms. Rosenbaum v. New Bern, 118 N. C. 83, 24 S. E. 1.

Tax Based on Volume of Business.—A tax levied quarterly by a town, under authority of an act of the General Assembly, upon all traders doing business in the town, "of $1 for every $1,000 worth of goods sold during the preceding quarter," is uniform and constitutional. Gatlin v. Tarboro, 78 N. C. 119.

Tax Based on Counties in Which a Firm Does Business.—An act taxing every meat packing house doing business in the State $100 for each county in which such business is carried on is valid. Lacy v. Armour Packing Co., 134 N. C. 567, 47 S. E. 53.

Basing Taxes on Size of City in Which Business Located.—In act imposing an annual graduated license tax on the business of buying and selling fresh meats from offices, stores, vehicles, etc., in cities of 12,000, 8,000, and under 8,000 inhabitants, respectively, is not unconstitutional, as not being uniform and in not imposing a license if the business is carried on outside a city or town; it being uniform as to all within each class. State v. Carter, 129 N. C. 560, 40 S. E. 11.

Taxing Shares of Stock in a National Bank.—Shares of stock in a National Bank are proper subjects of State, county and municipal taxation. Such shares owned by nonresidents are to be taxed in the city or town where the Bank is located and not elsewhere. Kyle v. Commissioners, 75 N. C. 445.

Taxing Cotton by Bale.—An act to provide improved marketing facilities for cotton, which enacts that on each bale of cotton ginned in North Carolina for two years, twenty-five cents shall be collected to specially guarantee the State warehouse system against loss, is not in derogation of this section. Bickett v. State Tax Comm., 177 N. C. 433, 99 S. E. 415.

Tax on Indictments.—A tax on indictments, civil suits, etc., is not a tax within the meaning of this section. State v. Nutt, 79 N. C. 263.

Inheritance Tax.—An inheritance tax is in the nature of an excise tax, or one on acquiring property or inheriting from a decedent, and does not come within the prohibition as to taxing an income upon property when the property itself is taxed and its imposition rests with the legislative power. In re Davis, 190 N. C. 358, 130 S. E. 22.

License on Business of Hauling Timber.—An act requiring a license of anyone who carried on the business of hauling timber in a certain county, grading the license with reference to the number of horses driven to the wagon used is not repugnant to this section. State v. Bullock, 161 N. C. 223, 75 S. E. 942.

Zoning Cities.—An act authorizing the division of a city into several zones for the purpose of fixing an ad valorem basis of real estate for taxation, uniform within each zone, but classified in accordance with destiny of population, character of building, etc., violates the mandatory provisions of our Constitution that within its corporate limits all taxable property shall be by a uniform rule and ad valorem. Anderson v. Asheville, 194 N. C. 117, 138 S. E. 715.

Exception of Farm Products.—The exception of "farm products purchased from the producer" from the return required to be made by merchants and other dealers as the basis for a license tax in not a discrimination against the products or citizens of other States; nor is it in violation of the provisions of this section which requires uniformity of taxation. State v. Stevenson, 109 N. C. 730, 14 S. E. 385; Ex Parte Brown, 48 Fed. 435.

Railroad Property May Be Assessed by Corporation Commission.—An act providing for the assessment of railroad property by the Corporation Commission, is not in conflict with this section providing that such assessment be uniform and ad valorem. Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. New Bern, 147 N. C. 165, 60 S. E. 925.

Requiring Railroads to Pay State Taxes Earlier.—The provisions requiring railroads and other like corporations to pay their State taxes within a shorter period than those to the counties, is a uniform legislative classification applying equally to all within its terms and not objectionable as a discrimination or a denial of the equal protection of the laws prohibited by this section. Norfolk Southern R. R. Co. v. Lacy, 187 N. C. 615, 122 S. E. 763.

Exempting Bonds of Drainage District from Taxation.—Drainage districts are not regarded as municipal corporations, and a legislative act exempting their bonds from taxation violates the uniform rule as to taxation required by this section. Commissioners v. Webb & Co., 160 N. C. 594, 76 S. E. 552.

Exemption of Property and Bonds of Municipality.—A legislative provision exempting the property and bonds of a city from taxation is valid when the bonds are to be issued for a public purpose, and certainly the bonds are exempt from taxation if sold to and held by an agency of the United States Government, or are held by a purchaser from such Federal agency. Any doubt as to the validity of this provision under this section must be resolved in favor of its validity. Webb v. Port Comm., 205 N. C. 663, 172 S. E. 377. See § 5 of this article.

Taxes Reduced if Assets Returned for Taxes.—An act imposing license taxes on the business of selling automobiles reducing the rate if three-fourths of the entire assets of the manufacturer are invested and returned for taxes herein, applies indiscriminately to the manufacturers of every state, and being for the object of reducing the license tax for selling automobiles in this state when the seller is already paying a tax here on three-fourths of his assets, is not violative. Bethlehem Motors Corp. v. Flynt, 178 N. C. 399, 100 S. E. 693.

Local Assessment Based on Benefits.—The constitutional provision that taxation shall be equal, uniform, and within certain limits, does not apply to local assessments imposed upon owners of property, who in respect to such ownership are to derive a special benefit in the local improvements for which the tax is expended. Cain v. Commissioners, 86 N. C. 8.

While assessments on lands abutting on streets improved are not required to be uniform with all other subjects of taxation, and in view of the particular benefits, such must be uniform as to all property owners within that class to meet the constitutional requirements. Gastonia v. Cloninger, 187 N. C. 765, 123 S. E. 76.

Charter Making Taxing District of Each Improved.—Where the charter of a city provides that each street or portion of a street improved shall be a taxing district, by requiring the total cost of improvement on each street or portion of street improved to be ascertained and one-third thereof assessed on the property abutting on each side of the street, according to the frontage of each lot, and also provides methods whereby each lot owner may contest the assessment, such charter is not in violation of this section, requiring a uniform rule of taxing an estate according to its value in money. Hillard v. Asheville, 118 N. C. 845, 24 S. E. 738.

Providing for Collection of Taxes for Past Years.—A law to provide for the collection of taxes for past years does not violate the provisions of this section in regard to uniformity of taxation. North Carolina R. Co. v. Commissioners, 82 N. C. 260.

When Lien Attaches.—The lien for the payment of taxes assessed against personal property attaches only from the date of levy thereon. Carstarphen v. Plymouth, 186 N. C. 90, 118 S. E. 905.

Enjoining Collection of Income Tax.—A bill of equity to restrain the assessment and collection of the income tax provided by this section, and the collection and enforcement of certain franchise or privilege taxes as unconstitutional, does not warrant interlocutory injunctions. Southern R. Co. v. Watts, 289 Fed. 301.

Interference by Courts.—This section of the Constitution vests exclusive authority in the Legislature to levy taxes, which may not be interfered with by the courts. Person v. Board, 184 N. C. 499, 115 S. E. 336.

Applied in Hilton v. Harris, 207 N. C. 465, 177 S. E. 411.

Sink, 198 N. C. 114, 150 S. E. 813; Hickory v. Catawba County, 206 N. C. 165, 173 S. E. 56; Saluda v. Polk County, 207 N. C. 180, 184, 176 S. E. 298.

§ 4. Restrictions upon the increase of the public debt except in certain contingencies.—Except for refunding of valid bonded debt, and except to supply a casual deficit, or for suppressing invasions or insurrections, the General Assembly shall have no power to contract any new debt or pecuniary obligation in behalf of the State to an amount exceeding in the aggregate, including the then existing debt recognized by the State, and deducting sinking funds then on hand, and the par value of the stock in the Carolina Railroad Company and the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad Company owned by the State, seven and one-half per cent of the assessed valuation of taxable property within the State as last fixed for taxation. And the General Assembly shall have no power to give or lend the credit of the State in aid of any person, association, or corporation, except to aid in the completion of such railroads as may be unfinished at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, or in which the State has a direct pecuniary interest, unless the subject be submitted to a direct vote of the people of the State, and be approved by a majority of those who shall vote thereon.

As to the purpose of this section, see dissenting opinion of C. J. Clark in Pennington v. Tarboro, 180 N. C. 438, 105 S. E. 199.

Proposed Amendment.—Public Laws 1935, ch. 248, s. 3, proposed an amendment to this section to be voted on at the next general election. This amendment would strike out all of this section down to and including the word "taxation" in line sixteen, and substitute in lieu thereof the following:

"Sec. 4. Limitations upon the increase of public debts. The General Assembly shall have the power to contract debts and to pledge the faith and credit of the State and to authorize counties and municipalities to contract debts and pledge their faith and credit for the following purposes:

"To fund or refund a valid existing debt;

"To borrow in anticipation of the collection of taxes due and payable within the fiscal year to an amount not exceeding fifty per centum of such taxes;

"To supply a casual deficit;

"To suppress riots or insurrections, or to repel invasions.

"For any purpose other than these enumerated, the General Assembly shall have no power, during any biennium, to contract new debts on behalf of the State to an amount in excess of two-thirds of the amount by which the State's outstanding indebtedness shall have been reduced during the next preceding biennium, unless the subject be submitted to a vote of the people of the State; and for any purpose other than these enumerated the General Assembly shall have no power to authorize counties or municipalities to contract debts, and counties and municipalities shall not contract debts, during any fiscal year, to an amount exceeding two-thirds of the amount by which the outstanding indebtedness of the particular county or municipality shall have been reduced during the next preceding fiscal year, unless the subject be submitted to a vote of the people of the particular county or municipality. In any election held in the State or in any county or municipality under the provisions of this section, the proposed indebtedness must be approved by a majority of those who shall vote thereon."

Issuing Bonds to Aid War Veterans.—A statute for the purpose of issuing bonds, passed by the Legislature and which has been approved by the vote of the people of the State at an election duly had for the purpose, providing for an issuance and sale of State bonds for the purpose of lending the proceeds on mortgage to a certain amount of the value of the land to the veterans of the World War to help them in providing homes for themselves, is the pledging of the credit of the State for a public purpose, and is a valid exercise of statutory authority. Hinton v. Lacy, 193 N. C. 496, 137 S. E. 669.

Section Does Not Apply to School System.—This section is an inhibition on giving or lending the credit of the State to third persons, individual or corporate, and of the kind contemplated in the provision; and cannot be construed to affect the mandatory provisions of Article IX as to the maintenance of a State-wide school system by legislative enactment. Lacy v. Fidelity Bank, 183 N. C. 373, 111 S. E. 612.

Vote of People Necessary to Aid New Railroad. — The General Assembly has no power to contract a debt, without a vote of the people, to aid in the construction of, or build a new railroad. University R. Co. v. Holden, 63 N. C. 410, 412.

Same—Issuing Bonds to Pay for Stock.—A subscription for stock in a corporation and issuing bonds to pay for such stock, is a gift of the credit of the State, within the meaning of this section. Galloway v. Jenkins, 63 N. C. 147.

When Counties May Subscribe to Railroad Stock. — This section could not be construed as limited in application to cases where railroads had been commenced and were unfinished at the time the constitution was adopted, and in which the counties, as such, had a direct pecuniary interest, but that it conferred power on counties to subscribe for stock, in the manner prescribed, in any railroad company which had been duly incorporated to build a projected road in which the citizens of the county, as a body, have a general interest because of the supposed benefits to be derived from it. Board v. Coler, 113 Fed. 705.

Test of Bonds Being at Par.—The test of bonds being at par is, whenever in the particular transaction the State receives in legal money the sum which she becomes liable to pay. Concurring opinion of J. Rodman in Galloway v. Jenkins, 63 N. C. 147.

National Park Act.—The statute establishing the North Carolina National Park Commission (Laws 1927, ch. 48) with the certain powers therein enumerated is for the benefit of the public of the State and not that of some third person, and does not fall within the provision of this section. Yarbrough v. Park Commission, 196 N. C. 284, 145 S. E. 563.

Cited in Northwestern North Carolina R. Co. v. Jenkins, 65 N. C. 173; Commissioners v. Snuggs, 121 N. C. 394, 402, 28 S. E. 539.

§ 5. Property exempt from taxation. — Property belonging to the State, or to municipal corporations, shall be exempt from taxation. The General Assembly may exempt cemeteries and property held for educational, scientific, literary, charitable, or religious purposes; also wearing apparel, arms for muster, household and kitchen furniture, the mechanical and agricultural implements of mechanics and farmers; libraries and scientific instruments, or any other personal property, to a value not exceeding three hundred dollars.

As to exemption from taxation generally, see 11 Enc. Dig. 580 et seq.; 15 Enc. Dig. 558 et seq. See also sections 7768 and 7901 of the Code and the notes thereto.

Proposed Amendment.—Public Laws 1935, ch. 444, s. 2, proposed an amendment to this section to be voted on at the next general election. This amendment would add at the end of this section the following: "The General Assembly may exempt from taxation not exceeding one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) in value of property held and used as the place of residence of the owner."

Property Exempted by Constitution.—Only one class of property is exempted from taxation by the Constitution itself, to-wit, "property belonging to the State or to municipal corporations." Charlotte Bldg., etc., Ass'n v. Commissioners, 115 N. C. 410, 413, 20 S. E. 526.

Statutes Exempting Specific Property Are Construed Strictly.—Statutes enacted by the General Assembly exempting specific property from taxation, because of the purposes for which such property is held and used, are and should be construed strictly, when there is room for construction, against exemption and in favor of taxation. Salisbury Hospital v. Rowan County, 205 N. C. 8, 11, 169 S. E. 805.

Same—Corporation Composed of Stockholder Not a Municipal Corporation.—A municipal corporation is one designed to create within a prescribed territory a local government of the people therein, as a part of that exercised by the State, with certain and defined restrictions and this section, exempting municipal corporations from taxation, does not include within its meaning or intent a corporation composed of shareholders which in its form and controlling features is a business enterprise upon which municipal powers have been incidentally conferred in promotion of its primary purpose. Southern Assembly v. Palmer, 116 N. C. 75, 82 S. E. 18.

Same—Drainage Districts Are Not Municipal Corporations.—Drainage districts are not regarded as municipal corporation in purview of this section and a legislative act exempting their bonds from taxation violates the uniform rule as to taxation required by section 3 of this article. Drainage Comm. v. Webb & Co., 160 N. C. 594, 76 S. E. 552.

Same—Local Assessment for Paving Street.—Local assessments against lands along the streets of a city for paving and improving the streets do not fall within the intent and meaning of this section. Tarboro v. Forbes, 185 N. C. 59, 116 S. E. 81.

Interest of State in Business Enterprises Not Included.—The provision contained in this section exempting property belonging to the State from taxation, does not embrace the interest of the State in business enterprises, such as railroads and the like, but applies to the property of the State held for State purposes. Atlantic R. Co. v. Board, 75 N. C. 474.

Section Permissive.—Under this section the Legislature may exercise, to the full extent or in part, the power to exempt from taxation property held for educational, scientific, literary, charitable or religious purposes, or may decline to exempt at all. The constitutional provision being in the disjunctive, the Legislature can exempt the property up to a certain value and tax all above it, and may also tax property held for one of the purposes named and exempt that held for others. United Brethren v. Commissioners, 115 N. C. 489, 20 S. E. 626. See also Salisbury Hospital v. Rowan County, 205 N. C. 8, 169 S. E. 805.

It Is Self-Executing.—The provisions of this section that property belonging to or owned by the State or municipal corporations, shall be exempt from taxation, is self-executing and requires no legislation to make it effective. Salisbury Hospital v. Rowan County, 205 N. C. 8, 10, 169 S. E. 805.

When Exemption Attaches.—The quality of exemption attaches to property, as soon as it is lawfully acquired and remains with such property so long as it is owned by the municipal corporation, without regard to the purpose for which it was acquired or was held. Andrews v. Clay County, 200 N. C. 280, 283, 156 S. E. 855.

Use to Which Property Is Devoted.—Under this section it is the use to which the property is devoted and to the extent of the interest so dedicated which should control, rather than the title or other tenure by which it is held, and its provisions are broad and comprehensive enough to uphold the legislative exemption as to all property used exclusively for educational purposes. Corporation Comm. v. Oxford Seminary Constr. Co., 160 N. C. 582, 76 S. E. 640.

Lands in Hands of Trustee.—Where in construing a devise of various property in a city the courts have decreed that the lands be sold within a period of five years and fifty-five per cent of the proceeds distributed among several beneficiaries of the class exempted by this section, the property itself is not held by the beneficiaries designated, but by the trustee in trust for the purpose of sale and distribution of part of the proceeds of the sale to them, and the exemption does not apply except to the proceeds of the sale when received by the beneficiaries in accordance with the decree, and the lands in the hands of the trustee are subject to taxation under Art. V, § 3. Latta v. Jenkins, 200 N. C. 255, 156 S. E. 857.

Weight of Fact that Institution Has Not Been Paying.—The fact that an educational incorporation had gone for a long period of time without paying taxes unchallenged by both the legislative and executive department of the Government is deserving of great weight by the court in construing this section. Corporation Comm. v. Oxford Seminary Constr. Co., 160 N. C. 582, 76 S. E. 640.

No Distinction Between Public and Private Institutions.—The provisions of this section make no distinction between public and private educational corporations, or between institutions which are in part conducted for the personal profit of the owner and those which are run on a salary basis, using any profits which may arise in the extension of the work. Corporation Comm. v. Oxford Seminary Constr. Co., 160 N. C. 582, 76 S. E. 640.

C. 56, 76 S. E. 687. Concurring opinion of C. J. Clark in Wagstaff v. Central Highway Comm., 177 N. C. 354, 358, 99 S. E. 1.

§ 6. Taxes levied for counties. — The total of the State and county tax on property shall not exceed fifteen cents on the one hundred dollars value of property, except when the county property tax is levied for a special purpose and with the special approval of the General Assembly, which may be done by special or general act: Provided, this limitation shall not apply to taxes levied for the maintenance of the public schools of the State for the term required by article nine, section three, of the Constitution: Provided, further, the State tax shall not exceed five cents on the one hundred dollars value of property.

General or Special Act Suffices.—The legislative authority necessary to the validity of an assessment of taxes by a county for a special purpose in excess of the constitutional limit for general county purposes may be conferred by special or general act. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Lenoir County, 200 N. C. 494, 157 S. E. 610.

County Tax for Necessary Expenses.—Within the limitations of this section the county commissioners of the respective counties may levy a tax for necessary expenses without a vote of the people or special legislative authority. Glenn v. Board of County Com'r, 201 N. C. 233, 159 S. E. 439.

Supremacy of Legislative Power.—The constitutional power conferred on the Legislature to authorize counties to levy a special tax upon the property and poll for special county purposes is essential to the existence of the State, and in the exercise of this power the Legislature is supreme. Moose v. Board, 172 N. C. 419, 90 S. E. 441.

When Vote and Legislative Authority Necessary.—Cities and towns may levy a tax for necessary expenses up to the constitutional limitation without a vote of the people and without legislative permission; for necessary expenses they may exceed the constitutional limitation by legislative authority, without the approval of the voters: but for purposes other than necessary, a tax cannot be levied either within or in excess of the constitutional limitation except with the approval of the voters under special legislative authority. Henderson v. Wilmington, 191 N. C. 269, 132 S. E. 25.

Levy Beyond Limitation Void.—A levy beyond the limitation is void. County Board v. Commissioners, 107 N. C. 110, 12 S. E. 190.

Levy Partly for Special and Partly for General Purposes.—Where a statute authorizing the levy of a tax beyond the constitutional limit for a special purpose is infra vires, the taxes collected beyond the requirements of the special purposes may be turned into the general fund and used for general purposes, but where the act authorizes the levy partly for a "special purpose" and partly for general purposes it is ultra vires and no part of the levy can be collected. Williams v. Commissioners, 119 N. C. 520, 26 S. E. 150.

Where Act Severable, Valid Part Effective.—An act that attempts to authorize a county to supplement to any extent its fund for general county expenses by special tax beyond the limitations by this section of the Constitution, is to that extent unconstitutional and void; but where the valid portion of the act is distinctly severable from the invalid part, and may alone be enforced by the methods prescribed, without being affected by the invalid part, the entire statute will not be declared invalid by the courts. Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Reid, 187 N. C. 320, 121 S. E. 534.

Giving County Commissioners Authority to Issue Bonds.—The authority conferred upon the board of county commissioners to build its road and bridges in any way that may seem practicable, and issue bonds not to exceed the actual cost, and to levy sufficient tax on real and personal property to pay interest, and create a sinking fund, is not necessarily inconsistent with this section excepting from the limitation of 15 cents on the $100 valuation of property a levy on county property for "a special purpose, and with the approval of the General Assembly, which may be done by special or general act." Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. McArtan, 185 N. C. 201, 116 S. E. 731.

Special Approval for Necessary Expenditures.—This section, of the State Constitution, authorizes the Legislature to give special approval of taxation by a county for necessary expenditures by either a special or general statute. Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Reid, 187 N. C. 320, 121 S. E. 534. As to necessary expenses see note to Art. VII, sec. 7.

Tax for Road Purposes.—Authority may be given by the Legislature to a county to levy a special tax for road purposes upon the approval of its electors lawfully ascertained, to exceed the general tax limitation, by special or general acts. State v. Kelly, 186 N. C. 365, 119 S. E. 755.

An act authorizing counties to issue bonds for the purpose of laying out and operating, altering and improving the public roads of the county, etc., is for a special purpose within the intent and meaning of this section. Parvin v. Board, 177 N. C. 508, 99 S. E. 432.

Details Unnecessary.—An act giving the special approval of the Legislature to county taxation for special purposes need not specify the sum to be raised by such taxation, nor a limit beyond which it cannot be carried; details are not proper in such statutes—these should be left to the commissioners. Brodnax v. Groom, 64 N. C. 244.

A tax levied by the county commissioners for the aged and infirm, to pay jurors, for feeding and caring for the county prisoners are expenses to be paid from the general county fund as current expenses, and fall within the limitations of this section. Southern Ry. Co. v. Cherokee County, 195 N. C. 756, 143 S. E. 467.

Statutory Validation of Excessive Levy.—Where a county has levied a tax for general purposes in excess of that permitted by our Constitution, Art. V, sec. 6, which a property owner has paid under protest, and has reserved his right under the provisions of § 7979, it may not be validated by an act passed after the assessment had been passed upon or levied under the former statute. Southern Ry. Co. v. Cherokee County, 195 N. C. 756, 781, 143 S. E. 467.

Correction of Minutes of Levy.—The board of commissioners of a county may correct the minutes of a levy of taxes formerly made by it to show separately the items relating to current county expenses and the items of levy for unauthorized special purposes when no change in the former levies are thereby made. Southern Ry. Co. v. Cherokee County, 195 N. C. 756, 143 S. E. 467.

Public-Local Laws 1927, ch. 201, applicable to Cherokee County, cannot validate a void levy. R. R. v. Cherokee, 194 N. C., 781. It may be that the General Assembly could pass a special act or general law allowing a levy for special purposes of this kind in emergency cases. Southern Ry. Co. v. Cherokee County, 195 N. C. 756, 759, 143 S. E. 467.

Bonds Issued to Refund Other Bonds.—Where the municipal finance act does not apply to refunding certain bonds of a county, issued prior to its operating effect, and the bonds become due and payable, and there is no provision made for their payment, the act of the board of county commissioners in paying them out of the general county fund as a temporary arrangement, using the bonds as collateral to secure the repayment by refunding bonds to be authorized by the Legislature: Held, the bonds later authorized by the Legislature and issued by the county to refund the indebtedness to the general county fund are for a special purpose and do not fall within the general limitation of fifteen cents on the one hundred dollars valuation prescribed by the Constitution. Barbour v. Wake County, 197 N. C. 314, 148 S. E. 470.

A county has authority to issue funding and refunding bonds with the approval of the local government commission to take up valid, outstanding indebtednesses of the county which were incurred for necessary county expenses. Brooks v. Avery County, 206 N. C. 840, 175 S. E. 199.

C. 578, 579, 16 S. E. 621; Herring v. Dixon. 122 N. C. 420, 423, 29 S. E. 368; Jones v. Commissioners, 135 N. C. 218, 224, 47 S. E. 753; Board v. Commissioners, 137 N. C. 310, 311, 49 S. E. 353; Director-General v. Commissioners, 178 N. C. 449, 101 S. E. 91; Board v. Assell, 194 N. C. 412, 140 S. E. 34; Moore v. Caldwell County, 207 N. C. 311, 176 S. E. 580.

§ 7. Acts levying taxes shall state objects, etc.—Every act of the General Assembly levying a tax shall state the special object to which it is to be applied, and it shall be applied to no other purpose.

Section Does Not Apply to Counties or Towns.—The provisions of this section does not extend to taxes levied by counties or incorporated cities or towns for general municipal purposes. Cabe v. Board, 185 N. C. 158, 116 S. E. 419.

This section has not application to taxes levied by the county authorities for county purposes. Parker v. Board, 104 N. C. 166, 10 S. E. 137.

Act Providing for Levy to Pay County Bonds.—Where an act authorizes the levy and collection of a special tax for the payment of certain county bonds; and a later act directed that the special tax collected under the first act should be turned into the general county fund, the first act is in conflict with this section which provides that every act of the General Assembly levying a tax shall state the special object to which it is to be applied. McCless v. Meekins, 117 N. C. 34, 35, 23 S. E. 99.

Statute Authorizing County to Impose Tax.—Where the statute authorizes a county to impose a tax for necessary expenses, it is a delegation of the power to be exercised by the county as an agency for the State for the convenience of local administration, and the statute is not void in failing to state the special object to which it is to be applied, nor is the tax itself invalid if this constitutonal requirement has been observed by the county authority in the imposition of the special tax. Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Reid, 187 N. C. 320, 121 S. E. 534.

ARTICLE VI

Suffrage and Eligibility to Office

§ 1. Who may Vote.—Every male person born in the United States, and every male person who has been naturalized, twenty-one years of age, and possessing the qualifications set out in this article, shall be entitled to vote at any election by the people in the State, except as herein otherwise provided.

Cross References.—See annotations under section 2. As to elections generally, see 5 Enc. Dig. 76 et seq., 13 Enc. Dig. 823 et seq. For statutory provisions regarding elections and the qualifications of voters therein, see section 5913 et seq.

§ 2. Qualifications of voters.—He shall reside in the State of North Carolina for one year, and in the precinct, ward, or other election district in which he offers to vote four months next preceding the election: Provided, that removal from one precinct, ward or other election district to another in the same county shall not operate to deprive any person of the right to vote in the precinct, ward or other election district from which he has removed until four months after such removal. No person who has been convicted, or who has confessed his guilt in open court upon indictment, of any crime the punishment of which now is, or may hereafter be, imprisonment in the State's Prison, shall be permitted to vote, unless the said person shall be first restored to citizenship in the manner prescribed by law.

Editor's Note. — Suffrage is not a natural or inherent right. It is a privilege conferred by the State and it may be taken away by the State at any time. This section excludes females from the exercise of suffrage and the exclusion has been upheld as valid in many decisions. See State v. Knight, 169 N. C. 333, 85 S. E. 418.

However, the nineteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution, passed in 1920, and since then the supreme law of the land, invalidating so much of this section as excluded females from voting and extended the franchise to both sexes equally.

Qualifications Same for Municipal Election.—The qualification of voters in a municipal election is the same as in a general one. State v. Carter, 194 N. C. 293.

Cities and towns, like counties and townships, are parts and parcels of the State, organized for the convenience of local self-government; and the qualifications of voters are the same, to-wit, citizenship, twenty-one years of age, twelve months (now two years) residence in the State and thirty days (now four months) in the city or town. People v. Canaday, 73 N. C. 198.

A provision in the charter of a municipality limiting the right of suffrage in municipal elections to owners of real property within the town is unconstitutional. Smith v. Carolina Beach, 206 N. C. 834, 175 S. E. 313.

"Residence" Defined.—Residence, as used in this section defining political rights, is synonymous with domicile, denoting a permanent dwelling place, to which the party, when absent, intends to return. State v. Grizzard, 89 N. C. 115.

A person, in order to become a qualified elector in this State, must have come into the State a year (now two years) before the election, or have been domiciled within it for twelve months after forming the purpose to remain, and the same intent must be concurrent with the actual occupation of a domicile in the county in order to entitle him to the rights of an elector within its limits. Boyer v. Teague, 106 N. C. 576, 11 S. E. 665.

In order to acquire a residence for the purpose of exercising the right to vote in a given locality, the "residence" must be of a permanent, and not of a temporary character, corresponding with the word domicile. State v. Carter, 195 N. C. 697, 143 S. E. 513.

Protracted Residence Abroad. — A protracted residence abroad of one engaged in business and with no home in this state, is not consistent with the idea of a residence here. State v. Grizzard, 89 N. C. 115.

Conviction of Crime.—In a contested election case, a conviction of an offense under a local law prescribing punishment in the State's Prison, renders void the vote of the one so convicted, whether the indictment charged or failed to charge that the alleged offense was "feloniously" committed. State v. Jackson, 183 N. C. 695, 110 S. E. 593.

Vote of Escaped Prisoner.—If a person in jail for misdemeanor (not infamous), and sentenced to imprisonment, escapes, and, before he is recaptured, his term or sentence expires, and he votes in his own precinct, in which he resided before he was sentenced, such vote is valid if the voter be otherwise qualified; but, if the voter is a fugitive from justice, and hiding from one part of the county to another, and voted in the precinct he happened to be in, and not in the precinct of his residence when sentenced, such vote is illegal. Boyer v. Teague, 106 N. C. 576, 11 S. E. 665.

Where Voter Resides Near Precinct Line.—When a voter resides on or so near the precinct line, or the line be so uncertain that it is doubtful in which precinct the voter lives, and the voter, honestly and in good faith, bona fide, registers and voters in the precinct he, in good faith, alleges and believes he lives in, and has good reason to believe he is correct, and registers and votes in no other precinct, such vote is legal. Boyer v. Teague, 106 N. C. 576, 11 S. E. 665.

Mere Failure to Administer Oath.—The mere failure of the registrars to administer the oath to the electors, and allowing them to vote where not challenged, will not affect the result of the election held for the establishment of a special road district under valid legislative authority, when the electors so voting are qualified. Woodall v. Highway Commission, 176 N. C. 377, 97 S. E. 226.

Oath Does Not Embrace all Qualifications.—The oath prescribed for electors by section 5940 of the Code, omits some of the essential requisites to voting contained in the Constitution, and is confined to those indispensable qualifications set out in this section. The oath does not extend to disqualification incident upon conviction for crime. State v. Houston, 103 N. C. 383, 9 S. E. 699.

Same—Increasing Length of Residence.—The General Assembly cannot in any way change the qualifications of voters in State, county, township, city or town elections; an act which requires a longer residence in the county than this section requires, is unconstitutional. People v. Canaday, 73 N. C. 198.

Provision That Commissioners Come from Different Parties.—A provision in a statute that township highway commissioners shall be selected for their fitness, and not for political faith, and to remove the position from partisan politics, one each of the two members to be elected shall, "so far as feasible and practicable, come from each of the two leading political parties of the township," is too indefinite and uncertain to affix a qualification to the position, being recommendatory only to the voters, whose action is not reviewable by the courts. State v. Sanders, 174 N. C. 112, 93 S. E. 476.

Cited in Quinn v. Lattimore, 120 N. C. 426, 26 S. E. 638; State v. Windley, 178 N. C. 670, 673, 100 S. E. 116.

§ 3. Voters to be registered.—Every person so offering to vote shall be at the time a legally registered voter as herein prescribed, and in the manner hereafter provided by law, and the General Assembly of North Carolina shall enact general registration laws to carry into effect the provisions of this article.

As to registration of voters generally, see 5 Enc. Dig. 82 et seq.; 15 Enc. Dig. 827 et seq. For statutory provision as to registration, see section 5939 of the code et seq.

Power of General Assembly.—While the General Assembly cannot add to the qualifications prescribed by the Constitution for voters, it has the power, and, it is the duty, to enact such registration laws as will protect the rights of duly qualified voters, and no person is entitled to vote until he has complied with the requirements of those laws. State v. Scarborough, 110 N. C. 232, 14 S. E. 737.

Act Requiring New Registration.—An act authorizing a bond issue by a county is not objectionable as violating this section, upon the ground that it empowered the county commissioners to order a new registration. Cox v. Commissioners, 146 N. C. 584, 60 S. E. 516.

§ 4. Qualification for registration.—Every person presenting himself for registration shall be able to read and write any section of the Constitution in the English language. But no male person who was, on January 1, 1867, or at any time prior thereto, entitled to vote under the laws of any State in the United States wherein he then resided, and no lineal descendant of any such person, shall be denied the right to register and vote at any election in this State by reason of his failure to possess the educational qualifications herein prescribed: Provided, he shall have registered in accordance with the terms of this section prior to December 1, 1908. The General Assembly shall provide for the registration of all persons entitled to vote without the educational qualifications herein prescribed, and shall, on or before November 1, 1908, provide for the making of a permanent record of such registration, and all persons so registered shall forever thereafter have the right to vote in all elections by the people in this State, unless disqualified under section two of this article.

Registration Essential.—Registration is essential to the exercise by a citizen, possessed of the other legal qualifications, of his right to vote, and, when duly made, is prima facie evidence of the right. State v. Waldrop, 104 N. C. 453, 10 S. E. 694.

Same—Act of Public Officer.—The registration of an elector, who is qualified to vote, must be accepted as the act of a public officer, and entitles the elector to cast his vote. State v. Nicholson, 102 N. C. 465, 9 S. E. 545.

What Registrars May Ask.—Registrars may ask the elector his age and residence, the township or county from whence he removed, in case of such removal since the last election, and whether he has resided in the State two years, and in the county in which he proposes to vote four months, preceding the election. If, in reply to such questions, the elector answers that he is twenty-one years old, and has resided in the State two years and in the county four months preceding the election, it is the duty of the registrars, upon his taking the prescribed oath, to record his name as a voter; but bystanders may require him to be sworn as to his residence. In re Reid, 119 N. C. 641, 26 S. E. 337.

As to the oath, see State v. Nicholson, 102 N. C. 465, 9 S. E. 545.

Permanent Roll Does Not Dispense with Further Registration.—The fact that a voter is registered on the permanent roll as provided by the Constitution does not dispense with the necessity of his registering anew in order to become a qualified voter, whenever required by the statutes regulating the registration of voters. Clark v. Statesville, 139 N. C. 490, 52 S. E. 52.

Purpose of Permanent Roll.—The making of a permanent roll of record was intended to be done for the sole purpose of furnishing convenient and easily available evidence of the fact that those whose names appear thereon are not required to have the educational qualification. Clark v. Statesville, 139 N. C. 490, 52 S. E. 52.

Registration Book Lost.—Where the registration book of an election precinct had been lost, and could not be replaced, but the registrar procured a new book, in which he entered the names of such persons as he knew had theretofore been registered, and also the names of those who applied for registration subsequently and it appeared that, at the election following, no one voted whose name did not appear on the registration book, that no one voted who was not entitled to vote, and no one who was entitled to vote was excluded the election was valid. State v. Waldrop, 104 N. C. 453, 10 S. E. 694.

When No Registration at All.—Where there has been no registration at all, the votes cast cannot be counted by proving that none but duly qualified electors voted; possibly this principle might be relaxed where a fraudulent conspiracy to deprive the voters of the right of suffrage is shown; and it does not apply where the Legislature has failed to provide means for registration. State v. Scarborough, 110 N. C. 232, 14 S. E. 737.

When Prevented from Registering by Registrars.—Where a voter offers to comply with the laws in reference to registration, but is prevented by the wrongful conduct of the registrar, his vote should be received and counted, but a vote cast upon an invalid registration should be rejected. State v. Scarborough, 110 N. C. 232, 14 S. E. 737.

Necessity of Having Paid Taxes.—Where the validity of a special tax depends upon whether certain persons who had voted had paid their taxes for the previous year according to the requirements of this section the constitutional requirements must be met in order that they may exercise the privilege of voting, though they are permitted to wait until May 1st to pay them, if they so choose. Ingram v. Johnson, 172 N. C. 676, 90 S. E. 805.

Same—Taxes Required.—This section depriving a citizen of the right to vote unless he has paid his tax for the previous year, refers to the poll tax prescribed by Article V, sec. 1, to-wit, that for State and county purposes, and it can never exceed $2. This right of suffrage is therefore in no way affected by any increase of taxation imposed on these special-tax districts. Perry v. Commissioners, 148 N. C. 521, 62 S. E. 608.

Cited in State v. Grizzard, 89 N. C. 115, 119; Pace v. Raleigh, 140 N. C. 65, 67, 52 S. E. 277.

§ 5. Indivisible plan; legislative intent.—That this amendment to the Constitution is presented and adopted as one indivisible plan for the regulation of the suffrage, with the intent and purpose to so connect the different parts, and to make them so dependent upon each other, that the whole shall stand or fall together.

§ 6. Elections by people and General Assembly.—All elections by the people shall be by ballot, and all elections by the General Assembly shall be viva voce.

How Elector May Vote.—The provisions of this section give the elector the choice to deposit his own ballot secretly, or to declare his choice openly when depositing it, or to have the registrar, or one of the judges of election, deposit it for him. Jenkins v. State Board, 180 N. C. 169, 104 S. E. 346.

Secret Ballot.—The provisions of this section imply that in elections by the people the ballot shall be a secret one. Withers v. Commissioners of Harnett, 196 N. C. 535, 146 S. E. 225.

It is not necessary to show undue influence or intimidation for the courts to declare an election void when the votes have been deprived of their right to a secret ballot. Withers v. Commissioners of Harnett, 196 N. C. 535, 146 S. E. 225.

A voter at an election does not waive his constitutional right to a secret ballot by not protesting, unless he has been made aware of his rights under the facts and circumstances of the balloting. Withers v. Commissioners of Harnett, 196 N. C. 535, 146 S. E. 225.

§ 7. Eligibility to office; official oath.—Every voter in North Carolina, except as in this article disqualified, shall be eligible to office, but before entering upon the duties of the office he shall take and subscribe the following oath:

"I, ..., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support and maintain the Constitution and laws of the United States, and the Constitution and laws of North Carolina not inconsistent therewith, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of my office as ....., so help me, God."

As to officers generally, see 9 Enc. Dig. 774 et seq.; 15 Enc. Dig. 112 et seq.

Legislature Cannot Increase Qualifications.—This section provides "every voter in North Carolina, except in this article disqualified, shall be eligible to office," and the Legislature cannot add to the constitutional disqualifications to hold office by requiring candidates for the position of recorder in a municipal court to be "a licensed attorney at law." State v. Bateman, 162 N. C. 588, 77 S. E. 768.

Woman as Public Officers.—A woman is qualified to act as a notary public since the adoption of the 19th amendment to the Constitution of the United States, and also to pass upon the proper probate of a deed to lands, and make a valid certificate for its registration, when thereto deputized by the clerk of the superior court under the provisions of our statute. Preston v. Roberts, 183 N. C. 62, 110 S. E. 586. For the former rule, see State v. Knight, 169 N. C. 333, 85 S. E. 418.

§ 8. Disqualification for office.—The following classes of persons shall be disqualified for office: First, all persons who shall deny the being of Almighty God. Second, all persons who shall have been convicted or confessed their guilt on indictment pending, and whether sentenced or not, or under judgment suspended, of any treason or felony, or of any other crime for which the punishment may be imprisoned in the penitentiary, since becoming citizens of the United States, or of corruption or malpractice in office, unless such person shall be restored to the rights of citizenship in a manner prescribed by law.

Disqualification Not Part of Judgment.—The disqualification for office and the loss of the right of suffrage imposed by this section upon persons convicted of infamous offenses constitute no part of the judgment of the court, but are mere consequences of such judgment. State v. Jones, 82 N. C. 685.

Removal of Prosecuting Attorney.—A prosecuting attorney is removable from office as a matter of law or legal inference upon findings of his willful misconduct or maladministration in office, supported by evidence. State v. Hamme, 180 N. C. 684, 104 S. E. 174.

Same—Appeal.—An appeal from the judgment of the superior court judge that a prosecuting attorney be removed for "willful misconduct or maladministration in office," etc., is upon questions of law and legal inference, if justified by the findings of facts supported by evidence. State v. Hamme, 180 N. C. 684, 104 S. E. 174.

Cited in dissenting opinion of C. J. Clark in Bank v. Redwine, 171 N. C. 559, 572, 88 S. E. 878; State v. Windley, 178 N. C. 670, 673, 100 S. E. 116.

§ 9. When this chapter operative.—That this amendment to the Constitution shall go into effect on the first day of July, nineteen hundred and two, if a majority of votes cast at the next general election shall be cast in favor of this suffrage amendment.

ARTICLE VII

Municipal Corporations

§ 1. County officers.—In each county there shall be elected biennially by the qualified voters thereof, as provided for the election of members of the General Assembly, the following officers: A treasurer, register of deeds, surveyor, and five commissioners.

§ 2. Duty of county commissioners.—It shall be the duty of the commissioners to exercise a general supervision and control of the penal and charitable institutions, schools, roads, bridges, levying of taxes, and finances of the county, as may be prescribed by law. The register of deeds shall be ex officio clerk of the board of commissioners.

As to the powers and duties of county commissioners generally, see 3 Enc. Dig. 784 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 522 et seq. See, also, section 1290 et seq. of the code and notes thereto.

Authority to Borrow from General County Fund.—The board of county commissioners, having the supervision and control of roads, bridges, and the levying of taxes and the finances of the county, have the authority by proper resolution to borrow from the general county fund moneys with which to pay maturing bonds of the county when due, being necessary to preserve the credit of the county, and to issue refunding bonds for the purpose of repaying this loan under a valid statute providing therefor and declaring itself to be a special statute validating and legalizing the transaction. Barbour v. Wake County, 197 N. C. 314, 315, 148 S. E. 470.

How School Fund Disbursed.—This section gives the "supervision of schools" to the county commissioners; they levy the school tax, and in their treasury is kept the school fund, and their treasurer disburses the fund, upon the order of the school committee. Lane v. Stanly, 65 N. C. 153, 156. See notes to § 1297, par. 2.

When Commissioners Fail to Qualify.—If from any cause the newly elected commissioners of a county fail to qualify at the time prescribed by law, the old board, as de facto officers, have the power to qualify a county treasurer-elect and induct him into office; or upon his default in filing the required bond, they have the power to declare a vacancy and fill the same by appointment. State v. Jones, 80 N. C. 127.

General Assembly May Authorize Ferry.—This section does not deprive the general assembly of the power to pass an act authorizing the establishment of a public ferry at a certain point. In re Spease Ferry, 138 N. C. 219, 50 S. E. 625.

As to the power of General Assembly to abrogate the provisions of the section, see section 14 of the article and annotations thereunder.

E. 25; Day v. Commissioners, 191 N. C. 780, 133 S. E. 164.

§ 3. Counties to be divided into districts.—It shall be the duty of the commissioners first elected in each county to divide the same into convenient districts, to determine the boundaries and prescribe the name of the said districts, and to report the same to the General Assembly before the first day of January, 1869.

Alteration of Township after First Division.—The creation or alteration of townships in the several counties of the State, after the first division by the county commissioners under this section is left with the Legislature. Grady v. County Comm'rs, 74 N. C. 101. See § 1297, par. 2 and notes thereto.

§ 4. Townships have corporate powers.—Upon the approval of the reports provided for in the foregoing section of the General Assembly, the said districts shall have corporate powers for the necessary purposes of local government, and shall be known as townships.

Township Powers Must Be Conferred.—Townships are corporate bodies and have no corporate powers when not specially conferred by statute. Wittkowsky v. Board, 150 N. C. 90, 63 S. E. 275. See notes to section 1297 par. 33.

Township Trustees Not a Municipal Corporation. — The board of township trustees has no existence as a municipal corporation, and hence it cannot be a party to a suit. Wallace v. Board, 84 N. C. 164.

Townships Not Given Power of Taxation.—This section does not give townships the power of taxation for school purposes either through their trustees or committees. Lane v. Stanly, 65 N. C. 153. See section 2677 and notes thereto.

Cited in Mann v. Allen, 171 N. C. 219, 88 S. E. 235; Road Comm. v. Commissioners, 178 N. C. 61, 64, 100 S. E. 122.

§ 5. Officers of townships.—In each township there shall be biennially elected, by the qualified voters thereof, a clerk and two justices of the peace, who shall constitute a board of trustees, and shall, under the supervisions of the county commissioners, have control of the taxes and finances, roads and bridges of the townships, as may be prescribed by law. The General Assembly may provide for the election of a larger number of justices of the peace in cities and towns, and in those townships in which cities and towns are situated. In every township there shall also be biennially elected a school committee, consisting of three persons, whose duty shall be prescribed by law.

Cross References.—As to the election, powers and duties of the clerk generally see section 925 et seq., of the code. As to the justices see section 1462 et seq. As to the school committee see section 5457 et seq.

Justice Elected.—This section requires that justices of the peace shall be elected by townships. Edenton v. Wool, 65 N. C. 379.

Same—Power Cannot Be Conferred.—An attempt to confer the power of a justice of the peace on the Judge of a Special Court cannot avail, for this section requires justices of the peace to be elected by the several townships, and the Legislature cannot change the mode of their appointment. Wilmington v. Davis, 63 N. C. 582.

All Justices Members of Board of Trustees.—Where an act of the General Assemby authorized the election, in townships containing cities and towns, of a larger number of justices than two, all such justices are members of the Township Board of Trustees. Conoley v. Harris, 64 N. C. 662.

Trustees without Authority to Build Bridges.—Township trustees have no authority to contract for building bridges; when such a contract is entered into without the sanction and supervision of the County Commissioners, it is a nullity. Paine v. Caldwell, 65 N. C. 488.

Legislature May Create Highway Commission.—The Legislature has the constitutional authority to create a highway commission for a county, and give it control over its bridges and highways, their maintenance and supervision, etc., or subdivide this agency into several parts over defined territory. Ellis v. Greene, 191 N. C. 761, 133 S. E. 395.

v. Commissioners, 85 N. C. 278, 282; Road Comm. v. Commissioners, 178 N. C. 61, 64, 100 S. E. 122.

§ 6. Trustees shall assess property.—The township board of trustees shall assess the taxable property of their townships and make return to the county commissioners for revision, as may be prescribed by law. The clerk shall be, ex-officio, treasurer of the township.

As to taxation generally see section 7767 et seq., of the code.

Assessment by Mayor and Commissioners.—An assessment of the property subject to taxation by a muncipal corporation, made by the mayor and commissioners of such corporation, is void. Such assessment, under the provision of the Constitution, must be made by the township board of trustees. Cobb v. Corporation, 75 N. C. 1.

When Appeal Lies From Commissioners Decision.—The County Commissioners have exclusive original jurisdiction to grant relief against excessive valuation of property for taxation; and from their decision, upon a petition for that purpose, there is no appeal, unless it appears from the facts found by them as to the valuation of property, that they have proceeded upon some erroneous principle; for the reason that the statute give no appeal. Wade v. Commissioners, 74 N. C. 81.

Legislative Power when Section Abrogated.—The general assembly, during the abrogation of this section could constitute other agencies to perform the duties herein imposed upon the township board of trustees. North Carolina R. Co. v. Commissioners, 82 N. C. 260.

§ 7. No debt or loan except by a majority of voters.—No county, city, town, or other municipal corporation shall contract any debt, pledge its faith or loan its credit, nor shall any tax be levied or collected by any officers of the same except for the necessary expenses thereof, unless by a vote of the majority of the qualified voters therein.

I. EDITOR'S NOTE.

Municipal corporations may levy a tax for necessary expenses to the constitutional limitation without a vote of the people and without legislative permission; for necessary expenses they may exceed the constitutional limitation by legislative authority, without the approval of the voters; but for purposes other than necessary, a tax cannot be levied either within or in excess of the constitutional limitation except with the approval of the voters under special legislative authority. The constitutionality of a legislative act exceeding the constitutional limitation depends upon whether or not the bill passed each branch of the legislature on three separate days. with the "aye" not "no" vote both entered on the journals of the second and third readings. See Henderson v. Wilmington, 191 N. C. 269, 132 S. E. 25.

II. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Intent of Section.—This section was intended to present another check to the imprudence of county and municipal officers. Paine v. Caldwell, 65 N. C. 488, 491.

This section is an absolute prohibition. It is cumulative and adds another restraint to section 7 of article V. Brodnax v. Groom, 64 N. C. 244.

Cannot Be Evaded by Legislature.—This section prohibits any county, city, town or other municipal corporation, from contracting any debt, etc., without the affirmative consent of a majority of the people of the county who are qualified to vote and a Legislative Act which attempts to evade the restriction which this section puts on counties, etc., to contract debts, is unconstitutional and void. Chester, etc., R. Co. v. Commissioners, 72 N. C. 486.

No Vested Right by Former Construction of Section.—A public service corporation, which was granted a franchise and entered into a contract with a city when, under this section as then construed, the city was without power to construct competing works, but which constitutional provision was subsequently construed to grant such power, held to have no standing, after its franchise and contract had expired by limitation, to invoke the rule that one acquiring rights under one construction of the state law may not be deprived of them by a subsequent different construction. Hill v. Elizabeth City, 298 Fed. 67.

School Districts as Municipal Corporation.—School districts are public quasi-corporations, included in the term municipal corporations as used in this section. Smith v. School Trustees, 141 N. C. 143, 53 S. E. 524. See post, this note, "School Taxation," III, B.

A legally qualified board of trustees of the graded schools of a town is a municipal corporation within the meaning and purport of this section. Hollowell v. Borden, 148 N. C. 255, 61 S. E. 638.

Majority of Qualified Voters Necessary.—An issue of county bonds is invalid, though a majority of those voting thereon have expressed themselves by ballot in their favor, if such majority be not also that of the qualified voters of the county. Sprague v. Board, 165 N. C. 603, 81 S. E. 915; Long v. Commissioners, 181 N. C. 146, 106 S. E. 481.

Same—Act Need Not State Necessity of Majority Vote.—An issue of bonds for a school district will not be declared invalid because the special act under which they were approved by the voters did not expressly require for their validity that a majority of the qualified voters of the district must vote in their favor, when it appears that such majority, as ascertained from a valid registry, was cast in favor of the issue. Hammond v. McRae, 182 N. C. 747, 110 S. E. 102.

General Districts Debts Voted for in One Ballot Box.—An issue of municipal bonds, when approved by the majority of the qualified voters, under the authority of a statute passed according to the constitutional requirements, is not invalid because there were several distinct debts provided and voted for in one ballot box. This section does not require that the vote upon each distinct proposition must be in a separate ballot box. Smith v. Bellhaven, 150 N. C. 156, 63 S. E. 610.

But a legislative act which authorizes an election to be held upon the question of levying a special school tax providing that if any township should cast a majority of its votes in its favor it should apply only to the township, should the county as a whole reject the proposition, and requiring but a single ballot upon two propositions, is contrary to this section and void. Hill v. Lenoir County, 176 N. C. 572, 97 S. E. 498.

When Act Does Not Limit Bond Issue.—An exception to the constitutionality of an act submitting the question of a bond issue to the voters cannot be sustained on the ground that it does not limit the amount of the bonds that may be issued for the purposes therein authorized. Waters v. Board, 186 N. C. 719, 120 S. E. 450.

When Funds Are Already on Hand.—This provision, has no application where, the funds to be applied are already on hand and the proposed expenditure will impose no further liability on the municipality, nor involve the imposition of further taxation upon it. Adams v. Durham, 189 N. C. 232, 126 S. E. 611, 612. See note of this case under section 2622 of the code.

When Indebtedness Already Voted on.—That part of this section forbidding the levy of any taxes by a municipal corporation except for necessary expenses, unless by a vote of the majority of the qualified voters, applies only to such indebtedness as has not been submitted to a vote of the people. Charlotte v. Shepard & Co., 122 N. C. 602, 29 S. E. 842.

Endorsement of Township Bonds by County. — Where townships are permitted to call an election for the purpose of voting upon the issuance of township bonds for the roads of the township, the proceeds to be turned over to the sole management and control of the township commissioners, with further provision that the county endorse the bonds upon being satisfied of the validity of the issuance, the endorsement by the county of the township bonds is a loan of the credit of the county, without benefit to the other townships, and contrary to this section. Commissioners v. Boring, 175 N. C. 105, 95 S. E. 43.

Authorization of Bonds without Tax to Pay Them.—The power given by a statute to a city to issue bonds with the approval of a majority of the qualified voters of the city does not confer, by implication, the power to levy a tax to pay them unless the power to levy such tax has been conferred by the act authorizing the issue and ratified by a vote of the people, as required by this section. Charlotte v. Shepard, 120 N. C. 411, 412, 27 S. E. 109.

Taxes to Pay New Debts.—The commissioners of a town have no authority to collect taxes to pay "new debts" unless the proposition is submitted to the voters of the town, even though commanded by mandamus. Weinstein v. Commissioners, 71 N. C. 535.

Railroad Aid Bonds.—It is essential to the validity of bonds issued in aid of railroads, or other similar enterprises, by counties, townships and other municipal organizations, that the proposition shall have first had the assent of a majority of the qualified voters in the territory affected, to be duly ascertained by an election regularly held for that purpose. Lynchburg, etc., R. Co. v. Board, 109 N. C. 159, 13 S. E. 783. See section 3432 of the code. As to constitutional provision regarding state aid of railroads see Art. V, sec. 4.

Bonds to Refund Bonds.—A municipal corporation does not contract a debt, within the meaning of this section, when under statutory authority it issues bonds to refund bonds which at the date of the issuance of the refunding bonds are valid and enforceable obligations of the corporation. Bolich v. Winston-Salem, 202 N. C. 786, 788, 164 S. E. 361.

Local Assessments to Drain Land. — No vote of the people is required on the proposition of apportioning the burden of draining lands by local assessments. Sanderlin v. Luken, 152 N. C. 738, 68 S. E. 225.

Appropriation of Taxes by Chamber of Commerce.—This section refers to the county, city, or town as a State governmental agency, and does not authorize an appropriation of a certain per cent of taxes levied upon their taxpayers for the use or disposition of a chamber of commerce of a city, without the approval of the qualified voters therein. Ketchie v. Hedrick, 186 N. C. 392, 119 S. E. 767.

Where a city sells land used for recreation purposes and turns the proceeds of the sale over to its park and recreation commission the action is not a pleading of its faith and credit so as to involve the application of this section. Hall v. Redd, 196 N. C. 622, 146 S. E. 583.

III. NECESSARY EXPENSES.

A. General Considerations and Applications.

In General.—This section does not require that a debt, to be contracted for necessary expenses by a city or town, shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified voters therein. Tucker v. Raleigh, 75 N. C. 267; Jones v. New Bern, 152 N. C. 64, 67 S. E. 173.

Under this section as construed with Art. V, § 6 a municipality may issue valid bonds for its necessary expenses without the approval of its voters within the constitutional limitation in the absence of statutory authority, and with statutory authority and the approval of its voters it may issue bonds in excess of this limitation. Burleson v. Spruce Pine, 200 N. C. 30, 156 S. E. 241.

For purposes other than necessary expenses, whether special or not, taxes may not be levied by a county either within or in excess of the limitation fixed by our Constitution, Art. V, § 6, except by a vote of the people under special legislative authority. Glenn v. Board of County Com'r, 201 N. C. 233, 159 S. E. 439.

Legislative Discretion.—It is within the discretion of the Legislature to authorize a county to issue bonds for necessary expenses, either with or without the approval of its voters, or to require only the approval by a majority of the votes cast at a special election authorized for the purpose, and the approval by the majority of the qualified voters is not required for their validity. Davis v. Lenoir County, 178 N. C. 668, 101 S. E. 260.

Same—Presumption.—Under legislative authority a county may issue bonds to refund its existing floating debt for necessary county expenses, in excess of the 15 cents limitation upon the $100 valuation of its taxable property according to Art. V, sec. 6, when coming within the provisions of the municipal Finance Act, ch. 81, sec. 8, Public Laws of 1927, and where the record on appeal states that the issuance of the bonds is for necessary county purposes, and for taking care of its floating indebtedness, it will be assumed on appeal that the excess over the 15 cents valuation was for necessary county expenses, coming within the provision of this section, not requiring the question of the issuance of the bonds to be submitted to the voters of the county. Board v. Assell, 194 N. C. 412, 140 S. E. 34.

What Are "Necessary Expenses."—The term, "necessary expenses" is not confined to expenses incurred for purposes absolutely necessary to the very life and existence of a municipality, but it has a more comprehensive meaning. Storm v. Wrightsville Beach, 189 N. C. 679, 128 S. E. 17, 18.

The county commissioners are the sole judges of what are "necessary expenses." Evans v. Commissioners, 87 N. C. 154; Williams v. Commissioners, 119 N. C. 520, 26 S. E. 150.

Bonds issued for the following purposes have been held to have been issued for necessary expenses: For the payment of interest on bonds already issued for necessary purposes (Wilson v. Board, 74 N. C. 748); the building and maintenance of public roads (Lassiter v. Board, 188 N. C. 379, 124 N. C. 738; Ellis v. Greene, 191 N. C. 761, 133 S. E. 395; Woodall v. Western Wake Highway Commission, 176 N. C. 377, 97 S. E. 226; Hill v. Board, 190 N. C. 123, 129 S. E. 154); Paving streets (Brown v. Hillsboro, 185 N. C. 368, 117 S. E. 41; Hendersonville v. Jordan, 150 N. C. 35, 63 S. E. 167); lighting streets (Ellison v. Williamston, 152 N. C. 147, 67 S. E. 255) to the extent of furnishing a plant for that purpose. (Fawcett v. Mt. Avy, 134 N. C. 125, 45 S. E. 1029; Swindell v. Belhaven, 173 N. C. 1, 91 S. E. 369); furnishing sidewalks (Storm v. Wrightsville Beach, 189 N. C. 679, 128 S. E. 17, 18); building bridges (Herring v. Dixon, 122 N. C. 420, 29 S. E. 368; Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Reid, 187 N. C. 320, 121 S. E. 534) even though the bridge is interstate (Emery v. Commissioners, 181 N. C. 420, 107 S. E. 443); Brockenbrough v. Board, 134 N. C. 1, 46 S. E. 28; Greensboro v. Scott, 138 N. C. 181, 50 S. E. 589; Underwood v. Asheboro, 152 N. C. 641, 68 S. E. 147; Reed v. Howerton Engineering Co., 188 N. C. 39, 123 N. C. 479; erection of a courthouse (Halcomb v. Commissioners, 89 N. C. 346); erection of a municipal building in a large city (Hightower v. Raleigh, 150 N. C. 569, 65 S. E. 279); and the building of county homes (Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Reid, 187 N. C. 320, 121 S. E. 534.)

Other projects which have sustained the issuance of bonds as necessary expenses, tho of less frequent occurrence than those just enumerated, are: For the installation of an electric fire-alarm system (Kinston v. Security Trust Co., 169 N. C. 207, 85 S. E. 399); purchase of an incinerator for the destruction of garbage (Storm v. Wrightsville Beach, 189 N. C. 679, 128 S. E. 17, 19); erection of an abbatoir (Moore v. Greensboro, 191 N. C. 592, 132 S. E. 565); and of jetties (Storm v. Wrightsville, supra.)

The establishment of a wharf is not a necessary expense, Henderson v. Wilmington, 191 N. C. 269, 132 S. E. 25. Nor is the erection a maintenance of a dispensary such an expense. Garsed v. Greensboro, 126 N. C. 159, 355 S. E. 254.

The building of a county fence by a county having the free-range law, between it and an adjoining county having the stock law, is not a necessary expense within the meaning of this section. Keith v. Lockhart, 171 N. C. 451, 88 S. E. 640.

But laying an assessment for building a stock-law fence in territory where the law is effective is not taxation requiring its submission to a vote of the people of the district. Tripp v. Commissioners, 158 N. C. 180, 73 S. E. 896; Shuford v. Commissioners, 86 N. C. 552.

It has long been decided that water and sewer are "necessary expenses," within the meaning of section 7, Article VII, Constitution of North Carolina, and "a vote of the majority of the qualified voters" is not necessary. Storm v. Wrightsville Beach, 189 N. C. 679, 128 S. E. 17. So, also, are roads. See Davis v. Lenoir, 178 N. C. 668, 101 S. E. 260; Drysdale v. Prudden, 195 N. C. 722, 730, 143 S. E. 530. See also Starmount Co. v. Hamilton Lakes, 205 N. C. 514, 171 S. E. 909; Lamb v. Randleman, 206 N. C. 837, 175 S. E. 293.

The building of a drilling tower to train the city's firemen is not a necessary expense within the meaning of this section. Wilson v. Charlotte, 206 N. C. 856, 175 S. E. 306.

Borrowing money to pay judgments for salaries owing to the employees of a city school in anticipation of collection of taxes levied thereon is not in contravention of this section. Hammond v. Charlotte, 206 N. C. 604, 175 S. E. 148.

What May Be Included in Tax for Expense.—A municipal platform is not a public market and such platform erected for the purpose of obtaining revenue for the town by the imposition of a fee for the sale of cotton therefrom is not a necessary municipal expense and the town may not issue its notes for the purchase price of such platform without a vote of its electors. Walker v. Faison, 202 N. C. 694, 163 S. E. 875.

Where a vote of the qualified electors is not necessary to the validity of the bonds proposed to be issued if an election should be called and the tax approved by the qualified electors of the town, such tax would be valid regardless whether it was levied for a necessary expense. Webb v. Port Comm., 205 N. C. 663, 172 S. E. 377.

Province of Court.—It has become the accepted meaning of this section that it is the province of the courts to decide whether a particular municipal expense falls within the category of necessary expenses, leaving to the municipal authorities the power to determine whether a proposed expense within that category is necessary in a given case. Starmount Co. v. Ohio Sav. Bank, etc., Co., 55 F. (2d) 649, 653.

The courts determine whether a given project is a necessary expense of a municipality, but the governing authorities of the municipality determine in their discretion whether such given project is necessary or needed in the designated locality. Starmount Co. v. Hamilton Lakes, 205 N. C. 514, 520, 171 S. E. 909.

Expansion of City's Power Lines.—Where an incorporated city under authority of statute furnishes through its own transmission lines electricity for its citizens for hire within a circumscribed territory adjoining its limits, and the expenses incident thereto are paid out of its surplus profits, the proposition is not one that requires the approval of the voters as it does not fall within the provisions of this section, nor is it in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution. Holmes v. Fayetteville, 197 N. C. 740, 741, 150 S. E. 624.

Bonds issued by a county for the construction and maintenance of its highways are for a necessary county expense within the intent and meaning of this section, and may be validly authorized by general or special statute and issued by the county thereunder without submitting the question of their issuance to the approval of the voters of the county. Barbour v. Wake County, 197 N. C. 314, 148 S. E. 470.

B. School Taxation.

Editor's Note.—It has been held in several cases that the erection of school buildings is not a necessary expense within the purview of this section, and therefore a county cannot be brought under this indebtedness without the approval of the qualified voters. Jones v. Board, 185 N. C. 303, 117 S. E. 37; Davis v. Board, 186 N. C. 227, 119 S. E. 372. However these cases did not involve an indebtedness incurred by legislative authority in carrying on the public school system of the state and the necessary maintenance of a six month's school term, as required by section 3 of art. 9 of the Constitution, and it has been held that the question of taxation for this purpose need not be submitted to the voters. Tate v. Board, 192 N. C. 516, 135 S. E. 336; Hartsfield v. Craven County, 194 N. C. 358, 139 S. E. 698.

The better reason advanced for this distinction is that each part of the Constitution is of equal weight and merit and this section should be construed so as not to nullify any other portion of the Constitution. In Lacy v. Fidelity Bank, 183 N. C. 373, 111 S. E. 612, the court said: "The restrictions contained in this section . . . must be understood to refer to the debts and taxes in furtherance of local measures and do not extend to a state-wide measure . . . , undertaken in obedience to a separate provision of the Constitution, and in which the counties are . . . expressly recognized as the governmental units through which the general purpose may be made effective." See annotations under section 5483 of the code.

As to estoppel of taxpayers to deny the invalidity of a special school tax, see Carr v. Little, 188 N. C. 100, 123 S. E. 625.

The limitations of this section are not applicable to bonds or notes issued by a county, as an administrative agency of the State, under authority conferred by the County Finance Act (§ 1334(8)), for the purpose of erecting schoolhouses, and equipping same, or purchasing land necessary for school purposes. Hall v. Commissioners, 194 N. C. 768, 770, 140 S. E. 739.

This section applies to local matters relating to the affairs of the county separately considered, and not to a State-wide system of education, in which the counties are acting as governmental agencies for the carrying out of the entire scheme, made mandatory by the Constitution, Art. IX, secs. 1, 2, 3, requiring the maintenance of a six month term of public schools. Owens v. Wake County, 195 N. C. 132, 141 S. E. 546.

But the power is not giving the county to issue bonds for the erection and purchase of schoolhouses without a popular vote except where such schoolhouses and necessary land therefor are required for the establishment and maintenance of a six months school term as provided by the Constitution. Lovelace v. Pratt, 187 N. C. 686, 122 S. E. 661; Frazier v. Commissioners, 194 N. C. 49, 138 S. E. 433; Owens v. Wake County, 195 N. C. 132, 141 S. E. 546; Hall v. Commissioners, 195 S. E. 367, 369, 142 S. E. 315.

Where by special act the Legislature grants a charter to an existing city, enlarging the city limits to take in territory within one or more nonlocal tax districts, it is not necessary, nor contrary to this section, that a vote of the people within the added territory be had either upon the question of annexing such territory or upon the question of levying school taxes therein, the object of the charter being to provide for the government, welfare and improvement of the city, and not primarily for the mere maintenance of schools. Hailey v. Winston-Salem, 196 N. C. 17, 144 S. E. 377.

§ 8. No money drawn except by law. — No money shall be drawn from any county or township treasury, except by authority of law.

§ 9. Taxes to be ad valorem.—All taxes levied by any county, city, town, or township shall be uniform and ad valorem upon all property in the same, except property exempted by this Constitution.

Cross References.—As to uniformity of taxation generally, see 11 Enc. Dig. 562 et seq.; 15 Enc. Dig. 553 et seq. See, also, note to the various sections of Article V of this Constitution.

Proposed Amendment.—Public Laws 1935, ch. 248, s. 1, proposed an amendment to this article to be voted on at the next general election. This amendment would strike out this section and re-number the remaining sections.

This section imperatively required that all real and personal property in county, city, town or township be taxed by a uniform rule, according to its true value in money. Saluda v. Polk County, 207 N. C. 180, 184, 176 S. E. 298, citing Pocomoke Guano Co. v. Biddle, 158 N. C. 212, 73 S. E. 996.

Relation to § 2713 of Code.—Section 2713, making an assessment "a lien on the real property against which the same is assessed superior to all other liens and encumbrances" is subject to the constitutional provision of this section, that "taxation shall be by uniform rule and ad valorem." Thus limited, it is prior to mortgages, deeds of trust, etc., on the property, but subject to the governmental taxes. Saluda v. Polk County, 207 N. C. 180, 185, 176 S. E. 298.

Restraint on Power of City.—This section does not confer on cities a power to tax, or on the Legislature a power to give them that power. Its purpose and intent was to restrain the power of the city by requiring an uniformity of taxation upon all property ad valorem, notwithstanding any possible attempt by the Legislature to give the power without such restraint. The terms of the section do not profess to give a power, but to regulate what is supposed to exist by virtue of a legislative act of incorporation. If the power be not derived entirely from the charter of incorporation, either as expressly given or by necessary implication, it cannot be derived elsewhere, for the Constitution nowhere confers this power on cities, either expressly or by necessary implication. Wilson v. Board, 74 N. C. 748, 755.

When Tax Is Uniform.—A tax is uniform when it is equal upon persons belonging to the described class upon which it is imposed. Gatlin v. Tarboro, 78 N. C. 119.

What "Property" Includes. — The word "property," as used in this section includes moneys, credits, investments and other choses in action, Redmond v. Commissioners, 106 N. C. 122, 10 S. E. 845, such as bonds, stocks, solvent notes, etc. Cobb v. Corporation, 75 N. C. 1.

All Property in Municipality Must Be Taxed.—This section was not intended to apply the rules of uniformity and equality to the subject alone selected by the Legislature for taxation in granting a municipal charter, but requires that all property (whether real or personal, Cobb v. Corporation, 75 N. C. 1; London v. Wilmington, 78 N. C. 109, in the municipality shall be taxed, and taxed uniformally and equally. Redmond v. Commissioners, 106 N. C. 122, 10 S. E. 845. So a tax on real property alone to defray fencing expenses violates the section. Harper v. Commissioners, 133 N. C. 106, 45 S. E. 526. And the same is true of a tax for the same purpose levied on natural persons alone. Keith v. Lockhart, 171 N. C. 451, 88 S. E. 640.

Valuation Assessed by Trustees.—This section clearly implies that the valuation upon which city taxes are to be uniformly levied is to be that assessed by the Township Trustees. Carolina Cent. R. Co. v. Wilmington, 72 N. C. 73.

Taxation by Independent School District.—Where a city has created debts in view of a bond issue for its public schools, and thereafter the limits of the city are enlarged, but the independent school district, within old limits is recognized and having previously issued part of the bonds, proceeds to issue more of them to meet the obligations already incurred, its proposed action is not contrary to the provisions of this section, as the authority previously conferred imports a liability to taxation. Duffy v. Greensboro, 186 N. C. 470, 120 S. E. 53.

Local Improvement.—Special assessment for local municipal improvements are not within the restraints imposed by this section, but the rule of uniformity must be observed. Raleigh v. Peace, 110 N. C. 32, 14 S. E. 521.

Same—Impounding Streets.—While assessments of lands abutting on streets improved are not required to be uniform with all other subjects of taxation, in view of the particular benefits, such must be uniform as to all property owners within that class to meet the constitutional requirements. Gastonia v. Cloninger, 187 N. C. 765, 123 S. E. 76. Can v. Commissioners, 86 N. C. 8. See also Hillard v. Asheville, 118 N. C. 845, 24 S. E. 738.

County Aid in Construction of City Street. — Where a county has paid a part of the cost of paving a certain street within the city, and the city has paid the balance, each out of its general funds, the owners of land abutting on this street cannot maintain the position that from the assessment of their land abutting on the street there should proportionately be deducted the amount paid by the county, the same being contrary to the requirement for the uniformity of taxation in the same class or subject matter. Gastonia v. Cloninger, 187 N. C. 765, 123 S. E. 76.

Tax on Property of Insurance Company.—A tax on the gross receipts of an insurance company is a privilege tax, and a county may levy an ad valorem tax on the property of such company. Wilmington Underwriters Ins. Co. v. Stedman, 130 N. C. 221, 41 S. E. 279.

Shares of Stock in National Bank.—Shares of stock in a national bank are proper subjects of state, county and municipal taxation. Such shares owned by nonresidents are to be taxed in the city or town where the bank is located and not elsewhere. Kyle v. Mayor, 75 N. C. 445.

Limitation on Amount.—The constitution, while it requires taxation to be uniform on all property within the city, contains no limitation on the amount of tax which cities and towns may impose. French v. Wilmington, 75 N. C. 477.

§ 12. Charters to remain in force until legally changed.—All charters, ordinances, and provisions relating to municipal corporations shall remain in force until legally changed, unless inconsistent with the provisions of this Constitution.

See note as to proposed amendment under § 9.

Municipality Subject to Legislative Control.—A municipality, such as a city, town or county, is subject to the control of the General Assembly even in respect to necessary expenses. Jones v. New Bern, 152 N. C. 64, 65, 67 S. E. 173.

And the General Assembly may, at its discretion, abolish municipal as well as other corporations. Ward v. Elizabeth City, 121 N. C. 1, 27 S. E. 993.

Control of Municipal Contract.—The power conferred by its charter upon a city to provide water and lights, and to contract for same, provide for cleansing and repairing the streets, regulate the market, take proper means to prevent and extinguish fires, is subject to the police power of the state, with respect to rates to be charged under such contracts as the city may make under its charter with a public service corporation. § 13. Debts in aid of the rebellion not to be paid.—No county, city, town, or other municipal corporation shall assume to pay, nor shall any tax be levied or collected for the payment of any debt, or the interest upon any debt, contracted directly or indirectly in aid or support of the rebellion.

§ 14. Powers of General Assembly over municipal corporations.—The General Assembly shall have full power by statute to modify, change, or abrogate any and all of the provisions of this article, and substitute others in their place, except sections seven, nine, and thirteen.

See note as to proposed amendment under § 9.
See §§ 1462 et seq. of the code.

Act Need Not Be General.—It is not required that the power conferred in this section should be general in its operation, or that it should in terms formally abrogate any given section therein, and substitute another in its stead, for the act making such change, local in its operation, must be given effect under its provisions, if otherwise valid. Tyrrell County v. Holloway, 182 N. C. 64, 108 S. E. 337; Smith v. School Trustees, 141 N. C. 143, 53 S. E. 524.

Charters and Ordinances Entrusted to Legislature.—Under this section all charters, ordinances and provisions relating to municipal corporations are entrusted to the discretion of the Legislature. Harriss v. Wright, 121 N. C. 172, 28 S. E. 269.

Creation of Highway Commission.—The Legislature has authority under this section to create a highway commission for a county, and give it control over its bridges and highways, their maintenance and supervision, etc., or subdivide this agency into several parts over defined territory. Ellis v. Greene, 191 N. C. 761, 133 S. E. 395; Commissions v. Road Comm'rs, 165 N. C. 632, 81 S. E. 1001.

The powers given to county commissioners over public highways, may be taken away from them and conferred by statute upon other political agencies of the State. Day v. Commissioners, 191 N. C. 780, 133 S. E. 164.

Appointing City Alderman.—The delegation by the legislature to the Governor of the State of the power of appointing a portion of the alderman of a city is within the scope of the power entrusted to the discretion of the Legislature by this section. Harriss v. Wright, 121 N. C. 172, 28 S. E. 269.

Compelling County to Issue Bonds.—The Legislature has power to pass an act compelling a county to issue bonds to fund its existing indebtedness incurred for necessary expenses. Jones v. Commissioners, 137 N. C. 579, 50 S. E. 291.

Establishment of School District.—The establishing a school district relates to public municipal corporations, which may be done by special legislative enactment under this section. Dickson v. Brewer, 180 N. C. 403, 104 S. E. 887.

Creating County Board of Audit and Finance.—The Legislature has constitutional power to provide a board of audit and finance for a particular county and to direct that payment of an expert accountant authorized thereunder be made by the county treasurer as a charge against the county's public funds, upon an order made by said board in a certain prescribed manner. ARTICLE VIII

Corporations Other Than Municipal

§ 1. Corporations under general laws.—No corporation shall be created nor shall its charter be extended, altered, or amended by special act, except corporations for charitable, educational, penal, or reformatory purposes that are to be and remain under the patronage and control of the State; but the General Assembly shall provide by general laws for the chartering and organization of all corporations and for amending, extending, and forfeiture of all charters, except those above permitted by special act. All such general laws and special acts may be altered from time to time or repealed; and the General Assembly may at any time by special act repeal the charter of any corporation.

In General.—Except for purposes of absolute repeal which is retained throughout as essential to the proper exercise and enforcement of the police powers of Government, and except, also, in the instances expressly designated in this section, this section withdraws from the General Assembly any and all power by special enactments to create, extend, alter, or amend the charter of all private business corporations, and all quasi-public corporations, such as railroads, incorporated turnpike or toll roads, bridge companies, and the like, and also those corporations which while having at times and to some extent powers appertaining to government are in fact and in truth business corporations for the purpose principally of promoting private interests. Watts v. Lenoir, etc., Turnpike Co., 181 N. C. 129, 135, 106 S. E. 497.

Before the constitutional prohibition of this section, against creating corporations or amending their charters by special act, the General Assembly had granted numerous charters to utility companies giving them authority to set their own rates. However, such charter authority does not preclude rate regulation under the power of the state. Contracts between utilities and consumers setting the price of current are also subject to rate regulation. See 12 N. C. Law Rev., 296.

Purpose of Section.—"The purpose and effect of this section is to enable the state to control, modify or repeal corporate powers, thus avoiding the effect of the doctrine announced in Dartmouth College v. Woodward, 4 Wheat. (U. S.) 518." Connor & Cheshire Const. of N. C. (anno.) pages 339, 340, cited and approved in Elizabeth City Water, etc., Co. v. Elizabeth City, 188 N. C. 278, 124 S. E. 611. See also, Railroad Co. v. Dortch, 124 N. C. 663, 673, 33 S. E. 1014.

Applicable to Private Corporation.—The prohibition contained in this section refers only to private or business corporation, and does not refer to public or quasi-public corporation acting as governmental agencies. Dickson v. Brewer, 180 N. C. 403, 104 S. E. 887; Mills v. Com'rs, 175 N. C. 215, 95 S. E. 481. See also Webb v. Port Comm., 205 N. C. 663, 172 S. E. 377.

Under this interpretation, the section should be construed in connection with sec. 2, dealing with "dues from corporations;" sec. 3, defining corporations as including "associations and joint stock companies," and it should be noted that if sec. 4 (properly belonging in Art. VII) included corporations as governmental agencies, it would be meaningless. Kornegay v. Goldsboro, 180 N. C. 441, 105 S. E. 187.

The provisions of this section, prohibiting the Legislature from creating a corporation or extending, altering or amending its charter by special act has been held to apply only to private or business corporations; and where the Legislature by special act amending the charter of a city authorizes it to purchase electricity and resell it to its inhabitants and those within a three-mile zone of the city, the power to sell to such individuals and corporations does not detract from the public service or destroy the public character of the municipality, and where the same power is given the city by general statute also, the exercise of the power thus conferred will not be enjoined. Holmes v. Fayetteville, 197 N. C. 740, 741, 150 S. E. 624.

A commission created as an agency of the State to perform the governmental function of providing port facilities for the commerce of the State in the public interest, and not for private gain, is a public corporation, and the Legislature is not prohibited from creating such corporation by this section, nor is the act creating it a special act within the meaning of this section, and the Commission may lawfully exercise all powers conferred upon it in order to perform its duties as prescribed by the act. Webb v. Port Comm., 205 N. C. 663, 172 S. E. 377.

Power to Extinguish Corporations.—The General Assembly may, at its discretion, abolish municipal as well as other corporations, because they are all alike creatures of its will, and exist only at its pleasure. Ward v. Elizabeth City, 121 N. C. 1, 3, 27 S. E. 993.

Right of Alteration a Part of Every Charter.—The provisions of this section, affecting the organization of corporations, and specifically providing that all "such laws or special acts may be altered from time to time or repealed," etc., enters into every charter taken out or corporation formed thereunder, and any such corporation may not complain when a statutory repeal or amendment has been made, on the ground that it works a hardship on it or impairs the value of its property, unless vested rights have been prior acquired by it which have been impaired or destroyed by the repealing or amendatory act complained of. Elizabeth City Water, etc., Co. v. Elizabeth City, 188 N. C. 278., 124 S. E. 611; State v. Cantwell, 142 N. C. 604, 55 S. E. 820; Power Co. v. Whitney Co., 150 N. C. 31, 63 S. E. 188.

"Special Act" Only Prohibited.—This section only prohibits the enactment of a special act and an act which relates to all municipal corporations of a county, including cities, town, townships, and school districts is not a special act within its meaning and intent. Kornegay v. Goldsboro, 180 N. C. 441, 446, 105 S. E. 187.

Effect of Dissolution upon Corporate Property.—Upon the dissolution or extinction of a corporation under this section for any cause, real property conveyed to it in fee does not revert to the original grantors or their heirs, and its personal property does not escheat to the state; and this is so whether or not the duration of the corporation was limited by its charter or general statute. Wilson v. Leary, 120 N. C. 90, 26 S. E. 630, overruling Fox v. Horah, 36 N. C. 358.

Applied in Coleman v. Sou. R. Co., 138 N. C. 351, 50 S. E. 690.

§ 2. Debts of corporations, how secured.—Dues from corporations shall be secured by such individual liabilities of the corporations, and other means, as may be prescribed by law.

§ 3. What corporations shall include.—The term "Corporation," as used in this article, shall be construed to include all associations and joint-stock companies having any of the powers and privileges of corporations not possessed by individuals or partnerships. And all corporations shall have the right to sue, and shall be subject to be sued, in all courts, in like cases as natural persons.

Where Corporate Powers Extinguished.—Where the Legislature deprived the board of township trustees of its existence as a municipal corporation, the right to sue and be sued are likewise extinguished, and hence it cannot thereafter be a party to a suit. Wallace v. Trustees, 84 N. C. 164. As to power to extinguish corporations, see note of Ward v. Elizabeth City, 121 N. C. 1, 3, 27 S. E. 993 under section 1.

Stated in Barker v. Southern R. Co., 137 N. C. 214, 223, 49 S. E. 115.

§ 4. Legislature to provide for organizing cities, towns, etc.—It shall be the duty of the Legislature to provide by general laws for the organization of cities, towns, and incorporated villages, and to restrict their power of taxation, assessment, borrowing money, contracting debts, and loaning their credit, so as to prevent abuses in assessment and in contracting debts by such municipal corporations.

Editor's Note.—This section, in substance, constitutes a limitation on the provision of Art. VII, section 7 and must be construed therewith. One court has said that this section properly belongs in Art. VII. Kornegay v. Goldsboro, 180 N.

C. 441, 105 S. E. 187. The searcher is therefore referred to the note placed under that article.

In General.—The court in Pullen v. Raleigh, 68 N. C. 451, 454, said: "This (section) seems to give a general control to the Legislature on the subject of municipal corporations, and the Legislature may, under it, restrict the power of taxation by corporations as it may think proper, due regard being had to other parts of the constitution."

Although a municipality may ordinarily levy a tax, as a necessary expense in the cases mentioned in Art. 7, section 7, without submitting the question to the qualified voter, it may not do so where the Legislature by statute requires the consent of such voter. Ellison v. Williamston, 152 N. C. 147, 67 S. E. 255; Robinson v. Goldsboro, 135 N. C. 382, 47 S. E. 462; Wadsworth v. Concord, 133 N. C. 587, 45 S. E. 948. It is for the Legislature to decide when it is necessary to pass a restrictive statute. State v. Irvin, 126 N. C. 989, 994, 35 S. E. 430. As to specific cases wherein it is necessary to secure the consent of the voters, see Art. 7, section 7 and note thereto.

The provisions of this section relate to municipal corporations as originally formed under legislative enactment, and is more restrictive in limiting the municipality in contracting debts or pledging their credit than Article VII, section 7, which requires an election by its voters to do so, when not for necessary expenses. Waters v. Comrs., 186 N. C. 719, 120 S. E. 450.

Not Applicable to Special Assessments.—It seems that this section does not apply to special assessments for local municipal improvements, Raleigh v. Peace, 110 N. C. 32, 14 S. E. 521. It is said by the court in this case: "Even if it did apply, an act of the Legislature authorizing an assessment is not void because it does not prescribe all of the particulars relating to such assessment. It is sufficient if it authorizes a fair and equitable method of ascertaining the peculiar benefits conferred upon the property, and apportioning the costs between the abutting owners."

School District Not Included.—A school district is not within the perview of the provisions of this section, it being not a city, town or incorporated village. Felmet v. Commissioners, 186 N. C. 251, 254, 119 S. E. 353; Waters v. Comrs., 186 N. C. 719, 120 S. E. 450.

Alteration of Charter Not Forbidden.—This section does not forbid altering or amending charter of cities, towns and incorporated villages or conferring upon municipal corporations additional powers or restricting the powers theretofore vested in them. Holton v. Mocksville, 189 N. C. 144, 149, 126 S. E. 326.

Applied in Hutton v. Webb, 124 N. C. 749, 33 S. E. 169; Brockenbrough v. Commissioners, 134 N. C. 1, 17, 46 S. E. 28.

ARTICLE IX

Education

§ 1. Education shall be encouraged.—Religion, morality, and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged.

Editor's Note.—This section constitutes the corner-stone in the foundation on which rest the provisions of the following sections, the courts in practically all the cases referring to the provision hereof and using them as a supplemental basis for the decisions primarily falling under one or more of the subsequent sections. Reference, therefore, is here made to the notes placed under the sections following in this article.

Cited in Julian v. Ward, 198 N. C. 480, 482, 152 S. E. 401.

§ 2. General Assembly shall provide for schools; separation of the races.—The General Assembly, at its first session under this Constitution, shall provide by taxation and otherwise for a general and uniform system of public schools, wherein tuition shall be free of charge to all children of the State between the ages of six and twenty-one years. And the children of the white race and the children of the colored race shall be taught in separate public schools; but there shall be no discrimination in favor of, or to the prejudice of, either race.

Cross Reference.—For full treatment of the subject, see 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 129 et seq.; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 431 et seq. As to school funds, see 11 N. C. Enc. Dig. 130; 15 N. C. Enc. Dig. 432; see also Art. IX, sec. 5.

In General.—It was said by the court in Lane v. Stanly, 65 N. C. 153, 157: "It will be seen that the Constitution establishes the public school system, and the General Assembly provides for it, by its own taxing power, and by the taxing power of the counties, and the State Board of Education, by the aid of school committees, manage it. It will be observed that it is to be a 'system'; it is to be 'general', and it is to be 'uniform'. It is not to be subject to the caprices of localities, but every locality, yea, every child, is to have the same advantage and be subject to the same rules and regulations."

The requirement of this section of the Constitution, that our public-school system shall be uniform by legislative authority, relates to the uniformity of the "system," and not to the uniformity of the class or kind of the "schools;" and thus qualifying the word "system," it is sufficiently complied with where, by statute or authorized regulation of the public-school authorities, provision is made for establishment of schools of like kind throughout all sections of the State and available to all of the school population of the territories contributing to their support. Board v. County Com'rs, 174 N. C. 469, 93 S. E. 1001.

This and the following section of the Constitution require that at least one elementary school be maintained in each district, but the constitutional mandate does not extend to high schools. Elliott v. Board of Equalization, 203 N. C. 749.

Duty on Legislature.—It is the province of the General Assembly, and not of the State Board of Education, to establish a uniform system of public schools. Board v. State Board, 114 N. C. 313, 19 S. E. 277.

Same—Mandatory.—The provisions of our Constitution, Art. IX, secs. 1, 2, 3, are mandatory that the Legislature provide by "taxation and otherwise for general and uniform system of public education, free of charge, to all of the children of the State from six to twenty-one years," etc., and for the continuance of the school term in the various districts for at least six months in each and every year, recognizing the counties of the State and designating them as the governmental agencies through which the Legislature may act in the performance of this duty and in making its measure effective. Lacy v. Fidelity Bank, 183 N. C. 373, 111 S. E. 612.

Method of Distribution of Allowance.—County high schools are entitled to have a special allowance made to them in the yearly estimate of the county board of education for a four-months term (now six); but it is otherwise as to a school which is in strictness one of a town or city, governed by local authority and accessible only to the school population of the specified district, for such is not a part of our public-school system; and this class of high schools may only receive their per capita or pro rata share of the estimate according to average an actual attendance and according to the provision of the statute or authoritative regulations applicable. Board v. County Commissioners, 174 N. C. 469, 93 S. E. 1001.

All of the funds raised in the state for common school purposes should be distributed per capita among the beneficiaries and not be retained in the counties where it is raised. School Commissioners v. Board, 169 N. C. 196, 85 S. E. 138; Board v. State Board, 114 N. C. 313, 19 S. E. 277. And in the distribution of the fund the General Assembly may not discriminate in favor, or to the prejudice of either the white or colored races. Hooker v. Greenville, 130 N. C. 472, 42 S. E. 141.

Separate Buildings, Teachers, etc.—This section commands that the children of each race are to be taught in separate buildings and by separate teachers. Lowery v. School Trustees, 140 N. C. 33, 52 S. E. 267.

Under this section the school building now provided for the colored children cannot be taken for use of white children. Lowery v. School Trustees, 140 N. C. 33, 52 S. E. 267.

Cited in Posey v. Board of Education, 199 N. C. 306, 154 S. E. 393; Julian v. Ward, 198 N. C. 480, 482, 152 S. E. 401.

§ 3. Counties to be divided into districts.—Each county of the State shall be divided into a convenient number of districts, in which one or more public schools shall be maintained at least six months in every year; and if the commissioners of any county shall fail to comply with the aforesaid requirements of this section, they shall be liable to indictment.

Editor's Note.—In the constitution of 1917 the words "six months" were inserted for the words "four months."

Generally.—In discharging the duty, imposed by this section, to keep the public schools open for at least four months (now six) every year, the county Commissioners cannot disregard the limitations imposed by Article V, Section 1, as to the amount of tax to be levied. Board v. Commrs. 111 N. C. 578, 579, 16 S. E. 621. But see Board v. County Commissioners, 174 N. C. 469, 93 S. E. 1001.

This section is mandatory, but the mode of performance is prescribed by statute. See §§ 5596(c), 5599. Hickory v. Catawba County, 206 N. C. 165, 172, 173 S. E. 56.

Counties May Be Directed to Provide Funds.—By reason of this constitutional mandate it is within the power of the General Assembly to authorize and direct the counties of the State as administrative units or governmental agencies to provide the necessary funds by taxation or otherwise. Harrell v. Board of Com'rs, 206 N. C. 225, 229, 173 S. E. 614.

Legislative Function.—It is a legislative function to formulate the means of carrying out the provisions of this section. Wilkinson v. Board of Education, 199 N. C. 669, 155 S. E. 562.

Legislative Discretion.—This section having required a public school system of the State to have at least six months terms in each year, leaves it to the discretionary power of the Legislature to fix terms in excess of that period. Frazier v. Board of Com'rs, 194 N. C. 49, 138 S. E. 433.

Assumption of Indebtedness.—When necessary to maintain the six-months term of public schools required by this section it is within the legislative authority in establishing its State-wide system to assume an indebtedness of a school district therefor, including the cost of necessary buildings, and direct that it be provided for by the respective counties as administrative units of the public-school system of the State. Lovelace v. Pratt, 187 N. C. 686, 122 S. E. 661.

The fact that this section provides that county commissioners failing to perform their duties in regard to the maintenance of the required school term shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, does not preclude a writ of mandamus to compel the assumption by the county of indebtedness incurred by the districts for the erection and equipment of school buildings necessary to the constitutional school term. Hickory v. Catawba County, 206 N. C. 165, 173 S. E. 56.

Issuance of Mandamus.—The section of the Constitution have committed to the judgment and discretion of the county commissioners the manner and method of levying taxes to maintain a four-months minimum period (now six) of the public schools, and in the exercise thereof the courts will not interfere by civil process, mandamus or otherwise, unless their action is so unreasonable as to amount to a manifest abuse of power. County Board v. Board, 150 N. C. 116, 63 S. E. 724.

Immediately after filing the opinion in this case, the Legislature (of 1909), then in session, passed an act giving the county boards of education the right to sue out a mandamus in such cases.—Ed. Note.

Applied in Powell v. Bladen County, 206 N. C. 46, 173 S. E. 50.

Cited in Julian v. Ward, 198 N. C. 480, 482, 152 S. E. 401.

§ 4. What property devoted to educational purposes.—The proceeds of all lands that have been or hereafter may be granted by the United States to this State, and not otherwise appropriated by this State or the United States; also all moneys, stocks, bonds, and other property now belonging to any State fund for purposes of education; also the net proceeds of all sales of the swamp lands belonging to the State, and all other grants, gifts or devises that have been or hereafter may be made to the State, and not otherwise appropriated by the State, or by the terms of the grant, gift, or devise, shall be paid into the State treasury, and, together with so much of the ordinary revenue of the State as may be by law set apart for that purpose, shall be faithfully appropriated for establishing and maintaining in this State a system of free public schools, and for no other uses or purposes whatsoever.

Stated in McDonald v. Morrow, 119 N. C. 666, 26 S. E. 132; Bear v. Commissioners, 124 N. C. 204, 32 S. E. 558.

§ 5. County school fund; proviso.—All moneys, stocks, bonds, and other property belonging to a county school fund; also the net proceeds from the sale of estrays; also the clear proceeds of all penalties and forfeitures and of all fines collected in the several counties for any breach of the penal or military laws of the State; and all moneys which shall be paid by persons as an equivalent for exemption from military duty, shall belong to and remain in the several counties, and shall be faithfully appropriated for establishing and maintaining free public schools in the several counties of this State: Provided, that the amount collected in each county shall be annually reported to the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

In General.—This section appropriaties all fines for violation of the criminal laws of the state for establishing and maintaining free public schools in the several counties, whether the fines are for violation of town ordinances made misdemeanors by statute or other criminal statutes. Board v. Henderson, 126 N. C. 689, 36 S. E. 158.

Fines, etc., Must Be Given by Law.—Under this section penalties and forfeitures belong to the state for free school purposes only when given by law to the state. Carter v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 126 N. C. 437, 446, 36 S. E. 14, and cases there cited.

Parties.—A suit to compel a city to pay fines and penalties to the county board of education should be brought against the city or the board of aldermen, and not against the chief of police. Bearden v. Fullam, 129 N. C. 477, 40 S. E. 204.

Applied in In re Wiggins, 171 N. C. 372, 88 S. E. 508.

§ 6. Election of trustees, and provisions for maintenance, of University.—The General Assembly shall have power to provide for the election of trustees of the University of North Carolina, in whom, when chosen, shall be vested all the privileges, rights, franchises and endowments thereof in anywise granted to or conferred upon the trustees of said University; and the General Assembly may make such provisions, laws, and regulations from time to time as may be necessary and expedient for the maintenance and management of said University.

§ 7. Benefits of the University.—The General Assembly shall provide that the benefits of the University, as far as practicable, be extended to the youth of the State free of expense for tuition; also, that all the property which has heretofore accrued to the State, or shall hereafter accrue, from escheats, unclaimed dividends, or distributive shares of the estates of deceased persons, shall be appropriated to the use of the University.

Applied in In re Neal, 182 N. C. 405, 109 S. E. 70; University of North Carolina v. High Point, 203 N. C. 558, 166 S. E. 511.

§ 8. Board of Education. — The Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of State, Treasurer, Auditor, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Attorney-General shall constitute a State Board of Education.

§ 9. President and secretary.—The Governor shall be president and the Superintendent of Public Instruction shall be secretary of the Board of Education.

§ 10. Powers of the board.—The Board of Education shall succeed to all the powers and trusts of the president and directors of the Literary Fund of North Carolina, and shall have full power to legislate and make all needful rules and regulations in relation to free public schools and the educational fund of the State; but all acts, rules and regulations of said board may be altered, amended, or repealed by the General Assembly, and when so altered, amended, or repealed they shall not be re-enacted by the board.

§ 11. First session of the board.—The first session of the Board of Education shall be held at the capital of the State within fifteen days after the organization of the State government under this Constitution; the time of future meetings may be determined by the board.

§ 12. Quorum.—A majority of the board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

§ 13. Expenses.—The contingent expenses of the board shall be provided by the General Assembly.

§ 14. Agricultural department. — As soon as practicable after the adoption of this Constitution, the General Assembly shall establish and maintain, in connection with the University, a department of agriculture, of mechanics, of mining, and of normal instruction.

The Board a Department of State Government.—The Board of Agriculture is a department of the State Government, and an action against it to recover money alleged to have been wrongfully collected by it as a license tax cannot be maintained, the state not having given its consent to be sued in that respect. Chemical Co. v. Board, 111 N. C. 135, 136, 15 S. E. 1032.

§ 15. Children must attend school.—The General Assembly is hereby empowered to enact that every child, of sufficient mental and physical ability, shall attend the public schools during the period between the ages of six and eighteen years, for a term of not less than sixteen months, unless educated by other means.

Stated and Applied in State v. Wolf, 145 N. C. 440, 441, 59 S. E. 40.

ARTICLE X

Homesteads and Exemptions

§ 1. Exemptions of personal property.—The personal property of any resident of this State, to the value of five hundred dollars, to be selected by such resident, shall be and is hereby exempted from sale under execution or other final process of any court, issued for the collection of any debt.

Editor's Note.—It is thought more proper to place the main annotations regarding the homestead and personal property exemption under section 728 et seq., of the code. The notes placed thereunder together with the references compose a comprehensive treatment of the subject—reference to which is here made. The note found under this section is meant to embrace only direct construction of the provisions hereof, and may be of aid to the practitioner in dealing with the sections above mentioned.

Section Liberally Construed.—Hyman v. Stern, 43 F. (2d) 666.

The Marital Duty of Husband.—The husband's duty to protect and provide for his wife is more than a debt in its ordinary acceptation of the word, or within the contemplation of this and the following section of the consitution. Anderson v. Anderson, 183 N. C. 139, 110 S. E. 863.

A Constitutional Right.—The right to the personal property exemption exists not by virtue of the allotment, but by virtue of the Constitution which confers it and attaches the protection to the debtor before the allotment or appraisal. Lockhart v. Bear, 117 N. C. 298, 23 S. E. 484.

Meaning of "Final Process."—A debtor may legally demand his personal property exemption at any time and to the last moment before the appropriation thereof by the court, and the order of court directing a payment of the money derived from the sale of such property is final process within the meaning of the Constitution, giving the creditor such right until execution or other final process. Befarrah v. Spell, 178 N. C. 231, 100 S. E. 321.

Diminution in Value of Property.—In the well considered opinion in Campbell v. White, 95 N. C. 344, it was said: "Though the debtor's personal property exemption has been duly allotted, whenever it has been diminished by use, loss, or other cause, he has a right to have any other personal property he may have exempted up to the prescribed limit," Smith, C. J., saying that this section of the Constitution, is a continual mandate to the officer to leave so much of the debtor's personal estate untouched for his use, and, of course, the diminution from use, loss, or other cause must be replenished with other, if the debtor has such, up to the prescribed limits. It is plainly meant that when any final process against the debtor's estate is to be enforced, that much of his estate must be allowed to remain with him as not liable to sale. Gardner v. McConnaughey, 157 N. C. 481, 483, 73 S. E. 125.

Exemption Ceases at Death of Claimant. — The personal property exemption provided for by this section and the laws passed pursuant thereto, exists only during the life of the homesteader and after his death passes to his personal representative, to be disposed of in a due course of administration. Johnson v. Cross, 66 N. C. 167.

It is to be noted that by sections 3 and 5, after the death of the owner of a homestead, the exemption is continued on for the benefit of his children or widow; but there is no such provision in regard to the "personal property exemption."—Ed. Note.

Forfeiture of Exemption.—A bankrupt who conceals assets exceeding in value his statutory exemption forfeits his right to such exemption. Hyman v. Stern, 43 F. (2d) 666.

§ 2. Homestead.—Every homestead, and the dwellings and buildings used therewith, not exceeding in value one thousand dollars, to be selected by the owner thereof, or in lieu thereof, at the option of the owner, any lot in a city, town, or village with the dwelling and buildings used thereon, owned and occupied by any resident of this State, and not exceeding the value of one thousand dollars, shall be exempt from sale under execution or other final process obtained on any debt. But no property shall be exempt from sale for taxes or for payment of obligations contracted for the purchase of said premises.

Cross Reference.—For full treatment of the subject, see 7 N. C. Enc. Dig. 90 et seq.; 14 N. C. Enc. Dig. 308 et seq.; see the title "Constitutional Law," 3 N. C. Enc. Dig. 290 et seq. See also, section 728 et seq. and notes placed thereunder.

Homestead and Personal Property Exemptions Distinguished.—The homestead exemption is permanent unless there is a reallotment by reason of an increase in value in the manner provided by section 732. But the personal property exemption is to be reassigned, whenever, at subsequent dates, executions are levied. The reason is that the realty is fixed and stable, whereas the articles of personal property may be increased or diminished in quantity, between the levy of executions. Gardner v. McConnaughey, 157 N. C. 481, 483, 73 S. E. 125.

In view of this section the doctrine of estoppel cannot deny the bankrupt his right to a homestead in lands which were subject to his debts. In selecting the land for his homestead exemption, he is not restricted to the tract on which he lives. In re Hamrick, 56 F. (2d) 240, 241.

Right May Be Sold or Assigned.—The homestead right or estate is salable or assignable, and the purchaser can hold the land to which it pertains to the exclusion of judgment creditors during its existence. Gardner v. Batts, 114 N. C. 496, 19 S. E. 794. As to requisites of deed, see section 8 and note thereto.

Where there is a homestead right in land, the homesteader may alienate the same only with the joinder and private examination of the wife. Farris v. Hendricks, 196 N. C. 439, 146 S. E. 73, 77.

The owner of lands loses his right to a homestead therein allowed by this section upon his conveying the title to the same, by deed, though he may select a homestead thereafter in other of his lands under the provisions of section 729 of the Code. Duplin County v. Harrell, 195 N. C. 445, 142 S. E. 481.

Allotment Unnecessary.—The title to the homestead is vested in the owner by the Constitution of this State, and no allotment by the sheriff is necessary to vest the title thereto. The allotment by the sheriff is only for the purpose of ascertaining whether there be an excess of property over the homestead which is subject to execution. Lambert v. Kinnery, 74 N. C. 348.

Where a mortgage on land is foreclosed and the land brings at the foreclosure sale a sum more than sufficient to pay the mortgage debt, the surplus remaining to the Constitutional limit of one thousand dollars is to be regarded as realty to which the homestead right attaches when the same has not been waived. Farris v. Hendricks, 196 N. C. 439, 146 S. E. 73, 77.

A mortgagor of lands is entitled to his homestead exemption in his equity of redemption as against the liens of judgment creditors, and an injunction will lie against the sale of the property under execution when his homestead has not been allotted. Cheek v. Walden, 195 N. C. 752, 143 S. E. 465.

A duly docketed judgment is a lien on the lands of the judgment debtor but is subject to the homestead interest in the lands as provided by this section. Farris v. Hendricks, 196 N. C. 439, 146 S. E. 73, 77.

Cited in Vannoy v. Green, 206 N. C. 77, 80, 173 S. E. 277.

§ 3. Homestead exemption from debt.—The homestead, after the death of the owner thereof, shall be exempt from the payment of any debt during the minority of his children, or any of them.

See Editor's Note to section 5.

Only Infant Children Included.—An heir twenty-one years old is not entitled to homestead in the lands of his ancestor, his right thereto ceased as soon as he attained his majority. Saylor v. Powell, 90 N. C. 202.

The widow by a second marriage of one who died seized and possessed of land leaving no children by her, is not entitled to the benefit of a homestead therein, when he has left children by his first marriage, though they are adult. The meaning of the language of this and section 5 too plain for construction, that in speaking of children the instrument refers to children of the deceased owner. Simmons v. Respass, 151 N. C. 5, 65 S. E. 516.

Same—Where Only One Minor.—Where the owner of a homestead dies, leaving children, some of age and one a minor, the homestead estate vests alone in the minor child until his or her majority. Simpson v. Wallace, 83 N. C. 477.

Pecuniary Standing of Children Not Considered.—The right to a homestead is given to the minor children of an insolvent father, regardless of their pecuniary circumstances. Allen v. Shields, 72 N. C. 504; Spence v. Goodwin, 128 N. C. 273, 38 S. E. 859.

Right Not Waivable by Guardian Ad Litem.—A guardian ad litem cannot waive the homestead rights of infant heirs, especially when there is no consideration therefor, for such waiver would affect the substantial rights of the infants. Spence v. Goodwin, 128 N. C. 273, 38 S. E. 859.

The debt referred to in this section means the debt of the owner of the homestead, and not the debt of the infant children. Bruton v. McRae, 125 N. C. 206, 207, 210, 34 S. E. 397.

Right Not to Be Sold for Assets.—In a proceeding to sell land for assets, the executor can not sell the homestead interest of a minor child and devisee of the testator. Bruton v. McRae, 125 N. C. 206, 207, 34 S. E. 397.

§ 4. Laborer's lien.—The provisions of section one and two of this article shall not be so construed as to prevent a laborers lien for work done and performed for the person claiming such exemption, or a mechanic's lien for work done on the premises.

Cross References.—See section 2433 et seq. and notes thereto. For other exceptions to the exemptions, see note of Mebane v. Layton, 89 N. C. 396, under section 728.

Definition of Terms.—A "laborer's lien" is solely for labor performed, while a "mechanic's lien" is broader and includes the "work done," i. e., the "building built" or superstructure put on the premises. Broyhill v. Gaither, 119 N. C. 443, 26 S. E. 31.

Lien for Materials Furnished.—See note of Cumming v. Bloodworth, 87 N. C. 83, under section 2433. See also, Broyhill v. Gaither, 119 N. C. 443, 26 S. E. 31.

Applied in Sugg v. Pollard, 184 N. C. 494, 115 S. E. 153; Isler v. Dixon, 140 N. C. 529, 53 S. E. 348; McMillan v. Williams, 109 N. C. 252, 13 S. E. 764.

Quoted in Roper Lumber Co. v. Lawson, 195 N. C. 840, 844, 143 S. E. 847.

§ 5. Benefit of widow.—If the owner of a homestead die, leaving a widow but no children, the same shall be exempt from the debts of her husband, and rents and profits thereof shall inure to her benefit during her widowhood, unless she be the owner of a homestead in her own right.

Cross Reference.—See section 728, analysis line "Who Entitled to Homestead and Exemptions," II, B. As to allotment after death of homesteader, see section 748 and notes thereto; as to right of widow whose deceased husband leaves adult children by a former marriage, see note of Simmons v. Respass, 151 N. C. 5, 65 S. E. 516, under section 3 of this article.

Editor's Note.—It is to be noted that the widow's right to the homestead provided for by this section is expressly conditioned upon her not being the owner of a homestead in her own right. Such a clause is not contained in section 3 which gives the right to the children during minority. On this point it was said in Spence v. Goodwin, 128 N. C. 273, 277, 38 S. E. 859: "This ———— emphasizes by direct implication the unconditional right of exemption given to the children by section 3."

Ownership at Death Essential.—It is only in the contingency that the husband is the owner of a homestead at the time of his death that the exemption from debts inures to her benefit. Thomas v. Bunch, 158 N. C. 175, 178, 73 S. E. 899.

Heirs Prior to Widow Where There Are No Creditors.—A widow is not entitled to homestead against the heirs at law where there are no creditors, but only to dower. Caudle v. Morris, 160 N. C. 168, 76 S. E. 17. See also, Tucker v. Tucker, 103 N. C. 170, 9 S. E. 299.

§ 6. Property of married women secured to them.—The real and personal property of any female in this State acquired before marriage, and all property, real and personal, to which she may, after marriage, become in any manner entitled, shall be and remain the sole and separate estate and property of such female, and shall not be liable for any debts, obligations, or engagements of her husband, and may be devised and bequeathed and, with the written assent of her husband, conveyed by her as if she were unmarried.

See notes to § 2506.

Editor's Note.—To give effect to the provisions of the organic law as embodied in this section, the legislature from time to time has enacted statutes whose essence may be boiled down in substance to what is contained in this section. In fact some of those statutes are a verbatim confirmation of these provisions, while others are corollaries thereof deducible by necessary inference from those provisions through judicial construction.

For example section 997 et seq. deals with the execution and proof of instruments affecting a married woman's title to her property; section 2506, secures to her all property acquired before and after marriage as her separate estate free from the claims of her husband; section 2507 authorizes her to contract, with certain qualifications, as if she were unmarried, sections 2511, 4129, 2506, empower her to dispose of her property by will, and there are many other sections in the code which are directly or indirectly offsprings of, or satellites to, this section.

By virtue of the community of source of these statutes, the instances are rare where this constitutional section has been construed apart from its satellites, or where the construction placed upon the latter is not applicable to the former, or vice versa. These constructions have been placed under the respective subordinate sections to which they refer, and all of them radiate a light upon the provisions of the organic law contained in this section. To the end that repetition may be avoided the counsel is urged to refer to those sections for no less direct constructions of this section than the sections under which they are placed, while he will find hereunder the more or less independent constructions of this section which do not appear under its subordinates.

In General.—There is no "beneficient provision of the Constitution" which throws additional shackles around women in the management of their separate property. The provision of the Constitution is in exactly the opposite direction, in accordance with the free spirit of the age and with the universal trend of legislation the world over. Its purpose is not to further assimilate married women to the condition of infants, but to make free women of them, to emancipate them from most of the restrictions formerly existing. Strouse v. Cohen, 113 N. C. 349, 353, 18 S. E. 323.

General Policy of Section.—This section is intended to emancipate married women and place them, so far as property rights are concerned, on a par with men and femes sole. McLeod v. Williams, 122 N. C. 451, 454, 30 S. E. 129.

Common Law Rule Changed.—The common-law rule giving to the husband the actual or potential ownership of the separate choses in action belonging to his wife by reducing them into possession is now changed by this section giving to the wife the sole ownership of her separate estate. Turlington v. Lucas, 186 N. C. 283, 119 S. E. 366.

Husband's Consent Necessary Only in Conveyances.—Under this section a married woman may dispose of her property by gift or otherwise without the assent of her husband, unless the law requires the disposition of it to be evidenced by a conveyance or a writing. Vann v. Edwards, 135 N. C. 661, 47 S. E. 784.

No Formal Conveyance to Transfer Note or Bond.—No formal conveyance is necessary under the requirement of this section of the Constitution in the transfer of a note or bond. The delivery of the note or bond to the endorsee after it has been endorsed in blank by the wife, the owner, and the husband, is a sufficient conveyance of the note or bond to satisfy the constitutional requirement. Coffin v. Smith, 128 N. C. 252, 255, 38 S. E. 864.

Legislative Power to Declare Wife Free Trader.—There is no constitutional inhibition on the power of the legislature to declare where and how the wife may become a free trader, this section being intended to protect instead of disabling her. Hall v. Walker, 118 N. C. 377, 24 S. E. 6.

Legislative Control over Capacity to Make Will.—This section conferring upon married women the right to make a will, etc., "as if she were unmarried," was designed chiefly to remove the common-law restriction on married women in this respect, and was not intended to free such right from every and all legislative regulation. Flanner v. Flanner, 160 N. C. 126, 75 S. E. 936.

May Devise or Bequeath Property as if Sole.—Under the provisions of this section, and as later declared by our statutes, a married woman may now devise and bequeath her separate real and personal property as if she were a feme sole, which does not apply to a conveyance of her realty by deed. Freeman v. Lide, 176 N. C. 434, 97 S. E. 402.

Liability of Husband for Rents Paid Wife after Foreclosure.—Where lands belonging to the separate estate of a wife have been foreclosed under a deed of trust thereon duly executed, and after such foreclosure the rents from the land are paid to the wife, the husband may not be held responsible for such rents by the person entitled to the rent by virtue of the foreclosure, since, under this section a wife is given sole ownership of her separate estate. In re Longley, 205 N. C. 488, 171 S. E. 788.

May Bar Husband's Curtesy by Devising the Property.—By marriage, before the adoption of the Constitution of 1868, the husband acquired no vested rights in the lands of his wife before a child was born capable of inheriting; and when the first child born of the marriage was after the adoption of the Constitution, which gives a married woman the power, among other things, of disposing, by will, of her property acquired before marriage, she may accordingly dispose of it by will and deprive him of his interest therein as tenant by the curtesy. Richardson v. Richardson, 150 N. C. 549, 64 S. E. 510.

Where a feme covert dies intestate her husband is entitled to his common law right of curtesy; where she devises her land, under this section, the estate of curtesy is destroyed. Tiddy v. Graves, 126 N. C. 620, 36 S. E. 127.

Vested curtesy rights of the husband at the time of the adoption of the constitution were not impaired by this section. Richardson v. Richardson, 150 N. C. 549, 64 S. E. 510.

Devise of Equitable Separate Estate.—She may devise her equitable separate estate, in the absence of contrary provisions in the instrument creating it, where the trustee is a passive trustee; and, whether the trust be passive or active, where the trust is to terminate with her life, and the estate to become absolute thereafter. Freeman v. Lide, 176 N. C. 434, 97 S. E. 402.

Same—Provisions of Instrument Creating the Estate Still Controls.—Married women have no greater estates, by operation of this section of the Constitution, than those conveyed by the terms of the deed under which they derive title; nor are the properties and incidents belonging to estates changed by that instrument. Long v. Barnes, 87 N. C. 329, 330.

The constitution imposes no limitation upon the right of a grantor or devisor to restrict or enlarge, by the terms of the instrument through which title passes, her jus disponendi. Kirby v. Boyette, 118 N. C. 244, 24 S. E. 18.

Not Applicable to Obligations of Wife as Surety to Her Husband.—This section, providing that the separate property of the wife shall not be liable for the debts of the husband, has no application to the obligation of the wife as surety of her husband, such obligation being regarded as a direct one between the creditor and herself. Royal v. Southerland, 168 N. C. 405, 84 S. E. 708.

Extent of Veto Power of Husband.—The veto power of the husband does not extend to devises and bequests, nor to any other disposition of her property, save in those cases which under the law must be made by a "conveyance," i. e., deeds and mortgages of realty and such mortgages of personalty as are made by deed. To hold that the husband's veto power, by reason of the requirement of his written assent, extends to all gifts, sales, transfers and assignments of her personal property, oral or written, is to make the veto as broad as the enfranchisement. It is to say that her property shall remain hers, as before marriage, but that in no case whatever shall she own it as if she had remained single. It would be to require the husband's written assent in cases where no writing would be necessary on the part of the wife. Jennings v. Hinton, 126 N. C. 48, 53, 35 S. E. 187.

Estates by entireties as between husband and wife still exist in North Carolina, but where there is a judgment upon a joint contract against husband and wife, a lien thereunder is created against lands held by them in entireties, and execution may be issued against them. Martin v. Lewis, 187 N. C. 473, 122 S. E. 180.

Action for Tort.—The husband cannot sue to recover his wife's earnings, or damages for torts committed on her, and there is no reason why she can sue for torts or injuries inflicted on her husband. The law has never authorized the wife to maintain such action for torts sustained by the husband. If the husband could maintain an action to recover damages for torts on the wife she would be able to maintain an action on account of torts sustained by the husband. Such right of action if it existed in favor of the husband should exist in favor of the wife. It should be in favor of both, or neither, but in view of the constitution of 1868 and our statute on the subject, such action cannot be maintained by either on account of the injury to the other. Hipp v. Dupont, 182 N. C. 9, 108 S. E. 318.

Power to Contract by Virtue of This Section.—Where it was contended that when the Constitution gave married women separate estates in their property, it gave them by a necessary implication an unrestricted dominion over the property, to bind it directly or indirectly, except when expressly forbidden, and an unrestricted right to contract, such as a feme sole or a man has, it was held that there was no such grant implied, that the terms "sole and separate estate" had a known and definite meaning in the law when the Constitution was framed, and that it must be taken that they were used in that instrument in the sense which had been affixed to them by prior decisions of the court. Pippen v. Wesson, 74 N. C. 437, 444. But this power is now expressly accorded to married women by the terms of statute known as Martin Act embodied in section 2507.—Ed. Note.

Prohibitions of Sections 2529, Not Inhibited by This Section.—The provisions of section 2529, dispensing with the necessity of the written consent of the husband to the conveyance by the wife of her lands when he has "been declared an idiot or a lunatic" is not inhibited by this section of the constitution. Lancaster v. Lancaster, 178 N. C. 22, 100 S. E. 120.

Conveyance by Submitting Title to Arbitrators.—If a married woman could dispose of her real estate, without the joinder of her husband, by submitting her title to arbitrators, that part of this section which ordains that a married woman, with the written assent of her husband, may convey her real estate, would be a dead letter. If such were the law, married woman, from design or by means or fraud and deceit, might by arbitrators, be deprived of their real estate and the husband deprived of his rights therein before he had knowledge of the matter, or the power to prevent it in either case. If a married woman could dispose of her real estate through arbitration, she would be enabled by an indirect method to do that which the Constitution and the laws prohibit, and that will never be allowed. Smith v. Bruton, 137 N. C. 79, 83, 49 S. E. 64.

Conveyances between Husband and Wife.—A deed executed by husband to wife in 1841, even if a fee simple deed, would have been void in law, and sustainable in equity only upon meritorious consideration; it is otherwise, as to such deed executed now, which is rendered valid under this section. McLamb v. McPhail, 126 N. C. 218, 35 S. E. 426.

Assignment of Insurance Policy.—The signature of the husband, as witness, to a written assignment by the wife, of her interest in an insurance policy on his life, taken out by him for her benefit, is equivalent to an assignment by the wife, "with the written assent of her husband," as provided by this section. Jennings v. Hinton, 126 N. C. 48, 35 S. E. 187.

§ 7. Husband may insure his life for the benefit of wife and children.—The husband may insure his own life for the sole use and benefit of his wife and children, and in case of the death of the husband the amount thus insured shall be paid over to the wife and children, or to the guardian, if under age, for her or their own use, free from all the claims of the representatives of her husband, or any of his creditors. And the policy shall not be subject to claims of creditors of the insured during the life of the insured, if the insurance issued is for the sole use and benefit of the wife and/or children.

Editor's Note.—The amendment proposed by Public Laws of 1931, c. 262, and ratified at the next succeeding general election, added the last sentence to this section.

Generally.—This section clearly looks to the provision for the wife and children so that they may not be left destitute by the death of an insolvent husband and father, and is personal to them when they survive. Hooker v. Sugg, 102 N. C. 115, 8 S. E. 919.

The purpose is to enable the husband to make valuable provision for his wife and children after his death, above, beyond and unaffected by his estate, personal and real, and the conditions of the same remaining at the time of his death. Burwell v. Snow, 107 N. C. 82, 87, 11 S. E. 1090.

Not a Part of Insured's Estate.—Where a life insurance policy is issued to one in the name and for the benefit of the wife and children it does not upon his death become a part of his estate. Burton v. Farinholt, 86 N. C. 260, 261. See also the discussion of this point contained in the dissenting opinion in Herring v. Sutton, 129 N. C. 107, 113, 39 S. E. 772.

Under this section the proceeds from the insurance policy payable to the wife and children is not a part of the insured's estate so that it may be claimed by an heir or next of kin. Burwell v. Snow, 107 N. C. 82, 87, 11 S. E. 1090.

This section "means, in the absence of fraud, that payment of premiums, even by an insolvent husband, shall not defeat payment at the death of the husband to the beneficiaries named in the policy." Whiting v. Squires, 6 F. (2d) 100, 101, reversing In re Pittman, 275 F. 686.

"The limit of the constitutional exemption of an insurance policy on the life of the husband against the claims of his creditors is that the wife or the wife and children take the benefits of a policy payable to her or them as beneficiaries at the death of the insured. The exemption may cover a policy payable to the wife and children with no power of the insured to change the beneficiaries, because in such a policy the wife or the wife and children have a vested interest, and the policy, if paid at all, must be paid to them at the death of the husband. But the exemption does not embrace the surrender value, the property of the husband, of a policy in which he can change the beneficiary at will." Whiting v. Squires, 6 F. (2d) 100, 101, reversing In re Pittman, 275 F. 686.

"The legislature could not by statute add to the constitutional exemption. Wharton v. Taylor, 88 N. C. 230. Therefore it could not make an exemption of the surrender value of the policy which might or might not, according to the will of the husband, fall to the wife or the wife and children as a policy of which they were beneficiaries at the death of the husband. It follows that, if the statute be construed as embracing the surrender value of a policy like these, it would be invalid as a legislative attempt to enlarge the insurance exemption to the wife and children provided by the Constitution." Whiting v. Squires, 6 F. (2d) 100, 102, reversing In re Pittman, 275 F. 686.

If § 6464 stood alone, with its language unrestrained by the constitutional provision, the argument would be strong in favor of the view that every possible value of a policy including cash surrender value, though the husband retained the right to change the beneficiary, inures to the benefit and use of the wife or her children. This is the view taken of somewhat similar statutes where no constitutional limitation was involved. But, as this construction of the statute of North Carolina is doubtful, it should not be adopted when opposed to the provision of the Constitution, for every presumption must be indulged that the Legislature did not intend to attempt by statute to confer an exemption beyond that provided by the Constitution. Taking this view, we hold that the last sentence of the statute is but a repetition of the constitutional provision on the same subject, and is limited in its application to a policy of insurance standing in the name of the wife or her children as beneficiaries at the death of the husband. Whiting v. Squires, 6 F. (2d) 100, 102, reversing In re Pittman, 275 F. 686.

"The rule laid down by the Supreme Court is that under § 70a of the bankruptcy statute (Comp. St. § 9654) the cash surrender value of a policy of insurance is an asset of a bankrupt's estate, even when the policy is payable to a beneficiary other than the bankrupt, his estate, or his personal representative, if the bankrupt has reserved absolute power to change the beneficiary. Cohen v. Samuels. 245 U. S. 50, 38 S. Ct. 36, 62 L. Ed. 143; Cohn v. Malone, 248 U. S. 450, 39 S. Ct. 141, 63 L. Ed. 352. The court has further held that insurance policies embraced within the exemption laws of the state do not become assets in the hands of the trustee for the benefit of creditors. Holden v. Stratton, 198 U. S. 202, 25 S. Ct. 656, 49 L. Ed. 1018." Whiting v. Squires, 6 F. (2d) 100, reversing In re Pittman, 275 F. 686.

§ 8. How deed for homestead may be made.—Nothing contained in the foregoing sections of this article shall operate to prevent the owner of a homestead from disposing of the same by deed; but no deed made by the owner of a homestead shall be valid without the voluntary signature and assent of his wife, signified on her private examination according to law.

Cross Reference.—See section 997 et seq. and notes thereto. As to form of private examination, see sections 3324, 3325. See also note of Dalrymple v. Cole, 170 N. C. 102, 86 S. E. 988, under section 729.

Section Applies After Allotment of Homestead.—This section applies only to a conveyance of the homestead after it has been laid off. Mayho v. Cotton, 69 N. C. 289, 292, cited and approved in Dalrymple v. Cole, 170 N. C. 102, 104, 86 S. E. 988. See also, Hager v. Nixon, 69 N. C. 108.

General Rule.—A deed executed by the homesteader without the joinder of his wife is invalid and passes no interest. Wittkowsky v. Gidney, 124 N. C. 437, 438, 441, 32 S. E. 731.

The title to a homestead can be divested from the owner only in the mode prescribed by law, to-wit, by deed, with the consent of the wife evidenced by her privy examination. Lambert v. Kinnery, 74 N. C. 348.

Right of Grantee upon Non-Jointure of Wife.—Where a husband conveys his land without having his wife join in the deed, the grantee acquires the land free from the right of the wife to a homestead, unless the same has been laid off therein to the husband, but subject to the wife's right of dower, should she survive him. Dalrymple v. Cole, 170 N. C. 102, 104, 86 S. E. 988. For other enumerated instances wherein the assent of the wife is not necessary, see note of Hughes v. Hodges, 102 N. C. 236, 9 S. E. 437, under section 999. See also, Simmons v. McCullin, 163 N. C. 409, 79 S. E. 625.

It will be seen that the provisions of this section do not become effective, and do not begin to operate until an allotment of the homestead is made to the husband. On this point the cases appear to be entirely in accord. A full discussion containing a minute detail of the reasons therefor may be found in Dalrymple v. Cole, 170 N. C. 102, 104, 86 S. E. 988, cited supra.—Ed. Note.

Jointure of Wife Unnecessary in Conveyance of Estate in Reversion.—A married woman has no interest or estate in the reversion which takes effect after a homestead estate; therefore the assent of the wife is not necessary to give validity to a deed of the husband conveying such estate in reversion. Jenkins v. Bobbitt, 77 N. C. 385.

This holding is based on the construction placed on this section which is to the effect that the assent of the wife is necessary to a disposition of the homestead estate, and does not embrace the reversion.—Ed. Note.

Same—Unnecessary as to Residue. — The general power of alienation incident to ordinary ownership of real property exists as to all the residue or remaining interest in the lands over the homestead exemption, whether the exemption has or has not been allotted, this section of the Constitution applying alone to the homestead interest, and none other. Davenport v. Fleming, 154 N. C. 291, 70 S. E. 472.

Private Examination Hereunder Indispensable.—The private examination of a married woman is a mere statutory requirement and may be dispensed with or modified by the Legislature except in the cases embraced in the provisions of this section. Barrett v. Barrett, 120 N. C. 127, 131, 26 S. E. 691.

Land Acquired Prior to 1868.—The husband may convey land acquired before the Constitution of 1868 without the joinder of the wife and thereby bar the wife of dower or homestead. Cawfield v. Owens, 129 N. C. 286, 40 S. E. 62.

Cited in Corporation Commission v. Transportation Committee, 198 N. C. 317, 323, 151 S. E. 648; Boyd v. Brooks, 197 N. C. 644, 649, 150 S. E. 178.

ARTICLE XI

Punishments, Penal Institutions, and Public Charities

§ 1. Punishments; convict labor; proviso.—The following punishments only shall be known to the laws of this State, viz; death, imprisonment with or without hard labor, fines, removal from office and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust, or profit under this State. The foregoing provision for imprisonment with hard labor shall be construed to authorize the employment of such convict labor on public works or highways, or other labor for public benefit, and the farming out thereof, where and in such manner as may be provided by law; but no convict shall be farmed out who has been sentenced on a charge of murder, manslaughter, rape, attempt to commit rape, or arson: Provided, that no convict whose labor may be farmed out shall be punished for any failure of duty as a laborer, except by a responsible officer of the State; but the convicts so farmed out shall be at all times under the supervision and control, as to their government and discipline, of the penitentiary board or some officer of this State.

Editor's Note.—This section of the constitution constitutes the basis for the legislative enactments regulating the punishment of violation of the criminal law found in the specific sections in the code. It sets definite boundaries beyond which the legislature, in the exercise of the power to prescribe the punishment for the various crimes, cannot transgress. The cases placed in the notes found under the specific sections in the chapter, "Crimes and Punishments," of the code, will necessarily throw some light on this section of the constitution. This fact renders it needless to repeat, at this point, a citation of those cases, and it is only necessary to refer the counsel to the sections of the above mentioned chapter.

Working Convicts—Section Not Basis of Disciplinary Rules.—This constitutional provision has no direct application to the discipline required in our jails and penitentiaries, for if so it would prevent solitary confinement, restriction of rations, and other reasonable punishments that are in customary use in prisons and penitentiaries. State v. Nipper, 166 N. C. 272, 274, 81 S. E. 164. But officers are civilly and criminally liable for an abuse or oppression of the adopted regulations under which the convicts are kept. State v. Young, 138 N. C. 571, 575, 50 S. E. 213.

Same—Regulations Must Be Reasonable.—Whether the prisoners are worked on the public road or kept in jail the regulations under which they must live must be reasonable. State v. Young, 138 N. C. 571, 575, 50 S. E. 213.

Stated in State v. Burnett, 179 N. C. 735, 102 S. E. 711.

§ 2. Death punishment.—The object of punishments being not only to satisfy justice, but also to reform the offender, and thus prevent crime, murder, arson, burglary, rape, and these only, may be punishable with death, if the General Assembly shall so enact.

Cross Reference.—See editor's note to section 1 of this article. As to punishment for murder, see section 4200 and note thereto; as to punishment for arson, see section 4238 and note thereto; as to burning of buildings other than dwelling houses, see sections 4239 et seq., and notes thereto; as to punishment for burglary, see section 4233 and note thereto; as to punishment for rape, see section 4204 and note thereto.

Power of Legislature.—The punishment to be inflicted for any crime is left entirely to the general assembly, which can in its discretion affix lesser punishments, even for the four crimes, mentioned in this section, which are now visited with capital punishment. State v. Lytle, 138 N. C. 738, 744, 51 S. E. 66.

Under the discretionary power given by the constitution, the legislature has divided the crimes murder and burglary into two degrees and has affixed thereto the punishment for each enumerated offense. See specific cross references.—Ed. Note.

Applied to repeal portion of statute prescribing punishment of death for burning mill house, in State v. King, 69 N. C. 419.

§ 3. Penitentiary.—The General Assembly shall, at its first meeting, make provision for the erection and conduct of a States prison or penitentiary, at some central and accessible point within the State.

Legislative Duties.—This provision imposes upon the Legislature the duty of attending to the details as to the erection of the necessary buildings, the purchase of such property, real and personal, as may be necessary for the uses of the prison; and also to form such regulations for the government and conduct of the prison as may seem proper. The officers or placement, their salaries and the distribution of their duties are all left with the General Assembly. State Prison v. Day, 124 N. C. 362, 367, 32 S. E. 748.

As to appointment of the directors of the penitentiary and filling vacancies, see N. C. Const., Art. III, section 10.

Referred to in Railroad v. Holden, 63 N. C. 410, 436; Sedberry v. Carver, 77 N. C. 319, 320.

§ 4. Houses of correction.—The General Assembly may provide for the erection of houses of correction, where vagrants and persons guilty of misdemeanors shall be restrained and usefully employed.

Cross Reference.—See section 7313 et seq. of the code. See also section 1365 et seq. of the code.

Definition.—A house of correction, "as the name indicates, is designed for the reformation of youthful criminals, those who have not yet become hardened in crime." Ex parte Moore, 72 Cal. 11, cited In re Watson, 157 N. C. 340, 351, 72 S. E. 1049.

§ 5. Houses of refuge.—A house or houses of refuge may be established whenever the public interest may require it, for the correction and instruction of other classes or offenders.

§ 6. The sexes to be separated.—It shall be required, by competent legislation, that the structure and superintendence of penal institutions of the State, the county jails, and city police prisons secure the health and comfort of the prisoners, and that male and female prisoners be never confined in the same room or cell.

The word "superintendence," as used in this section, was intended to impose upon the governing officials of municipal corporations the duty of exercising ordinary care in procuring articles essential for the health and comfort of prisoners, and of overlooking their subordinates in immediate control of the prisoners, so far at least as to replenish the supply of necessary articles when notified that they are needed; and of employing such agents and appropriating such moneys as may be necessary to keep the prison in such condition as to secure the comfort and health of the inmates. Moffitt v. Asheville, 103 N. C. 237, 9 S. E. 695.

Liability of the City.—Under this section a city is liable in damages only for a failure to so construct its prison, or so provide it with fuel, bed-clothing, heating apparatus, attendance and other things necessary, as to secure to prisoners a reasonable degree of comfort, and protect them from such actual bodily suffering as would injure their health. If the Aldermen of a city comply with the above requirements, the city is not liable in damages for sickness and suffering endured by a prisoner, and caused by the neglect of the jailer, policeman or attendants, to properly minister to his wants and necessities. Moffitt v. Asheville, 103 N. C. 237, 9 S. E. 695.

§ 7. Provision for the poor and orphans.—Beneficent provisions for the poor, the unfortunate and orphan, being one of the first duties of a civilized and Christian state, the General Assembly shall, at its first session, appoint and define the duties of a board of public charities, to whom shall be entrusted the suprevision of all charitable and penal State institutions, and who shall annually report to the Governor upon their condition, with suggestions for their improvement.

Cross Reference.—As to corporate powers of a county generally, as exercised by the board of commissioners, see section 1297 of the code; as to limitation on county indebtedness, see section 1291 of the code; as to the corporate powers of a municipal corporation, see section 2623 of the code; as to maintenance of the county poor, see section 1335 of the code, and notes thereto; as to allowance of pensions, see section 1340 of the code.

Editor's Note.—This section of the constitution has been the source of numerous legislative enactments, some of the most important of which are referred to above. The notes placed under these sections of the code contain many cases which will throw an illuminating light on the substantive law embodied in this section of the constitution. It is believed to be more helpful and beneficial to the practioner to make reference to these specific sections of the code, and the notes placed thereunder, where the constructions of the code sections are given in connection with basic constitutional provisions, than to segregate them and leave it to the searcher to find the connecting links.

Erection of County Home—Issuing Bonds.—The building of a county home is for a class of citizens without a place of residence, and beneficient provision for whom is recommended by this section, "as one of the first duties of a civilized and Christian State;" therefore, providing for such a home being included in the idea of their support, a county may pledge its faith and credit and issue valid bonds for that purpose, as a necessary expense, without the approval of its voters. Commissioners v. Spitzer & Co., 173 N. C. 147, 91 S. E. 707.

There is no contractual duty on the part of the State to care for and maintain insane persons, the State Hospital being a charitable institution of the State, maintained voluntarily in recognition of Christian principles, as set out in this section. See § 7534(g) et seq. State v. Security Nat. Bank, 207 N. C. 697, 178 S. E. 487.

Referred to in Board v. Commissioners, 113 N. C. 379, 383, 18 S. E. 661; Board v. Commissioners, 137 N. C. 310, 315, 49 S. E. 353.

§ 8. Orphan houses.—There shall also, as soon as practicable, be measures devised by the State for the establishment of one or more orphan houses, where destitute orphans may be cared for, educated and taught some business or trade.

§ 9. Inebriates and idiots.—It shall be the duty of the Legislature, as soon as practicable, to devise means for the education of idiots and inebriates.

§ 10. Deaf-mutes, blind, and insane.—The General Assembly may provide that indigent deaf-mute, blind, and insane of the State shall be cared for at the charge of the State.

§ 11. Self-supporting.—It shall be steadily kept in view by the Legislature and the board of public charities that all penal and charitable institutions should be made as nearly self-supporting as is consistent with the purposes of their creation.

ARTICLE XII

Militia

§ 1. Who are liable to militia duty.—All able-bodied male citizens of the State of North Carolina, between the ages of twenty-one and forty years, who are citizens of the United States, shall be liable to duty in the militia: Provided, that all persons who may be averse to bearing arms, from religious scruples, shall be exempt therefrom.

Stated in Hinton v. Lacy, 193 N. C. 496, 137 S. E. 669.

§ 2. Organizing, etc.—The General Assembly shall provide for the organizing, arming, equipping, and discipline of the militia, and for paying the same, when called into active service.

Cross Reference.—For the numerous legislative enactments on the subject, see the chapter "Militia", section 6791 et seq. As to support of families of indigent militiamen, see section 1340 of the code.

By Whom Militia Paid.—The legislature may provide, if it think proper to do so, how and by whom the militia shall be paid. Worth v. Commissioners, 118 N. C. 112, 120, 24 S. E. 778. And in the absence of any special provision, they are to be paid by the state—the "power" that calls them out. Id. See section 6866 of the code and the note thereto.

Cited in Baker v. State, 200 N. C. 232, 156 S. E. 917.

§ 3. Governor Commander-in-chief.—The Governor shall be commander-in-chief and shall have power to call out the militia to execute the law, suppress riots or insurrections, and to repel invasion.

Governor May Call Out Militia.—In the absence of legislation, the governor, as commander-in-chief, has the power to call out the militia, and the state guard being made a part of the militia, he has the power to call them out. This constitutional power may be regulated by legislation providing what shall amount to sufficient evidence of the existence of the causes mentioned in this section of the constitution. Worth v. Commissioners, 118 N. C. 112, 120, 24 S. E. 778.

Same—Not Subject to Legislative Restriction.—The legislature has no authority to restrict the power of the governor to call out the militia. Worth v. Commissioners, 118 N. C. 112, 124, 24 S. E. 778.

When Called into Service of United States.—See N. C. Const., Art. III, section 8.

§ 4. Exemptions.—The General Assembly shall have power to make such exemptions as may be deemed necessary, and to enact laws that may be expedient for the government of the militia.

ARTICLE XIII

Amendments

§ 1. Convention, how called.—No convention of the people of this State shall ever be called by the General Assembly, unless by the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members of each house of the General Assembly, and except the proposition, convention or no convention, be first submitted to the qualified voters of the whole State, at the next general election, in a manner to be prescribed by law. And should a majority of the votes cast be in favor of said convention, it shall assemble on such day as may be prescribed by the General Assembly.

See 11 N. C. Law Rev., 242, for discussion as to whether the provisions of this section apply to the calling of a convention to consider a proposed federal amendment. This question was said to perplex the legislature and served to divide the Supreme Court.

General Assembly may call convention to consider proposed amendment to the U. S. Constitution either under this section or in the exercise of its plenary powers. See "Opinions of the Justices," 204 N. C., Appendix, p. IX, par. 3.

§ 2. How the Constitution may be altered.—No part of the Constitution of this State shall be altered unless a bill to alter the same shall have been agreed to by three-fifths of each house of the General Assembly. And the amendment or amendments so agreed to shall be submitted at the next general election to the qualified voters of the whole State, in such manner as may be prescribed by law. And in the event of their adoption by a majority of the votes cast, such amendment or amendments shall become a part of the Constitution of this State.

Editor's Note. — Public Laws 1931, c. 104, proposed an amendment to this section whereby the submission could be at a special election called for the purpose which was defeated.

Generally.—While to amend the Constitution of the State it is necessary for the voters to approve the proposed amendments to be submitted to them, it is likewise necessary to the validity of the election that the Legislature enact the proposition to amend into a statute by a three-fifths vote of each branch; and the constitutional provision that they be submitted "in such manner as may be prescribed by law" includes within its intent and meaning the time at which the amendments will be effective, if approved, the Constitution being silent on this point. Reade v. Durham, 173 N. C. 668, 91 S. E. 712.

Applied in University v. McIver, 72 N. C. 76.

ARTICLE XIV

Miscellaneous

§ 1. Indictments.—All indictments which shall have been found, or may hereafter be found, for any crime or offense committed before this Constitution takes effect, may be proceeded upon in the proper courts, but no punishment shall be inflicted which is forbidden by this Constitution.

Cross Reference.—See sections 4610-4625 of the code and the notes thereto. As to punishments, see N. C. Const. Art. XI, sections 1 et seq., and the references there made.

Cited in Debham v. Telephone Co., 126 N. C. 831, 835, 36 S. E. 269.

§ 2. Penalty for fighting duel.—No person who shall hereafter fight a duel, or assist in the same as a second, or send, accept, or knowingly carry a challenge therefor, or agree to go out of the State to fight a duel, shall hold any office in this State.

Stated in Cole v. Sanders, 174 N. C. 112, 114, 93 S. E. 476.

§ 3. Drawing money.—No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and an accurate account of the receipts and expenditures of the public money shall be annually published.

Editor's Note.—This section is an exact repetition of the United States Constitution, Art. I, section 9, cl. 7.

Legislative Authority Required.—This section means that there must be legislative authority in order for money to be validly drawn from the treasury. In other words, the legislative power is supreme over the public purse. White v. Hill, 125 N. C. 194, 200, 34 S. E. 432, citing Garner v. Worth, 122 N. C. 250, 29, S. E. 364.

Section as Bar to Judicial Action.—This section effectually bars any judicial action to enforce collection of liabilities against the state, and the courts cannot direct the state treasurer to pay such claims, however just and unquestioned, when there is no legislative appropriation to pay the same. Garner v. Worth, 122 N. C. 250, 252, 29 S. E. 364.

When Mandamus Will Lie.—It is only when the legislative department has appropriated a certain fund to the payment of a liability incurred or to be incurred and the Auditor or Treasurer refuses to obey the legislative mandate that the Court can issue its mandamus to compel him to do so. Garner v. Worth, 122 N. C. 250, 253, 29 S. E. 364.

The state treasurer may refuse to pay a warrant of the auditor if it appear that the law under which it is issued is unconstitutional or the claim is not within the terms of the statute under which it is brought. Martin v. Clark, 135 N. C. 178, 180, 47 S. E. 397.

Mandamus to Enforce Payment against County.—See section 1330 of the code and the notes thereto.

§ 4. Mechanic's lien.—The General Assembly shall provide, by proper legislation, for giving to mechanics and laborers an adequate lien on the subject-matter of their labor.

Editor's Note.—Under the power given by this section of the constitution the legislature has passed numerous enactments which secure to mechanics and laborers adequate liens, and means for their enforcement. These provisions may be found in section 2433 et seq. of the code. Since the language of this constitutional section is clear and unobscure, merely giving to the general assembly a well-defined power, little judicial construction will be found, all the cases merely stating this provision of the constitution as the foundation of the code sections above referred to. Whatever seemingly ambiguous terms that may be found in the code sections which have sprung out of this section of the constitution are explained in the note to the specific section in the code.

Quoted in Roper Lumber Co. v. Lawson, 195 N. C. 840, 844, 143 S. E. 847; Boykin v. Logan, 203 N. C. 196, 165 S. E. 680.

§ 5. Governor to make appointments.—In the absence of any contrary provision, all officers of this State, whether heretofore elected or appointed by the Governor, shall hold their positions only until other appointments are made by the Governor, or, if the officers are elective, until their successors shall have been chosen and duly qualified according to the provisions of this Constitution.

Cited in Markham v. Simpson, 175 N. C. 135, 95 S. E. 106.

§ 6. Seat of government.—The seat of government in this State shall remain at the city of Raleigh.

§ 7. Holding office. — No person who shall hold any office or place of trust or profit under the United States, or any department thereof, or under this State, or under any other state or government, shall hold or exercise any other office or place of trust or profit under the authority of this State, or be eligible to a seat in either house of the General Assembly: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall extend to officers in the militia, justices of the peace, commissioners of public charities, or commissioners for special purposes.

Cross Reference.—As to what constitutes a public office and numerous illustrations thereof, see note to section 870. As to form and nature of the action to declare an office vacant, see sections 870 et seq. and the notes there placed.

Purpose.—The manifest intent is to prevent double office-holding—that offices and places of public trust should not accumulate in any single person—and the superadded words of "places of trust or profit" were put there to avoid evasion in giving too technical a meaning to the preceding words. Doyle v. Raleigh, 89 N. C. 133, cited and approved in Groves v. Borden, 169 N. C. 8, 84 S. E. 1042.

Effect of Acceptance of Similar Office.—Where one holding an "office or place of profit" accepts another such office or position in contravention of this section of the Constitution, the first is vacated eo instanti, and any further acts done by him in connection with the first office are without color, and cannot be de facto. Whitehead v. Pittman, 165 N. C. 89, 80 S. E. 976.

In Barnhill v Thompson, 122 N. C. 493, 29 S. E. 720, it is said: "The acceptance of a second office by holding a public office operates ipso facto to vacate the first. While the officer has a right to elect which he will retain, his election is deemed to have been made when he accepts and qualifies for the second." The acceptance of the second office is of itself a resignation of the first. Cited with approval in Whitehead v. Pittman, 165 N. C. 89, 90, 80 S. E. 976.

Where one holding an office as county commissioner accepts a commission from the Governor as a notary public his position as county commissioner is eo instanti vacated, and where he continues to exercise the duties of county commissioner he may be removed therefrom in an action in the nature of a quo warranto. Harris v. Watson, 201 N. C. 661, 161 S. E. 215.

Delegation of Duties.—A statute which places the affairs of a municipal corporation in the hands of a city council and a city manager and provides that in the event of a vacancy in the office of city manager, by sickness or otherwise, the council may delegate the duties of this office to one of its members, to be performed ex officio as mere auxiliary duties with such compensation as the council may determine, but shall receive no salary as a member of the council, is held not to contravene this section. State v. Holmes, 207 N. C. 293, 176 S. E. 746.

Applied in McCullers v. Commissioners, 158 N. C. 75, 73 S. E. 816; Barnhill v. Thompson, 122 N. C. 493, 29 S. E. 720.

§ 8. Intermarriage of whites and negroes prohibited.—All marriages between a white person and a negro, or between a white person and a person descent to the third generation, inclusive, are hereby forever prohibited.

Editor's Note.—This section of the constitution constitutes the first clause of section 4340 of the code. Reference is therefore made to the note placed under that section.

APPENDIX II

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I

§ 1. All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a congress of the United States, which shall consist of a senate and house of representatives.

§ 2. [1.] The house of representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states, and the electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature.

[2.] No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of the state in which he shall be chosen.

[3.] Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each state shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the state of New Hampshire shall be entitled to chuse three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New York six, New Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, South Carolina five, and Georgia three.

The first sentence of this clause (art. I, sec. 1, cl. 3) is amended by amendment XIV, § 2.

[4.] When vacancies happen in the representation from any state, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

[5.] The house of representatives shall chuse their speaker and other officers; and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

§ 3. [1.] The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote.

Art. I, s. 3, cl. 1, is superseded by amendment XVII.

[2.] Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any state, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

[3.] No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen.

[4.] The vice president of the United States shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote, unless they be equally divided.

[5.] The senate shall chuse their other officers, and also a president pro tempore, in the absence of the vice president, or when he shall exercise the office of president of the United States.

[6.] The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the president of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside: And no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

[7.] Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States: but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment, according to law.

§ 4. [1.] The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof; but the congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of chusing senators.

[2.] The congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

§ 5. [1.] Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

[2.] Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behaviour, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

[3.] Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

[4.] Neither house, during the session of congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other pace than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

§ 6. [1]. The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place.

[2.] No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States which shall have been created or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

§ 7. [1.] All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments as on other bills.

[2.] Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate shall, before it become a law, be presented to the president of the United States. If he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the president within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

[3.] Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the president of the United States; and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the senate and house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

§ 8. The congress shall have power [1.] To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts and exercises shall be uniform throughout the United States;

[2.] To borrow money on the credit of the United States;

[3.] To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states, and with the indian tribes;

[4.] To establish an uniform rule of naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States;

[5.] To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures;

[6.] To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States;

[7.] To establish post offices and post roads;

[8.] To promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries;

[9.] To constitute tribunals inferior to the supreme court;

[10.] To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offences against the law of nations;

[11.] To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water;

[12.] To raise and support armies, but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years;

[13.] To provide and maintain a navy;

[14.] To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces;

[15.] To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions;

[16.] To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the states respectively the appointment of the officers and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by congress;

[17.] To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular states, and the acceptance of congress, become the seat of the government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the state in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards, and other needful buildings;— and

[18.] To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

§ 9. [1.] The migration or importation of such persons as any of the states now existing shall think proper to admit shall not be prohibited by the congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

[2.] The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it.

[3.] No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed.

[4.] No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.

[5.] No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state.

[6.] No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one state over those of another: nor shall vessels bound to, or from, one state, be obliged to enter, clear or pay duties in another.

[7.] No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

[8.] No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States: And no person holding any office of profit or trust under them shall, without the consent of the congress, accept of any present, emolument, office or title, of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state.

§ 10. [1.] No state shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligations of contracts, or grant any title of nobility.

[2.] No state shall, without the consent of congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws, and the net produce of all duties and imposts laid by any state on imports or exports shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the congress.

[3.] No state shall, without the consent of congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops, or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another state, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II

§ 1. [1.] The executive power shall be vested in a president of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the vice president, chosen for the same term, be elected, as follows:

[2.] Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the congress: but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

[3.] The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the house of representatives shall immediately chuse by ballot one of them for president; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said house shall in like manner chuse the president. But in chusing the president, the votes shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the president, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the vice president. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the senate shall chuse from them by ballot the vice president.

Art. II, s. 1, cl. 3, is superseded by amendment XII.

[4.] The congress may determine the time of chusing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

[5.] No person except a natural born citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall be eligible to the office of president; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

[6.] In case of the removal of the president from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the vice president, and the congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the president and vice president, declaring what officer shall then act as president, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed, or a president shall be elected.

[7.] The president shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation, which shall neither be increased or diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them.

[8.] Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation:—"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and will to the best of my ability preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

§ 2. [1.] The president shall be commander in chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offences against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

[2.] He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the senate, shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the supreme court, and all other officers of the United States whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law: but the congress may by law vest the appointment of such inferior officers, as they think proper, in the president alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

[3.] The president shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

§ 3. He shall from time to time give to the congress information of the state of the union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them, and in case of disagreement between them, with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

§ 4. The president, vice president and all civil officers of the United States shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III

§ 1. The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one supreme court, and in such inferior courts as the congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

§ 2. [1.] The judicial power shall extend to all cases, in law and equity, arising under this constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority;—to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls;—to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction;—to controversies to which the United States shall be a party;—to controversies between two or more states;—between a state and citizens of another state;—between citizens of different states,—between citizens of the same state claiming lands under grants of different states, and between a state, or the citizen thereof, and foreign states, citizens or subjects.

See amendment XI, as to suits against a state by citizens of another state or citizens or subjects of a foreign state.

[2.] In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a state shall be a party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned, the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the congress shall make.

[3.] The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury; and such trial shall be held in the state where the said crimes shall have been committted; but when not committed within any state, the trial shall be at such place or places as the congress may by law have directed.

§ 3. [1.] Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

[2.] The congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attainted.

ARTICLE IV

§ 1. Full faith and credit shall be given in each state to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other state. And the congress may by general laws prescribe the manner in which such acts, records and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

§ 2. [1.] The citizens of each state shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states.

[2.] A person charged in any state with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice, and be found in another state, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the state from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the state having jurisdiction of the crime.

[3.] No person held to service or labour in one state, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labour, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labour may be due.

§ 3. [1.] New states may be admitted by the congress into this union; but no new state shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other state; nor any state be formed by the junction of two or more states, or parts of states, without the consent of the legislatures of the states concerned as well as of the congress.

[2.] The congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular state.

§ 4. The United States shall guarantee to every state in this union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and on application of the legislature, or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V

The congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this constitution, or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the congress: Provided, that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and that not state, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the senate.

ARTICLE VI

[1.] All debts contracted and engagements entered into, before the adoption of this constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this constitution as under the confederation.

[2.] This constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every state shall be bound thereby, anything in the constitution or laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding.

[3.] The senators and representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several state legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several states, shall be bound by oath or affirmation, to support this constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII

The ratification of the conventions of nine states shall be sufficient for the establishment of this constitution between the states so ratifying the same.

Done in Convention by the Unanimous Consent of the States present the Seventeenth Day of September in the Year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and Eighty-seven and of the Independence of the United States of America the Twelfth. In Witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names.

AMENDMENTS

Articles in addition to, and amendment of, the constitution of the United States of America, proposed by congress, and ratified by the legislatures of the several states, pursuant to the fifth article of the original constitution.

The first ten amendments were proposed by congress on September 25, 1789, and became effective on December 15, 1791.

AMENDMENT I.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

AMENDMENT II.

A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

AMENDMENT III.

No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner, nor in time of war but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

AMENDMENT IV.

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation and particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons or things to be seized.

AMENDMENT V.

No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

AMENDMENT VI.

In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.

AMENDMENT VII.

In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise reëxamined in any court of the United States than according to the rules of the common law.

AMENDMENT VIII.

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

AMENDMENT IX.

The enumeration in the constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

AMENDMENT X.

The powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states, respectively, or to the people.

AMENDMENT XI.

The judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law of or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by citizens of another state, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign state.

AMENDMENT XII.

The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for president and vice president, one of whom, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as president, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as vice president, and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as president, and of all persons voted for as vice president, and of the number of votes for each, which lists they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate;—the president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted;—the person having the greatest number of votes for president shall be the president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers not exceeding three on the list of those voted for as president, the house of representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the president. But in choosing the president, the votes shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. And if the house of representatives shall not choose a president whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the vice president shall act as president, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the president. The person having the greatest number of votes as vice president shall be the vice president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed, and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list the senate shall choose the vice president; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice. But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of president shall be eligible to that of vice president of the United States.

AMENDMENT XIII.

§ 1. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

§ 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

AMENDMENT XIV.

§ 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

§ 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several states according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each state, excluding indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for president and vice president of the United States, representatives in congress, the executive and judicial officers of a state, or the members of the legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such state, being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion, or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such state.

§ 3. No person shall be a senator or representative in congress, or elector of president and vice president, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any state, who, having previously taken an oath, as a member of congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any state legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any state, to support the constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof. But congress may by a vote of two-thirds of each house remove such disability.

§ 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any state shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held illegal and void.

§ 5. The congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

AMENDMENT XV

§ 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

§ 2. The congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

AMENDMENT XVI

The congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several states, and without regard to any census or enumeration.

AMENDMENT XVII

The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote. The electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislatures.

When vacancies happen in the representation of any state in the senate, the executive authority of such state shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies: Provided, that the legislature of any state may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.

This amendment shall not be so construed as to affect the election or term of any senator chosen before it becomes valid as part of the constitution.

AMENDMENT XVIII

§ 1. After one year from the ratification of this article, the manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof, for beverage purposes, is hereby prohibited.

§ 2. The congress and the several states shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

§ 3. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the constitution by the legislatures of the several states, as provided in the constitution, within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the states by the congress.

AMENDMENT XIX

§ 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex.

§ 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

AMENDMENT XX

§ 1. The terms of the president and vice president shall end at noon on the 20th day of January, and the terms of senators and representatives at noon on the 3d day of January, of the years in which such terms would have ended if this article had not been ratified; and the terms of their successors shall then begin.

§ 2. The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall begin at noon on the 3d day of January, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

§ 3. If, at the time fixed for the beginning of the term of the president, the president elect shall have died, the vice president elect shall become president. If a president shall not have been chosen before the time fixed for the beginning of his term, or if the president elect shall have failed to qualify, then the vice president elect shall act as president until a president shall have qualified; and the congress may by law provide for the case wherein neither a president elect nor a vice president elect shall have qualified, declaring who shall then act as president, or the manner in which one who is to act shall be selected, and such person shall act accordingly until a president or vice president shall have qualified.

§ 4. The congress may by law provide for the case of the death of any of the persons from whom the house of representatives may choose a president whenever the right of choice shall have devolved upon them, and for the case of the death of any of the persons from whom the senate may choose a vice president whenever the right of choice shall have devolved upon them.

§ 5. Sections 1 and 2 shall take effect on the 15th day of October following the ratification of this article.

§ 6. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the constitution by the legislature of three-fourths of the several States within seven years from the date of its submission.

The twentieth amendment was declared in a proclamation of the Secretary of State, dated February 6, 1933, to have been ratified by thirty-nine of the forty-eight States.

AMENDMENT XXI

§ 1. The eighteenth article of amendment to the constitution of the United States is hereby repealed.

§ 2. The transportation or importation into any state, territory, or possession of the United States for delivery or use therein of intoxicating liquors, in violation of the laws thereof, is hereby prohibited.

The twenty-first amendment was declared in a proclamation of the Acting Secretary of State, dated December 5, 1933, to have been ratified by thirty-six of the forty-eight States.

By his proclamation of December 5, 1933, the President proclaimed that the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution was repealed on December 5, 1933.

APPENDIX III

AUTHENTICATION OF RECORDS

§ (1). Authentication of legislative acts and proof of judicial proceedings.—The acts of the legislature of any state or territory, or of any country subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, shall be authenticated by having the seals of such state, territory, or country affixed thereto. The records and judicial proceedings of the courts of any state or territory, or of any such country, shall be proved or admitted in any other court within the United States, by the attestation of the clerk, and the seal of the court annexed, if there be a seal, together with a certificate of the judge, chief justice, or presiding magistrate, that the said attestation is in due form. And the said records and judicial proceedings, so authenticated, shall have such faith and credit given to them in every court within the United States as they have by law or usage in the courts of the state from which they are taken. (U. S. Rev., Stat., s. 905.)

§ (2). Proof of records not pertaining to courts.—All records and exemplifications of books, which may be kept in any public office of any state or territory or of any country subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, not appertaining to a court, shall be proved or admitted in any court or office in any other state or territory, or in any such country, by the attestation of the keeper of the said records or books, and the seal of his office annexed, if there be a seal, together with a certificate of the presiding justice of the court of the county, parish, or district in which such office may be kept, or of the governor, or secretary of state, the chancellor or keeper of the great seal, of the state, or territory, or country, that the said attestation is in due form, and by the proper officers. If the said certificate is given by the presiding justice of a court, it shall be further authenticated by the clerk or prothonotary of the said court, who shall certify, under his hand and the seal of his office, that the said presiding justice is duly commissioned and qualified; or, if given by such governor, secretary, chancellor, or keeper of the great seal, it shall be under the great seal of the state, territory, or country aforesaid, in which it is made. And the said records and exemplifications, so authenticated, shall have such faith and credit given to them in every court and office within the United States as they have by law or usage in the courts or offices of the state, territory, or country, as aforesaid, from which they are taken. (U. S. Rev. Stat., s. 906.)

§ (3). Copies of foreign records, etc., relating to land titles in United States.—It shall be lawful for any keeper or person having the custody of laws, judgments, orders, decrees, journals, correspondence, or other public documents of any foreign government or its agents, relating to title to lands claimed by or under the United States, on the application of the head of one of the departments, the solicitor of the treasury, or the commissioner of the general land office, to authenticate copies thereof under his hand and seal, and to certify them to be correct and true copies of such laws, judgments, orders, decrees, journals, correspondence, or other public documents, respectively; and when such copies are certified by an American minister or consul, under his hand and seal of office, to be true copies of the originals, they shall be sealed up by him and returned to the solicitor of the treasury, who shall file them in his office, and cause them to be recorded in a book to be kept for that purpose. A copy of any such law, judgment, order, decree, journal, correspondence, or other public document, so filed, or of the same so recorded in said book, may be read in evidence in any court, where the title to land claimed by or under the United States may come into question, equally with the originals. (U. S. Rev. Stat., s. 907.)

APPENDIX IV

REMOVAL OF CAUSES

From the State Courts to the Districts Courts of the United States

Federal enactments constituting chapter III, sections 28-39, of the Federal Judicial Code, Act of March 3, 1911, c. 231, "An act to codify, revise and amend the laws relating to the judiciary," 36 U. S. Stat. L. 1087.

§ 28. Removal of suits from state to United States district courts.—Any suit of a civil nature, at law or in equity, arising under the constitution or laws of the United States, or treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority, of which the district courts of the United States are given original jurisdiction by this title, which may now be pending or which may hereafter be brought, in any state court, may be removed by the defendant or defendants therein to the district court of the United States for the proper district. Any other suit of a civil nature, at law or in equity, of which the district courts of the United States are given jurisdiction by this title, and which are now pending, or which may hereafter be brought, in any state court, may be removed into the district court of the United States for the proper district by the defendant or defendants therein, being nonresidents of that state. And when in any suit mentioned in this section there shall be a controversy which is wholly between citizens of different states, and which can be fully determined as between them, then either one or more of the defendants actually interested in such controversy may remove said suit into the district court of the United States for the proper district. And where a suit is now pending, or may hereafter be brought, in any state court, in which there is a controversy between a citizen of the state in which the suit is brought and a citizen of another state, any defendant, being such citizen of another state, may remove such suit into the district court of the United States for the proper district, at any time before the trial thereof, when it shall be made to appear to said district court that from prejudice or local influence he will not be able to obtain justice in such state court, or in any other state court to which the said defendant may, under the laws of the state, have the right, on account of such prejudice or local influence, to remove said cause: Provided, that if it further appear that said suit can be fully and justly determined as to the other defendants in the state court, without being affected by such prejudice or local influence, and that no party to the suit will be prejudiced by a separation of the parties, said district court may direct the suit to be remanded, so far as relates to such other defendants, to the state court, to be proceeded with therein.

At any time before the trial of any suit which is now pending in any district court, or may hereafter be entered therein, and which has been removed to said court from a state court on the affidavit of any party plaintiff that he had reason to believe and did believe that, from prejudice or local influence, he was unable to obtain justice in said state court, the district court shall, on application of the other party, examine into the truth of said affidavit and the grounds thereof, and unless it shall appear to the satisfaction of said court that said party will not be able to obtain justice in said state court, it shall cause the same to be remanded thereto.

Whenever any cause shall be removed from any state court into any district court of the United States, and the district court shall decide that the cause was improperly removed, and order the same to be remanded to the state court from whence it came, such remand shall be immediately carried into execution, and no appeal or writ of error from the decision of the district court so remanding such cause shall be allowed: Provided, that no case arising under an act entitled "An act relating to the liability of common carriers by railroad to their employees in certain cases," approved April twenty-second, nineteen hundred and eight, or any amendment thereto, and brought in any state court of competent jurisdiction, shall be removed to any court of the United States: and Provided further, that no suit brought in any state court of competent jurisdiction against a railroad company, or other corporation, or person engaged in and carrying on the business of a common carrier, to recover damages for delay, loss of or injury to property received for transportation by such common carrier under section twenty of the act to regulate commerce, approved February fourth, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, as amended June twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and six, April thirteenth, nineteen hundred and eight, February twenty-fifth, nineteen hundred and nine, and June eighteenth nineteen hundred and ten, shall be removed to any court of the United States where the matter in controversy does not exceed, exclusive of interest and costs, the sum or value of $3,000.

§ 29. Procedure for removal.—Whenever any party entitled to remove any suit mentioned in the last preceding section, except suits removable on the ground of prejudice or local influence, may desire to remove such suit from a state court to the district court of the United States, he may make and file a petition, duly verified, in such suit in such state court at the time, or any time before the defendant is required by the laws of the state or the rule of the state court in which such suit is brought to answer or plead to the declaration or complaint of the plaintiff, for the removal of such suit into the district court to be held in the district where such suit is pending, and shall make and file therewith a bond, with good and sufficient surety, for his or their entering in such district court, within thirty days from the date of filing said petition, a certified copy of the record in such suit, and for paying all costs that may be awarded by the said district court if said district court shall hold that such suit was wrongfully or improperly removed thereto, and also for their appearing and entering special bail in such suit if special bail was originally requisite therein. It shall then be the duty of the state court to accept said petition and bond and proceed no further in such suit. Written notice of said petition and bond for removal shall be given the adverse party or parties prior to filing the same. The said copy being entered within said thirty days as aforesaid in said district court of the United States, the parties so removing the said cause shall within thirty days thereafter, plead, answer, or demur to the declaration or complaint in said cause, and the cause shall then proceed in the same manner as if it had been originally commenced in the said district court.

§ 30. Suits under grants of land from different states.—If in any action commenced in a state court the title of land be concerned and the parties are citizens of the same state and the matter in dispute exceeds the sum or value of three thousand dollars, exclusive of interest and costs, the sum or value being made to appear, one or more of the plaintiffs or defendants, before the trial, may state to the court, and make affidavit if the court require it, that he or they claim, and shall rely upon, a right or title to the land under a grant from a state, and produce the original grant, or an exemplification of it, except where the loss of public records shall put it out of his or their power, and shall move that any one or more of the adverse party inform the court whether he or they claim a right or title to the land under a grant from some other state, the party or parties so required shall give such information, or otherwise not be allowed to plead such grant or give it in evidence upon the trial. If he or they inform the court that he or they do claim under such grant, any one or more of the party moving for such information may then, on petition and bond, as hereinbefore mentioned in this chapter, remove the cause for trial to the district court of the United States next to be holden in such district; and any one of either party removing the cause shall not be allowed to plead or give evidence of any other title than that by him or them stated as aforesaid as the ground of his or their claim.

§ 31. Removal of causes against persons denied any civil rights, etc.—When any civil suit or criminal prosecution is commenced in any state court, for any cause whatsoever, against any person who is denied or can not enforce in the judicial tribunals of the state, or in the part of the state where such suit or prosecution is pending, in any right secured to him by any law providing for the equal civil rights of citizens of the United States, or of all persons within the jurisdiction of the United States, or against any officer, civil or military, or other person, for any arrest or imprisonment or other trespasses or wrongs made or committed by virtue of or under color of authority derived from any law providing for equal rights as aforesaid, or for refusing to do any act on the ground that it would be inconsistent with such law, such suit or prosecution may, upon the petition of such defendant, filed in said state court at any time before the trial or final hearing of the cause, stating the facts and verified by oath, be removed for trial into the next district court to be held in the district where it is pending. Upon the filing of such petition all further proceedings in the state courts shall cease, and shall not be resumed except as hereinafter provided. But all bail and other security given in such suit or prosecution shall continue in like force and effect as if the same had proceeded to final judgment and execution in the state court. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the state court to furnish such defendant, petitioning for a removal, copies of said process against him, and of all pleadings, depositions, testimony, and other proceedings in the case. If such copies are filed by said petitioner in the district court on the first day of its session, the cause shall proceed therein in the same manner as if it had been brought there by original process; and if the said clerk refuses or neglects to furnish such copies, the petitioner may thereupon docket the case in the district court, and the said court shall then have jurisdiction therein, and may, upon proof of such refusal or neglect of said clerk and upon reasonable notice to the plaintiff, require the plaintiff to file a declaration, petition, or complaint in the cause; and, in case of his default, may order a nonsuit, and dismiss the case at the costs of the plaintiff, and such dismissal shall be a bar to any further suit touching the matter in controversy. But if, without such refusal or neglect of said clerk to furnish such copies and proof thereof, the petitioner for removal fails to file copies in the district court, as herein provided, a certificate, under the seal of the district court, stating such failure, shall be given, and upon the production thereof in said state court the cause shall proceed therein as if no petition for removal had been filed.

§ 32. When petitioner is in actual custody of state court.—When all the acts necessary for the removal of any suit or prosecution, as provided in the preceding section, have been performed, and the defendant petitioning for such removal is in actual custody on process issued by said state court, it shall be the duty of the clerk of said district court to issue a writ of habeas corpus cum causa, and of the marshal, by virtue of said writ, to take the body of the defendant into his custody, to be dealt with in said district court according to law and the orders of said court, or, in vacation, of any judge thereof; and the marshal shall file with or deliver to the clerk of said state court a duplicate copy of said writ.

§ 33. Suits and prosecutions against revenue officers, etc. — When any civil suit or criminal prosecution is commenced in any court of a state against any officer appointed under or acting by authority of any revenue law of the United States now or hereafter enacted, or against any person acting under or by authority of any such officer, on account of any act done under color of his office or of any such law, or on account of any right, title, or authority claimed by such officer or other person under such law; or is commenced against any person holding property or estate by title derived from any such officer, and affects the validity of any such revenue law, or against any officer of the courts of the United States for or on account of any act done under color of his office or in the performance of his duties as such officer; or when any civil suit or criminal prosecution is commenced against any person for or on account of anything done by him while an officer of either house of congress in the discharge of his official duty, in executing any order of such house, the said suit or prosecution may, at any time before the trial or final hearing thereof, be removed for trial into the district court next to be holden in the district where the same is pending, upon the petition of such defendant to said district court, and in the following manner: Said petition shall set forth the nature of the suit or prosecution and be verified by affidavit, and, together with a certificate signed by an attorney or counselor at law of some court of record of the state where such suit or prosecution is commenced, or of the United States, stating that, as counsel for the petitioner, he has examined the proceedings against him and carefully inquired into all the matters set forth in the petition, and that he believes them to be true, shall be presented to the said district court, if in session, or if it be not, to the clerk thereof at his office, and shall be filed in said office. The cause shall thereupon be entered on the docket of the district court, and shall proceed as a cause originally commenced in that court; but all bail and other security given upon such suit or prosecution shall continue in like force and effect as if the same had proceeded to final judgment and execution in the state court. When the suit is commenced in the state court by summons, subpoena, petition, or other process except capias, the clerk of the district court shall issue a writ of certiorari to the state court, requiring it to send to the district court the record and the proceedings in the cause. When it is commenced by capias or by any other similar form of proceedings by which a personal arrest is ordered, he shall issue a writ of habeas corpus cum causa, a duplicate of which shall be delivered to the clerk of the state court, or left at his office, by the marshal of the district or his deputy, or by some other person duly authorized thereto; and thereupon it shall be the duty of the state court to stay all further proceedings in the cause, and the suit or prosecution, upon delivery of such process, or leaving the same as aforesaid, shall be held to be removed to the district court, and any further proceedings, trial, or judgment therein in the state court shall be void. If the defendant in the suit or prosecution be in the actual custody on mesne process therein, it shall be the duty of the marshal, by virtue of the writ of habeas corpus cum causa, to take the body of the defendant into his custody, to be dealt within the cause according to law and the order of the district court, or in vacation, of any judge thereof; and if, upon the removal of such suit or prosecution, it is made to appear to the district court that no copy of the record and proceedings therein in the state court can be obtained, the district court may allow and require the plaintiff to proceed de novo and to file a declaration of his cause of action, and the parties may thereupon proceed as in actions originally brought in said district court. On failure of the plaintiff so to proceed, judgment of non prosequitor may be rendered against him, with costs for the defendant.

§ 34. Removal of suits by aliens.—Whenever a personal action has been or shall be brought in any state court by an alien against any citizen of a state who is, or at the time the alleged action accrued was, a civil officer of the United States, being a nonresident of that state wherein jurisdiction is obtained by the state court, by personal service or process, such action may be removed into the district court of the United States in and for the district in which the defendant shall have been served with the process, in the same manner as now provided for the removal of an action brought in a state court by the provisions of the preceding section.

§ 35. When copies of records are refused by clerk of state court. — If any case where a party is entitled to copies of the records and proceedings in any suit or prosecution in a state court, to be used in any court of the United States, if the clerk of said state court, upon demand, and the payment or tender of the legal fees, refuses or neglects to deliver to him certified copies of such records and proceedings, the court of the United States in which such records and proceedings are needed may, on proof by affidavit that the clerk of said state court has refused or neglected to deliver copies thereof, on demand as aforesaid, direct such record to be supplied by affidavit or otherwise, as the circumstances of the case may require and allow; and thereupon such proceeding, trial, and judgment may be had in the said court of the United States, and all such processes awarded, as if certified copies of such records and proceedings had been regularly before the said court.

§ 36. Previous attachment bonds, orders, etc., remain valid.—When any suit shall be removed from a state court to a district court of the United States, any attachment or sequestration of the goods or estate of the defendant had in such suit in the state court shall hold the goods or estate so attached or sequestered to answer the final judgment or decree in the same manner as by law they would have been held to answer final judgment or decree had it been rendered by the court in which said suit was commenced. All bonds, undertakings, or security given by either party in such suit prior to its removal shall remain valid and effectual notwithstanding said removal; and all injunctions, orders, and other proceedings had in such suit prior to its removal shall remain in full force and effect until dissolved or modified by the court to which such suit shall be removed.

§ 37. Suits improperly in district court may be dismissed or remanded.—If in any suit commenced in a district court, or removed from a state court to a district court of the United States, it shall appear to the satisfaction of the said district court, at any time after such suit has been brought or removed hereto, that such suit does not really and substantially involve a dispute or controversy properly within the jurisdiction of said district court, or that the parties to said suit have been improperly or collusively made or joined, either as plaintiffs or defendants, for the purpose of creating a case cognizable or removable under this chapter, the said district court shall proceed no further therein, but shall dismiss the suit or remand it to the court from which it was removed, as justice may require, and shall make such order as to costs as shall be just.

§ 38. Proceedings in suits removed. — The district court of the United States shall, in all suits removed under the provisions of this chapter, proceed therein as if the suit had been originally commenced in said district court, and the same proceedings had been taken in such suit in said district court as shall have been had therein in said state court prior to its removal.

§ 39. Time for filing record; return of record, how enforced. — In all causes removable under this chapter, if the clerk of the state court in which any such cause shall be pending shall refuse to any one or more of the parties or persons applying to remove the same, a copy of the record therein, after tender of legal fees for such copy, said clerk so offending shall, on conviction thereof in the district court of the United States to which said action or proceeding was removed, be fined not more than one thousand dollars, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both. The district court to which any cause shall be removable under this chapter shall have power to issue a writ of certiorari to said State court commanding said State Court to make return of the record in any such cause removed as aforesaid, or in which any one or more of the plaintiffs or defendants have complied with the provisions of this chapter for the removal of the same, and enforce said writ according to law. If it shall be impossible for the parties or persons removing any cause under this chapter, or complying with the provisions for the removal thereof, to obtain such copy, for the reason that the clerk of said state court refuses to furnish a copy, on payment of legal fees, or for any other reason, the district court shall make an order requiring the prosecutor in any such action or proceeding to enforce forfeiture or recover penalty, as aforesaid, to file a copy of the paper or proceeding by which the same was commenced, within such time as the court may determine; and in default thereof the court shall dismiss the said action or proceeding; but if said order shall be complied with, then said district court shall require the other party to plead, and said action or proceeding shall proceed to final judgment. The said district court may make an order requiring the parties thereto to plead de novo; and the bond given, conditioned as aforesaid, shall be discharged so far as it requires copy of the record to be filed as aforesaid.

Proof of residence.—That in case the petitioner has not resided in the state, territory, or the District of Columbia for a period of five years continuously and immediately preceding the filing of his petition he may establish by two witnesses, both in his petition and at the hearing, the time of his residence within the state, provided that it has been for more than one year, and the remaining portion of his five years residence within the United States required by law to be established may be proved by the depositions of two or more witnesses who are citizens of the United States, upon notice to the bureau of naturalization.

§ 11. Examinations, etc., in opposition.—That the United States shall have the right to appear before any court or courts exercising jurisdiction in naturalization proceedings for the purpose of cross-examining the petitioner and the witnesses produced in support of his petition concerning any matter touching or in any way affecting his right to admission to citizenship, and shall have the right to call witnesses, produce evidence, and be heard in opposition to the granting of any petition in naturalization proceedings.

§ 12. Clerk to file declarations, etc., with bureau of naturalization. — That it is hereby made the duty of the clerk of each and every court exercising jurisdiction in naturalization matters under the provisions of this act to keep and file a duplicate of each declaration of intention made before him and to send to the bureau of naturalization at Washington, within thirty days after the issuance of a certificate of citizenship, a duplicate of such certificate, and to make and keep on file in his office a stub for each certificate so issued by him, whereon shall be entered a memorandum of all essential facts set forth in such certificate. It shall also be the duty of the clerk of each of said courts to report to the said bureau, within thirty days after the final hearing and decision of the court, the name of each and every alien who shall be denied naturalization, and to furnish to said bureau duplicates of all petitions within thirty days after the filing of the same, and certified copies of such other proceedings and orders instituted in or issued out of said court affecting or relating to the naturalization or aliens as may be required from time to time by said bureau.

In case any such clerk or officer acting under his direction shall refuse or neglect to comply with any of the foregoing provisions he shall forfeit and pay to the United States the sum of twenty-five dollars in each and every case in which such violation or ommission occurs, and the amount of such forfeiture may be recovered by the United States in an action of debt against such clerk.

Clerks of courts having and exercising jurisdiction in naturalization matters shall be responsible for all blank certificates of citizenship received by them from time to time from the bureau of naturalization, and shall account for the same to the said bureau whenever required so to do by such bureau. No certificate of citizenship received by any such clerk which may be defaced or injured in such manner as to prevent its use as herein provided shall in any case be destroyed, but such certificate shall be returned to the said bureau; and in case any such clerk shall fail to return or properly account for any certificate furnished by the said bureau, as herein provided, he shall be liable to the United States in the sum of fifty dollars, to be recovered in an action of debt, for each and every certificate not properly accounted for or returned.

§ 13. Fees, etc.—That the clerk of each and every court exercising jurisdiction in naturalization cases shall charge, collect, and account for the following fees in each proceeding:

For receiving and filing a declaration of intention and issuing a duplicate thereof, one dollar.

For making, filing, and docketing the petition of an alien for admission as a citizen of the United States and for the final hearing thereon, two dollars; and for entering the final order and the issuance of the certificate of citizenship thereunder, if granted, two dollars.

The clerk of any court collecting such fees is hereby authorized to retain one-half of the fees collected by him in such naturalization proceeding; the remaining one-half of the naturalization fees in each case collected by such clerks, respectively, shall be accounted for in their quarterly accounts, which they are hereby required to render the bureau of naturalization, and paid over to such bureau within thirty days from the close of each quarter in each and every fiscal year, and the moneys so received shall be paid over to the disbursing clerk of the department of labor, who shall thereupon deposit them in the treasury of the United States, rendering an account therefor quarterly to the auditor for the state and other departments, and the disbursing clerk shall be held responsible under his bond for said fees so received.

In addition to the fees herein required, the petitioner shall, upon the filing of his petition to become a citizen of the United States, deposit with and pay to the clerk of the court a sum of money sufficient to cover the expenses of subpoenaing and paying the legal fees of any witnesses for whom he may request a subpoena, and upon the final discharge of such witnesses they shall receive, if they demand the same from the clerk, the customary and usual witness fees from the moneys which the petitioner shall have paid to such purpose, and the residue, if any, shall be returned by the clerk to the petitioner. Provided, that the clerks of courts exercising jurisdiction in naturalization proceedings shall be permitted to retain one-half of the fees in any fiscal year up to the sum of three thousand dollars, and that all fees received by such clerks in naturalization proceedings in excess of such amount shall be accounted for and paid over to said bureau as in case of other fees to which the United States may be entitled under the provisions of this act. The clerks of the various courts exercising jurisdiction in naturalization proceedings shall pay all additional clerical force that may be required in performing the duties imposed by this act upon the clerks of courts from fees received by such clerks in naturalization proceedings.

And in case the clerk of any court exercising naturalization jurisdiction collects fees in excess of the sum of six thousand dollars in any fiscal year the secretary of labor may allow salaries, for naturalization purposes only, to pay for clerical assistance, to be selected and employed by that clerk, additional to the clerical force for which clerks of courts are required by this section to pay from fees received by such clerks in naturalization proceedings, if in the opinion of said secretary the naturalization business of such clerk warrants further additional assistance: Provided, that in no event shall the whole amount allowed the clerk of a court and his assistants exceed the one-half of the gross receipts of the office of said clerk from naturalization fees during such fiscal year: Provided further, that when, at the close of any fiscal year, the business of such clerk of court indicates in the opinion of the secretary of labor that the naturalization fees for the succeeding fiscal year will exceed six thousand dollars the secretary of labor may authorize the continuance of the allowance of salaries for the additional clerical assistance herein provided for and employed on the last day of the fiscal year until such time as the remittances indicate in the opinion of said secretary that the fees for the then current fiscal year will not be sufficient to allow the additional clerical assistance authorized by this act.

That payment for the additional clerical assistance herein authorized shall be in the manner and under such regulations as the secretary of labor may prescribe.

§ 14. Binding of petitions and declarations.—That the declarations of intention and the petitions for naturalization shall be bound in chronological order in separate volumes, indexed, consecutively numbered, and made part of the records of the court. Each certificate of naturalization issued shall bear upon its face, in a place prepared therefor, the volume number and page number of the petition whereon such certificate was issued, and the volume number and page number of the stub of such certificate.

§ 15. Suits to set aside citizenship.—That it shall be the duty of the United States district attorneys for the respective districts, upon affidavit showing good cause therefor, to institute proceedings in any court having jurisdiction to naturalize aliens in the judicial district in which the naturalized citizen may reside at the time of bringing the suit, for the purpose of setting aside and canceling the certificate of citizenship on the ground of fraud or on the ground that such certificate of citizenship was illegally procured. In any such proceedings the party holding the certificate of citizenship alleged to have been fraudulently or illegally procured shall have sixty days personal notice in which to make answer to the petition of the United States; and if the holder of such certificate be absent from the United States or from the district in which he last had his residence, such notice shall be given by publication in the manner provided for the service of summons by publication or upon absentees by laws of the state or the place where such suit is brought.

If any alien who shall have secured a certificate of citizenship under the provisions of this act shall, within five years after the issuance of such certificate, return to the country of his nativity, or go to any other foreign country, and take permanent residence therein, it shall be considered prima facie evidence of a lack of intention on the part of such alien to become a permanent citizen of the United States at the time of filing his application for citizenship, and, in the absence of countervailing evidence, it shall be sufficient in the proper proceeding to authorize the cancellation of his certificate of citizenship as fraudulent, and the diplomatic and consular officers of the United States in foreign countries shall from time to time, through the department of state, furnish the department of justice with the names of those within their respective jurisdictions who have such certificates of citizenship and who have taken permanent residence in the country of their nativity, or in any other foreign country, and such statements, duly certified, shall be admissible in evidence in all courts in proceedings to cancel certificates of citizenship.

Whenever any certificate of citizenship shall be set aside or canceled, as herein provided, the court in which such judgment or decree is rendered shall make an order canceling such certificate of citizenship and shall send a certified copy of such order to the bureau of naturalization; and in case such certificate was not originally issued by the court making such order it shall direct the clerk of the court to transmit a copy of such order and judgment to the court out of which such certificate of citizenship shall have been originally issued. And it shall thereupon be the duty of the clerk of the court receiving such certified copy of the order and judgment of the court to enter the same of record and to cancel such original certificate of citizenship upon the records and to notify the bureau of naturalization of such cancellation.

The provisions of this section shall apply not only to certificates of citizenship issued under the provisions of this act, but to all certificates of citizenship which may have been issued heretofore by any court exercising jurisdiction in naturalization proceedings under prior laws.

§ 16-25. [Omitted: Declare various act to be crimes.—In part superseded by U. S. Crim. Code, Act of March 4, 1909.]

§ 52. Sec. 2. That any American citizen shall be deemed to have expatriated himself when he has been naturalized in any foreign state in conformity with its laws, or when he has taken an oath of allegiance to any foreign state.

When any naturalized citizen shall have resided for two years in the foreign state from which he came, or for five years in any other foreign state, it shall be presumed that he has ceased to be an American citizen, and the place of his general abode shall be deemed his place of residence during said years: Provided, however, that such presumption may be overcome on the presentation of satisfactory evidence to a diplomatic or consular officer of the United States, under such rules and regulations as the department of state may prescribe: and Provided, also, that no American citizen shall be allowed to expatriate himself when this country is at war.

§ 53. Sec. 3. That any American woman who marries a foreigner shall take the nationality of her husband. At the termination of the marital relation she may resume her American citizenship, if abroad, by registering as an American citizen within one year with a consul of the United States, or by returning to reside in the United States, or, if residing in the United States at the termination of the marital relation, by continuing to reside therein.

§ 54. Sec. 4. That any foreign woman who acquires American citizenship by marriage to an American shall be assumed to retain the same after the termination of the marital relation if she continue to reside in the United States, unless she makes formal renunciation thereof before a court having jurisdiction to naturalize aliens, or if she resides abroad she may retain her citizenship by registering as such before a United States consul within one year after the termination of such marital relation.

§ 55. Sec. 5. That a child born without the United States of alien parents shall be deemed a citizen of the United States by virtue of the naturalization of or resumption of American citizen by the parent: Provided, that such naturalization or resumption takes place during the minority of such child: and Provided further, that the citizenship of such minor child shall begin at the time such minor child begins to reside permanently in the United States.

§ 56. Sec. 6. That all children born outside the limits of the United States who are citizens thereof in accordance with the provisions of section nineteen hundred and ninety-three of the revised statutes of the United States and who continue to reside outside the United States shall, in order to receive the protection of this government, be required upon reaching the age of eighteen years to record at an American consulate their intention to become residents and remain citizens of the United States, and shall be further required to take oath of allegiance to the United States upon attaining their majority.

§ 57. Sec. 7. That duplicates of any evidence, registration, or other acts required by this act shall be filed with the department of state for record. (34 Stat. L., pt. 1, p. 1228.)

APPENDIX VI

EXTRADITION

Rules of Practice of the Executive Department of North Carolina in Making Requisitions

(These rules were adopted by the Interstate Extradition Conference and recommended to the states, and have been adopted by North Carolina.)

As to the uniform extradition Act, see §§ 4556(a)-4556(y).

The application for the requisition must be made by the district or prosecuting attorney for the county or district in which the offense was committed, and must be in duplicate original papers or certified copies thereof.

The following must appear by the certificate of the district or prosecuting attorney:

(a) The full name of the person for whom extradition is asked, together with the name of the agent proposed, to be properly spelled, in Roman capital letters, for example: JOHN DOE.

(b) That in his opinion the ends of public justice require that the alleged criminal be brought to this state for trial at the public expense.

(c) That he believes he has sufficient evidence to secure the conviction of the fugitive.

(d) That the person named as agent is a proper person, and that has no private interest in the arrest of the fugitive.

(e) If there has been any former application for a requisition for the same person growing out of the same transaction, it must be so stated, with an explanation of the reasons for a second request, together with the date of such application, as near as may be.

(f) If the fugitive is known to be under either civil or criminal arrest in the state or territory to which he is alleged to have fled, the fact of such arrest and the nature of the proceedings on which it is based must be stated.

(g) That the application is not made for the purpose of enforcing the collection of a debt, or for any private purpose whatever, and that if the requisition applied for be granted, the criminal proceeding shall not be used for any of said objects.

(h) The nature of the crime charged, with a reference, when practicable, to the particular statute defining and punishing the same.

(i) If the offense charged is not of recent occurrence, a satisfactory reason must be given for the delay in making the application.

1. In all cases of fraud, false pretense, embezzlement, or forgery, when made a crime by the common law, or any penal code or statute, the affidavit of the principal complaining witness or informant that the application is made in good faith, for the sole purpose of punishing the accused, and that he does not desire or expect to use the prosecution for the purpose of collecting a debt, or for any private purposes, and will not directly nor indirectly use the same for any of said purposes, shall be required or a sufficient reason be given for the absence of such affidavit.

2. Proof or affidavit of facts and circumstances satisfying the executive that the alleged criminal has fled from the justice of the state, and is in the state on whose executive the demand is requested to be made, must be given. The fact that the alleged criminal was in the state where the alleged crime was committed at the time of the commission thereof, and is found in the same state upon which the requisition was made, shall be sufficient evidence, in the absence of other proof, that he is a fugitive from justice.

3. If an indictment has been found, certified copies, in duplicate, must accompany the application.

4. If an indictment has not been found by a grand jury, the facts and circumstances showing the commission of the crime charged, and that the accused perpetrated the same, must be shown by affidavits taken before a magistrate (a notary public is not a magistrate within the meaning of the statutes), and that a warrant has been issued and duplicate certified copies of the same, together with the returns thereto, if any, must be furnished upon application.

5. The official character of the officer taking the affidavits or depositions and of the officer who issued the warrant must be duly certified.

6. Upon the renewal of an application, for example, on the ground that the fugitive has fled to another state, not having been found in the state on which the first was granted, new or certified copies of papers in conformity with the above rules must be furnished.

7. In the case of any person who has been convicted of any crime and escapes after conviction, or while serving his sentence, the application may be made by the jailer, sheriff, or other officer having him in custody, and shall be accompanied by certified copies of the indictment or information, record of conviction and sentence, upon which the person is held, with the affidavit of such person having him in custody, showing such escape, with the circumstances attending the same.

8. No requisition will be made for the extradiction of any fugitive except in compliance with these rules.

APPENDIX VII

RULES OF COURT

PART I

RULES OF PRACTICE IN THE SUPREME COURT OF NORTH CAROLINA

As they appear in Vols. 200 and 203 N. C. Reports with Full Annotations.

Editor's Note to Rules Generally.—The impression seems to prevail among some lawyers that the rules of practice prescribed by the Supreme Court are merely directory, and that they may be disregarded, or at least waived by the consent of parties. Nothing could be further from the truth. The Supreme Court has ample authority to make the rules. Constitution, Art. I, Sec. 8, Art. IV, Sec. 12; Code sec. 1421. The rules were passed for the protection of litigants and to hasten the administration of justice. They are mandatory and there is no power, aside from the Supreme Court itself, to change or suspend them. The legislature has no authority to interfere, and in case of conflict the rules by the court will be observed. See Cooper v. Comm'rs, 184 N. C. 615, 113 S. E. 569. Ordinarily where the appellant fails to comply with the rule the court will dismiss the appeal without discussing the merits of the case. Davis v. Wall, 142 N. C. 450, 451, 55 S. E. 350.

1. Applicants For License To Practice Law.

Applicants for license to practice law will be examined on the last Monday in January and Monday preceding the last Monday in August of each year, and at no other time. All examinations will be in writing.

Admission to practice is now regulated by section 215(10) of the code.

2. Course of Study Prescribed for Applicants for License to Practice Law.

Each applicant must have attained the age of 21 years, or will arrive at that age before the next examination, and must have studied:

Constitution of United States; Constitution of North Carolina; Creasy's English Constitution; Sheppard's Constitutional Text-book; Cooley's Principles of Constitutional Law; Blackstone's Commentaries, as contained in Vol. 1 of Ewell's Essentials of the Law; Bispham's Equity; Sharswood's Legal Ethics; Consolidated Statutes N. C. (Vol. 1). Also some approved text-book on:

Agency, Bailments, Carriers, Corporations, Contracts, Evidence, Executors, Negotiable Instruments, Partnership and Sales.

(1) Requirements of Applicants for Law License. Applicants must have studied the course prescribed for two years at least, and shall file with the clerk a certificate of good moral character signed by two members of the bar who are practicing attorneys of this court, and also a certificate of the dean of a law school or a member of the bar of this Court, that the applicant has read law under his instruction, or to his knowledge or satisfaction, for two years, and upon examination by such instructor has been found competent and proficient in said course. Such certificate, while indispensable, will of course not be conclusive evidence of proficiency. An applicant from another State may file a certificate of good moral character signed by any State official of the State in which he resides. If the applicant has been licensed to practice law in another State, but is not entitled to be admitted in this State under Rule 3, based on the act of 1920, such applicant may file in lieu of the certificate of proficiency and time of study the law license which has been issued to him, with leave to withdraw the same after he has been examined. The foregoing certificates as to character and proficiency, and also $23.50, must be deposited with the clerk not later than Tuesday noon preceding the day of examination. The applicant in filing his certificates, which may be done personally or by mail must give the clerk the applicant's full name and permanent postoffice address. If the applicant shall fail to entitle himself to receive a license, $22 of the money deposited by him (the $20 required by the statute and $2 price of parchment) shall be returned to him, but the $1.50 registration fee required by the statute shall be retained by the clerk.

See note to section 3½a. See, also, sections 194, 196 and 215(10) of the code.

3. Nonresident Lawyers—When Admitted.

Any person duly licensed to practice law in another state may be licensed to practice law in this State without examination, if attorneys who are licensed in this State may be licensed without examination in the state from which he comes, upon said applicant furnishing to the Supreme Court a certificate from a member of the court of last resort of such state that he is duly licensed to practice law therein, and that he has been actively engaged in the practice of law for five years or more, and is of good moral character and a proper person to be licensed to practice law, together with a certificate from two practicing attorneys of such state, practicing in said court of last resort, as to the applicant's good moral character, whose signatures shall be attested by the clerk of said Court, and upon said applicant satisfying the Court that he is a bona fide resident and citizen of North Carolina, or intends immediately to become such: Provided further, that said applicant shall be required to deposit with the clerk of the Supreme Court the same amount required of applicants who stand the examination.

Any such nonresident lawyer must comply with all preliminary requirements of application for license not later than noon Tuesday preceding the day of examination.

Admission by examination is now regulated by § 215(10) which makes no reference to attorneys from other states but apparently gives law examiners authority to provide for their admission.

3½. Notice of Intention to Apply for License

As a condition precedent to his right to apply for license, every applicant for license to practice law in this State, either under the Comity Act or by taking the prescribed examination, shall notify the clerk of his intention to become an applicant on or before noon of the 15th day of December next immediately preceding the January examination if he wish to apply for license at the January examination, and on or before noon of the 15th day of July next immediately preceding the August examination if he wish to apply for license at the August examination. This notice must be in the Clerk's office within the time specified, and mailing it in time to reach his office will not suffice unless actually received by him before the expiration of the time herein designated. Immediately upon receipt of such notice, the clerk shall furnish said applicant with blank forms for his certificates, as required by Rules 2 and 3. The names of those who have thus signified their intention of becoming applicants for license to practice law shall be open to inspection in the clerk's office during the thirty-day period prior to the examination. This notice to the clerk is not in lieu of, but in addition to, the requirements relating to certificates of proficiency and good moral character.

3½(a). Protests—When and How Made

Protest against the issuance of license in any case may be filed with the clerk on or before Saturday noon preceding the day of examination; and the applicant, so protested, shall be notified of such action immediately upon receipt of same, but the protest shall not be made public by the clerk unless and until said applicant shall have successfully passed the examination or met every other requirement necessary to the issuance of license. Any protested applicant may withdraw his application for license to practice law in this State at any time prior to tendering his paper for examination or his credentials for approval under the Comity Act, and, in which event, the protest will not be heard. But upon the tender of a satisfactory examination paper or satisfactory credentials under the Comity Act, in the face of a protest, the matter then passes beyond the control of such applicant, and the Court will set a day for the hearing of said protest, first giving the protested applicant an opportunity to answer the charges preferred against him by issuing notices to all interested parties of the hearing.

"Upright Character."—See section 194 of the Code, and notes thereto.

Same—Reformation of Twelve Months.—Where protest has been made in the Supreme Court to granting applicant a license to practice law, and the protestant has shown that the applicant has been convicted in the near past of violating the criminal law of the State, which is not denied, evidence offered by him tending to show that he has since for a period of twelve months lived a proper life is insufficient to show that his character has been restored or that he is now entitled to his license. In re Dillingham, 188 N. C. 162, 124 S. E. 130. See, also, note in 2 N. C. Law. Rev. 233.

Same—Burden of Proof.—When the application is resisted the burden is upon the applicant to show that he is of upright character. In re applications for license, 191 N. C. 235, 131 S. E. 661. But when the applicant has complied with the preliminaries of the statute and the rules of Court relating thereto, the burden is upon the protestants to show the moral unfitness of applicant. In re Dillingham, 188 N. C. 162, 124 S. E. 130.

Withdrawal Denied.—Where an applicant has complied with the preliminary requirements as to his ability and moral character, and pending his examination a protest has been filed as to his moral fitness, the matter of granting him a license becomes one of general interest, and he may not then voluntarily withdraw his application. In re Dillingham, 188 N. C. 162, 124 S. E. 130.

3½(b). Reapplication for License Not to Be Made in Two Years Following Denial for Want of Upright Character

When an applicant has been denied license to practice law in this State on the ground of want of upright or good moral character as required by the statute, said applicant shall not be permitted to apply again for such license until two years have elapsed following the date of application which has been denied.

4. Appeals—How Docketed

Each appeal shall be docketed from the judicial district to which it properly belongs, and appeals in criminal cases from each district shall be placed at the head of the docket for the district. Appeals in both civil and criminal cases shall be docketed each in its own class, in the order in which they are filed with the clerk.

5. Appeals—When Heard

The transcript of the record on appeal from a judgment rendered before the commencement of a term of this Court must be docketed at such term fourteen days before entering upon the call of the docket of the district to which it belongs, and stand for argument in its order; if not so docketed, the case shall be continued or dismissed under Rule 17, if the appellee files a proper certificate prior to the docketing of the transcript.

The transcript of the record on appeal from a court in a county in which the court shall be held during the term of this Court may be filed at such term or at the next succeeding term. If filed fourteen days before the Court begins the perusal of the docket of the district to which it belongs, it shall be heard in its order; otherwise, if a civil case, it shall be continued, unless by consent it is submitted upon printed argument under Rule 10.

Appeals in criminal cases shall each be heard at the term at which they are docketed, unless for cause or by consent they are continued: Provided, however, that an appeal in a civil case from the First, Second, Nineteenth and Twentieth districts which is tried between first day of January and the first Monday in February, or between first day of August and fourth Monday in August, is not required to be docketed at the immediately succeeding term of this Court, though if docketed in time for hearing at said term, the appeal will stand regularly for argument.

Cross References.—As to the dismissal of appeals when not docketed within the time required by this section, see rule 17 and notes thereto. As to certiorari as a substitute for appeal, see rule 34 and notes thereto. As to appeals generally, see section 629 et seq. of the code. As to the requisites of the transcript, see section 645 of the code and notes thereto. As to docketing appeals generally, see 1 Enc. Dig. 509 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 98 et seq.

In General.—The rules in regard to the time in which appeals should be docketed have been construed often, and the decisions may be summarized as follows: (1) Appeals in causes tried before the commencement of a term of the supreme court must be docketed at such term, before the completion of the call of causes from the district to which they belong. (2) If not docketed before the call of causes from that district is concluded, the appellee may docket a certificate under Rule 17, and have the appeal dismissed. (3) If the appellant does not do this, and the appeal is docketed at such term of the supreme court which begins next after the trial below, but after the perusal of the district to which it belongs, the appellee can not then move to dismiss. But the appellee's negligence extends no further, and, if the appeal is docketed at a term of the supreme court after the one which it is required to be filed, the appeal will be dismissed on motion. (4) Appeals taken from judgments rendered below during the progress of a term of the supreme court are not necessarily to be docketed at such term, but are in time if docketed at the first term of the supreme court beginning next after the trial below. If, by reason of observance of the statutory time allowed for settling the case on appeal, it is docketed here before the perusal of the district to which it belongs, at the term of the court which was in progress when the trial below was had, it stands for trial. (5) Appeals in criminal cases, and civil cases submitted upon printed arguments under Rule 10, are heard at the first term, though docketed after the perusal of the district to which they belong. (6) If, by neglect of the judge, clerk, or cause other than neglect of the appellant, the "case on appeal" can not be docketed at the term at which it is required to be filed, it is the duty of the appellant to docket the rest of the transcript and move for a certiorari, or he will lose his appeal. Porter v. Western, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 478, 11 S. E. 515. See Howard v. Speight, 180 N. C. 653, 104 S. E. 35.

Rules Mandatory.—The rule of Court requiring the docketing of the appeal within a certain time, etc., is mandatory. State v. National Surety Co., 192 N. C. 52, 133 S. E. 172; State v. Farmer, 188 N. C. 243, 124 S. E. 562; Pruitt v. Wood, 199 N. C. 788, 156 S. E. 126.

The rules of the Supreme Court regulating appeals are mandatory. Womble v. Moncure Mill, etc., Co., 194 N. C. 577, 140 S. E. 230; Pentuff v. Park, 195 N. C. 609, 143 S. E. 139. And must be equally observed, or the case will be dismissed. Covington v. Hanes Hosiery Mills Co., 195 N. C. 478, 142 S. E. 705.

The rules may not be disregarded by the Legislature, the judge of a Superior Court, or by litigants or counsel. The Supreme Court has found it necessary to enforce them uniformly. Pentuff v. Park, 195 N. C. 609, 611, 143 S. E. 139.

And Dismissal Results Where Agreement of Parties Prohibits Compliance Therewith.—Where the parties agree upon an extension of time for service of case on appeal that will not permit the docketing of the appeal in the Supreme Court in time to be heard according to the procedure in such instances, they knowingly put it beyond their power to comply with the mandatory provisions of this rule of the procedure, and the case will be dismissed in the Supreme Court when these requirements have not been complied with by the appellant. Pruitt v. Wood, 199 N. C. 788, 156 S. E. 126.

Rules 5 and 7 may not be varied, either in criminal or civil cases, under agreement with the solicitor or opposing counsel to extend time to the appellant later than that allowed; and when these requirements for any reason cannot be complied with, the appellant must docket the record proper in the Supreme Court, and apply to the Court for a certiorari. State v. Trull, 169 N. C. 363, 85 S. E. 133.

Legislature Cannot Change Rule.—The power of the Legislature to permit an extension of the time for settling on the case on appeal, does not permit it to impinge upon the rule of the Supreme Court requiring the docketing thereof, within a prescribed time, or the issuance by the court of a certiorari, in its discretion. State v. Butner, 185 N. C. 731, 117 S. E. 163.

Same—Cannot Be Changed by Parties or Trial Judge.—The rules of the Supreme Court regulating the time of docketing appeals are uniformly enforced by the court, without authority to the judges or parties to the action to change them by agreement or otherwise. Stone v. Ledbetter, 191 N. C. 777, 133 S. E. 162; Finch v. Commissioners, 190 N. C. 154, 129 S. E. 195; Rose v. Rocky Mount, 184 N. C. 609, 113 S. E. 506.

Trial Term Adjourns After Beginning on Supreme Court Term.—Where the trial term begins before, but is not adjourned until after, the first day of the term of the Supreme Court, appellant need not docket his appeal until the ensuing term of the Supreme Court; the rule that judgments date as of the first day of the term at which they are rendered having no application to appeals, as to which the rule is that judgments date as of the last day of the term. Davison v. West Oxford Land Co., 120 N. C. 259, 26 S. E. 782.

But where the case is tried below since the beginning of a term of the Supreme Court, and the appeal is filed in proper time at such term it stands regularly for argument. Clegg v. Southern R. Co., 132 N. C. 292, 43 S. E. 836, rehearing denied in Clegg v. Sou. R. Co., 133 N. C. 303, 45 S. E. 657; Avery v. Pritchard, 106 N. C. 344, 11 S. E. 281.

No Requirement That Term End Ten Days before Supreme Court Term.—There is no requirement, as a prerequisite for perfecting appeals, that the term at which the judgment was rendered should end ten days before the commencement of the term of this Court. The head-note in Gregory v. Hobbs, 92 N. C. 39, which so indicates, is misleading. Avery v. Pritchard, 106 N. C. 344, 11 S. E. 281.

When Two Districts Called Same Week.—Where cases from two districts are docketed the same week, transcripts from both districts are required to be filed fourteen days before entering upon the call of the docket. Carroll v. Victory Mfg. Co., 180 N. C. 660, 104 S. E. 528.

Case Dismissed for Failure to Docket.—An appeal will be dismissed when the appellant has not docketed it fourteen days before the call of the district, at the first term of the Supreme Court beginning after the trail, and has failed to apply for a certiorari on good cause shown. State v. Brown, 183 N. C. 789, 111 S. E. 780; Mimms v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 183 N. C. 436, 111 S. E. 778; State v. Ward, 180 N. C. 693, 104 S. E. 531.

It will be dismissed on motion, notwithstanding the appellee did not docket the certificate and dismiss the appeal, as he might have done under Rule 17. Hinton v. Pritchard, 108 N. C. 412, 12 S. E. 838; Corbett Buggy Co. v. McLamb, 182 N. C. 762, 108 S. E. 344; Stone v. Ledbetter, 191 N. C. 777, 133 S. E. 162.

Cannot Be Docketed Next Term.—When an appeal is not docketed in accordance with this Rule it is too late to do so at a subsequent term of the Court. Hewitt v. Beck, 152 N. C. 757, 67 S. E. 586.

May Be Dismissed During Term.—Where the appellant failed to have his appeal docketed at the proper term, it may be dismissed at the call of the district to which it belonged, or at any time thereafter during that term. McNeil v. Virginia-Carolina R. Co., 173 N. C. 729, 92 S. E. 484.

Agreements of Counsel.—The requirement of this section will be enforced uniformly regardless of any agreement to the contrary that the attorneys for the parties may have made in any particular case. State v. Farmer, 188 N. C. 243, 124 S. E. 562. Formerly the rule was contra. Morrison v. Craven, 120 N. C. 327, 26 S. E. 940.

Neglect of Attorney.—In one case where a farmer employed an attorney to attend to an appeal in the Supreme Court but the attorney failed to have the record printed, and the appeal was dismissed, it was held a case of execusable negligence on the client's part, and that the appeal should be reinstated. Wiley v. Logan, 94 N. C. 564.

But later cases hold the negligence of counsel sending up, docketing, and printing the transcript is that of the client. Truelove v. Norris, 152 N. C. 755, 67 S. E. 487; Howard v. Speight, 180 N. C. 653, 104 S. E. 35. See, also, Carroll v. Victory Mfg. Co., 180 N. C. 660, 104 S. E. 528; Kear v. Drake, 182 N. C. 764, 108 S. E. 393.

Failure to Docket.—The motion for a certiorari in the Supreme Court by appellant who has failed to docket his case in time under the requirements of this section may be allowed, in the discretion of the court, upon the docketing of the record proper and the showing as required for merit and want of laches. State v. Taylor, 194 N. C. 738, 140 S. E. 728.

Failure to Docket Entire Record.—Though the court, without appellant's fault, fails to settle the case, appellant must within the time allowed by this section docket all of the record proper, or so much thereof as he can obtain, and file an affidavit as to why the entire record can not be docketed; otherwise the appeal will be dismissed. Caudle v. Morris, 158 N. C. 594, 74 S. E. 98.

When Appellant Files Original Papers.—Where the appellant failed to file a transcript of the record, but attempted to file the original papers from the trial court, his motion for reinstatement after dismissal of appeal will be denied for laches. Lindsey v. Knights of Honor, 172 N. C. 818, 90 S. E. 1013.

Transcript Mailed in Time.—Where the transcript of a record is deposited in the postoffice in ample time to reach the Supreme Court within the time required by this section, but by some delay in the mails does not reach its destination until after the time has expired the excuse is reasonable, and the appeal will not be dismissed. Walker v. Scott, 104 N. C. 481, 10 S. E. 523.

Fees Must Be Paid before Transcript Docketed.—The clerk of the Supreme Court is not required to docket a transcript of an appeal before appellant has paid him the required fee therefor. Dunn v. Clerk's Office, 176 N. C. 50, 96 S. E. 738. But see West v. Reynolds, 94 N. C. 333. See § 1257 of the code and notes thereto.

Same—Failure to Pay Costs.—Where a transcript is not sent up in time by reason of the appellant's failure, when notified, to pay costs of the transcript, as he is bound to do, the appellee may move to docket and dismiss the appeal. Bailey v. Brown, 105 N. C. 127, 10 S. E. 1054.

Negotiations for Compromise of Action.—The fact that, on an appeal, negotiations for compromise were pending, is no excuse for failure to docket the appeal. British, etc., Mortg. Co. v. Long, 116 N. C. 77, 20 S. E. 964.

Delay of Clerk.—Failure to docket the transcript on appeal within the time required by this rule can not be excused by delay of the clerk, in which case appellant should docket the title of the case with affidavit as to the cause of delay. Carroll v. Victory Mfg. Co., 180 N. C. 660, 104 S. E. 528.

It is no sufficient excuse for the appellant's failure to docket his appeal under this Rule that the case was delayed in being settled and that the clerk was too busy with a term of court to make out the transcript. Hewitt v. Beck, 152 N. C. 757, 67 S. E. 586.

The mere fact that appellant tendered payment to the Superior Court Clerk of his fees for transcript on appeal, and the clerk said he would send up the transcript without payment is no sufficient legal excuse for the failure to docket under this Rule. Truelove v. Norris, 152 N. C. 755, 67 S. E. 487.

Case Not Settled.—It is no excuse for failure to docket the appeal that the case on appeal was not settled by the judge until too late to docket the case at the proper term it being appellant's duty to docket the record proper and ask for a writ of certiorari to perfect the transcript. Kerr v. Drake, 182 N. C. 764, 108 S. E. 393; State v. Telfair, 139 N. C. 555, 51 S. E. 911; Pittman v. Kimberly, 92 N. C. 562.

When Prisoner Has Fled State.—Upon the failure of appellant to docket his appeal from the conviction of a capital felony, within the time prescribed, it will be docketed and dismissed unless a motion is made for a certiorari at the next succeeding term, and sufficient cause shown for the failure to docket in time; and the fact that he had fled the state and remained absent until arrested and brought back entitles him to no special favor. State v. Dalton, 185 N. C. 606, 115 S. E. 881; State v. Devane, 166 N. C. 281, 81 S. E. 293.

Docketing Removes Case from Litigants Control.—When the case on appeal has been agreed upon by the parties and at the request of either party the clerk of the superior court has sent it up to the clerk of the Supreme Court and there docketed promptly, and in time for argument of the call of the district under the rule of court, though otherwise the case would not then have stood for argument, it being thus docketed takes it from the control of the parties litigant, and the hearing will accordingly be regularly heard as placed. Carswell v. Talley, 192 N. C. 37, 133 S. E. 181.

Abandonment.—The part of this rule allowing the convicted defendant to abandon his appeal in a criminal action in the court below, commented upon. State v. Taylor, 194 N. C. 738, 140 S. E. 728.

Trial Court May Adjudge Appeal Abandoned.—When the appellant does not docket his transcript on appeal in the Supreme Court, the trial judge may adjudge the appeal abandoned and proceed as if no appeal had been taken. Cline v. Bryson City Mfg. Co., 116 N. C. 837, 21 S. E. 791. When, however, it is doubtful whether an appeal lies, it is best that the court below should await the action of the Supreme Court. Dunn v. Marks, 141 N. C. 232, 234, 53 S. E. 845; Avery v. Pritchard, 93 N. C. 266.

Where appellant has failed to docket the record on appeal and no writ of certiorari has been allowed in the Supreme Court, the court below may adjudge, upon proper notice, upon proof of such facts, that the appeal has been abandoned. Pruitt v. Wood, 199 N. C. 788, 156 S. E. 126.

Renewing of Withdrawn Appeal.—A party to an action has a right to renew his appeal after having once withdrawn it, provided he does so within the time prescribed by the statutes and rules for perfecting appeals. State v. Chastain, 104 N. C. 900, 10 S. E. 519.

Case Is Dismissed If Moot Question Presented.—Where on appeal it appears that an election sought to be enjoined has already been held, the appeal presents only a moot question, and will be dismissed. Rousseau v. Bullis, 201 N. C. 12, 158 S. E. 553.

Applied in Vivian v. Mitchell, 144 N. C. 472, 57 S. E. 167; Cozart v. Assurance Co., 142 N. C. 522, 523, 55 S. E. 411; Barber v. Justice, 138 N. C. 20, 21, 50 S. E. 445; Parker v. Southern Ry. Co., 121 N. C. 501, 28 S. E. 347; Officers v. Bland, 90 N. C. 6.

6. Appeals—Criminal Actions

Appeals in criminal cases, docketed fourteen days before the call of the docket for their districts, shall be heard before the appeals in civil cases from said districts. Criminal appeals docketed after the time above stated shall be called immediately at the close of argument of appeals from the Eleventh District, unless for cause otherwise ordered, and shall have priority over civil cases placed at the end of the docket.

As to appeals in criminal actions generally, see section 4647 et seq. of the code, and notes thereto.

Editor's Note.—The rules for the docketing of criminal appeals are the same, and will be enforced as rigidly, as in civil appeals. See State v. O'Kelly, 88 N. C. 609. And see notes to the preceding section.

Case Dismissed If Appeal Abandoned.—When the defendant in a criminal action appeals to the Supreme Court, but, pending appeal, breaks jail and flees the jurisdiction of the court, this is an abandonment of the appeal; and, upon motion of the Attorney-General, the appeal will be dismissed, or case continued, or judgment affirmed, in the discretion of the Court. State v. Keebler, 145 N. C. 560, 59 S. E. 872, following State v. Jacobs, 107 N. C. 772, 11 S. E. 962, 22 Am. St. Rep. 912.

(1) Appeal Bond.—If a justified appeal bond (except in pauper appeals) is not filed with the transcript, as required by sec. 647 of the Code, the appeal will be dismissed.

Cross Reference.—As to the appeal bond, see section 646 et seq. of the code. See, also, 1 Enc. Dig. 489 et seq. As to costs on appeal generally, see section 1256 of the code.

(2) Pauper Appeals.—See Rule 22 and notes thereto.

(3) When Appeal Abates.—See Rule 37.

(4) Appeal Dismissed if Transcript Not

Printed or Mimeographed.—See Rule 24 and notes thereto.

7. Call of Judicial Districts

Appeals from the several districts will be called for hearing in the following order:

From the First and Twentieth Districts, the first week of the term.

From the Second and Nineteenth Districts, the second week of the term.

From the Third and Eighteenth Districts, the fourth week of the term.

From the Fourth and Seventeenth Districts, the fifth week of the term.

From the Fifth and Sixteenth Districts, the seventh week of the term.

From the Sixth and Fifteenth Districts, the eighth week of the term.

From the Seventh District, the tenth week of the term.

From the Fourteenth District, the eleventh week of the term.

From the Eighth and Thirteenth Districts, the thirteenth week of the term.

From the Ninth and Twelfth Districts, the fourteenth week of the term.

From the Tenth and Eleventh Districts, the sixteenth week of the term.

In making up the calendar for the two districts allotted to the same week, the appeals will be docketed in the order in which they are received by the clerk, but only those from the district first named will be called on Tuesday of the week to which the district is allotted, and those from the district last named will not be called before Wednesday of said week, but appeals from the district last named must nevertheless be docketed not later than 14 days preceding the call for the week.

See rule 9.

Applied in State v. Edwards, 205 N. C. 443, 171 S. E. 608.

8. End of Docket

At the Spring Term, causes not reached and disposed of during the period allotted to each district, and those for any other cause put to the foot of the docket, shall be called at the close of argument of appeals from the Eleventh District, and each cause, in its order, tried or continued, subject to Rule 6.

At the Fall Term, appeals in criminal cases only will be heard at the end of the docket, unless the Court for special reason shall set a civil appeal to be heard at the end of the docket at that term. At either term the Court in its discretion may place cases not reached on the call of a district at the end of some other district.

As to the terms of the Supreme Court, see section 1408 of the code.

9. Call of Docket

Each appeal shall be called in its proper order. If any party shall not be ready, the cause, if a civil action, may be put to the foot of the district, by the consent of the counsel appearing, or for cause shown, and be again called when reached, if the docket shall be called a second time; otherwise, the first call shall be peremptory; or at the first term of the Court in the year a cause may, by consent of the Court, be put to the foot of the docket; if no counsel appear for either party at the first call, it will be put to the end of the district, unless a printed brief is filed by one of the parties; and if none appear at the second call, it will be continued, unless the Court shall otherwise direct. Appeals in criminal actions will be called peremptorily for argument on the first call of the docket, unless for good cause assigned.

As to the docket generally, see 1 Enc. Dig. 667 et seq.

Counsel Must Attend All Week.—The Supreme Court has no daily calendar, and counsel must attend during the week for which the case is set under our rules. Lunsford v. Alexander, 162 N. C. 528, 78 S. E. 275.

10. Submission on Printed Arguments

By consent of counsel, any case may be submitted without oral argument, upon printed briefs by both sides, without regard to the number of the case on the docket, or date of docketing the appeal. Such consent must be signed by counsel of both parties and filed, and the clerk shall make a note thereof on the docket; but the Court, notwithstanding, may direct an oral argument to be made, if it shall deem best.

An appeal submitted under this rule must be docketed before the call of appeals from the Ninth District has been entered upon, unless it appears to the Court from the record that there has been no delay in docketing the appeal, and that it has been docketed as soon as practicable, and that public interest requires a speedy hearing of the case.

(Note—A compliance with this rule does not require a formal motion, but merely the filing with the printed record and briefs an agreement signed by counsel for both sides, that the case may be considered without oral argument.)

Necessity of Brief.—A case can not be submittted in Supreme Court without oral argument unless a printed argument or brief for each party is filed. Mills v. Guaranty Co., 136 N. C. 255, 48 S. E. 652.

11. Briefs Not Received After Argument

When the case is argued orally on the regular call of the docket, in behalf of only one of the parties, no printed argument for the other party will be received, unless it is filed before the oral argument begins. No brief or argument will be received after a case has been argued or submitted, except upon leave granted in open court, after notice to opposing counsel.

12. Briefs Regarded as Personal Appearance

When a case is reached on the regular call of the docket, and a printed brief or argument shall be filed for either party, the case shall stand on the same footing as if there were a personal appearance by counsel.

Opposition to Continuance.—The party filing a printed brief is to be taken as asking a decision at such term, and as opposing a continuance, and a motion by the opposite party to continue the case till next term will not be granted unless expressly assented to or for good cause shown. Dibbrell v. Georgia Home Ins. Co., 109 N. C. 314, 13 S. E. 739.

13. When Case May Be Heard Out of Order

In cases where the State is concerned, involving or affecting some matter of general public interest, the Court may, upon motion of the Attorney-General, assign an earlier place on the calendar, or fix a day for the argument thereof, which shall take precedence of other business. And the Court, at the instance of a party to a cause that directly involves the right to a public office, or at the instance of a party arrested in civil action who is in jail by reason of inability to give bond or from refusal of the court to discharge him, or in other cases of sufficient importance, in its judgment, may make the like assignment in respect to it.

Title to Public Office.—Where an action involving title to public office is begun after the term of the Supreme Court, and on appeal has come to such term of the Supreme Court after the call of the district to which the cause belongs, the court can, under this rule, set the same down for argument, though it was not entitled to be heard as of right. Caldwell v. Wilson, 121 N. C. 423, 28 S. E. 363.

Enjoining Issue of County Bonds.—An injunction suit to restrain a county from issuing bonds for the payment of certain county indebtedness will not be advanced for hearing because a certain portion of such indebtedness is due to the board of education for borrowed money. Black v. Commissioners, 129 N. C. 121, 39 S. E. 818.

14. When Cases May Be Heard Together

Two or more cases involving the same question may, by order of the Court, be heard together, but they must be argued as one case, the Court directing, when the counsel disagree, the course of argument.

15. Appeal Dismissed if Not Prosecuted

Cases not prosecuted for two terms shall, when reached in order at the third term, be dismissed at the cost of appellant, unless the same, for sufficient cause, shall be continued. When so dismissed, the appellant may, at any time thereafter not later than during the week allotted to the district to which it belongs at the next succeeding term, move to have the same reinstated, on notice to the appellee and showing sufficient cause.

Cross References.—As to when appeals will be dismissed, see note to section 645 of the code, analysis line IV. B; as to judgment on appeal generally, see section 658 of the code and notes thereto.

Dismissal of Appeal.—Failure to prosecute an appeal for two terms, is sufficient ground for dismissal, unless, for sufficient cause shown, the case shall be continued. The motion to reinstate, upon notice, may be heard not later than the next term. Wiseman v. Commissioners, 104 N. C. 330, 10 S. E. 481; Brantley v. Jordan, 92 N. C. 291. See, also, Briggs v. Jernis, 98 N. C. 454, 4 S. E. 631.

Sickness of Attorney.—Where an appeal after being on the docket for two terms was dismissed, when reached in its order at the third term, for want of prosecution, it will not be reinstated on appellant's affidavit that his attorney was sick, it not appearing that the appellant made any inquiry of his attorney regarding the appeal or sought to get other counsel to prosecute it. Martin v. Chambers, 116 N. C. 673, 21 S. E. 402.

When Cause Remanded.—An appeal from the conviction in a criminal case will be docketed and dismissed on motion of the Attorney-General when not prosecuted as required by the Rules of Court, but the record will be examined for errors appearing upon its face, and where it so appears that the defendant was convicted without a trial by jury after he had entered a plea of "not guilty," the cause will be remanded to the Superior Court for trial according to law. State v. Straughn, 197 N. C. 691, 150 S. E. 330.

16. Motion to Dismiss Appeal—When Made

A motion to dismiss an appeal for noncompliance with the requirements of the statute in perfecting an appeal must be made at or before entering upon the trial of the appeal upon its merits, and such motion will be allowed unless such compliance be shown in the record, or a waiver thereof appear therein, or such compliance is dispensed with by a writing signed by the appellee or his counsel, to that effect, or unless the Court shall allow appropriate amendments.

See notes to the succeeding section.

Although the statement of case on appeal is subject to the plea of "nul tiel record," the Supreme Court will examine it, and upon the absence of reversible error appearing therein or on the face of the record proper, the judgment will be affirmed and the appeal dismissed. State v. Goldston, 201 N. C. 89, 158 S. E. 926.

17. Appeal Dismissed for Failure to Docket in Time

If the appellant in a civil action shall fail to bring up and file a transcript of the record fourteen days before the Court begins the call of cases from the district from which it comes at the term of this Court at which such transcript is required to be filed, the appellee may file with the clerk of this Court the certificate of the clerk of the court from which the appeal comes, showing the names of the parties thereto, the time when the judgment and appeal were taken, the name of the appellant, and the date of the settling of the case on appeal, if any has been settled, with his motion to docket and dismiss at appellant's cost said appeal, which motion shall be allowed at first session of the Court thereafter, with leave to the appellant, during the term, and after notice to the appellee, to apply for the redocketing of the cause: Provided, that such motion of appellee to docket and dismiss the appeal will not be considered unless the appellee, before making the motion to dismiss, has paid the clerk of this Court the fee charged by the statute for docketing an appeal, the fee for drawing and entering judgment, and the determination fee, execution for such amount to issue in favor of appellee against appellant.

Cross Reference.—See rule 5 and notes thereto as to the time within which the record must be docketed. As to certiorari as a substitute for appeal, see rule 34 and notes thereto; as to the motion for dismissal generally, see 1 Enc. Dig. 651 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 112 et seq.

Right of Appellee.—When the appellant does not docket his appeal before the perusal of the docket of the district to which it belongs, the appellee, upon filing the certificate required by this section, is entitled, upon motion, to have the appeal docketed and dismissed. Rose v. Shaw, 105 N. C. 126, 10 S. E. 1055.

It is not discretionary with the Supreme Court to refuse to dismiss an appeal where appellant has failed to docket the case within the time required by rule 5, but such refusal can only be based on sufficient legal excuse for the delay. Carroll v. Victory Mfg. Co., 180 N. C. 660, 104 S. E. 528; Hewitt v. Beck, 152 N. C. 757, 67 S. E. 586.

An appeal from the conviction of a capital felony, will be docketed and dismissed on motion of the Attorney-General when not prosecuted as required by the rules of Court regulating such matters, after an examination of the record for errors appearing on its face. State v. Taylor, 194 N. C. 738, 140 S. E. 728; S. v. Thomas, 195 N. C. 458, 142 S. E. 474; State v. Clyburn, 195 N. C. 618, 143 S. E. 129; State v. Newsome, 196 N. C. 16, 144 S. E. 300; State v. Sentell, 208 N. C. 140, 179 S. E. 456.

Appellee Must Obey Rules.—A motion to dismiss an appeal, upon the ground that the appellant did not cause the same to be docketed in accordance with rule 5 will not be granted, where it appears that the appellee has also failed to comply with its requirements. One who seeks benefit under the rule must himself observe it. Barbee v. Green, 91 N. C. 158.

When Motion May Be Made.—A motion to docket and dismiss an appeal may be made at the beginning of the call of the district to which it belongs, or at any time thereafter during the term. In re Burwell's Will, 123 N. C. 125, 31 S. E. 382.

A motion to dismiss an appeal in the Supreme Court for failure of appellant to docket in the time required is in apt time when it is made during the term of court to which the appeal is returnable, and before the case is docketed. Standard Mirror Co. v. Philadelphia Casualty Co., 157 N. C. 28, 72 S. E. 826.

Same—Need Not Be at First Opportunity.—A motion by the appellee to docket and dismiss made before the docketing of the transcript, though not at the first opportunity, will be allowed. Worth v. Wilmington, 131 N. C. 532, 42 S. E. 964.

Appellant Not Entitled to Notice.—An appellee entitled to move for the dismissal of an appeal because of appellants' failure to file transcript of record within the required time, is not required to give appellants notice of such motion. Kerr v. Drake, 182 N. C. 764, 108 S. E. 393; Johnston v. Whitehead, 109 N. C. 207, 13 S. E. 731.

Laches of Appellant.—Where the appellant was guilty of laches for putting off his application for the transcript of record until just before the time when it should have been sent up for hearing, and he was further in laches that when the clerk delayed in making out the transcript, he did not take steps to have it made out himself and certified by the clerk, the motion to dismiss under this rule will be granted. Johnson v. Covington, 178 N. C. 658, 100 S. E. 881.

Case Docketed before Motion to Dismiss.—Though an appeal is not docketed fourteen days before the call of the district to which it belongs, it will not be dismissed (when docketed at the next term here after the trial below) if it is docketed before the motion is made to dismiss. McLean v. McDonald, 175 N. C. 418, 95 S. E. 769; Gupton v. Sledge, 161 N. C. 213, 76 S. E. 527; Standard Mirror Co. v. Philadelphia Casualty Co., 157 N. C. 28, 72 S. E. 826. See, also, Laney v. Mackey, 144 N. C. 630, 57 S. E. 386; Benedict v. Jones, 131 N. C. 473, 42 S. E. 909.

Same—Applies to First District.—The rule that though an appeal is not docketed fourteen days before the call of the district to which it belongs, it will not be dismissed (when docketed at the next term here after the trial below) if it is docketed before the motion is made to dismiss, applies to the first as well as the other districts, as the appellee can file his motion to dismiss with the clerk whether the court is in session or not. Craddock v. Barnes, 140 N. C. 427, 53 S. E. 239.

Failure to Make Motion No Waiver.—This rule applies only to that term of the Supreme Court next ensuing the trial; and where the appellant has docketed his case after that term the case will, on motion, be dismissed at the following term of the Supreme Court, and the failure of the appellee to have previously moved to dismiss is not a waiver of his right. Howard v. Speight, 180 N. C. 653, 104 S. E. 35.

Necessity of Clerk's Certificate.—A motion to dismiss an appeal for appellant's failure to file the transcript fourteen days before entering on the call of the docket as required by rule 5, where not accompanied by the certificate of the clerk of court as required by this rule is defective. Mitchell v. Melton, 178 N. C. 87, 100 S. E. 124.

Certificate Need Not Be Duplicated.—Where the appellant has filed a certificate of the clerk below that the case has been tried there, giving the names of the parties, and unsuccessfully applied for a certiorari in the Supreme Court, it is not necessary to appellee's motion to dismiss, that he should duplicate the certificate. Lindsay v. Knights of Honor, 172 N. C. 818, 90 S. E. 1013.

Duty of Clerk Where Judgment Stayed But Appeal Not Docketed.—Even though execution of the judgment is stayed, unless the defendant shall proceed further and docket the appeal within the time prescribed by Rule 5, the clerk of the Superior Court wherein the case is tried should certify the facts to the Attorney-General of the State, to the end that he may move to docket and dismiss the appeal under this rule. State v. Watson, 208 N. C. 70, 71, 179 S. E. 455.

Clerk Cannot Refuse to Sign Certificate.—Where the transcript of appeal was not docketed in the time required, and the appellee prepared the certificate required by this rule, for motion to dismiss, and forwarded it to the clerk of the trial court, with a request that he sign the same, the clerk had no right to decline to sign and return the certificate because plaintiff's counsel had two weeks previously paid him $20 on account for the making out of a transcript and requested that he prepare the same. Johnson v. Covington, 178 N. C. 658, 100 S. E. 881.

Case on Appeal Unnecessary.—A motion to docket and dismiss an appeal will be allowed, where no transcript has been docketed, and no case on appeal is necessary to entitle appellee to such dismissal. Fowle & Son v. Mitchell, 149 N. C. 581, 62 S. E. 311.

Time of Stating Excuse.—Where a motion to docket and dismiss an appeal is made by appellee, for appellant's failure to docket the case, excuses for failure to docket should be then made. British, etc., Mortg. Co. v. Long, 116 N. C. 77, 20 S. E. 964; McNeil v. Virginia-Carolina R. Co., 173 N. C. 729, 92 S. E. 484.

Agreement of Parties.—Where the parties have entered into a written agreement or an oral agreement not denied, that the appellee will not move to dismiss under this section the court will uphold the agreement and a motion to dismiss will be denied. See McNeil v. Virginia-Carolina R. Co., 173 N. C. 729, 92 S. E. 484 and cases there cited.

When Appellant Has Abandoned Appeal.—When it appeared from the record on file in the Supreme Court, that the appellant had abandoned his appeal below, no motion to dismiss was necessary, and it will therefore be disallowed. Standard Mirror Co v. Philadelphia Casualty Co., 157 N. C. 28, 72 S. E. 826.

Requisites of Motion to Reinstate.—A motion to reinstate an appeal dismissed for failure to docket the record at the first term of this Court after the trial below, is fatally defective where it does not show that the delay was without laches on the part of the appellant. Pipkin v. Green, 112 N. C. 355, 17 S. E. 534.

Where an appeal has been dismissed under this rule, the appellant, applying for a reinstatement upon the ground that the trial judge has failed to settle the case, must show that he has had his record proper docketed in this court, as required by the rules, or his motion will be denied. Caudle v. Morris, 158 N. C. 594, 74 S. E. 98.

Same—Motion Based on Same Grounds as Dismissed.—A motion to reinstate a case on appeal must be denied when based on the same grounds upon which it was properly dismissed. McDowell v. Kent, 153 N. C. 555, 69 S. E. 626.

Same—Based on Absence of Counsel.—Where an appeal has been dismissed for failure to docket the transcript on appeal in proper time, it will not be reinstated upon the ground that appellant's counsel was prevented from appearing to settle the case before the trial Judge, on the days designated for the purpose, by other urgent business of his client, the appellant, requiring his presence elsewhere. Parker v. Southern Ry. Co., 121 N. C. 501, 28 S. E. 347.

Applied in Barbee v. Green, 91 N. C. 158; Avery v. Pritchard, 106 N. C. 344, 11 S. E. 281; Porter v. Western, etc., R. Co., 106 N. C. 478, 11 S. E. 515; Rollins v. Love, 97 N. C. 210, 2 S. E. 166; Bailey v. Brown, 105 N. C. 127, 10 S. E. 1054; Hinton v. Pritchard, 108 N. C. 412, 12 S. E. 838; Graham v. Edwards, 114 N. C. 228, 19 S. E. 150; Truelove v. Norris, 152 N. C. 755, 67 S. E. 487; Rosemond v. McPherson, 156 N. C. 593, 72 S. E. 570; Jordan v. Simmons, 175 N. C. 537, 95 S. E. 919.

(1) Appeal Docketed by Appellee When Frivolous and Taken for Purposes of Delay.—The transcript of an appeal which is obviously frivolous and appears to have been taken only for purposes of delay, may be docketed in this Court by appellee before the time required by Rule 5, and if it appears to the Court that the appellee's contention is correct, the appeal will be dismissed at cost of appellant.

Cross References.—As to what appeals the supreme court will consider see notes to section 638 of the code, analyze line II. C. See, also, 1 Enc. Dig. 411 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 84 et seq.

Frivolous Appeal Dismissed.—While ordinarily an appeal lies to the Supreme from the Superior Court as a matter of right, it is required that it must be bona fide for the purpose of reviewing some alleged error; and when from the record it appears that the appeal is frivolous and made solely for delay, it will, upon due notice to the appellant, be dismissed upon appellee's motion. Ludwick v. Unwarra Min. Co., 171 N. C. 60, 87 S. E. 949; Blount v. Jones, 175 N. C. 708, 95 S. E. 541; Headman v. Commissioners, 177 N. C. 261, 98 S. E. 776; Ross v. Robinson, 185 N. C. 548, 118 S. E. 4.

Instant Relief for Appellee.—Where the appellee has moved to dismiss the appeal, showing that appellant's defense was frivolous and only for advantages to be gained by delay to the appellee's loss, and that the appellant had lost the right to have the case settled on appeal for the Supreme Court, and his answer to the motion is also frivolous, the supreme court will affirm the judgment in appellee's favor rendered in the trial court, and order the judgment to be certified down instanter to afford the appellee relief from the appellant's abuse of the court's process and procedure. Slewyn Hotel Co. v. Griffin, 182 N. C. 539, 109 S. E. 371.

18. Appeal Docketed and Dismissed Not to Be Reinstated Until Appellant Has Paid Costs

When an appeal is dismissed by reason of the failure of the appellant to bring up a transcript of the record, and the same, or a certificate for that purpose, as allowed by Rule 17, is procured by appellee, and the case dismissed, no order shall be made setting aside the dismissal or allowing the appeal to be reinstated, even though the appellant may be otherwise entitled to such order, until the appellant shall have paid or offered to pay the costs of the appellee in procuring the certificate and in causing the same to be docketed.

Cross References.—As to costs on appeal generally, see code sections 1256 et seq., see, also, code sections 646 et seq.

19. Transcripts

(1) What to Contain and How Arranged.—In every transcript record of an action brought to this Court, the proceedings shall be set forth in the order of time in which they occurred, and the several processes, orders, and every document constituting the transcript shall be identified by a proper title or heading, and shall be arranged to follow each other in the order the same took place, when practicable. The pages shall be numbered, and on the front page of the record there shall be an index in the following or some equivalent form:

	Page
Summons—date	1
Complaint—first cause of action	2
Complaint—second cause of action ..	3
Affidavit for attachment, etc.	4

It shall not be necessary to send as a part of the transcript, affidavits, orders, and other process and proceedings in the action not involved in the appeal and not necessary to an understanding of the exceptions relied on. Counsel may sign an agreement which shall be made a part of the record as to the parts to be transcribed, and in the event of disagreement of counsel the judge of the Superior Court shall designate the same by written order: Provided, that the pleadings on which the case is tried, the issues, and the judgment appealed from shall be a part of the transcript in all cases: Provided further, that this rule is subject to the power of this Court to order additional papers and parts of the record to be sent up.

As to the contents of the case on appeal, see code secs. 643 and 644 and notes thereto. See, also, 1 Enc. Dig. 521 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 100 et seq.

Editor's Note.—The transcript is necessary to give the supreme court jurisdiction of a case, see notes to code sec. 645, analysis line I.

Pleadings, Issues and Judgment a Part of Record.—The rules of practice in the Supreme Court require among other things that the pleadings, issues and judgment shall be a part of the record proper, and this appeal, the record not including the summons or complaint, and the Court, consequently not being informed as to the nature of the action is dismissed. Waters v. Waters, 199 N. C. 667, 155 S. E. 564.

Where the pleadings and the referee's report have been omitted from the record, the appeal must be dismissed as not conforming to subsec. (1) of this rule. Payne v. Brown, 205 N. C. 785, 786, 172 S. E. 348.

The pleadings are a necessary part of the record proper upon appeal, and where the pleadings are omitted from the record, the appeal must be dismissed. State v. Ravensford Lbr. Co., 207 N. C. 47, 175 S. E. 713.

Dismissal of Appeal.—The case on appeal to the Supreme Court will be dimissed when the transcript does not conform to the rules of Court regulating appeals. Bridgers v. Griffin, 195 N. C. 862, 142 S. E. 221.

Under Rule 19, section 1, the complaint is a necessary part of the record proper, and when it is not contained therein, the case on appeal will be dismissed. Schwarberg v. Howard, 197 N. C. 126, 147 S. E. 741; Plott Co. v Ferguson Const. Co., 198 N. C. 782, 153 S. E. 396.

Where on appeal the record contains only a synopsis of the complaint the appeal will be dismissed. Plott Co. v. Ferguson Const. Co., 198 N. C. 782, 153 S. E. 396.

Purpose of Rule.—It is the duty of the courts to prevent the imposition by either party of unnecessary costs upon the other. It is for the reason that this rule designates what matter is unnecessary to be sent up, and prescribes that the evidence on appeal shall be set out in narrative form. Waldo v. Wilson, 177 N. C. 461, 463, 100 S. E. 182.

Failure to Index.—Appeals will be dismissed where no index is sent up in the record and printed and no marginal references prepared. Kearnes v. Gray, 173 N. C. 717, 92 S. E. 149; Sigman v. Sou. Railroad Co., 135 N. C. 181, 47 S. E. 420. See, also, Pretzfelder v. Merchants Ins. Co., 123 N. C. 164, 31 S. E. 470; Alexander v. Alexander, 120 N. C. 472, 27 S. E. 121.

Proceedings Not Set Forth in Regular Order.—Where the transcript does not set forth the proceedings in the order of time which they occur, and the record shows no error warranting an order for a new trial, the appeal will be dismissed on motion. Hobbs v. Cashwell, 158 N. C. 597, 74 S. E. 23.

Transcript of Indictment Must Appear in Record.—Where an appeal is taken to the refusal of the trial court to quash an indictment, it is the duty of the appellant to see that a transcript of the indictment appears in the record; and when it does not so appear he should apply to the Superior Court to supply it, if one convenes in time; and if not, he should send to the Supreme Court as much of the record as could be procured, and apply here for a certiorari to give him opportunity to move in the court below. State v. McDraughon, 168 N. C. 131, 83 S. E. 181.

Copy of Judgment Omitted.—Where on appeal no printed copy of the judgment accompanies the record, the appeal will be dismissed under this Rule. Wiley v. Bessemer City Mining Co., 117 N. C. 489, 23 S. E. 448.

Case Decided on False Record.—Where a criminal case is decided in the Supreme Court on a record afterwards found to be false, it will be restored to the docket and a certiorari issued to correct the record. State v. Marsh, 134 N. C. 184, 47 S. E. 6.

Motion to Reinstate.—A motion to reinstate a case on appeal that has been dismissed on appellee's motion, for nonconformity with the rules of the court requiring the record to be indexed, and to show the appellant's exceptions under proper assignments of error in accordance with the manner specified, will be denied, when the granting of the motion would not cure the defects. Redding v. Dunn, 185 N. C. 311, 117 S. E. 26.

(2) Two Appeals. When there are two or more appeals in one action it shall not be necessary to have more than one transcript, but the statements of cases on appeal shall be settled as now required by law, and shall appear separately in the transcript. The judge of the Superior Court shall determine the part of the costs of making the transcript to be paid by each party, subject to the right to recover such costs in the final judgment as now provided by law.

Editor's Note.—Formerly when two or more appeals were taken in the same action a separate transcript was required for each appeal. This rule has only been recently changed. For cases decided under the former rule, see Pope v. Lumber Co., 162 N. C. 208, 78 S. E. 65; Candle v. Morris, 158 N. C. 594, 74 S. E. 98; Mills v. Guaranty Co., 136 N. C. 255, 48 S. E. 652

Marginal References.—There must be printed on the margin, or as subheads, of each transcript of record a brief statement of the subject-matter contained therein, and such marginal references or subheads embrace also the duty of numbering the exceptions. Brinkley v. Smith, 130 N. C. 224, 41 S. E. 106.

(3) Exceptions Grouped. All exceptions relied on shall be grouped and separately numbered immediately before or after the signature to the case on appeal. Exceptions not thus set out will be deemed to be abandoned. If this rule is not complied with, and the appeal is not from a judgment of nonsuit, it will be dismissed, or the Court will in its discretion refer the transcript to the clerk or to some attorney to state the exceptions according to this rule, for which an allowance of not less than $5 will be made, to be paid in advance by the appellant; but the transcript will not be so referred or remanded unless the appellant file with the clerk a written stipulation that the appeal shall be heard and determined on printed briefs under Rule 10, if the appellee shall so elect.

See notes to rule 21. As to exceptions generally see sections 570 and 590 of the code and notes thereto.

Rule Strictly Adhered to.—The requirement that errors relied on be assigned in the record, and that the exceptions relied on shall be grouped, numbered, and set out immediately after the statement of the case on appeal, must be strictly adhered to, except when the appeal is on the ground the judgment was not justified by the facts found or admitted, or that the court did not have jurisdiction. Owens v. Hines, 178 N. C. 325, 100 S. E. 617. Pegram v. Hester, 152 N. C. 765, 68 S. E. 8; Sigman v. Sou. R. Co., 135 N. C. 181, 47 S. E. 420.

Not Sufficient to Show Exceptions in Record.—This rule is not complied with by showing in the record the various exceptions numbered, but on different pages, when there is no assignment of errors at the end of the case, either before or after the judge's signature; and the appeal will be dismissed. Jones v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 153 N. C. 419, 69 S. E. 427.

When Only Correctness of Judgment Questioned.—When the appeal calls in question only the correctness of the judgment no summary of exceptions is required, because it is error on the face of the record. Ullery v. Guthrie, 148 N. C. 417, 62 S. E. 552. Wilson v. Beaufort County Lumber Co., 131 N. C. 163, 42 S. E. 565.

When Error Plainly Apparent.—Where the exceptions are separately stated and numbered, but are not brought together at the end of the case, a motion by the appellee to affirm will be denied if the error intended to be assigned is plainly apparent. Hicks v. Kenan, 139 N. C. 337, 51 S. E. 941.

When Only One Exception Taken.—An appeal will not be dismissed for noncompliance with this rule, requiring all the exceptions relied on to be set out immediately after the statement of the case on appeal, where the appellee was not prejudiced; there being only one exception taken, and that being stated in the record, though improperly. Wall v. Holloman, 156 N. C. 275, 72 S. E. 369.

Transcript Filed Too Late for Hearing.—Where transcript was filed too late for hearing at term on appeal, a motion to dismiss, on the ground that assignments of error were not grouped and numbered as required by the rule, could not be entertained until the following term. McLean v. McDonald, 175 N. C. 418, 95 S. E. 769.

Appeal Dismissed for Failure to Follow Rule.—Where exceptions and assignments of error in a special municipal court are overruled upon appeal to the Superior Court, and are again relied on in an appeal to the Supreme Court, they must be sufficiently definite to enable the Supreme Court to understand what questions are sought to be presented without a voyage of discovery through the record, Rule 19, § 3, and otherwise the appeal will be dismissed on the appellee's motion. Cecil v. Snow Lumber Company, 197 N. C. 81, 147 S. E. 735.

Assignments of error which only group the exceptions, as, "Group 1 includes the first assignment," etc., give no indication of the error complained of, and are far from being a compliance with the rule, and will be dismissed under this rule. Merritt v. Dick, 169 N. C. 244, 85 S. E. 2; see, also, Smith v. Globe Home Furn. Mfg. Co., 151 N. C. 260, 65 S. E. 1009; McDonald v. Kent, 153 N. C. 555, 69 S. E. 626.

(4) Evidence to Be Stated in Narrative Form. The evidence in case on appeal shall be in narrative form, and not by question and answer, except that a question and answer, or a series of them, may be set out when the subject of a particular exception. When this rule is not complied with, and the case on appeal is settled by the judge, this Court will in its discretion hear the appeal, or remand for a settlement of the case to conform to this rule. If the case is settled by agreement of counsel, or the statement of the appellant is the case on appeal, and the rule is not complied with, or the appeal is from a judgment of nonsuit, the appeal will be dismissed. In other cases the Court will in its discretion dismiss the appeal, or remand for a settlement of the case on appeal.

See code sections 643 and 644 and notes thereto.

Stenographer's Notes Insufficient.—When the appellant has set out in the case on appeal the transcribed stenographer's notes of the trial, he fails to prepare a concise statement of the case as required by this section, and his appeal will be dismissed, when upon examination no error is found in the record proper. Skipper v. Kingsdale Lumber Co., 158 N. C. 322, 74 S. E. 342; Bucken v. South, etc., R. Co., 157 N. C. 443, 73 S. E. 137.

Cannot Be Waived.—The requirements of the rule of the Supreme Court, that the evidence must appear in the case on appeal in narrative form, cannot be waived by the parties. Bank v. Fries, 162 N. C. 516, 77 S. E. 678; Bucken v. Sou., etc., R. Co., 157 N. C. 443, 73 S. E. 137.

Same—Appeal in Forma Pauperis.—That the action is in forma pauperis, does not excuse the appellant in sending up the transcribed stenographer's notes in a voluminous record. Skipper v. Kingsdale Lumber Co., 158 N. C. 322, 74 S. E. 342.

Effect of Failure to Comply.—Where the appellant has failed to make a concise statement of the evidence according to the Rules of Practice, but gives the entire evidence in the form of questions to and answers of witnesses, taken from the stenographer's notes, the appeal will be dismissed and the judgment affirmed upon motion of the appellee. Casey v. East Carolina Ry., 198 N. C. 432, 152 S. E. 38.

(5) Unnecessary Portions of Transcript — How Taxed. The cost of copying and printing unnecessary and irrelevant testimony, or any other matter not needed to explain the exceptions or errors assigned, and not constituting a part of the record proper, shall in all cases be charged to the appellant, unless it appears that they were sent up at the instance of the appellee, in which case the cost shall be taxed against him.

See note to rule 26.

(6) Transcripts in Pauper Appeals. See Rule 22.

(7) Maps. Seven copies of every map or diagram which is a part of the trancript of appeal, and which is applicable to the merits of the appeal, shall be filed with the clerk of this Court before such appeal is called for argument.

Filing Copies of Plat.—Where a plat is referred to in the pleadings and evidence, and is necessary to the understanding of an appeal, the same number of copies of the plat must be filed as is required of the printed record and briefs, or the judgment below will be affirmed or appeal dismissed. Stephens v. McDonald, 132 N. C. 135, 43 S. E. 592.

This is also true of an exhibit made part of the case on appeal. Fleming v. McPhail, 121 N. C. 183, 28 S. E. 258; Hicks v. Royal, 122 N. C. 405, 29 S. E. 413.

But where the map or plat is irrelevant its exclusion will not be held error. Fulwood v. Fulwood, 161 N. C. 601, 77 S. E. 763.

(8) Appeal Bond. See Rule 6 (1).

Cross References.—See rule 6(1). As to the appeal bond generally, see code sections 646 et seq. See, also, code secs. 1256 et seq.

(9) The prosecution bond given in every case shall be sent up with the transcript of the record. Such bond shall be justified and the justification shall name the county wherein the surety resides.

(10) Insufficient Transcription. If a transcript has not been properly arranged, as required by subsection (1) of this rule, the appeal shall be dismissed or referred to the clerk to be properly arranged, for which an allowance of $5 shall be made to him. If the appeal is not dismissed, and is so referred to the clerk, it shall be placed for hearing at the end of the district, or the end of the docket, or continued as the Court may deem proper.

20. Pleadings

(1) When Deemed Frivolous. Memoranda of pleadings will not be received or recognized in the Supreme Court as pleadings, even by consent of counsel, but the same will be treated as frivolous and impertinent.

(2) When Containing More Than One Cause Of Action. Every pleading containing two or more causes of action shall, in each, set out all the facts upon which it rests, and shall not, by reference to others, incorporate in itself any of the allegations in them, except that exhibits, by marks or numbers, may be referred to without reciting their contents, when attached thereto.

(3) When Scandalous. Pleadings containing scandalous or impertinent matter will, in a plain case, be ordered by the Court to be stricken from the record, or reformed; and for this purpose the Court may refer it to the clerk, or some member of the bar, to examine and report the character of the same.

(4) Amendments. The Court may amend any process, pleading, or proceeding, either in form or substance, for the purpose of furthering justice, on such terms as shall be deemed just, at any time before final judgment, or may make proper parties to any case, where the Court may deem it necessary and proper for the purpose of justice, and on such terms as the Court may prescribe.

Cross References.—As to amendments to pleading generally, see code section 548 et seq. As to the power of the Supreme Court to order amendment see section 1414 of the code and notes thereto.

The Supreme Court will not anticipate questions of constitutional law in advance of the necessity of deciding them, nor will it give advisory opinions on such questions, and where the record in a case on appeal is so incomplete that it may not be determined that the constitutionality of a statute is squarely presented, the questions will not be decided. Plott Co. v. Ferguson Const. Co., 198 N. C. 782, 153 S. E. 396.

Impertinent Matter Is Stricken. — Where "impertinent" matter is introduced into the pleadings, it is, according to the course of the Court, to be stricken out at the expense of the party introducing it. Powell v. Cobb, 56 N. C. 1.

No matter is impertinent, however scandalous it may be, or however much it may tend to degrade, provided it bears upon the point about which the parties are at issue. Id.

21. Exceptions. (See also, Rule 19 (3).)

Every appellant shall set out in his statement of case served on appeal his exceptions to the proceedings, ruling, or judgment of the court, briefly and clearly stated and numbered. When no case settled is necessary, then, within ten days next after the end of the term at which the judgment is rendered from which an appeal shall be taken, or, in case of a ruling of the court at chambers and not in term-time, within ten days after notice thereof, appellant shall file the said exceptions in the office of the clerk of the court below. No exceptions not thus set out, or filed and made a part of the case or record, shall be considered by this Court, other than exceptions to the jurisdiction or because the complaint does not state a cause of action, or motions in arrest for the insufficiency of an indictment. When testimony is admitted, not as substantive evidence, but in corroboration or contradiction, and that fact is stated by the court when it is admitted, it will not be ground for exception that the judge fails in his charge to again instruct the jury specially upon the nature of such evidence, unless his attention is called to the matter by a prayer for instruction; nor will it be ground of exception that evidence competent for some purposes but not all, is admitted generally, unless the appellant asks, at the time of admission, that its purpose shall be restricted.

I. Exceptions.
II. Corroborative and Contradictory Evidence.

I. EXCEPTIONS.

Cross References.—See rule 19 (3). As to exceptions generally see code sections 570 and 590 et seq., and notes thereto. See, also, notes to code section 643, analysis line III.

Assignment of Error Must Be Clearly Stated.—Assignments of error must be clearly and intelligently stated so that the Court will not have to look at exceptions therein referred to in order that they may be understood; for otherwise they will not be considered on appeal. Myrose v. Swain, 172 N. C. 223, 90 S. E. 118.

Duty to Prepare Assignment of Error.—The preparation of the assignment of error is the work of the attorney for the appellant, and is not a part of the case on appeal, and its office is to group the exceptions noted in the case on appeal; and, if there is an assignment of error not supported by an exception, it will be disregarded. Worley v. Laurel River Logging Co., 157 N. C. 490, 73 S. E. 107; McLeod v. Gooch, 162 N. C. 122, 78 S. E. 4; Allred v. Kirkman, 160 N. C 392, 76 S. E. 244.

Appeal Dismissed for Failure to Follow Rule.—The court will dismiss the appellant's case when he fails to assign error as required by this rule. In re Bailey, 180 N. C. 30, 103 S. E. 896; Thresher Co. v. Thomas, 170 N. C. 680, 87 S. E. 327; Hobbs v. Cashwell, 158 N. C. 597, 74 S. E. 23.

The appellee's motion to dismiss the appeal because, (1) the exceptions are not "briefly and clearly stated and numbered," (2) the exceptions relied upon are not grouped and numbered immediately after the end of the case on appeal, (3) the index is not placed at the front of the record, will be allowed. Davis v. Wall, 142 N. C. 450, 451, 55 S. E. 350. See, also, Jones v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 153 N. C. 419, 69 S. E. 427.

Rule Cannot Be Waived.—The rule requiring the assignment of error in the record on appeal is for the benefit of the court, and counsel cannot waive it; Parrott v. Hardesty, 169 N. C. 667, 86 S. E. 582; Southern Spruce Co. v. Hunnicutt, 166 N. C. 202, 81 S. E. 1079.

General Exception.—Where the plaintiff filed a large number of exceptions to the referee's report and the judge confirms or modifies certain portions of the report and sets aside others, an exception, "The plaintiff excepts to such rulings, adverse to it and appeals," is too general to be considered. Commissioners v. Erwin, 140 N. C. 193, 52 S. E. 785.

Where there is a single assignment of error to several rulings of the trial court, and one of them is correct, the assignment must fail. Buie v. Kennedy, 164 N. C. 290, 80 S. E. 445.

Reference by Number Insufficient.—This rule must be complied with to have the appeal considered by the court; and where the assignments of error each simply refers to the exception of record by number, without giving the purport or text thereof, it is insufficient, and the judgment of the trial court will be affirmed. Porter v. American Cigar Box Lumber Co., 164 N. C. 396, 80 S. E. 443.

A statement purporting to be assignments of error appearing in the record just after the statement of case on appeal, setting forth in general terms that the appellant excepted to the rulings of the court, as appeared in certain numbered exceptions of record taken on the trial, such exceptions themselves not being sufficiently stated, in excluding evidence, and "to a judgment of nonsuit as noted in the forty-seventh exception," is not definite enough for the court to consider on appeal or to be referred to the clerk to be put in the prescribed shape therefor, and the appeal should be dismissed. Thompson v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 147 N. C. 412, 61 S. E. 286.

Reference to Page.—Where the assignments of error are not comprehensive enough to give a clear idea to the court of the matters to be debated without examining the record, they will not be considered, as, "to the question and answer in the admission of the evidence" of a certain witness, "as contained in the exception 1 on page———of the record;" and the giving of proper page will not cure its insufficiency. Rogers v. Jones, 172 N. C. 156, 90 S. E. 117.

Exceptions to Evidence.—The assignments of error on questions of evidence should set out the testimony so that their relevancy can be seen; and on the rulings of the court or some other matters occurring at the trial, the ruling itself or the attendant facts and circumstances should be so stated that their bearing on the controversy can be perceived to some extent in reading the assignments themselves. Thompson v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 147 N. C. 412, 61 S. E. 286; Carter v. Reaves, 167 N. C. 131, 83 S. E. 248.

Exceptions to Unanswered Questions.—Where exception is taken to the judge's exclusion of evidence upon the trial, it is upon appellant to show error, and when the exception is taken to unanswered questions, the substance of the answers must be made to appear on appeal, so that the Supreme Court may pass upon its competency. Hamlet Ice Co. v. Jones Constr. Co., 194 N. C. 407, 139 S. E. 771; Wallace v. Barlow, 165 N. C. 676, 81 S. E. 924.

Exception to Issues Submitted.—Where a cause was tried under one issue, without exception taken, the assignment of error that other issues should have been submitted is not in compliance with the rules of court regulating appeals. McNairy v. Norfolk etc., R. Co., 172 N. C. 505, 90 S. E. 497.

Exception to Directed Verdict.—It is not required that an exception to the direction of a verdict by the court upon the evidence should conform to the particulars of Rules 19, 21 and 28, for it is analogous to instances of nonsuit, which require that the court examine into the pertinent evidence in the record. Wynn v. Grant, 166 N. C. 39, 81 S. E. 949.

Questions Discussed in Brief Only.—A question discussed in the brief but not presented by any exception or assignment of error can not be considered. Coon v. Southern R. Co., 171 N. C. 759, 88 S. E. 510; Needham v. Southern R. Co., 171 N. C. 765, 88 S. E. 511.

When Complaint Does Not State Cause of Action.—A defendant, without filing exception on appeal from an adverse judgment, may move to dismiss the action on the ground that the complaint does not state a cause of action. Lloyd v. North Carolina R. Co., 151 N. C. 536, 66 S. E. 604.

This is not time of an objection for misjoinder of cause of action. Wright v. Kinney, 123 N. C. 618, 31 S. E. 874.

Applied in Chamblee v. Baker, 95 N. C. 98; Davenport v. Leary, 95 N. C. 203; Raleigh v. Peace, 110 N. C. 32, 14 S. E. 521; Greensboro v. McAdoo, 110 N. C. 430, 14 S. E. 974; Greensboro v. McAdoo, 112 N. C. 359, 17 S. E. 178; Alexander v. Alexander, 120 N. C. 472, 27 S. E. 121; Lucas v. Carolina Cent. R. Co., 121 N. C. 506, 28 S. E. 265; Baker v. Hobgood, 126 N. C. 149, 35 S. E. 253; McDowell v. Kent, 153 N. C. 555, 69 S. E. 626.

II. CORROBORATIVE AND CONTRADICTORY EVIDENCES.

Effect of Rule.—This rule relieves the trial judge of the duty of instructing specially upon the nature of corroborative or impeaching evidence, unless specially requested. Westfeldt v. Adams, 135 N. C. 591, 47 S. E. 816.

Exception Not Considered.—A witness may testify to statements he had made to the defendant's agent when in corroboration of his testimony; and where the record states that it was confined to that purpose, or there was no request made that it be so confined, it will not be considered as reversible error on appeal. Perry v. Branning Mfg. Co., 176 N. C. 68, 97 S. E. 162; Whitehurst v. Padgett, 157 N. C. 424, 73 S. E. 240; Singleton v. Roebuck, 178 N. C. 201, 100 S. E. 313.

When the evidence is corroborative, the failure of the trial court to restrict it will not be considered on appeal unless the objecting party asks for an instruction to that effect. Chrisco v. Yow, 153 N. C. 434, 69 S. E. 422; Cooper v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 163 N. C. 150, 79 S. E. 418.

Where several witnesses testified to certain facts which the trial judge at the time stated were competent only for the purpose of corroboration, and when charging the jury in reciting the testimony of one of these witnesses he repeated that it was to be considered only for the purpose of corroboration, but failed to do so in reciting the testimony of other witnesses, an exception to such omission cannot be sustained, in the absence of a request to charge that the same rule applied to all of the testimony of that class. Liles v. Lumber Co., 142 N. C. 39, 54 S. E. 795.

Evidence Competent for Some Purpose.—When evidence is competent for some purpose, its general admission is not reversible error unless the appellant asks at the time of the admission that it be restricted. Tise v. Thomasville, 151 N. C. 281, 65 S. E. 1007.

When evidence competent for some purposes, but not for all, is admitted generally, unless appellant asks at the time of the admission that its purpose be restricted, or requests special instructions to that effect, the failure of the judge to so restrict it is not assignable for error. Hill v. Bean, 150 N. C. 436, 64 S. E. 212.

Objection That Instruction Insufficient.—Where the declarations of a party to an action are admissible as to him alone, and the judge has so instructed the jury, an objection that the instruction was not sufficiently definite will not be sustained, unless there was a request to make it so, which was refused. Plemmons v. Murphey, 176 N. C. 671, 97 S. E. 648.

Error in Restricting Evidence Harmless.—In view of this rule, a charge which informed the jury that the testimony was to be considered solely in impeachment of a witness, even if error, was harmless. Medlin v. County Board, 167 N. C. 239, 83 S. E. 483.

Unsupported Statements of Appellant.—A statement in the assignments of error, when there is nothing in the statement or record of the case on appeal to give it any support, is only the unsupported statement of the appellant of what had occurred, and hence the assignment of error depending thereon will not be considered on appeal. State v. Freeze, 170 N. C. 710, 86 S. E. 1000.

Where the charge of the court is not set out in the record on appeal, the presumption is in favor of its correctness, and that the appellant would otherwise have excepted, and especially so when it is stated that the judge charged the jury at length concerning the case. State v. Jones, 182 N. C. 781, 108 S. E. 376.

22. Printing Transcripts. (But see Rule 25.)

Twenty-five copies of the transcript in every case docketed, except in pauper appeals, shall be printed and filed immediately after the case has been docketed, unless printed before the case has been docketed, in which event the printed copies shall be filed when the case is docketed. It shall not be necessary to print the summons and other papers showing service of process, if a statement signed by counsel is printed giving the names of all the parties and stating that summons has been duly served. Nor shall it be necessary to print formal parts of the record showing the organization of the court, the constitution of the jury, etc.

In pauper appeals the counsel for appellant may file seven typewritten copies of his brief, in lieu of printed copies, if he so elects, and such briefs must give a succinct statement of the facts applicable to the exceptions and the authorities relied on, and in pauper appeals the appellant may also file, in lieu of printed copies if he so elects, seven typewritten copies of the transcript, in addition to the original transcript. Should the appellant gain the appeal, the cost of preparing the typewritten briefs or transcripts shall be taxed against the appellee, provided statement of such cost is given the clerk of this Court before the case is decided. The arrangment of the matter in the printed transcript shall follow the order prescribed by Rule 19.

See notes to rule 24. As to appeals in forma pauperis generally, see code, § 649 and notes thereto.

See also § 4651 of the Code and the note thereto.

Pauper Appeals—Rule Mandatory.—The rule of practice in the Supreme Court requiring appellant in appeals in forma pauperis to file seven typewritten copies of his brief and of the transcript, in addition to the original transcript, is mandatory, and a compliance with its provisions is necessary to entitle the appellant to have his appeal decided on its merits. Wachovia Bank, etc., Co. v. Miller, 191 N. C. 787, 133 S. E. 97.

Upon appeal to the Supreme Court in forma pauperis, the appellant is required to file seven typewritten copies of his brief upon penalty of having his case dismissed, and printed briefs must be filed by the appellee for him to be heard on the oral argument. Fisher v. Toxaway Co., 171 N. C. 547, 88 S. E. 887.

Same—Dismissal for Failure to Follow Rule.—An appeal of the Supreme Court will be dismissed if the appellant fails to comply with the rule, requiring the appellant, in pauper appeals, when docketing the appeal, to file seven typewritten copies of the record, including case on appeal and briefs; and that the brief of the appellant be prefaced by a clear and concise statement, showing the nature of the case and the facts bearing upon the assignments of error; and this is required whether the appellant may have received notice of the rule from the Supreme Court clerk or not. Estes v. Rash, 170 N. C. 341, 87 S. E. 109.

Same—Dismissal for Failure to Follow Rule.—The omission in an affidavit to appeal in forma pauperis of the averment that it was made "in good faith" is of a matter of jurisdiction; and the appeal must be dismissed on motion, as a matter of right, and is not one of discretion. State v. Smith, 152 N. C. 842, 67 S. E. 965.

23. How Printed

The transcript on appeal shall be printed under the direction of the clerk of this Court, and in the same type and style, and pages of same size as the reports of this Court, unless it is printed before the appeal is docketed in the required style and manner. If it is to be printed here the appellant or the party sending up the appeal shall send therewith to the clerk of this Court a cash depost, sufficient to cover the cost of printing, which shall include 10 cents per page for the clerk of this Court, to recompense him for his services in preparing the transcript in proper shape for the printer.

When it appears that the clerk has waived the requirement of a cash deposit by appellant to cover estimated cost of printing, and the cost of printing has not been paid when the case is called for argument, the Court will in its discretion, on motion of counsel for appellee or a statement by the clerk, dismiss the appeal.

As to the form of the transcript generally, see 1 Enc. Dig. 564 et seq.

Purpose of Rule.—This rule is for the purpose of preserving them in bound volumes of uniform size, for the use of the court, and must be complied with. Howard v. Western Union Teleg. Co., 170 N. C. 495, 87 S. E. 313.

Appeal Dismissed if Deposit Not Made.—If the record has not been printed, and appellant has failed to make the deposit in the clerk's office required to cover the cost of printing the same, on motion duly made, under the rule of this court, the appeal will be dismissed for failure to print the record as required by the rule, the laches in the case being imputable to the party appealing and not to his attorney. State v. Charles, 161 N. C. 286, 76 S. E. 715.

24. Appeal Dismissed if Transcript Not Printed

If the transcript on appeal (except in pauper appeals) shall not be printed or mimeographed as required by the rules, by reason of the failure of the appellant to send up the transcript or deposit the cost therefor in time for it to be printed, when called in its regular order (as set out in Rule 5), the appeal shall, on motion of appellee, be dismissed; but the Court may, on motion of appellant, after five days notice, at the same term, for good cause shown, reinstate the appeal, to be heard at the next term. When a cause is called and the record is not fully printed, if the appellee does not move to dismiss, the cause will be continued. The Court will hear no cause in which the rule as to printing is not complied with, other than pauper appeals.

Necessity of Printed Record.—The requirement as to printing the parts of the record which are essential to be considered on appeal is a necessity, demonstrated by the experience of the court, and hence is not a purely arbitrary matter, to be dispensed with at will. It was not adopted without full consideration, and its nonobservance will not be excused without a good cause. Barnes v. Crawford, 119 N. C. 127, 25 S. E. 791.

Appeal Dismissed When Record Not Printed.—If the record has not been printed, and appellant has failed to make the deposit in the clerk's office required to cover the cost of printing the same, on motion duly made, under the rule of this court, the appeal will be dismissed for failure to print the record. State v. Charles, 161 N. C. 286, 76 S. E. 715; Stroud v. Western Union Tel. Co., 133 N. C. 253, 45 S. E. 592.

Same—Judgment for Costs Final.—A judgment in the Supreme Court dismissing an appeal for the failure of appellant to print the record and taxing him with cost, is final, without authority in the lower court to permit him to recover them. Midgett v. Vann, 158 N. C. 128, 73 S. E. 801.

Appellant Not in Default.—Denial of a motion to dismiss because the appeal was not docketed and printed ready for argument within the time prescribed is proper only where appellant is not in default. Board v. Chapman, 151 N. C. 327, 66 S. E. 221.

Negligence of Counsel No Excuse.—The printing of a record on appeal requires no legal skill and, hence, the negligence of counsel is no excuse for the failure to print and where an appeal has been dismissed for such failure a motion to reinstate will not be allowed. Dunn v. Underwood, 116 N. C. 525, 20 S. E. 965; Griffin v. Nelson, 106 N. C. 235, 11 S. E. 414; Neal v. Old North State Land Co., 112 N. C. 841, 17 S. E. 538. For an earlier case holding contra, see Wiley v. Logan, 94 N. C. 564.

Delay of Appellant No Excuse.—If a party will delay sending up his transcript to the last minute, he should either send it up with the requisite parts of the record printed, or arrange to have it promptly done here. It is no excuse for an appellant that he delays docketing his appeal till the time left between the docketing and calling the case for argument is perhaps a very brief one in which to print the record. Stainback v. Harris, 119 N. C. 107, 25 S. E. 858; Truelove v. Norris, 152 N. C. 755, 67 S. E. 487.

Ignorance of Requirement as to Printed Record.—Where, in the absence of appellant's counsel, an appeal was dismissed because of appellant's failure to have the record printed, a motion to reinstate, because the appellant did not know that a printed record was required in an appeal like this from an order in the case, will be denied, where it appears that appellant has been otherwise guilty of laches in the prosecution of his appeal. Stephens v. Koonce, 106 N. C. 255, 11 S. E. 282.

Request That Clerk Print Record.—A mere request by appellant of the clerk of the court to have the record printed, and the bill sent appellant, without further attention by appellant, though he receives no bill, will not justify a reinstatement of his appeal, dismissed for lack of printed record. Carter v. Long, 116 N. C. 44, 46, 20 S. E. 1013.

Lack of Money as Excuse for Failure to Print.—One not appealing in forma pauperis must comply, notwithstanding his inability to raise the money necessary for the printing of the record, with the rule of court requiring such printing. Rencher v. Anderson, 93 N. C. 105. And a motion to reinstate the case will be denied. Turner v. Tate, 112 N. C. 457, 17 S. E. 72.

Time within Which Record Must Be Printed.—The rule requiring a printed record is satisfied if the record has been printed when the cause is called for argument. Smith v. Montague, 121 N. C. 92, 28 S. E. 137; Armour Packing Co. v. Williams, 122 N. C. 406, 29 S. E. 366.

Misunderstanding as to Time of Printing.—Where there was an honest misunderstanding between counsel in regard to making up the case on appeal, and the case had not been made up when the case was heard in the appellate court, the record having been docketed without a case, and counsel for appellant supposed that there was no necessity of printing the record until the case came up, and the appellee moved to dismiss, which was allowed, it was proper to reinstate the appeal. Rencher v. Anderson, 94 N. C. 661.

When Cause Docketed too Late for Hearing.—Where a cause was docketed too late for hearing at a term of the Supreme Court, a motion to dismiss for failure to print the record must be denied. Gupton v. Sledge, 161 N. C. 213, 76 S. E. 527; Bumgarner v. Thornton Light, etc., Co., (N. C.) 76 S. E. 528.

Printing Index.—When any part of the record on appeal is printed, the indexes and marginal references should also be printed. Alexander v. Alexander, 120 N. C. 472, 27 S. E. 121; Pretzfelder v. Merchants Ins. Co., 123 N. C. 164, 31 S. E. 470; Lucas v. Carolina Central R. Co., 121 N. C. 506, 28 S. E. 265.

Attorney Absent When Appeal Dismissed.—Where, in the absence of appellant's counsel, an appeal was dismissed because of appellant's failure to have the record printed as therein required, the cause will not be reinstated. Avery v. Pritchard, 106 N. C. 344, 11 S. E. 281.

Failure to Transmit Sufficient Copies.—An appeal which has been dismissed for appellant's failure to print the copies of the record will be reinstated on affidavits of appellant and others that he caused the requisite number of copies to be printed, but, owing to a misunderstanding of the instructions given him by his counsel and the clerk of the superior court, to whom he applied for information, he sent only one printed copy to the Supreme Court. Smith v. Summerfield, 107 N. C. 580, 12 S. E. 465.

When Motion to Reinstate Made.—A motion to reinstate an appeal dismissed for failure to print must be made at the same term, and will only then be allowed for good cause shown. Pipkin v. Green, 112 N. C. 355, 17 S. E. 534.

Applied in Witt v. Long, 93 N. C. 388; Horton v. Green, 104 N. C. 400, 10 S. E. 470; Whitehurst v. Pettipher, 105 N. C. 39, 10 S. E. 857; Hunt v. Richmond, etc., Ry. Co., 107 N. C. 447, 12 S. E. 378; In re Berry, 107 N. C. 326, 12 S. E. 125; Rodman v. Archbell, 108 N. C. 413, 13 S. E. 111; Hinton v. Pritchard, 108 N. C. 412, 12 S. E. 838; Edwards v. Henderson, 109 N. C. 83, 13 S. E. 779; Dunn v. Underwood, 116 N. C. 525, 20 S. E. 965; Wiley v. Bessemer City Min. Co., 117 N. C. 489, 23 S. E. 448; Thurber v. Eastern Bldg., etc., Ass'n, 118 N. C. 129, 24 S. E. 730; Walters v. Starnes, 118 N. C. 842, 24 S. E. 713; Barnes v. Crawford, 119 N. C. 127, 25 S. E. 791; Hicks v. Royal, 122 N. C. 405, 29 S. E. 413; Bradshaw v. Stansberry, 164 N. C. 356, 79 S. E. 302.

25. Mimeographed Records and Briefs

Counsel may file in lieu of printed records and briefs 25 mimeographed copies thereof, to be prepared under the immediate supervision and direction of the clerk of this Court, the cost of such copies not to exceed $1.10 per page of an average of 40 lines and 400 words to the page: Provided, however, that it shall be permissible and optional with counsel to file printed transcripts and briefs when it is possible to print such documents without unnecessary delay and inconvenience to the Court and appellee's counsel, and within time for an appeal to be heard in its regular order under Rule 5.

The clerk of this Court is required to purchase the stencil sheets, arrange all matter to be mimeographed for the operator, to supervise the work, to carefully read the proof, and to index the mimeographed transcripts and mail copies promptly to counsel. A cash deposit covering estimated cost of this work is required as in Rule 23 under the same penalty as therein prescribed for failure to pay the account due for such work.

26. Cost of Printing and Mimeographing Transcripts and Briefs to Be Recovered

The actual cost of printing the transcript of appeal and of the brief shall be allowed the successful litigant, not to exceed $1.50 per page, and not exceeding sixty pages for a transcript and twenty pages for a brief, unless otherwise specially ordered by the Court, and he shall be allowed 10 cents additional for each such page paid to the clerk of this Court for making copy for the printer, unless the transcript was printed before the case was docketed.

Judge and counsel should not encumber the "case on appeal" with evidence or with matters not pertinent to the exceptions taken. When the case is settled, either by the judge or the parties, if either party deems that unnecessary matter is incorporated, he shall have his exception noted, designating the parts deemed unnecessary, and if, upon hearing the appeal, the Court finds that such parts were in fact unnecessary, the cost of making the transcript of such unnecessary matter and of printing the same shall be taxed against the party at whose instance it was incorporated into the transcript, as required by Rule 22, no matter in whose favor the judgment is given here, except when such party has already paid the expense of such unnecessary matter, and in that event he shall not recover it back, though successful on his appeal. Motions for taxation of costs for copying and printing unnecessary parts sent up in the manuscript shall be decided without argument.

A successful litigant shall recover the actual cost of mimeographing a transcript or brief, not to exceed sixty pages of a transcript and twenty pages of a brief, unless otherwise ordered as herein provided in this rule.

As to costs on appeal, see section 1256 of the code.

Evidence Not Sent up in Narrative Form.—Upon objection duly entered to the sending up on appeal of the stenographer's notes with questions and answers, instead of in a narrative form, the unnecessary additional pages thus made will be taxed against the party at whose instance it is done. Overman v. Lanier, 157 N. C. 544, 73 S. E. 192; Brazille v. Carolina Barytes Co., 157 N. C. 454, 73 S. E. 215.

Same—When Settlement of Case Delayed.—Stenographer's notes of the trial should be sent up on appeal only as to matters involved in the inquiry; but when settlement of the case was delayed so long that the trial judge could not separate the material parts, a motion that costs of such should not be taxed against appellee will not be granted. Asheville, etc., Co. v. Machin, 150 N. C. 738, 64 S. E. 887.

Charge Uselessly Included.—Where a party insists that the entire charge of the trial judge should be sent up on appeal as a part of the record, and this has been uselessly done over the objection of the opposing party, being unnecessary to the proper presentation of the matters of law involved, the motion of the latter, upon notice, to retax the cost for the full amount of the printed record, will be sustained. Roanoke R., etc., Co. v. Privette, 179 N. C. 1, 101 S. E. 489. See, also, Waldo v. Wilson, 177 N. C. 461, 100 S. E. 182; Yow v. Hamilton, 136 N. C. 357, 48 S. E. 782.

Excess over Limitation Not Taxed against Losing Party.—Costs of brief exceeding twenty pages will not be taxed against the unsuccessful party, under the rule of the Supreme Court. Brown v. Harding, 172 N. C. 835, 90 S. E. 3.

When Excess Taxed against Losing Party.—The successful party on appeal will not be allowed to recover costs for printing record in excess of the amount prescribed by this Rule, except in extraordinary cases where the necessity for such printing is made to appear. Roberts v. Lewald, 108 N. C. 405, 12 S. E. 1028; Durham v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 108 N. C. 399, 12 S. E. 1040; 13 S. E. 1.

Where the defendant is the successful party on appeal, and on his motion to retax costs in the Supreme Court it appears that there was no unnecessary or superfluous matter in the transcript, and that the whole thereof was pertinent and necessary to a proper statement of the facts upon which the assignments of error was based, and the allowance specifically made in this rule was not sufficient to pay for the cost of printing, which is not denied by the other party, it presents a proper instance for the court to specially order that the full cost of printing the transcript be taxed against the plaintiff and the surety on his prosecution bond. Hardy v. Phoenix Mutual Life Ins. Co., 167 N. C. 569, 83 S. E. 801.

Where the record was in excess of that required to properly present the appeal, the appellee at whose instance it was done was taxed with the cost of mimeographing it for the excess over the sixty pages allowed by this rule. Page Trust Co. v. Pumpelly, 194 N. C. 580, 140 S. E. 212.

When Subject Matter of Appeal Destroyed.—Where the subject-matter of the action is destroyed before the appeal is heard, the judgment below is presumed to be correct until reversed, and no part of the costs should be adjudged against the appellee. Taylor v. Vann, 127 N. C. 243, 37 S. E. 263.

27. Briefs

Twenty-five printed or mimeographed copies of briefs of both parties shall be filed in all cases (except in pauper appeals, as provided in Rule 22). Such briefs may be sent up by counsel ready printed, or they may be printed or mimeographed under the supervision of the clerk of this Court if a proper deposit for cost is made, as specified in Rule 23. They must be of the size and style prescribed by such rule. The briefs are expected to cover all the points presented in the oral argument, though additional authority may be cited if discovered after brief is filed, by furnishing list to opposing counsel and handing memorandum of same to the marshal to be placed by him with the papers in the case, but counsel will not be permitted to consume time on the argument in the citation of additional authorities.

Cross Reference.—See notes to Rule 28. As to briefs generally, see 1 Enc. Dig. 640 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 110 et seq.

Brief Not in Accordance with Rules.—An appeal will be dismissed where there is a failure to print the record and briefs in accordance with the rules of the Supreme Court. Bradshaw v. Stansberry, 164 N. C. 356, 79 S. E. 302.

When No Brief Filed.—Where the appellant has not filed a brief in the Supreme Court, under the rule the judgment appealed from will be affirmed on appellee's motion, if upon examination of the records proper no error appears. Board v. Dickson & Co., 190 N. C. 330, 129 S. E. 726; Rowe v. Campbell, (N. C.) 76 S. E. 474.

27½. Statement of the Question Involved

The first page of appellant's brief, other than formal matters appearing thereon, shall be used exclusively for a succinct statement of the question or questions involved on the appeal. Such statement should not ordinarily exceed fifteen lines, and should never exceed one page. This will then be followed on the next page by a recital of the facts and the argument as required by the other rules. In case of disagreement as to the exact question or questions presented for determination, the appellee may submit a counter-statement, using the first page of appellee's brief for this purpose. But no counter-statement need be made unless appellee thinks appellant's statement is inaccurate, or that it does not present the points for decision in a proper light.

The statement of the questions involved or presented by the appeal, is designed to enable the Court, as well as counsel, to obtain an immediate view and grasp of the nature of the controversy; and a failure to comply with this rule may result in a dismissal of the appeal.

Statement of Case.—A fair and succinct statement of the case should be made at the beginning of the brief, so that the Supreme Court may understand the issues and more expeditiously hear the argument and decide the case. Balfour Quarry Co. v. West Constr. Co., 151 N. C. 345, 66 S. E. 217.

Applied in Kugler Lbr. Co. v. Latham, 199 N. C. 820, 156 S. E. 128. See also, Pruitt v. Wood, 199 N. C. 788, 156 S. E. 126.

Cited in Acme Mfg Co. v. Kornegay, 195 N. C. 373, 142 S. E. 224.

28. Appellant's Brief

The brief of appellant shall set forth a succinct statement of the facts necessary for understanding the exceptions, except as to an exception that there was no evidence, it shall be sufficient to refer to pages of printed transcript containing the evidence. Such brief shall contain, properly numbered, the several grounds of exception and assignment of error with reference to printed pages of transcript, and the authorities relied on classified under each assignment; and if statutes are material, the same shall be cited by the book, chapter, and section. Exceptions in the record not set out in appellant's brief, or in support of which no reason or argument is stated or authority cited, will be taken as abandoned by him. Such briefs when filed shall be noted by the clerk on the docket, and a copy thereof furnished by him to opposite counsel on application.

Appellant shall, upon delivering a copy of his manuscript brief to the printer to be printed or to the clerk of this Court to be printed or mimeographed, immediately mail or deliver to appellee's counsel a carbon typewritten copy thereof. If the printed or mimeographed copies of appellant's brief have not been filed with the clerk of this Court, and no typewritten copy has been delivered to appellee's counsel by 12 o'clock noon on the second Sautrday preceding the call of the district to which the case belongs, the appeal will be dismissed on motion of appellee, when the call of that district is begun, unless for good cause shown the Court shall give further time to print the brief.

Pass Briefs Insufficient.—Briefs which merely state with reference to the exceptions taken of record, "Exceptions No. 1. This question and answer are incompetent," etc., afford no assistance to the court. They are merely pass briefs, and do not conform to the rules. Jones v. Southern R. Co., 164 N. C. 392, 80 S. E. 408.

Failure to File in Time.—Where appellant failed to file his brief within the time prescribed, and the case on appeal contains no assignments of error or grouped exceptions, as required by the rules of the Supreme Court, a motion by appellee to dismiss will be granted. Rosemond v. McPherson, 156 N. C. 593, 72 S. E. 570; In re Bailey, 180 N. C. 30, 103 S. E. 896.

Where an appellant knew that his brief must be prepared, printed, and filed by noon of a certain day, and he took no steps to this end, a motion to dismiss the appeal under rule 17 will be granted. Truelove v. Norris, 152 N. C. 755, 67 S. E. 487.

Same—Delay in Docketing Transcript.—Although the transcript was not docketed till the Saturday preceding the Tuesday on which the brief should have been filed, yet, it not being clear that a brief could not be printed in one or two days, and appellant not having moved during the week preceding the call for longer time in which to print the brief, and not having had it printed at the time of the call, when the appeal was dismissed, his subsequent motion to reinstate will not be granted. Calvert v. Carstarphen, 133 N. C. 25, 45 S. E. 353.

When Cause Docketed Too Late for Hearing.—Where a cause was docketed too late for hearing at a term of the Supreme Court, a motion to dismiss for failure to file printed briefs must be denied. Gupton v. Sledge, 161 N. C. 213, 76 S. E. 527; Bumgarner v. Thornton Light, etc., Co. (N. C.) 76 S. E. 528; McLean v. McDonald, 175 N. C. 418, 95 S. E. 769.

When Appellant Must Discuss Appellees' Exceptions.—On an appeal from an order of a trial judge setting aside a verdict of the jury in favor of the plaintiff because of error committed against the defendant, the brief of appellant must refer to exceptions taken by defendant. Powers v. Wilmington, 177 N. C. 361, 99 S. E. 102.

Exceptions Not Discussed Deemed Abandoned.—It is necessary that exceptions appearing in the record on appeal be mentioned in appellant's brief, with reason or argument to support them, to entitle them to be considered by the court, for otherwise they are taken as abandoned. In re Fuller, 189 N. C. 509, 127 S. E. 549; State v. Barnhill, 186 N. C. 446, 119 S. E. 894; Austin v. Crisp, 186 N. C. 616, 120 S. E. 199.

Mere reference to exceptions of record made in the brief, without argument or citation of authority, is not a compliance with this rule. Ingle v. Southern Ry. Co., 167 N. C. 636, 83 S. E. 744.

Exceptions not set up in the appellant's brief, or in support of which no reason or argument is stated or authority cited, will be taken as abandoned. Gray v. Cartwright, 174 N. C. 49, 93 S. E. 432.

Statements made in appellant's brief, that he has ten assignments of error and insists upon them all, do not come within this rule, and they will not be considered; the requirements being that there must be some reason or argument in their support set out in the brief. Watkins v. Lawson, 166 N. C. 216, 81 S. E. 623.

Exceptions in the record not set out in the appellant's brief, or in support of which no reason or argument is stated or authority cited, will be taken as abandoned. Ludford v. Combs, 195 N. C. 851, 141 S. E. 541; Hyatt v. McCoy, 194 N. C. 760, 762, 140 S. E. 807; Andrews Music Store v. Boone, 197 N. C. 174, 175, 148 S. E. 39; Grant v. Tallassee Power Company, 196 N. C. 617, 146 S. E. 531.

Same—Question Discussed in Oral Argument.—A question discussed on oral argument, but not embraced in the assignments of error referred to in the brief, will not be considered. Mitchem v. Mitchem, 169 N. C. 48, 85 S. E. 146.

Where briefs do not contain the exceptions and assignments of error, properly numbered, with references to the printed record, they do not conform to the rules. It is impossible to determine just what exceptions or assignments of error are referred to. State v. Newton, 207 N. C. 323, 177 S. E. 184.

Failure to Furnish Appellee with Copy of Brief.—The appellee may not successfully move in the Supreme Court to have the case dismissed for the failure of the appellant to furnish him a copy of his briefs when the brief was duly filed with the clerk under the rule, and he could have obtained one in the time prescribed by applying to the clerk, who is not under duty to either notify him or supply him a copy except at his request. Turnage v. Dunn, 196 N. C. 105, 144 S. E. 521.

Applied in Merrimon v. Lyman, 124 N. C. 434, 32 S. E. 732; Smith v. Atlantic, etc., R. Co., 142 N. C. 21, 54 S. E. 786; Liles v. Lumber Co., 142 N. C. 39, 54 S E. 795; Johnson, etc., R. Co. v. South, etc., R. Co., 148 N. C. 59, 61 S. E. 683; Rushing v. Seaboard, etc., R. Co., 149 N. C. 158, 62 S. E. 890; White v. Lane, 153 N. C. 14, 68 S. E. 895; Edwards v. Price, 162 N. C. 243, 78 S. C. 702, 125 S. E. 531.

29. Appellee's Brief

The appellee shall file 25 printed or mimeographed briefs with the clerk of this Court by noon of Saturday preceding the call of the district to which the case belongs and the same shall be noted by the clerk on his docket and a copy furnished by the clerk, on application, to counsel for appellant. It is not required that the appellee's brief shall contain a statement of the case. On failure of the appellee to file his brief by the time required, the cause will be heard and determined without argument from appellee unless for good cause shown the Court shall give appellee further time to file his brief.

Appellee's Brief Dismissal When Not Filed in Time.—Upon motion of appellant aptly made at the call of the district to which the case belongs, the appellee's brief will be dismissed if not filed on the preceding Saturday by noon, and disposed of without argument by appellee, unless for good cause shown, the time should be extended. Phillips v. Junior Order U. A. M., 175 N. C. 133, 95 S. E. 91.

Contents of Appellee's Brief.—All material exceptions not abandoned by appellants should be considered with care, and appellee's counsel should call court's attention to such portions of the record as tend to sustain the validity of the trial. Marshall v. Interstate Tel. etc., Co., 181 N. C. 410, 107 S. E. 498.

30. Arguments

(1) The counsel for the appellant shall be entitled to open and conclude the argument.

(2) Counsel for appellant may be heard ten minutes for statement of case and thirty minutes in argument.

(3) Counsel for appellee may be heard thirty minutes.

(4) The time for argument may be extended by the Court in a case requiring such extension, but application for extension must be made before the argument begins. The Court, however, may direct the argument of such points as it may see fit outside of the time limited.

(5) Any number of counsel may be heard on either side within the limit of the time above specified; but if several counsel shall be heard, each must confine himself to a part or parts of the subject-matter involved in the exceptions not discussed by his associate counsel, unless directed otherwise by the Court, so as to avoid tedious and useless repetition.

31. Reargruments

The Court will, of its own motion, direct a reargument before deciding any case, if in its judgment it is desirable.

Court May Order Reargument.—It is the duty of parties to see that their causes are fully argued in the Supreme Court, and where this has not been—especially where the record is voluminous and assignments of error indefinite—the court will require it to be reargued. Lenoir v. Valley River Mining Co., 104 N. C. 490, 10 S. E. 525.

Petition Need Not Be Filed.—Where a new trial is granted without passing upon certain exceptions, and, upon a rehearing of the exceptions upon which new trial was granted, is reversed, the supreme court may order a reargument of the exceptions not passed upon, without a petition for the same being filed. Fleming v. Southern R. Co., 132 N. C. 714, 44 S. E. 551.

32. Arguments of Counsel

The Court will not recognize any agreement of counsel in any case unless the same shall appear in the record, or in writing, filed in the cause in this Court.

Verbal Agreements Not Considered When Denied.—The Supreme Court will not consider appellant's alleged verbal agreement between the parties when such is denied. McNeil v. Virginia-Carolina R. Co., 173 N. C. 729, 92 S. E. 484, and cases there cited. Brewer v. Mineola Mfg. Co., 161 N. C. 211, 76 S. E. 237; Standard Mirror Co. v. Philadelphia Casualty Co., 157 N. C. 28, 72 S. E. 826.

When it appears in the Supreme Court that appellant has not served his case on appeal in time, no agreement for further extension thereof will be considered, unless it is in writing or appears by an entry on the record. Standard Mirror Co. v. Philadelphia Casualty Co., 157 N. C. 28, 72 S. E. 826; State v. Black, 162 N. C. 637, 78 S E. 210.

33. Appearances

An attorney shall not be recognized as appearing in any case unless he be entered as counsel of record in the case. Upon his request, the clerk shall enter the name of such attorney, or he may enter it himself, thereby making him counsel of record for the party he may designate therein. Such appearance of counsel shall be deemed to be general in the case, unless a different appearance be indicated. Counsel of record are not permitted to withdraw from a case, except by leave of the Court.

34. Certiorari

(1) When Applied for.—Generally, the writ of certiorari, as a substitute for an appeal, must be applied for at the term of this Court to which the appeal ought to have been taken, or, if no appeal lay, then before or to the term of this Court next after the judgment complained of was entered in the Superior Court. If the writ shall be applied for after that term, sufficient cause for the delay must be shown.

(2) How Applied for.—The writs of certiorari and supersedeas shall be granted only upon petition, specifying the grounds of application therefor, except when a diminution of the record shall be suggested and it appears upon the face of the record that it is manifestly defective, in which case the writ of certiorari may be allowed, upon motion in writing. In all other cases the adverse party may answer the petition. The petition and answer must be verified, and the application shall be heard upon the petition, answer, affidavit, and such other evidence as may be pertinent.

(3) Notice of.—No such petition or motion in the application shall be heard unless the petitioner shall have given the adverse party ten days notice, in writing, of the same; but the Court may, for just cause shown, shorten the time for such notice.

As to certiorari generally see Code section 630 and notes thereto.

When Certiorari Should Be Applied for.—Where the appellant can show good and sufficient cause why his case on appeal had not been docketed in the Supreme Court in the time required by the rules, or that he was not therein at fault, he should file a transcript of the record proper and move for a certiorari for the statement of the case, which may be done at any time during the term before appellee moves to dismiss it. McNeil v. Virginia-Carolina R. R. Co., 173 N. C. 729, 92 S. E. 484. Rose v. Rocky Mount, 184 N. C. 609, 113 S. E. 506.

Not a Matter of Right.—Where the record of a case on appeal is not docketed in the Supreme Court at the time required by rule 5, it will be dismissed, but the Court may, in its discretion and not as a matter of right of the appellant, grant further time for the filing of the record, if the appellant files the record proper in apt time and thereupon moves for a certiorari, showing that the delay was not attributable to himself. State v. National Surety Co., 192 N. C. 52, 133 S. E. 172; Pruitt v. Wood, 199 N. C. 788, 156 S. E. 126.

When he has depended solely upon a void order of the trial judge attending the time for the service of his case, which is excepted to, the case will be dismissed. State v. Crowder, 195 N. C. 335, 142 S. E. 222.

Legal Excuse Decided by Supreme Court.—Whether the appellant has legal excuse in not docketing his case on appeal in time for it to be regularly heard at the call of the district to which it belongs is a matter for the Supreme Court to determine upon his docketing the record proper and moving for a certiorari under the rule. State v. Johnson, 183 N. C. 730, 110 S. E. 782.

Motion Too Late after Argument.—Where the plaintiff's motion for a certiorari was disallowed at a former term of the supreme court without prejudice, for the purpose of allowing him to renew his motion after he had applied to the trial judge to correct the case, the plaintiff should again move the court for a writ before the call of the district to which the case belonged, and it comes too late after argument of the case. Todd v. Mackie, 160 N. C. 352, 76 S. E. 245.

Motion Denied after Appeal Dismissed.—A motion for a certiorari to bring up the case on appeal will be denied if made after the appellee has had it docketed and dismissed under Rule 17. Cox v. Kinston Carolina R., etc., Co., 177 N. C. 227, 98 S. E. 704.

Application for Certiorari.—Where the appellant in a criminal action has failed to have his case docketed in the time required by the Rules of Practice in the Supreme Court, in order to preserve his right to appeal it is required that he file an application for a certiorari, addressed to the sound discretion of the Supreme Court, and show a good and sufficient reason for granting his motion therefor, and where this has not been done the appeal will be dismissed upon motion of the State. State v. Harris, 199 N. C. 377, 154 S. E. 628.

Appellant Must Docket All Available Record.—When the appeal is not docketed at or before the time prescribed in Rule 5 the appellant must docket all of the record proper, or so much thereof as he can obtain, with an affidavit, as to why the entire record can not be docketed and move at that time for a certiorari. If he fails to do so, the appellee has the right to docket the certificate prescribed by Rule 17 and have the appeal dismissed. Caudle v. Morris, 158 N. C. 594, 74 S. E. 98; State v. Johnson, 183 N. C. 730, 110 S. E. 782; Hardy v. Heath, 188 N. C. 271, 124 S. E. 564.

Appellant's motion for a writ of certiorari will be denied where the petition is not verified and no transcript of the record has been filed, nor any good reason shown for failure to file it. Rothchild v. McNichol, 121 N. C. 284, 28 S. E. 364; Critz v. Sparger, 121 N. C. 283, 28 S. E. 365.

In order to support a motion for certiorari it is required that appellant file transcript of the record proper and give appellee notice of the motion, and appellee's transcript of record filed on motion to docket and dismiss, under rule 17, cannot avail the appellant on his motion for certiorari. Hinnant v. American Fire, etc., Ins. Co., 204 N. C. 306, 168 S. E. 199.

Filing of Original Papers Insufficient.—A transcript of the record proper should be filed by appellant in the Supreme Court to entitle him to move for a certiorari; and the filing of the original papers, which should remain in the office of the Superior Court, is insufficient. Lindsey v. Knights of Honor, 172 N. C. 818, 90 S. E. 1013.

Writ Not Applied for at First Term.—Where the transcript is not filed at the first term after trial, on the failure of the appellant to apply at such term for a writ of certiorari to procure it, he is not entitled to such writ. Graham v. Edwards, 114 N. C. 228, 19 S. E. 150; Haynes v. Coward, 116 N. C. 840, 21 S. E. 690; State v. Dawkins, 190 N. C. 443, 129 S. E. 814.

Due Diligence Shown by Party—If it appears that the unexpected indisposition of the clerk of the superior court was the cause of the failure to docket an appeal in time at the next ensuing term of this court, and that appellant was not guilty of any lack of diligence, and that he promptly applied for a certiorari, the writ should be granted. Howerton v. Henderson, 86 N. C. 718.

Effect of Agreement for Extension of Time.—Where the parties have agreed upon such extension of time for the service of their respective cases on appeal that the delay will cause the docketing of the case too late to come within the rule, the appellant having used his full time may not successfully move in the Supreme Court for a certiorari upon the ground that the delay was caused by a loss of the papers in it, for which he was not responsible, without proof sufficient to overcome evidence in denial of the allegation. Baker v. Hare, 192 N. C. 788, 136 S. E. 113.

Question of Laches May Be Heard.—Where the appellant asserts that he is not in default in docketing his appeal in the time required by the rule, he may apply for a certiorari to bring up the transcript of the case, or the omitted part, and thus only have the question of his laches therein passed upon. Stone v. Ledbetter, 191 N. C. 777, 133 S. E. 162.

Where an appeal was dismissed because not docketed before the perusal of the district to which it belongs, and appellant moved to reinstate on the allegation that he had directed the Clerk to send up the transcript and paid the fees therefor in advance, the motion will be denied, for, although such allegation would have been a sufficient answer to the motion to dismiss if affidavit had been filed to such effect and a certiorari applied for, yet if was laches not to interpose such affidavit and show excuse for the failure. Paine v. Cureton, 114 N. C. 606, 19 S. E. 631.

When Case on Appeal Not Prepared.—Where a case and counter case are served within the time as extended by agreement, but neither is accepted, appellant must immediately request a settlement, file the record proper, and sue out certiorari; otherwise appellee may move to docket and dismiss under rule 17. Waynesville Transp. Co. v. Waynesville Lumber Co., 168 N. C. 60, 84 S. E. 54; Washam, etc., Motor Co. v. Reep, 186 N. C. 509, 119 S. E. 821.

Certiorari Denied When Case Unsettled by Agreement.—Where the parties to an action have agreed, or the judge at their request has allowed an extension of time for service of case and counter-case, etc., that will prevent its being docketed in the time prescribed by Rule 5, and consequently no case has been yet settled by the trial judge, appellant's motion in the Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari will be denied. Waller v. Dudley, 193 N. C. 354, 137 S. E. 149.

When Appellee Prevents Docketing of Appeal.—Where the appellant is prevented from docketing his appeal within the time prescribed by Rule 5, in consequence of the conduct of the appellee or his counsel, he is entitled to the writ of certiorari to bring up the case. Briggs v. Jervis, 98 N. C. 454, 4 S. E. 631.

Failure to Pay Clerk's Fees.—The failure of the Clerk below to send up the transcript after the case on appeal had been filed in his office will not excuse appellant's failure to have the transcript or case on appeal filed, where there is no allegation that the appellant had tendered the fees for such transcript and was otherwise free from laches. Critz v. Sparger, 121 N. C. 283, 28 S. E. 365.

Extent of Waiver by Consent.—The parties to an appeal, without the consent of the court, cannot waive the rule of the Supreme Court requiring that a transcript of the record proper, or all thereof that he may be had, shall be filed therein as the basis for the motion for a certiorari; but they may, by written agreement, consent that the appeal may be docketed at the next ensuing term of the Supreme Court. Murphy v. Carolina Electric Co., 174 N. C. 782, 93 S. E. 456.

May Docket Appeal Though Certiorari Denied.—Although appellant's motion for a writ of certiorari is denied, he may docket his appeal during the term, or, if the case was tried since the term to which the appeal is taken began, he may docket it at the next term. Rothchild v. McNichol, 121 N. C. 284, 28 S. E. 364; Critz v. Sparger, 121 N. C. 283, 28 S. E. 365.

Applied in Causey v. Snow, 116 N. C. 497, 21 S. E. 179; Brown v. House, 119 N. C. 622, 26 S. E. 160; Burrell v. Hughes, 120 N. C. 277, 26 S. E. 782; Parker v. Southern Ry. Co., 121 N. C. 501, 28 S. E. 347; Rothchild v. McNichol, 121 N. C. 284, 28 S. E. 364.

35. Additional Issues

If, pending the consideration of an appeal, the Supreme Court shall consider the trial of one or more issues of fact necessary to a proper decision of the case upon its merits, such issues shall be made up under the direction of the Court and certified to the Superior Court for trial, and the case will be retained for that purpose.

36. Motions

All motions made to the Court must be reduced to writing, and shall contain a brief statement of the facts on which they are founded, and the purpose of the same. Such motions, not leading to debate nor followed by voluminous evidence, may be made at the opening of the session of the Court.

Only Motions in Writing Entertained.—This Court will not entertain any motion, unless reduced to writing. McCoy v. Lassiter, 94 N. C. 131.

37. Abatement and Revivor

Whenever, pending an appeal to this Court, either party shall die, the proper representative in the personalty or realty of the deceased party, according to the nature of the case, may voluntarily come in, and, on motion, be admitted to become parties to the action, and thereupon the appeal shall be heard and determined as in other causes; and if such representatives shall not so voluntarily become parties, then the opposing party may suggest the death upon the record, and thereupon, on motion, obtain an order that, unless such representatives shall become parties within the first five days of the ensuing term, the party moving for such order shall be entitled to have the appeal dismissed; or, if the party moving shall be the appellant, he shall be entitled to have the appeal heard and determined according to the course of the Court: Provided, such order shall be served upon the opposing party.

When the death of a party is suggested, and the proper representatives of the deceased fail to appear by the fifth day of the term next succeeding such suggestion, and no action shall be taken by the opposing party within the time to compel their appearance, the appeal shall abate, unless otherwise ordered.

38. Certification of Decisions

The clerk shall, on the first Monday in each month, transmit, by some safe hand, or by mail to the clerks of the Superior Courts, certificates of the decisions of the Supreme Court which shall have been on file ten days, in cases sent from said court. But the Court in its discretion may order an opinion certified down at an earlier day. Upon final adjournment of the Court, the clerk shall at once certify to the Superior Courts all of the decisions not theretofore certified.

See sections 1413 and 1417 of the code.

39. Judgment and Minute Dockets

The judgment docket of this Court shall contain an alphabetical index of the names of the parties in favor of whom and against whom any judgment for costs or judgment interlocutory or upon the merits is entered. On this docket the clerk of the Court will enter a brief memorandum of every final judgment affecting the right to real property, and of every judgment requiring, in whole or in part, the payment of money, stating the names of the parties, the term at which such judgment was entered, its number on the docket of the Court; and when it shall appear from the return on the execution, or from an order for an entry of satisfaction by this Court, that the judgment has been satisfied, in whole or in part, the clerk, at the request of any one interested in such entry, and on the payment of the lawful fee, shall make a memorandum of such satisfaction, whether in whole or in part, and refer briefly to the evidence of it.

The clerk shall keep a Permanent Minute-Book, containing a brief summary of the proceedings of this Court in each appeal disposed of.

As to the docket generally see 1 Enc. Dig. 667 et seq.

Cited in Corporation Comm. v. Railroad, 137 N. C. 1, 29, 49 S. E. 191.

40. Clerk and Commissioners

The clerk and every commissioner of this court who, by virtue or under color of any order, judgment, or decree of the Supreme Court in any action or matter pending therein, has received or shall receive any money or security for money, to be kept or invested for the benefit of any party to such action or matter, or of any other person, shall, at the term of said Court held next after the first day of January in each year, report to the Court a statement of said fund, setting forth the title and number of the action or matter, the term of the Court at which the order or orders under which the clerk or such commissoner professes to act was made, the amount and character of the investment, and the security for same, and his opinion as to the sufficiency of such security. In every subsequent report he shall state the condition of the fund and any change made in the amount or character of the investment, and every payment made to any person entitled thereto.

The reports required by the preceding paragraph shall be examined by the Court or some member thereof, and their or his approval indorsed shall be recorded in a well bound book, kept for the purpose, in the office of the clerk of the Supreme Court, entitled "Record of Funds," and the cost of recording the same shall be allowed by the Court and paid out of the fund. The report shall be filed among the papers of the action or matter to which the fund belongs.

As to the clerk's bond see section 1425 of the code, see, also, section 1426.

41. Librarian

(1) Report by Him. The Librarian shall keep a correct catalogue of all books, periodicals, and pamphlets in the Library of the Supreme Court, and report to the Court on the first day of the Spring Term of each year what books have been added to the Library during the year next preceding his report, by purchase or otherwise, and also what books have been lost or disposed of, and in what manner.

(2) Books Taken Out. No book belonging to the Supreme Court Library shall be taken therefrom, except in the Supreme Court chamber, unless by the Justices of the Court, the Governor, the Attorney-General, or the head of some department of the executive branch of the State Government, without the special permission of the Marshal of the Court, and then only upon the application in writing of a judge of a Superior Court holding court or hearing some matter in the city of Raleigh, the President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, or the chairman of the several committees of the General Assembly; and in such cases the Marshal shall enter in a book kept for the purpose the name of the officer requirng the same, the name and number of the volume taken, when taken, and when returned.

42. Court's Opinions

After the Court has decided a cause, the judge assigned to write it shall hand the opinion when written, to the clerk, who shall cause five typewritten copies to be at once made and a copy sent in a sealed envelope to each member of the Court, to the end that the same may be carefully examined, and the bearing of the authority cited may be considered prior to the day when the opinion shall be finally offered for adoption by the Court and ordered to be filed.

See section 1416 of the code and note thereto.

43. Executions

(1) Teste of Executions. When an appeal shall be taken after the commencement of a term of this Court, the judgment and teste of the execution shall have effect from the time of the filing of the appeal.

(2) Issuing and Return of. Executions issuing from this Court may be directed to the proper officers of any county in the State. At the request of a party in whose favor execution is to be issued, it may be made returnable on any specified day after the commencement of the term of this Court next ensuing its teste. In the absence of such request, the Clerk shall, within thirty days after the certificate of opinion is sent down, issue such execution to the county from which the cause came, making it returnable on the first day of the next ensuing term. The execution may, when the party in whose favor judgment is rendered shall so direct, be made returnable to the term of the Superior Court of said county held next after the date of its issue, and thereafter successive executions will only be issued from said Superior Court, and when satisfied, the fact shall be certified to this Court, to the end that an entry to this effect be made here.

Executions for the costs of this Court, adjudged against the losing party to appeals, may be issued after the determination of the appeal, returnable to a subsequent day of the term; or they may be issued after the end of the term, returnable, on a day named, at the next succeeding term of this Court.

The officer to whom said executions are directed shall be amenable to the penalties prescribed by law for failure to make due and proper return thereof.

44. Petition to Rehear

(1) When Filed. Petitions to rehear must be filed within forty days after the filing of the opinion in the case. No communication with the Court, or any Justice thereof, in regard to any such petition, will be permitted under any circumstances. No oral argument or other presentation of the cause to the Court, or any Justice thereof, by either party, will be allowed, unless on special request the Court shall so order.

Cross Reference.—As to the petition to rehear generally see section 1419 of the code and notes thereto. See, also, 1 Enc. Dig. 669 et seq.; 13 Enc. Dig. 114.

See section 1419 of the code and notes thereto.

Rule Mandatory.—The requirement that a petition for a rehearing be filed within forty days after the filing of the opinion in the case is mandatory upon all litigants alike, and will be rigidly enforced. Cooper v. Board of Comm'rs, 184 N. C. 615, 113 S. E. 569.

Time of Filing Affidavit in Support of Motion.—Where the Supreme Court, on appeal, has allowed a motion for a new trial for newly discovered evidence after having fixed a time in which the parties may file their affidavit in support of the motion and per contra, the Court will not thereafter allow a motion retaining the case on its docket for the purpose of correcting the amount of the judgment. Moore v. Tidwell, 194 N. C. 186, 138 S. E. 541.

When Time Begins to Run.—The time begins to run against a petition to rehear in the Supreme Court from the time the opinion was filed in the office of the clerk of that Court. McGeorge v. Nicola, 173 N. C. 733, 92 S. E. 610.

Distinction Between Filing and Docketing. — The petition is said to be filed when it is received by the clerk, and this must be done within forty days after the filing of the opinion; it is docketed when the clerk enters it upon the records at the order of the Justice, who grants the rehearing. Bird v. Gilliam, 123 N. C. 63, 31 S. E. 267.

(2) What to Contain. The petition must assign the alleged error of law complained of, or the matter overlooked, or the newly discovered evidence; and allege that the judgment complained of has been performed or secured. Such petition shall be accompanied with the certificate of at least two members of the bar of this Court, who have no interest in the subject-matter and have not been of counsel for either party to the suit, and each of whom shall have been at least five years a member of the bar of this Court, that they have carefully examined the case and the law bearing thereon and the authorities cited in the opinion, and they shall summarize succinctly in such certificate the points in which they deem the opinion erroneous.

Failure to File Certificate.—Where the applicant has failed to file the certificates of two disinterested members of the bar, indorsed by two members of the Court, the application will not be considered, except in certain instances where the Court may reconsider the case ex meru motu. Teeter v. Southern Express Co., 172 N. C. 620, 90 S. E. 927.

(3) Two Copies to be Filed, How Endorsed. The petitioner shall endorse upon the petition, of which he shall file two copies, the names of the two Justices, neither of whom dissented from the opinion, to whom the petition shall be referred by the clerk, and it shall not be docketed for rehearing unless both of said Justices endorse thereon that it is a proper case to be reheard: Provided, however, that when there have been two dissenting Justices, it shall be sufficient for the petitioner to file only one copy of the petition and designate only one Justice, and his approval in such case shall be sufficient to order the petition docketed.

The clerk shall, upon the receipt of a petition to rehear, immediately deliver a copy to each of the Justices to whom it is to be referred, unless the petition is received during a vacation of the Court, in which event it shall be delivered to the Justice designated by the petitioner on the first day of the next succeeding term of Court.

(4) Justices to Act in Thirty Days. The clerk shall enter upon the rehearing docket and upon the petition the date when the petition is filed in the clerk's office, the names of the Justices to whom the petitioner has requested that the petition be referred, and also the date when the petition is delivered to each of the Justices. The Justices will act upon the petition within thirty days after it is delivered to them, and the clerk is directed to report in writing to the Court in conference all petitions to rehear not acted on within the time required.

Cross Reference.—See section 1419 of the code and note thereto. For general consideration of the subject, see 1 Enc. Dig. 668 et seq.

When Rehearing Allowed.—No case will be reviewed upon petition to rehear, unless it was decided hastily and some material point was overlooked, or some direct authority was not called to the attention of the court. Haywood v. Daves, 81 N. C. 8; Mullen v. Norfolk, etc., Canal Co., 115 N. C. 15, 20 S. E. 167.

In an action for construction of a will, a former decision of this court, rendered when the court was differently constituted from what it is at present, should not be reversed because the present members of the court might infer differently as to the intention of the testatrix from the words and context of the will. Devereux v. Devereux, 81 N. C. 12.

This petition to rehear having been fully and carefully considered, and it appearing that the errors assigned have already passed upon in well considered opinions of this Court, and no new fact has been called to the attention of the Court, or new case or authority cited, or new position assumed, the petition is dismissed. Weston v. Roper Lumber Co., 168 N. C. 98, 83 S. E. 693.

Rehearing a Matter of Discretion.—Unlike an appeal, a petition to rehear is a matter in the discretion of the Supreme Court to be exercised under the rules prescribed by it. Moore v. Harkins, 179 N. C. 525, 103 S. E. 12.

Presumption in Favor of Judgment.—Rehearings of decisions of cases of this Court are granted only in exceptional cases and, when granted, every presumption is in favor of the judgment already rendered. Weisel v. Cobb, 122 N. C. 67, 30 S. E. 312.

Rehearing by Means of Second Appeal Not Allowed.—A second appeal on matters determined by a decision on a former appeal will not be considered, the procedure being by a motion to rehear. Gainesville etc., Hospital Ass'n v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 157 N. C. 460, 73 S. E. 242; LaRogue v. Kennedy, 161 N. C. 459, 77 S. E. 695.

Where a carrier does not take the proper steps to have a judgment rendered against it in the State court reviewed in the United States court upon a defense set up in denial of its rights under the Federal law, and seeks to enjoin the enforcement of the judgment in the State courts, it is an endeavor to obtain a rehearing of the case by means of a second suit, which is not permissible. North Carolina R. Co. v. Story, 187 N. C. 184, 121 S. E. 433.

Same State of Facts Will Not Warrant Second Appeal.—A party to an action may not have the decision of the Supreme Court again reviewed by it, upon a second appeal, upon the same state of facts, the former decisions having become the law of the case. Strunks v. Southern R. Co., 188 N. C. 567, 125 S. E. 182.

No Rehearing on Summary Motion.—A rehearing will not be granted upon a summary motion to modify a final judgment of this court. Ruffin v. Harrison, 91 N. C. 398.

Only Points Certified as Erroneous Considered.—Upon a rehearing, the Supreme Court will not consider any point not certified as erroneous by counsel making the certificate. Kerr v. Hicks, 133 N. C. 175, 45 S. E. 529.

When Conclusion Assigned as Error.—It is unnecessary to consider a broadside assignment of error in a petition to rehear, "for that, granting the correctness of every legal proposition laid down by the Court, and that its findings and inferences of fact were supported by the record, yet the conclusion reached by the Court in its opinion is erroneous." Bunn v. Braswell, 142 N. C. 113, 55 S. E. 85.

When Error Committed in Former Decision.—The doctrine of stare decisis has no application, when it clearly appears that error has been committed in the decision of the former case by the Supreme Court; and where the exceptions present, on the second appeal, under different and somewhat similar statutes, the question as to whether a mandamus will lie for the failure of the county commissioners to make a special levy for the payment of the principal of the sinking funds for road bonds of a certain district, and the Supreme Court has erroneously decided that it was unnecessary as to another road district within the same county, on the appeal in the later case the position is untenable, that it was an attempt to obtain a rehearing contrary to the rules on the subject. Spitzer & Co. v. Commissioners, 188 N. C. 30, 123 S. E. 636.

When Petitioner Guilty of Laches.—A petition to rehear a case in the Supreme Court will not be granted when the alleged error is attributable solely to the petitioner's own laches or want of attention in looking after his case or he has neglected to follow the rules of procedure necessary to a proper presentment thereof, and especially when there is nothing to warrant the assurance that substantial relief would otherwise be afforded him. Battle v. Mercer, 188 N. C. 116, 123 S. E. 258.

Immaterial Assumption.—It is no ground for the rehearing of a case that the defendant was assumed to be a citizen of North Carolina, whereas, in fact, he was not when the place of his residence is immaterial. Blackwell v. Wright, 74 N. C. 733.

When Everything Considered on First Hearing.—Where neither the record nor the briefs on the rehearing of a case disclose anything that was not apparently considered on the first hearing, the former judgment will not be disturbed. Weisel v. Cobb, 122 N. C. 67, 30 S. E. 312.

New Trial for Newly Discovered Evidence.—A motion for a new trial, in the Supreme Court, upon the ground of newly discovered evidence, is a matter for the full Court, and will not be entertained after the case has been certified down, nor will an ungranted petition to rehear, made at the same time to the Justices of the Court, under the rule, put the case in the Supreme Court. Smith v. Moore, 150 N. C. 158, 63 S. E. 735.

Contents of Affidavit.—It is required for the granting of a motion for a new trial upon the ground of newly discovered evidence, that it should appear by affidavit that the desired testimony will be given upon the new trial; that it is probably true, competent, and material; that there has been no laches, but that the movant had used diligence and means to procure the evidence in due time at the trial; that the evidence is not cumulative and does not tend only to contradict, impeach, or discredit a witness who has testified, and is of such a nature as to show that probably a different result will be reached on another trial, so that right will prevail. Johnson v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 163 N. C. 431, 79 S. E. 690, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 598.

In criminal actions, the Supreme Court will deny a motion for a new trial made upon the ground of newly discovered evidence. State v. Griffin, 190 N. C. 133, 129 S. E. 410. See also § 4644.

When Petitioner Erroneously Deprived of Property.—Upon a petition to rehear, the case will be corrected when it appears that the petitioner has thereby been erroneously deprived of its property. State v. Martin, etc., Casualty Co., 188 N. C. 119, 123 S. E. 631.

Omission of Questions Not Discussed in Brief.—A petition to rehear in the Supreme Court will be denied when founded upon the ground that a certain question was not mentioned in the opinion, when it had not been discussed in movant's brief according to Rule 28, and he has not appealed from the judgment. Greene v. Lyles, 187 N. C. 598, 122 S. E. 297.

When No Error Assigned.—Where no exception is taken in trial court to a ruling, and no error is assigned upon rehearing, the Supreme Court will not review the ruling. Faison v. Grandy, 128 N. C. 438, 38 S. E. 897.

Second Petition to Rehear.—Where a petition to rehear a case in the Supreme Court has been allowed, the opposing party only may petition for a second rehearing thereof. Moore v. Harkins, 179 N. C. 525, 103 S. E. 12.

A party whose application for a rehearing of the case has been denied may not successfully petition for a rehearing, though additional reasons are given in the denial of the former petition by the court in reaching the same conclusion. Moore v. Harkins, 179 N. C. 525, 103 S. E. 12.

Costs When New Trial Granted.—Where, upon a rehearing, the court grants a new trial, which was refused on the former hearing, all the costs of the appeal, including those of the rehearing, are properly taxed against the appellee. Waldo v. Wilson, 174 N. C. 767, 94 S. E. 715.

Reasons for Denying Petition Not Usually Set out.—The reasons for denying a petition to rehear in the Supreme Court are not usually set out. Crowell v. Crowell, 181 N. C. 66, 106 S. E. 149.

Applied in Etheridge v. Vernoy, 71 N. C. 184; Neal v. Cowles, 71 N. C. 266; Grant v. Edwards, 88 N. C. 246; Wilson v. Lineberger, 90 N. C. 180; McDonald v. Carson, 95 N. C. 377; Manufacturing Co. v. Gray, 126 N. C. 108, 35 S. E. 236; Hendon v. North Carolina R. Co., 127 N. C. 110, 37 S. E. 155; Morganton Hdw. Co. v. Morganton Graded Schools, 151 N. C. 507, 66 S. E. 583.

(5) New Briefs to be Filed. There shall be no oral argument before the Justices or Justice thus designated, before it is acted on by them, and if they order the petition docketed, there shall be no oral argument thereon before the Court (unless the Court of its own motion shall direct an oral argument), but it shall be submitted on the record at the former hearing the printed petition to rehear, and a brief to be filed by the petitioner within ten days after the petition is ordered to be docketed, and a brief to be filed by the respondent within twenty days after such order to docket. Such briefs shall not be the briefs on the first hearing, but shall be new briefs, directed to the errors assigned in the petition, and shall be printed. If not printed and filed in the prescribed time by the petitioner, the petition will be dismissed, and for default in either particular by the respondent the cause will be disposed of without such brief.

(6) When Petition Docketed for Rehearing. The petition may be ordered docketed for a rehearing as to all points recited by the two certifying counsel (who cannot certify to errors not alleged in the petition), or it may be restricted to one or more of the points thus certified, as may be directed by the Justices who grant the application. When a petition to rehear is ordered to be docketed, notice shall at once be given by the clerk to counsel on both sides.

(7) Stay of Execution. When a petition to rehear is filed with the clerk of this Court, the Justice or Justices designated by the petitioner to pass upon it may, upon application and in his or their discretion, stay or restrain execution of the judgment or order until the certificate for a rehearing is either refused or, if allowed, until this Court has finally disposed of the case on the rehearing. Unless the party applying for the rehearing has already stayed execution in the court below, when the appeal was taken, by giving the required security, he shall, at the time of applying to the Justice or Justices for a stay, tender sufficient security for that purpose, which shall be approved by the Justice or Justices. Notice of the application for a stay must be given to the other party, if deemed proper by the Justice or Justices, for such time before the hearing of the application and in such manner as may be ordered. If a petition for a hearing is denied, or if granted, and the petition is afterwards dismissed, the stay shall no longer continue in force, and execution may issue at once, or the judgment or order be otherwise enforced, unless, in case the petition is dismissed, the Court shall otherwise direct. When a stay is granted, the order shall run in the name of this Court and be signed and issued by the clerk, under its seal, with proper recitals to show the authority under which it was issued.

45. Sitting of the Court

The Court will sit daily, during the terms, Sundays and Mondays excepted, from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m., for the hearing of causes, except when the docket of a district is exhausted before the close of the week allotted to it.

46. Citation of Reports

Inasmuch as all the volumes of Reports prior to the 63d have been reprinted by the State, with the number of the volume instead of the name of the reporter, counsel will cite the volumes prior to 63 N. C. as follows:

47. Court Reconvened

The Court may be reconvened at any time after final adjournment by order of the Chief Justice, or, in the event of his inability to act, by one of the Associate Justices in order of seniority.

Rules 52 and 53

These rules are now part of rule 44 and references from the Code should be looked up thereunder.

PART II

RULES OF PRACTICE IN THE NORTH CAROLINA SUPERIOR COURTS

Revised and Adopted by the Justices of the Supreme Court RULES

1. Entries on Records

No entry shall be made on the records of the Superior Courts (the summons docket excepted) by another person than the clerk, his regular deputy, or some person so directed by the presiding judge or the judge himself.

2. Surety on Prosecution Bond and Bail

No person who is bail in any action or proceeding, either civil or criminal, or who is surety for the prosecution of any suit, or upon appeal from a justice of the peace, or is surety in any undertaking to be affected by the result of the trial of the action, shall appear as counsel or attorney in the same cause. And it shall be the duty of the clerks of the several Superior Courts to state, on the docket for the court, the names of the bail, if any, and surety for the prosecution in each case, or upon appeal from a justice of the peace. All prosecution bonds for any suit must be justified before the clerk of the Superior Court in a sum double the amount of the bond, and the justification must show that the surety is a resident of North Carolina, and must also show the county wherein the surety resides.

3. Opening and Conclusion

In all cases, civil or criminal, when no evidence is introduced by the defendant, the right of reply and conclusion shall belong to his counsel.

4. Examination of Witnesses

When several are employed on the same side, the examination, or cross-examination, of each witness shall be conducted by one counsel, but the counsel may change with each successive witness, or, with leave of the court, in a prolonged examination of a single witness. When a witness is sworn and offered, or when testimony is proposed to be elicited, to which objection is made by counsel of the opposing party, the counsel so offering shall state for what purpose the witness, or the evidence to be elicited, is offered; whereupon the counsel objecting shall state his objection and be heard in support thereof, and the counsel so offering shall be heard in support of the competency of the witness and of the proposed evidence in conclusion, and the argument shall proceed no further, unless by special leave of the court.

5. Motion for Continuance

When a party in a civil suit moves for continuance on account of absent testimony, such party shall state, in a written affidavit, the nature of such testimony and what he expects to prove by it, and the motion shall be decided without debate, unless permitted by the court.

6. Decision of Right to Conclude Not Appealable

In any case where a question shall arise as to whether the counsel for the plaintiff or the counsel for the defendant shall have the reply and the conclusion of the argument the court shall decide who is so entitled, and, except in the cases mentioned in Rule 3, its decision shall be final and not reviewable.

7. Issues

Issues shall be made up as provided and directed in sec. 584 of the Code.

8. Judgments

Judgments shall be docketed as provided and directed in secs. 613 and 614 of the Code.

9. Transcript of Judgment

Clerks of the Superior Courts shall not make out transcripts of the original judgment docket to be docketed in another county, until after the expiration of the term of the court at which such judgments were rendered.

10. Docketing Magistrate's Judgments

Judgments rendered by a justice of the peace upon summons issued and returnable on the same day as the cases are successively reached and passed on, without continuance as to any, shall stand upon the same footing, and transcripts for docketing in the Superior Court shall be furnished to applicants at the same time after such rendition of judgment, and if delivered to the clerk of such court on the same day, shall create liens on real estate, and have no priority or precedence the one over the other, if all are, or shall be, entered within ten days after such delivery to said clerk.

11. Transcript to Supreme Court

In every case of appeal to the Supreme Court, or in which a case is taken to the Supreme Court by means of the writ of certiorari as a substitute for an appeal, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the Superior Court, in preparing the transcript of the record for the Supreme Court, to set forth the proceedings in the action in the order of time in which they occurred, and the several processes or orders, and they shall be arranged to follow each other in order as nearly as practicable.

The pages of the transcript shall be plainly numbered, and there shall be written on the margin of each a brief statement of the subject-matter, opposite to the same. On the first page of the transcript of the record there shall be an index in the following or some equivalent form:

	Page
Summons—date	1
Complaint—first cause of action.....	2
Complaint—second cause of action...	3
Affidavit of attachment.....	4 and so on to the end.

12. Transcript on Appeal—When Sent Up

Transcripts on appeal to the Supreme Court shall be forwarded to that Court in twenty days after the case agreed, or case settled by the judge, is filed in office of clerk of the Superior Court. Sec. 645 of the Code.

13. Reports of Clerks and Commissioners

Every clerk of the Superior Court, and every commissioner appointed by such court, who, by virtue or under color of any order, judgment, or decree of the court in any action or proceeding pending in it, has received or shall receive any money or security for money, to be kept or invested for the benefit of any party to such action, or of any other person, shall, at the term of such court held on or next after the first day of January in each year, report to the judge a statement of said fund, setting forth the title and number of the action, and the term of the court at which the order or orders under which the officer professes to act were made, the amount and character of the investment, and the security for the same, and his opinions as to the sufficiency of the security. In every report, after the first, he shall set forth any change made in the amount or character of the investment since the last report, and every payment made to any person entitled thereto.

The report required by the next preceding paragraph shall be made to the judge of the Superior Court holding the first term of the court in each and every year, who shall examine it, or cause it to be examined, and, if found correct, and so certified by him, it shall be entered by the clerk upon his book of accounts of guardians and other fiduciaries.

14. Recordari

The Superior Court shall grant the writ of recordari only upon the petition of the party applying for it, specifying particularly the grounds of the application for the same. The petition shall be verified and the writ may be granted with or without notice; if with notice, the petition shall be heard upon answer thereto duly verified, and upon the affidavits and other evidence offered by the parties, and the decision thereupon shall be final, subject to appeal as in other cases; if granted without notice, the petitioner shall first give the undertaking for costs, and for the writ of supersedeas, if prayed for as required by section 630 of the Code. In such case the writ shall be made returnable to the term of the Superior Court of the county in which the judgment or proceeding complained of was granted or had, and ten days notice in writing of the filing of the petition shall be given to the adverse party before the term of the court to which the writ shall be made returnable. The defendant in the petition, at the term of the Superior Court to which the said writ is returnable, may move to dismiss, or answer the same, and the answer shall be verified. The court shall hear the application at the return term thereof (unless for good cause shown the hearing shall be continued) upon the petition, answer, affidavits, and such evidence as the court may deem pertinent, and dismiss the same, or order the case to be placed on the trial docket according to law.

In proper cases the court may grant the writ of certiorari in like manner, except that in case of the suggestion of a diminution of the record, if it shall manifestily appear that the record is imperfect, the court may grant the writ upon motion in the cause.

15. Judgment—When to Require Bonds to Be Filed

In no case shall the court make or sign any order, decree, or judgment directing the payment of any money or securities for money belongink to any infant or to any person until it shall first appear that such person is entitled to receive the same and has given the bonds required by law in that respect, and such payments shall be directed only when such bonds as are required by law shall have been given and accepted by competent authority.

16. Next Friend—How Appointed

In all cases where it is proposed that infants shall sue by their next friend, the court shall appoint such next friend, upon the written application of a reputable, disinterested person closely connected with such infant; but if such person will not apply, then, upon the like application of some reputable citizen; and the court shall make such appointment only after due inquiry as to the fitness of the person to be appointed.

17. Guardians Ad Litem—How Appointed

All motions for a guardian ad litem shall be made in writing, and the court shall appoint such guardian only after due inquiry as to the fitness of the person to be appointed, and such guardian must file an answer in every case.

18. Cases Put at Foot of Docket

All civil actions that have been at issue for two years, and that may be continued by consent at any term, will be placed at the end of the docket for the next term in their relative order upon the docket. When a civil action shall be continued on motion of one of the parties, the court may, in its discretion, order that such action be placed at the end of the docket, as if continued by consent.

19. When Opinion Is Certified

When the opinion of the Supreme Court in any cause which had been appealed to that Court has been certified to the Superior Court, such cause shall stand on the docket in its regular order at the first term after receipt of the opinion for judgment or trial, as the case may be, except in criminal actions in which the judgment has been affirmed. Sec. 4656 of the code.

20. Calendar.

When a calendar of civil actions shall be made under the supervision of the court, or by a committee of attorneys under the order of the court or by consent of the court, unless cause be shown to the contrary, all actions continued by consent, and numbered on the docket between the first and last numbers placed upon the calendar, will be placed at the end of the docket for the next term, as if continued by consent, if such actions have been at issue for two years.

21. Cases Set for a Day Certain.

Neither civil nor criminal actions will be set for trial on a day certain, or not to be called for trial before a day certain, unless by order of the court; and if the other business of the term shall have been disposed of before the day for which a civil action is set, the court will not be kept open for the trial of such action, except for some special reason apparent to the judge; but this rule will not apply when a calender has been adopted by the court.

22. Calendar Under Control of Court.

The court will reserve the right to determine whether it is necessary to make a calendar, and, also, for the dispatch of business, to make orders as to the disposition of causes placed upon the calendar and not reached on the day for which they may be set.

23. Nonjury Cases.

When a calendar shall be made, all actions that do not require the intervention of a jury, together with motions for interlocutory orders, will be placed on the motion docket, and the judge will exercise the right to call the motion docket at any time after the calendar shall be taken up.

24. Appeals from Justices of the Peace.

Appeals from justices of the peace in civil actions will not be called for trial unless the returns of such appeals have been docketed ten days previous to the term, but appeals docketed less than ten days before the term may be tried by consent of parties.

25. On Consent Continuance—Judgment for Costs.

When civil action shall be continued by consent of parties, the court will, upon suggestion that the charges of witnesses and fees of officers have not been paid, adjudge that the parties to the action pay respectively their own costs, subject to the right of the prevailing party to have such costs taxed in the final judgment.

26. Time to File Pleadings—How Computed.

When time to file pleadings is allowed, it shall be computed from the adjournment of the court.

27. Counsel Not Sent for.

Except for some unusual reason, connected with the business of the court, attorneys will not be sent for when their cases are called in their regular order.

28. Criminal Dockets.

Clerks of the courts will be required, upon the criminal dockets prepared for the court and solicitor, to state and number the criminal business of the court in the following order:

First. All criminal causes at issue.

Second. All warrants upon which parties have been held to answer at that term.

Third. All presentments made at preceding terms, undisposed of.

Fourth. All cases wherein judgments nisi have been entered at the preceding term against defendants and their sureties, and against defaulting jurors or witnesses in behalf of the State.

29. Civil and Criminal Dockets—What to Contain.

Clerks will also be required, upon both civil and criminal dockets, to bring forward and enter in different columns of sufficient space, in each case:

First. The names of the parties.

Second. The nature of the action.

Third. A summary history of the case, including the date of issuance of process, pleadings filed, and a brief note of all proceedings and orders therein.

Fourth. A blank space for the entries of the term.

30. Books.

The clerks of the Superior Courts shall be chargeable with the care and preservation of the volumes of the Reports, and shall report at each term to the presiding judge whether any and what volumes have been lost or damaged since the last preceding term.
